DEMOCRATIC WOMEN HEAR MRS. FANNIE DIXON WELCH

Mrs. Fannie Dixon Welch, vice chairman of the state central committee and chairman of the young democratic women's clubs of Connecticut, was the guest on Friday evening of Mrs. Frank L. Farrell of Washington street.

Mrs. Welch talked informally to the officers and members of the executive committee of the Norwich Democratic Women's club, who were invited to hear her talk. Mrs. Welch hoped the members of the local club would become more active in their club work and suggested meetings to be held more frequently and an educational plan to be adopted for which speakers would be provided. She spoke of the flourishing conditions of many of the clubs throughout the state and urged the members in Norwich would again become enthusiastic as they were in its beginning.

It was voted at once by those present to begin at once and a cake sale was decided on to be held some time in September. Mrs. Milo R. Waters being chosen as chairman with all present acting as a committee. Later the club hopes to bring to Norwich Don Seitz, editor of the New York World, to address the club at open meeting. Mr. Seitz is well known as a writer and speaker and it will be a pleasure to the local club to be instrumental in giving Norwich an opportunity to hear him.

Mrs. Farrell who is on the state central committee and chairman of the New London County Democratic Women's club, was gratified at the interest manifested by those present and hopes to make a pleasing report of activities at the next meeting of the executive board which is to be held in Bridgeport on the 12th of this month.

The funeral arrangements were by Cummings & Ring.

HELP FOR JAPAN THROUGH RED CROSS

The executive committee of the Norwich chapter, American Red Cross, believing that response to the need of stricken Japan will be spontaneous and generous, designates Saturday, Sept. 8, as Japanese relief day and calls upon organizations and individuals alike to make their contributions at once, in order that the quota for Norwich, $2,000, may be subscribed immediately.

The sympathy of the whole world goes out to the Japanese nation in the hour of calamity and finds expression in the millions of dollars that are being poured out to relieve suffering and privation through the agency of the American Red Cross. The appeal for funds to carry on this work of mercy has nothing to do with membership in the organization; every cent that is contributed now for Japanese relief goes for that specific purpose.

Contributions from the outlying districts, with the exception of Taftville, which is a chapter with its own quota will be received through Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham, who is in charge of the auxiliaries.

The Norwich chapter has the hearty co-operation of the Chamber of Commerce; John J. O'Rourke, the secretary, is assisting with the publicity. Rotarians and Lions have pledged their support, and other organizations should be prompt to follow.

The Red Cross headquarters will be in charge of Mrs. Frank A. Mitchell and Mrs. A. H. Chase, assisted by Miss Alif Stephens, Mrs. Lewis, Miss Elizabeth B. Huntington, Miss Elizabeth R. Huntington, Mrs. W. Tyler Olcott and Mrs. C. V. Pendleton.

Headquarters will be open from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. The sign used has been donated by Mr. and Mrs. Michael Sadusky.

APPLIES FOR PLACE ON SOUTHERN SEA TRIP

Harry Rosenberg son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Rosenberg of 194 West Main street is among the many who have filed applications to become members of the crew of the schooner which is being fitted out and which is slated to sail from New London some time this month for a two-year cruise to the southern seas in quest of curios and scientific information for the Cleveland Museum of Arts.

Captain George Comer of East Haddam, who is to sail in command of the schooner, is daily receiving applications from men who are anxious to make the trip as members of the crew. In fact, there are so many applications that it will be impossible to engage all applicants, the captain says.

CHECK LIST DEMAND STIRS UP DEMOCRATS IN TOWN CAUCUS

The democratic town caucus held Friday evening in the town hall unanimously nominated Patrick T. Connell as the party candidate for the office of first selectman and Henry F. Parker was the unanimous choice of the caucus as a candidate for second selectman. But one contest developed at the caucus which had an attendance of 75, including several women. The contest was over the nomination of a candidate for the office of second assessor, William T. Delaney winning the nomination over Frederick T. Backus of East Great Plain, Mr. Delaney receiving 53 of the 75 votes cast.

The caucus was called to order at 8 o'clock, daylight saving time, by William H. Callahan, chairman of the democratic town committee. Nominations for a moderator were called for and Matthew Keough nominated Mayor Milo R. Waters who was selected by the caucus. Earl Mathewson nominated Jeremiah A. Desmond as clerk. Following the reading of the call for the caucus the moderator called for nominations for the democratic town ticket.

For the office of first selectman I present for the approval of the caucus a gentleman you all know well, said Michael J. Curran, who took the floor. He is a man of sterling character, a man of courage and of ability. I take great pleasure in naming Patrick T. Connell. There were no other nominations and Mr. Connell was the unanimous choice of the caucus for the office of first selectman.

We have made an excellent start, said John J. Corkery, when the nominations for second selectman were called for. We need in the selectmen's office men of business ability, he said. The business of the town is important, the selectmen are given great authority and with this authority comes great responsibility. I am going to name for this office a man who has served as a member of the court of common council, who is a member of the board of park commissioners and who holds at the present time the office of treasurer of the park board. I present the name of Henry F. Parker. Mr. Parker was unanimously nominated.

For first assessor C. J. Downes nominated Michael J. Curran. In making the nomination Mr. Downes said: "I wish to nominate a man who has filled the position previously and who has filled it well. We need such a man as Michael J. Curran." He was unanimously nominated.

The only contest of the evening developed over the nomination of a candidate for second assessor. Patrick F. Sweeney nominated Frederick T. Backus of East Great Plain and Thomas Addison named William T. Delaney of Taftville. On nomination of Matthew Keough, Joseph P. Gadle was chosen clerk to assist Clerk Desmond in counting the vote. Just as the voting was to start Earl Mathewson moved that the vote by taken by check list. The motion was seconded but was lost by an aye and nay vote.

After the moderator had announced that the nays were in the majority Mr. Mathewson said: I understand that 25 per cent. of the voters present can demand a caucus list. The moderator then called for a rising vote which showed 40 opposed to the caucus list vote with 18 in favor. The moderator announced that the meeting would have to vote by caucus list.

In my opinion, said M. J. Curran, this is an unfair advantage. I don't think anyone here will vote who is not entitled to a vote. There are a lot of names not on the caucus list.

This is the first time I have seen a check list pulled at a democratic caucus, said Mayor Waters. I don't think it fair.

The caucus list was then rescinded, and the voting started, the voters passing from left to right before the chair. The result of the vote:

Whole number of votes cast, 75; necessary for choice, 38; for William T. Delaney, 52; for Frederick T. Backus, 23. Mr. Delaney was declared nominated on the vote. Patrick F. Sweeney then moved that the vote be made unanimous and it was so voted.

The remaining nominations were made in quick order as follows:

Board of Relief—M. Frank Leonard, named by Joseph P. Gadle; Irving G. Willis, named by T. J. Kelly.

Town clerk, town treasurer and treasurer of the town deposit fund, Charles S. Holbrook, named by Gilbert S. Raymond.

Constables — Meyer Blumenthal, named by C. V. James; Arthur Roy, named by M. J. Curran; Anthony Gromkowski, named by Earl Mathewson; Charles Levarge, named by John T. Ryan.

Registrar of voters—Cornelius J. Downes, named by M. J. Curran.

Members of town school committee with term beginning in 1923, Thomas J. Kelly, named by Earl Mathewson; member of town school committee with term beginning in 1924, Dr. Edward J. Brophy, named by C. J. Downes.

Nominations for members of the democratic town committee for the next two years were then called for. Henry Gebrath moved that the chair appoint one member from each of the six districts to act as a committee to prepare a list of names to be submitted to the caucus. The moderator appointed the following committee: Patrick F. Sweeney, first district; Mrs. F. Drew second district; Joseph P. Gadle, third district; Hermon J. Gibbs, fourth district; Arthur Roy, fifth district; Henry Gebrath, sixth district.

The committee retired to an ante room and after deliberation presented the following names:

Second district — J. F. Williams, John E. Fitzgerald, John Murphy, Mary A. Connell, Irene Gallivan, Elizabeth F. Drew.

Fourth district—P. T. Connell, A. W. Lillibridge, John Ryan, Agnes White, H. J. Gibbs.

Fifth district—Arthur Roy, James Clifford, William T. Delaney, Patrick Sullivan.

The town committee was authorized to fill any vacancies that may occur on the party ticket, after which the caucus adjourned, having been in session about 45 minutes.

WILL REACH VIRGINIA CAMP ON SUNDAY

Battery B, Captain William R. Denison, and First Battalion Headquarters Company Train, Captain Herbert F. Burdick, of this city, units of the 192d Artillery, Connecticut National Guard, will entrain at 2 o'clock this (Saturday) afternoon for Camp Eustis, Va., for their annual fifteen day tour of duty. The local companies will assemble at the armory on McKinley avenue at 12.30 o'clock. The Danielson company will come to Norwich in army trucks which will be left at the armory and the three companies will march to the New Haven railroad station arriving there in time to board their special train at 3 o'clock.

At New London the local companies will be joined by other units of the 192d regiment and the special train will leave New London at 5.50 o'clock, arriving at Lee Hall Sunday morning at 10.40 o'clock. Six coaches, one sleeper and two baggage cars will comprise the special train. Another special train, carrying additional units of the regiment will leave South Norwalk at 7 p. m. and arrive at Lee Hall Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. It will comprise eight coaches, one sleeper and two baggage cars.

Battery B's roster comprises 94 men of whom a dozen are new recruits. One recruit was enlisted by the battery officers Friday night. The Combat train has 80 men on its roster including 14 new recruits.

With the combat train is First Class Baker Leo Simokowski and as he is an expert in his line the boys are assured plenty of pie and cake, such as "mother used to make". With Mess Sergeant L. Spiers at the helm the boys will be well taken care of in the matter of "chow". Sergeant Ranger is in charge of the equipment.

Members of the Combat Train boasted Friday evening that they have the best equipped outfit in the regiment. Their athletic team, according to Sergeant Cornelius T. Crowley, is in perfect condition and the boys not only expect, but intend, to bring back some of the cups and prizes to be awarded at the annual regimental field day and meet which is slated for Saturday afternoon of next week.

STATE PRISON SENTENCE FOR THEFT OF RING

Frank Grundy, alias Harry Nelson, of New York was sentenced to from one to two years in state prison by Judge Allyn L. Brown in the criminal superior court here Friday morning on a charge of the theft of a diamond ring valued at $500 from N. M. Ruddy, a New London jeweler. Grundy pleaded not guilty to the charge a week ago but he changed his plea Friday to guilty and was immediately sentenced. He had been in the jail in default of $3,000 bail.

The theft of the ring occurred several months ago.

Public Defender Charles L. Stewart told the court that Grundy was a drug addict and had been an inmate at Ricker's farm in New York.

John Foster changed his plea Thursday to guilty of indecent assault upon a 9 year old Montville girl on May 20 and was sentenced to a year in jail.

Spent Day at Pleasant View.

On Wednesday Mrs. David Nason of Stonington with the members of her Larkin club and a few friends, in all numbering twenty-six, spent the day at Pleasant View, occupying the Kinnie cottage. At noon a delicious picnic lunch was served to which all did ample justice. The afternoon was spent in bathing and social chat. The day was much enjoyed by all with the hope they might all meet together in the same way next year.

JAIL AND HEAVY FINE FOR TRANSPORTING LIQUOR

A fine of $1,000 and costs and a year in jail was the sentence given by Judge Allyn L. Brown in the superior court here Friday afternoon to Nastratio Facchini, 33, of New London, when he pleaded guilty to transportation of liquor for which he was arrested on August 28 in Leverone's Grove, Waterford. Earlier in the week Facchini had pleaded not guilty but he changed his plea Friday and his counsel, Attorney Max Boyer, made a plea for leniency for him. Mr. Boyer asked for long probation for Facchini, stating that he had never been an offender against the law before, that his health was precarious, that he had a fine wife and two children and had already lost considerably by the confiscation of $1,000 worth of alcohol and his automobile by the authorities. State Attorney Hull opposed probation.

In passing sentence Judge Brown told Facchini that he was old enough to know what the laws are and what violation of them means. He entered this business with prospects of large profits but of punishment if caught. This business, said the judge, must be stopped and when a man is caught red-handed with 250 gallons of alcohol he must be punished suitably. In view of what the attorney had said, Judge Brown said he would not send Facchini to state prison as he might have done but would make the sentence as already stated.

Facchini will be confined in the jail in New London and was taken there after court adjourned.

THREE ELIGIBLE FOR NORWICH POSTMASTERSHIP

Washington, Sept. 7.—The following were certified as eligible for postmasterships at Norwich, Conn., today: Casper K. Bailey, Charles Colt and Charles A. Hagberg.

The above report by the Associated Press from Washington is taken here to mean that the list of half a dozen candidates for the Norwich postmastership has been cut down to the three named who have qualified on the examination that was given the candidates. Over a month ago a civil service commission came here and personally interviewed each of the candidates as well making inquiries about them of citizens who were endorsing their application.

Postmaster John P. Murphy's term expires next Monday, Sept. 10, but how soon an announcement of the appointment of his successor may be expected is not known. The salary of the office is now $5,600.

AMERICAN LEGION POST PLANS FUTURE EVENTS

Considerabl business of importance to members of Robert O. Fletcher Post, No. 4, American Legion, was transacted at a well attended meeting at the legion rooms Friday night.

Commander John A. Cunningham was in the chair and Adjutant Webster D. Copp read the reports of the previous session which were accepted. He reported the Legion now had 96 member, an increase of several since the last meeting.

Herman A. Bruckner, chairman of the entertainment committee, reported that he had been in touch with a production company in Chicago, the same one which presented the Cameo Girl and the Glorious Girl in this city and they offered the post a fine proposition or showing the Minstrel Serenade and Alice Where Art Thou. The cast would include a chorus of 25 girls and 14 men, with 8 principals, a total cast of 40 people. Dates offered were November 13 with option on the 13the also. It was voted to hold the show and Chairma Bruckner was given full power in making arrangements with the company and members of the post agreed to aid wherever possible.

Stewart Wilson for the dance committee reported the Piccadill orchestra, the first string orchestra of Paul Whiteman, had been signed by the post to play at Hilltop to raise funds for the legion, and his action was sanctioned by the post.

Commander Cunningham for the motion picture committe reported sales of tickets for the legion picture, "The Man Without A Country," had been fine and that arrangements were complete for the showing at the Bread Theatre.

It was voted that Webster D. Copp act as chairman for the post in acting with other Norwich veteran organizations to make arrangements for Armistice Day, which falls on Sunday, November 11th. It is expected that with dedication exercises for the new memorial to World War veterans recently erected at Chelsea Parade.

Reports of the treasurer were read and accepted after which a social time was enjoyed.

TRUMBULL WAR OFFICE RE-DEDICATED AT LEBANON

Senator Ernest E. Rogers of New London, president of the Connecticut Sons of the American Revolution, was a prominent figure when members of that state organization on Wednesday made a pilgrimage to Lebanon to re-dedicate the restored Gov. Jonathan Trumbull war office.

The informal ceremonies which marked the completion of the work of restoration and the formal tender of the use of the building to the Jonathan Trumbull chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, as a meeting place, were impressive. The exercises opened with the singing of the hymn, O God, Beneath Thy Guiding Hand. The invocation was delivered by the Rev. Dryden W. Phelps.

Herbert H. White chairman of the committee which has been in charge of the work of restoration, addressed the outdoor meeting.

President Rogers then in behalf of the state society of the S. A. R. proffered the use of the building to the Lebanon chapter of the D. A. R., to which Mrs. Cornelia McCall, regent of the chapter, responded outlining the formation and growth of the chapter.

The benediction was pronounced by Rev. Mr. Phelps, former chaplain of the state society.

Luncheon was served by the Lebanon chapter. After the exercises the members visited the Trumbull tomb in the old burying ground.

MANCHESTER UNITY TO ATTEND CHURCH SERVICE

Loyal Hugh Osgood Lodge No. 8920, I. O. O. F., M. U., held its regular business meeting in Steiner's hall with a good attendance and with Noble Grand William Enal in the chair. Business of routine nature was transacted after which the members heard an excellent report from Sterling Nelson on his recent trip to his old home town in Maine.

The lodge voted to attend St. Andrew's church in a body on the second Sunday in October. It was also voted to invite the members of the Baltic and Plainfield lodges and the members of the several surrounding sister lodges to join in with them in attending the service.

Plans were made for the winter's work which will commence with the October meetings. A committee consisting of Bros. Tarbuck, Lake, Johnson, Crooks and Partridge was appointed to arrange for a social "home time" on the second meeting night in October.

WILL TEST NEW PUMPER FOR GREENEVILLE STATION

The official underwriters' test for the new pumper, known as Engine 2, to be placed in the Greeneville station, is to take place next Tuesday afternoon at 1 o'clock. After this pumper has been tested by Chief Stanton, Engine No. 3, now at Greeneville, will be held in reserve, to be sent later to the Falls station.

The new pumper is to replace the old Pope that was formerly stationed at the old Main street station the first piece of motor apparatus purchased by the city. Chief Stanton expects representatives of fire companies in cities around Norwich to be present when the test is made.

HAS BAIL REDUCED IN LIQUOR ACCUSATION

Joseph Freno of East Lyme was brought into the superior court here Friday morning on a bench warrant charging him with transporting 69 gallons of whiskey. He pleaded not guilty and was released on bonds of $6,000. Freno was arrested several days ago by the state police following a raid on the Minigret house at Crescent Beach, of which he was manager. Since then he has been under $10,000 bail. The liquor was seized at the home of his brother Rosario, in the Niles Hill road, Waterford, to which place the accused is alleged to have transported it.

REVOLVER FIRED IN KILLINGLY FAMILY ROW

(Special to The Bulletin)

Danielson, Sept. 7.—Police were called to Killingly Center early Friday evening after a family disturbance had resulted in the discharge of a revolver and the spreading of the report that there had been a shooting affray. The affair had not proved at all serious, however, and the neighborhood was as quiet and peaceful as usual within a few minutes after telephone calls sent police hurrying to the scene.

HOUSE NEAR DANIELSON TOTAL LOSS BY FIRE

(Special to The Bulletin)

Danielson, Sept. 7.—A fire totally destroyed the house of John Pierces in the Horsehill district of the town Friday afternoon. It probably was caused by sparks from a wood fire falling on the dry shingles of an old roof. The house is on the old Lyman Kies' place, about 2 1-2 miles east of Danielson. The Polish farmer and his wife and children left homeless by the fire are covered by insurance.

COUGHS DISTURB SCHOOL WORK

School teachers should give the same advice to children who have coughs as did this Florida teacher. "I recommended Foley's Honey and Tar to the children in my school who had the 'flu' and good results came whenever it was used," writes Mrs. E. Armstrong, Okeechobee, Florida. Foley's Honey and Tar contains no opiates. Ingredients printed on the wrapper. Quickly relieves colds, coughs and croup. The Lee & Osgood Co.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Like all who have the temerity to enter the field of politics, Killingly's new citizens' party—or at least its ticket—is coming in for considerable criticism, not that any fault is being found with the personnel of nominations, but because some republicans and some democrats feel that well known members of the older parties have been seized upon as candidates on the third ticket to bolster it up and make it more appealing to the voters than otherwise would be the case. As to this, some of those interested in the new ticket just smile and do not deny. Admittedly, their ambition is to win a victory at the polls, and if they can aid that ambition by using certain strong candidates from other parties on their ticket, they have a well established right to do so under Connecticut's political system. They defend that they aid their candidates who are from other parties, but in the ranks of the other parties there is a more or less strong feeling that the citizens' party has stolen some republican and democratic thunder. All of which will make the town election more spicy and interesting, as it will stir the older organizations to harder sort to win.

Of interest to the members of the Treble Clef club, the musical organization formed here last year and so ably directed and developed by Henry Flagg, is the announcement that the organization is to hold its first meeting of the season at the Day nursery Tuesday evening next. There will be a reception for new members.

Edward Lemnier left the town court Friday morning bound for the county jail at Brooklyn to serve a sentence of 30 days. Lemnier, while intoxicated Thursday evening, stirred things up considerably in the business section. Women became frightened at his demeanor and took refuge in convenient places until Lemnier was placed under arrest. In court he pleaded not guilty to charges that he had been intoxicated and had committed a breach of the peace, but he was found guilty and was sentenced to serve 30 days for having been intoxicated and 60 days for breach of the peace.

Rounding out a series of drills Friday evening that have continued nightly since Tuesday, the members o fthe Service battery, 192d Field artillery, will be ready at 11.30 this (Saturday) morning to set out upon their journey to Camp Eustis, Va. The armory was a busy place Friday evening as the youthful soldiers made ready for their 15 days of field service and there will be much activity there again this morning as the final details incident to their getting away are given attention. All are keen for the trip, which for the majority of them will not be an innovation, for the battery was in training at the same camp last year.

After serving as pastor of the Methodist church here since April, 1922, Rev. C. C. Tibbetts is going to leave here to take charge of the Centenary church, an American Church of the Good Will community, at Jersey City. This church devotes special attention to home missionary work, in which Rev. Mr. Tibbetts is greatly interested. Mr. Tibbetts came to Danielson from a pastorate at Uncasville, where he was located for seven years. His first pastorate was at Wickford, R. I. In his new field in Jersey City Rev. Mr. Tibbetts will have various additional advantages, including that of studying three days each week at Columbia university; where he will devote time to religious educational subjects. His pastorate here will be concluded a week from Sunday, the 16th.

The interest that the Danielson Rod and Gun club has aroused by establishing a trapshooting lodge near the Allen Hill section of the town of Brooklyn may be indicated by mention of the fact that the club is now buying its clay pigeons in carload lots of about 150 barrels. Since the trapshooting was first inaugurated early in the summer club members have shot up approximately 45,000 birds. Labor day, when a match was on, about a dozen barrels of birds were shot, and one membe restimated that in excess of 6,000 rounds of ammunition was used.

The club has other shoots planned for the fall period and hopes, weather conditions permitting, to have a shoot about Christmas time.

Danielson motorists' attention is being called to the fact that the state highway leading from this town into Putnam via Attawaugan and Grove street is torn up near the Putnam city line and that drivers who wish to avoid a difficult bit of travel will do well to detour through South Main street, making the cutoff just south of what is known as the Old Killingly cemetery. The job under way is an extensive operation and further stretches of the road will be torn up in a few days. The route was open to travel during Friday, but it is inconvenient to use under present conditions.

Up at East Killingly attention is now turning to preparations for the annual flower show, which has become an interesting late summer event in that community.

Rev. Edwin L. Thornton is to occupy the pulpit at the Baptist church at both services Sept. 30, the Sunday following the close of Rev. J. W. Houck's pastorate. Rev. Mr. Thornton, a graduate of Newton Theological seminary, will come as a candidate.

Saturday of next week officials of the town charged with hte duty will be in session in the town hall building for the purpose of examining the qualifications of those who have made application for admission as electors.

Marshall J. Frink has been engaged the past two days in collecting taxes assessed in the Brooklyn Center fire district. The assessment there this year was 3 1-4 mills.

With the reduced rates made effective for users of electricity here, consumers will now feel at liberty to be more liberal in the use of their lights, and this is proving true in many cases.

At a meeting of members of the Catholic Welfare council held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Kennedy it was voted to lease rooms in the Shumway block, over the store of D. E. Jette. These rooms will be the club's headquarters. A meeting of committee chairmen of the council is scheduled for next week to make plans for the fall and winter season.

It was ascertained Friday that a number of cars of hard coal are consigned to this town and that their arrival here is expected within a few days. This will be particularly cheering news inasmuch as it points to the possibility of larger shipments coming through later, as soon as the pending settlement of the coal strike is worked out.

A union service is to be held in the Baptist church Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock.

General approval is noted of the action of the Chamber of Commerce in voting to request the state highway department to give its attention to the matter of placing warning signs on the steep hills on the new state highway between the borough and the state line at Little Rest.

PUTNAM

William A. St. Onge, who this week applied to the common council for a permit to erect a theatre in Livery street, made known Friday something of his plans for the structure. It is to be of concrete construction and with a seating capacity of 1,000. Plans for the structure are being worked out. In purchasing the Harper property Mr. St. Onge acquired two buildings that are in use as garages and one that is in use as a blacksmith shop. One of these buildings will be moved back on a line with the others and all given a stucco front, an arrangement that will greatly improve that particular portion of Livery street.

Announcement was also made Friday by Charles Sedar that work on his new block on Main street will begin about the first of the month. The frame structures at present on the premises are to be moved back to make space for the new building which is to be of brick, 65x66 feet and two stories in height. There are to be four stores on the street level, one of these to be occupied by Mr. Seder, and ten offices on the second floor.

In the destruction of the Donahue block on Washington's birthday last Mr. Seder, one of the best known business men of the city, was burned out, his entire stock of men's and ladies' wear being destroyed, with all the store fixtures and equipment. Since that time he has acquired by purchase the Hopkins property, so-called which adjoins the site of the Donahue block, where work is now underway on a new building for Stoumbelis brothers.

Leo Bousquet, 15, was placed in the care of Probation Officer Peter Gardner Friday morning after officials of the city court had given consideration to a charge that he had been operating a motor vehicle without legal authority to do so, being under 18 years of age, although in possession of an operator's license.

Incident to the Bousquet case it was said by a court official here on Friday that there is more or less violation of the law in Putnam on the part of youths under 18 years of age who drive automobiles whenever they have the opportunity, and at times this occurs, it is said, with the knowledge of parents and owners of the machines.

While the driving of a car by a person under 15 years of age may not be a serious crime, it is strictly forbidden under the motor vehicle laws and is a punishable offence. That the practice may be stopped here, there is a possibility of further court action.

Traffic bound for Attawaugan, Dayville or points farther south will do well to detour through South Main street to the state highway leading into Killingly because of the road building operations now underway on the stretch of state highway leading south from Grove street cemetery. A steam shovel was at work there Friday tearing up the old state highway and while the road was passable on one side drivers will find it much more convenient to use the South Main street detour that was in use while the cement highway was being built through Grove street.

The operation now underway on Killingly avenue is an important one and will cover a distance of about three miles, going over the Putnam line into the town of Killingly. In rebuilding this stretch of old state highway that has withstood so much hard travel the state highway department is going to eliminate some sharp and dangerous S curves, cutting through a field below the Randolph Bullare place. Another steam shovel is being made ready for work at this point. Farther on near the David Clark place another elbow turn is to be eliminated by cutting across the corner of a field, so that the new road will have a wide, sweeping curve.

New drains to be installed where needed along the route to be improved have been distributed. While the work is now underway at the northerly extremity of the part to be rebuilt, the activities will not be in full swing until the following week. In the meantime, however, the detour suggested will help both the motorists and the road builders, who wish to hurry the work to be done during the fall season.

Friday brought the opening night of the street fair at Cargill park, for the benefit of the Nurses' Home fund of the Day Kimball hospital, and the attendance attracted was representative of all the towns hereabouts.

The fair was a lively place with activities in every nook and corner and twenty booths dealing in attractions that held the interests of the crowd. Veterans of he booth game at the Elks' fair were on hand to help put the Nurses' Home fund over the top and lent valuable aid in swelling the coffers of the fund.

A stage on which entertainment features are presented, a band concert and various other special features were in the program.

As the week closes there is increased activity among certain candidates for places on the republican town ticket when it is made up at the caucus to be held early next week. In some instances a personal canvass is now on for support and voters are being pledged for candidates. Curiously enough there is a touch of city politics in the present operation and it is said that some of the lineup now being arranged will be maintained for the city campaigning, coming late in the fall. There is promise of a wealth of candidates for places in the city council.

All pedestrians must go through the subway, if they desire to cross from the vicinity of Union square to South Main street and vice versa. Railroad men have instructions to prohibit rigidly the use of the passage ways through the fences between the tracks near and about the station. Using the gates in the fences has become such a common practice as to arouse apprehension over the possibility of accidents at this point.

Machinery is being placed in the mill of the Adams Manufacturing company, a concern that, it is anticipated, will be a great industrial asset to Putnam. The concern has been located for years at North Scituate, but is being forced to abandon its plant by reason of the great reservoir operations of the city of Providence in that territory.

Former employes of the Manhasset Manufacturing company continue to hold out as firmly and as confidently as ever for the granting of the demands they made when they left the plant nearly 18 weeks ago. They continue to hold daily meetings and follow the routine that has been in vogue with them since the early days of the strike. These workers are being well taken care of by the textile organization with which they are affiliated and get their weekly allotments of money and where needed, free meals. There does not appear to be an immediate prospect of adjustment of the difficulties.

Announcement was made here Friday that the apportionment of the Japanese relief fund to be raised through the Red Cross in the territory made up of Putnam, Pomfret, Woodstock, Thompson and Eastford is $1,000. Steps will be taken immediately to put in motion the machinery that will make procuring of the sum possible.

Miss Amy Peck, a graduate of Connecticut college, is the new instructor in cooking at the State Trade school, succeeding Miss Edna Peterson, who has resigned to teach in New Jersey. Miss Peck is a resident of Kensington, this state.

WESTERLY

It was not until 11 o'clock that the fifth annual convention of the department of Rhode Island, American Legion was called to order by Department Commander T. J. H. Pierce, in Westerly town hall. Department Chaplain Charles J. Harriman made the invocation.

6 American Legion banquet at Elm Tree inn; 7.45, parade to armory; 8, convention ball, state armory.

Governor Flynn, Lieut. GoGv. Toupin and John S. Boyle did not appear in Westerly on Friday morning or afternoon.

The following resolution among others was passed:

Whereas: The government of France has honored the American Legion by the appointment of its national commander, Alvin Owsley, as a commander of the Legion of Honor, on recommendation of President Millerand of the French republic and Marshal Ferdinand Foch, be it

Resolved: That the department of Rhode Island, American Legion, in annual convention assembled, expresses its feeling of pleasure becouse of this distinction bestowedd upon its leader, and its gratitude for the strengthening by another bond, of the cordial friendship that exists between our own United States and France, that heroic country which has saved our common civilization from destructies for more than a thousand years

At the close of the forenoon session the delegates stood for one minute in silent tribute to President Harding. Another minute of silence was set aside out of respect for Lester R. Carpenter, former commander of James Stanton post, No. 5, Central Falls.

Friday afternoon a point of order was raised in voting on questions which came before the convention. The report of the committee on credentials was taken up and the official delegates seated in the center of the hall.

The report of the credentials committee showed that at an early hour in the afternoon 85 delegates out of the 164 total had reported, or 51 per cent.

Following the adjournment of the afternoon session at 4.30 automobile rides were taken to Watch Hilll and the other beaches

At 6 p. m. took place the Legion banquet at the Elm Tree inn in Pawcatuck. A parade from the inn to the state armory on Dixon street with Moore's band, department and posts' colors, guests and delegates followed.

The convention ball was held at the state armory at 8 p. m. fro legion members and guests.

Following is today's program:

9.30, convention called to order. Report of committee and election of officers. Election of delegates to national convention at San Francisco, 1, adjournment of convention. Luncheon at Elm Tree inn as on Friday.

A display of flags is requested today (Saturday) also.

Today ((Saturday) in the Interstate Amateur baseball league games will be played in the northern section as follows: Shannock at Clarks, umpire, Meyers; Bradford at Hope Valley, umpire, Greenwood. If both Shannock and Hope Valley win their games there will be a tie in the Northern section of the Interstate league.

In the South County series the final games will be played Sunday at Shannock with the strong contenders, North Kingston and Shannock. If Shannock wins the Sunday game it will mean Shannock 3 games, North Kingstown 2 with one tie. If Shannock loses it will be the first time in five years that they have suffered defeat at the hands of North Kingstown.

Town Sergeant George Madison has the following list of freemen for services as grand jurors at the September session which will be held in Kingston courthouse, Kingston, September 17th.

Arnold H. Burdick, William C. Stillwell, John T. Maxson, Henry J. Northrup and Rogers E. Trainer.

Under summons for service as petty jurors when superior court come in at Kingston on Sept. 19th at 9.30 o'clock, are the following:

Albert E. Barber, James J. Casey, James M. McNamara, J. Henry Burk, Otis L. Burdimk, Arthur Clemens, Nicholas G. Smith, Frank Regine and John H. Stenhouse.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Browning and son Harris, were in Providence Wednesday.

Miss Jennie C. Thompson of Providence, formerly of Westerly, is spending two weeks' vacation as the guest of her aunts.

A farewell banquet was given at the Andrea, Pleasant View Thursday evening to Rev. Father Daniel F. Sullivan, S. M., by the choir of the Immaculate Conception church. Today (Saturday) Father Sullivan leaves Westerly to take charge of the Marist college, Laingnorne, Pa. At the beach a turkey dinner was enjoyed following which Joseph Lennihan acted as toastmaster, when interesting speeches were made by Father McOscar and members of the church choid. Father Sullivan was presented a gold pyx and also a gold oil stock. Father Sullivan has been recognized as one of the leading educators of Marist order and since being in Westerly has won an enviable reputation as a musician of note, being an accomplished pianist, organist and conductor.

JEWETT CITY

The Jewett City Red Cross chapter has received the request to raise eleven hundred dollars to send as soon as possible to national headquarters for relief in Japan. President Coolidge's proclamation has appealed to the nation for this cause. The executive committee of the chapter will meet Monday evening to make plans for this town, Voluntown and Lisbon, which are under the chapter jurisdiction, to do their part toward lessening the terrible suffering caused by the earthquake in Japan. If all churches and organizations thus raise money for this cause co-operate with the local chapter and send the money to the treasurer, Miss Rosanna DesJardins, it would help greatly to raise the chapter's quota. A large majority of the people in the towns are members of the Red Cross. The president's appeal is to every person in this country, and the local chapter is the medium through which the appeal may be best met.

Fourteen members of Aspinook office gave a farewell party at Camp Moro Thursday night to Miss Isabel Moodie, the corporation nurse, who leaves her work this week. The girls gave her a pair of sterling silver candlesticks. Refreshments were served. The party included the new corporation nurse Margery Leyen, Miss Moodie, Sadie and Bessie Thompson, Irene Havey, Irene Stewart, Clara Adams, Annie Gorman, Estelle Jodoin, Edna Sharkey, Doris Myott, Mrs. Linderson and Mrs. Alice Davis.

Edward Thornton has closed his labors in the Aspinook Co. office and is to go to the East Greenwich Academy. Miss Grace Gardiner of Griswold is to enter the same institution.

Mrs. E. H. Hiscox spent Tuesday in Colchester, the guest of her cousins, Miss Abby G. Willard and Mrs. Raymond-Lewis of New York.

Mrs. Henry Beauregard of Putnam has been visiting Miss Delphine Beauregard.

STONINGTON

Those who received awards at the Garden club were: For having the best exhibit of gadiola, Mrs. Walter Cole; for beauty and color, Mrs. Nona Hooper; Farmholme, for size, John Kennedy, the gardner at the F. F. Dodge place. It was decided to hold the next meeting of the club Monday, September 17 and on the evening of Wednesday, Sept. 12, the club will have a public lecture.

Repairs were made at Stonington to a hydroplane that became disabled while flying over Watch Hill. It was safely put on its way eastward. There was a rumor that it was a plane from a prohibition fleet in here looking for hum-runners, but that was afterwards denied.

Mrs. Allen C. Slade entertained at whist at her home on Wednesday; four tables were in play.

James L. Case of Norwich, was a business caller here this week.

MYSTIC

Secretary Lantz left town on Friday for Defiance, Ohio, where he is to be recreation director of that city. He will take up his new work Monday. Since Mr. Lantz has been connected with the Community association here, he has built up the work and standing of the place.

Friday evening the members of Williams Woman's Relief corps gave a sketch called "The Merry-go-Round" which proved most entertaining for the large number that attended. Fifty children took part in the presentation.

Mrs. James W. Jackson has been called to Newark, N. J., owing to the death of her brother, William Strome.

NORTH STONINGTON

Rev. and Mrs. O. D. Fisher are in Massachusetts. Saturday they attended in Medford the wedding of a niece of Mrs. Fisher, Miss Barbara Roscoe.

The sons of Rev. Lucian Drury, L. L. Drury of Mount Hermon, Mass., and H. W. Drury of Monroe, N. Y., with their families, have been on their annual visit of a week at the home of their father. The company was augmented by two nieces of Rev. Mr. Drury, Misses Peeler of Newton Center, Mass., making a party of ten.

Mrs. Eunice Brown of New Haven, accompanied by several members of her family, has been passing a fortnight here with her brothers, Warren W. and Frank H. Brown.

Mrs. F. M. Seeley of Bantam, Conn., was a recent guest of Mrs. C. C. Gray.

Rev. O. D. Fisher is having his vacation of four Sundays. On the first of these Sundays his pulpit was supplied by Rev. Gertrude R. Coe of Wolcott; on the second Sunday by Rev. George C. Pollock of Norwich. Last Sunday no service was held and none will be held next Sunday. On the third Sunday in September Rev. Mr. Fisher will resume his ministry.

Miss Dora T. Maine has gone to Buttonwoods, R. I., for a visit.

Mrs. R. C. Maine of Eden Park, R. I., with several of her family, is at her farm in the Lantern Hill section.

Mrs. F. A. Thompson invited several families, her nearest neighbors, to meet on the lawn of her residence Labor day for a picnic dinner.

Mrs. Charles P. Thompson, Jr., has returned home to New Haven after spending some time with her mother, Mrs. F. A. Thompson.

Vincent Jones has moved into the rooms over the store of Brown & Stone, succeeding Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Brown, who have returned to live in the house with Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Cook.

Aimie Bilodeau, for the past two years janitor of Wheeler school, has moved to New Hampshire.

The J. C. Hariand family have gone to Staten Island for the winter.

The Misses Lyon are leaving town, one to resume teaching, the other to visit relatives.

The town schools will open Sept. 10.

EKONK

Rev. Truman Childs has returned from his vacation trip, somewhat improved in health, and occupied his pulpit Sunday.

Alva Frink is employed in Sterling.

A social was held at his home last Thursday evening.

William Jarvis lost a good horse last week.

Mrs. John Tanner has been staying for a few days with Mrs. Cyrus Tanner while Miss Margaret Tanner was on a visit out of town.

Mrs. Wanton Briggs and daughter of Danielson, who have been spending several weeks with the former's brother, Enoch Douglas, returned home Saturday.

Mrs. James Farrell, with her two sons of Paterson, N. J., who has been spending a week with her cousin, Mrs. Alva Sayles, returned home Saturday.

Carolyn Hilliard has returned home and will attend Plainfield High school.

Kenneth Wickett, who has been spending several weeks on Sterling Hill, returned home to New Haven Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ketchum of Greenport, L. I., are visiting the latter's sister, Mrs. John Frink.

Mr. and Mrs. William Smith and friends from Hartford were calling on old neighbors on Sterling Hill Sunday.

Rev. Mr. Nightingale has returned from a motor trip to Wisconsin and occupied his pulpit at Sterling Hill Sunday. Two were receive dinto the church and received the right hand of fellowship. The Lord's supper was observed.

Three abandoned schoolhouses in Voluntown, known as the Campbell, Gallup and Briggs, were recently sold at public auction. A. W. Noone of Peterboro, N. H., purchased the Briggs house and intends to preserve it, because it was the schoolhouse where his mother attended school many years ago.

Mrs. S. A. Wilson, a native of Winnipeg, now living in New York, has the distinction of being the first English-born woman to be admitted to the practice of law in the United States.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

A runaway with three people badly injured, the grand review at the camp in Niantic and the arrival of the great North American Circus, made the current week in 1873, one filled with action for Norwich residents.

News of fifty years ago taken in part from the Bulletins of that year follows: —

Monday, September 1, 1873. — The person who has been committing the series of petty thieving in Norwich Town is known to the authorities and his arrest is expected at any moment. The breaks have occurred several times of late several houses being entered as well as the stores of George D. Fuller, the post office, and the stores of Henry McNally and Henry Dowd. In the post office several letters were opened in search for money.

People have been afraid to give the name of the burglar to the police for fear that he might add arson to burglary.

The freighting of fruit to this city landing at Allyn's Point is becoming an important business for the Norwich and New York Transportation company. The press of New England is spreading the news and Norwich is becoming a port of entry for bigger shipments of fruit than heretofore.

Charles C. Johnson and wife have returned forth Europe and report a severe storm on the return trip which lasted twenty-six hours and did great damage.

Tuesday, Sept. 2, 1873. — James J. Leach of the West Side caught some thieves in his yard last evening trying to steal pears and fired at them with a shot gun. The thieves and the gun went off at the same time and over a half bushel of pears were left behind them. The same practice would tend to rid Norwich Town of burglaries.

A carboy of viciol which was being carried through Main street yesterday afternoon suddenly broke and the contents were spread about the street, mostly in front of Carter's Jewelry store. The population of that part of the city turned out with street hose and put on the city water in a way that must have wrung the superintendent's heart.

Rev. W. W. Morrison of Norwich has taken a prominent part in the altar exercises at the camp meetings and all pronounce him admirably fitted for the work.

Hail, the size of chestnuts fell at Norwich Town during the heavy thunder shower yesterda. yAnother peculiar thing about the storm was the rain was of a brown hue, attracting much attention.

Some local people took delight in a fox hunt yesterday after the animal had appeared in the yard of Willis R. Austin.

Wednesday, Sept. 3, 1873.—A party of out of town visitors went for a carriage ride yesterday on Jail Hill and when near the precipitous termination of School street, which opens on Church street the carriage overturned spilling out the occupants, a little girl being painfully bruised about the face.

A man in the party asked a Norwich man to accompany him to a harness shop and they proceeded down Church street when suddenly the harness broke, the carriage striking one of the horses causing him to run madly. Near the bottom of the steep grade the Norwich man jumped and was painfully bruised. The horse could not make the turn and when near the court house building the stranger jumped and received painful contusions about the head and body, a dislocated shoulder and leg browen below the knee. Drs. Tucker and Paddock were called and rendered first aid. The horses continued his mad dash ending up on Franklin street with a badly broken carriage trailing behind.

The "Mud-diggers" which have long added to the attractiveness of the Thames have been sold to a Boston concern and are to leave the river shortly.

Three new private schools open in this city soon, two of them to be private schools for women.

Alterations to the gas works were made yesterday and the supply today is better, the same case with the light.

The water power company expects to complete the new dam before the end of the present month.

Thursday, Sept. 4, 1873.—Early last evening the house of the Big Steamer company was thronged with visitors. At 8 o'clock the company and delegation from all other companies manned the ropes and drew the carriage out for the last time. Down the hill where she had often gone neck to neck with the Black's, she went and at last reached Franklin Square, where she was met by Norwich Hose Company No. 4, and Tubb's Concert band. The carriage was drawn through the open ranks of the company to which she now belongs and she was delivered by first assistant Nash and received by Foreman Noss. The carriage was then taken to the new home of the Four's and a band concert and social time was enjoyed until late into the night.

The Ella will carry many people down the river today to witness the brigade dress parade at the camp at Niantic, and the grand review tomorrow.

The victims of yesterday's runaway are resting comfortably but the horses are in places unknown.

It has now been nearly a week since the police court has functioned. Verily the narrow path is getting easier to walk upon.

Friday, Sept. 5, 1873.—Our boarding schools bid fair to become so marked a feature of the Rose city that information as to what they are doing is eagerly lokoed for by the people. The Misses Meeker who purchased the Tyler property on Washington street have fitted it for a ladies' boarding school, and since last June eight new dormitories have been added, each to care for two persons. Besides there are dressings rooms, a new laundry, a drying room, music room, servant's sleeping quarters and a new dining room twice the size of the old one. There are thirteen new rooms in all.

Mrs. Platt who opened her school recently has sixteen scholars and is preparing to double the capacity of her school.

The youngsters will be out bright and early today watching the arrival of the Great North American circus which exhibits today in Norwich. The circus this year features several new riders and all stock is of the best.

Word today is that the runaway horses finally stopped their mad rush above Norwich Town and are being held for the owners.

The perfect record of the police court went smash yesterday when a man was given five days in jail and will have to make changes in his family arrangements during his stay as a guest fo the city.

Johnie-the-King was forced to learn the falsity of the maxim," the king can do no wrong", before a justice yesterday.

A box turtle was found in North Stonington yesterday with the initials "P. M." carved in his shell, also the date, 1710. It was marked by Peter Main, the grandfather of the finder, when he was a young man.

Saturday, Sept. 6, 1873.—The Great North American circus visited the city yesterday and the show was meager, but people were satisfied with the knife throwing, the double trapese and the tight-rope performances. Norwich people look forward to seeing the circus again next year.

Charles R. Hayden, tenor of Christ church has returned from his vacation and will sing in the choir on Sunday.

Joseph Plaut is home from his labors at Vienna where he was a commissioner. His travels have given him many additional pounds of flesh.

All local ministers have finished their vacations and will be heard from their respective pulpits on Sunday. Their congregations will welcome them home.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

A Visit to a House in the Woods

Now let me see. If there had been more space in the last story, I would have told you that the little bear led the bunny boy to a cave where there lay a great bag of gold.

My goodness, how happy the little rabbit was to have found his fortune and the little bear was mighty happy, too.

"Let us travel together," said the bunny boy, "I think you are a very nice little bear and I would like a comrade."

Let us travel together

The little bear said he would go and off they went until by and by, they came to a tiny house near a wood. Just outside the door sat a little old woman knitting, and at her feet lay a two headed dog. I think he had two tails, too, only he wagged them so fast it was hard to tell.

"Well, well," said the little old woman. "A bear and a rabbit traveling together!"

"All at once her little dog got up and began to bark with one mouth and growl with the other. And then, sure enough, Little Jack Rabbit saw two tails, for the tail that belonged to the head that barked, kept on wagging, but the tail that went with the growly head just hung down in an angry sort of way.

"Lie down, Two Heads," cried the little old woman. "Little Jcak Rabbit and Baron 'Bruin, (and if you don't know what Bruin means, I'll tell you. It's the name for bear in Fairy Land) "will you come into my humble cottage?"

"She may be a witch," whispered the bunny boy, but the little bear said no, she was just a little old woman who lived by the wood and picked the wild strawberries wherever she could. This made Little Jack Rabbit smile, never having heard a bear make a rhyme before and neither have I. But then, there are lots of things I haven't heard. Well, anyway, the bunny boy and the little bear went into the old woman's house and while she was getting some cookies, the cuckoo clock struck the hour. A funny little bird came out of a tiny door and the clock said "cuckoo" thirteen times. Then before going back into her little clock house, she sang a song:

"All the day long and all the night-tide
I cuckoo the hours as onward they glide,
One o'clock, two o'clock, three o'clock, four;
Over and over and over and o'er,
But never before have I cuckooed thirteen,
I guess it's because a bunny, I've seen!"

Then with a pop, the cuckoo bird disappeared in her tiny clock house.

"Goodness, gracious me!" cried the little old woman nearly upsetting the plate of cookies she had in her hand, "what is the matter with my clock today?"

Pretty soon the bunny-boy and the little bear said goodbye and started upon their way again, and the two-headed dog behaved himself very nicely wagging his two tails in quite a friendly way when the bunny boy patted him on one head and the little bear patted him on the other. And in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

NEW LONDON ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE ROASTS POLICE, JUDGES, PROSECUTORS

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, Sept. 7—Benjamin L. Armstrong has sold two building lots on Cape Ann Court to Raymond J. and Joseph P. Sanisky.

Thomas C. Reed, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert H. Reed, Sr., died last night at the home of his parents on School street. Mr. Reed had been ill a long time from chronic kidney trouble. He was a chauffeur.

Donald Foster, 4, residing on Main street, was struck by an automobile, owned and operated by C. E. Hancock Jr., of No. 16 Evergreen avenue, on Main street this afternoon when the child ran against the side of thte automobile. Sustained minor injuries.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Harry Haas of Mystic to Miss Irene Rennie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson Rennie, 22 Pearl street.

The ballots to be used at the election next Monday when candidates will be chosen for members of city council, will not be in New London before late Saturday night or Sunday morning. City Clerk Julius D. Moran will go to Hartford Saturday afternoon for the purpose of receiving the ballots and bringing them to New London.

News has been received in New London of the death Aug. 25th of James Flynn, son of Mrs. Mary Flynn, 28 Brewer street. The information was brought to New London by Alfa Pyne, a former New Londoner and former roommate of Flynn's in New York. Besides his mother Mr. Flynn has two sisters in this city. Flynn, who was employed until about 15 years ago at the Hotel Mohican, had been employed of late in New York as a bartender. Late in August Flynn was attacked by thugs and received such a beating that he died a few days later at a New York hospital. While his identity was revealed upon Flynn's death, nothing was known of the whereabouts of his relatives except that Flynn's mother resided in Connecticut. He was buried in St. Mary's cemetary there when efforts failed to locate relatives. A few days ago Mr. Pyne, who had been at Far Rockaway returned to New York and in reading New York papers, he ascertained that Flynn had died. Pyne then came to New London for the purpose of informing Mrs. Flynn.

Barney Oakes, a railroad employe, residing in the vicinity of Clark's Lane was given a penalty in the police court this morning that he is not likely to forget. He was charged with exposing his person to women on Chester street and was fined $50. The costs were about $20 more, so that he paid a good fat sum into the treasury of the court in order that he might stay out of jail. The witnesses against him were Mrs. Edward Chester and Mrs. Ursprung. They told what they saw in whispered testimony to Judge Prince after the court room had been cleared of all not interested in the case. It was substantially that Oakes [illegible] within sight of the house and that he made an exhibition of [illegible] made those who saw him [illegible] sanity. He ran away [illegible] Sergt. Nelson Smith came [illegible] and hid in bushes in dark [illegible] officer got a view of him [illegible] a shot into the bushes over [illegible] head of the fugitive. Then he [illegible] Oakes to come out or take [illegible] in his body. There was but [illegible] for Oakes. Today he told [illegible] rambling story to account [illegible] actions but that did not raise [illegible] question as to his guilt and he was fined.

Edward Hickey, who has been in the court for various offenses, probably a score of times, was there today for begging money in the streets. He was sent to the workhouse for 30 days. Hickey pretends to work on wood lots and on farms, but he seems incapable of keeping away from liquor. He has usually been arrested for intoxication, but he was recently committed for attempting to rob a young man on the highway, in the vicinity of Montauk avenue bridge. As usual, today he had just come from a farm, and did not remember whether he asked anyone for money. He had a bottle of alcohol which he said was for bathing purposes.

Abraham Katz, who has been driving an auto for some years, was found to be operating his car on the left side of the highway and was arrested. He was fined $10 today.

Benjamin Irezzo was accused of perjury in connection with the obtaining of an auto registration. The case was continued till tomorrow.

The automobile owned and operated by George Fisher, 48 Nathan Hale street and a machine owned and driven by George H. Vassar, 294 Crystal avenue, were in collision last night at the corner of Channing and Granite streets.

The condition of Michael McGrail, yard employe of the New Haven railroad, who suffered the loss of a portion of his leg several weeks ago run over in the union station yard by a Central Vermont railroad passenger train, is gradually improving and it is believed that he will be able to return to his home, 34 Bellevue place, the latter part of the month.

Joseph Martelle, arrested in Webster, Mass., Wednesday on two counts charging him with automible theft, will be brought to New London for trial soon as his cases in Webster have been disposed of; this morning Prosecuting Attorney Daniel M. Crowin issued a warrant for Martelle's arrest for the theft of the automobile of Philip Taber, which was in Martelle's possession at the time of the latter's apprehension and which was stolen from Ocean Beach. Taber has informed the New London police that he will come to New London and appear against Martelle whenever requested to do so.

The Anti-Saloon League conducted a vigorous campaign here last evening ostensibly to influence the votes Monday, when members of the city council are to be elected under the city manager's form of government.

A meeting was held at the First Baptist church Thursday evening, after extensive advertising in the local newspapers. The auditorium was well filled but the galleries were not. G. Herbert Ekins, assistant superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, was the promoter and chief speaker. Rev. J. B. Lee presided and introduced the speakers. Rev. Myron E. Genter, of the Methodist church, condemned the police methods of the city and generally rebuked the methods in effect in conducting the laws of the state. He declared that he had investigated work here and further discovered that policemen went into saloons in uniform and drank liquor there and in one instance the policemen went to the bartender and received from the bartender a sum of money. The speakers claimed that gambling was carried on and that police members were aware of that fact, and that they winked at the fact and condoned the offense committed. Mr. Ekins condemned the judges and prosecutors of the state, in that they did not seek to punish the offenders but sought to make the penalty easy of payment and keep the convicted person out of jail where he belonged. He said the judges were the worst offenders, in that they did not impose jail sentences. Rev. Mr. Genter introduced a resolution which would demand of the council to be elected next week a new ordinance that would give the police force a cleaning out in a general way and that will get rid of inefficient officers, that the city may be benefitted morally thereby and have a more efficient force. The purport of the address was that the city was very bad morally. Many in attendance at the meeting were people ernestly interested in the welfare of New London and they talked when they got out of the church asking why the persons who condemned the city in such wholesale manner did not present the evidence to the prosecutor that the criminals might be proceeded against. The prosecutor publicly announces that he would not let guilty persons escape if evidence of the violation of the laws of the state or city were presented to him. If the investigator will offer the evidence to the prosecutor he will see that anyone policeman offending, as claimed, will be removed from the force. The meeting was presented with affidavits making claims announced by Mr. Ekins but the affidavits were in blank form and no names were mentioned specifically.

Announcement of the wedding of Dr. O. H. Youngs and Mrs. Bessie Mason Lindsey, both of New London, was made today, the marriage having taken place September 1 the ceremony being performed by Rev. Walter P. Buck, a former pastor of the Methodist church, at his home, No. 357 Broad street. The announcement came as a surprise. Dr. Youngs was divorced from his wife about two years ago. Mrs. Lindsey is the daughter of Mrs. Ida McMoran, 11 Brewer street, and was recently divorced by Clarence H. Lindsey, a former draftsman in the employ of the New London Ship & Engine company, at Norfolk, Va.

Headquarters Battery and Battery A, One Hundred and Ninety-Second Field Artillery, C. N. G., will leave Saturday afternoon for Camp Eustis, Va., where the soldiers will remain 15 days receiving instructions in warfare. The New London batteries will be joined in New London by the units of the regiment from Danielson and Norwich, which will come here by special train and will march to the state armory where they will be joined by the New London soldiers. # HIGH POWERED REO "SIXES"

The New 6-Cylinder Touring
At Lansing $1335 Add Tax

DEVELOPED by nineteen years' experience, the 1924 line of Reo high-powered six-cylinder passenger cars more forcefully expresses the significance of Reo as "The Gold Standard of Values."

The rugged, powerful chassis is hung lower to the road for easier riding, greater safety and improved appearance. The double-frame mounting of power units,—long a distinctive Reo feature,—is maintained. So is the simple dual foot control.

Super strength marks the new rear axle, which combines the advantages of both the semi-floating and full floating types.

Greatly improved and oversized brakes with 15-inch drums and 2½-inch faces provide positive control; a simple, sure and safe design of time-tried goodness is assurance of continued efficiency.

Powered with the wonderful Reo 6-cylinder engine; nothing experimental nor untried. With intake valves in head and exhaust valves at side, positive lubrication and cooling systems and unusual accessibility, it provides dependable power for every driving condition

Safety—reliability—comfort—economy—roadability—appearance,—on whatever factor motor car satisfaction is based, Reo dominates.

LODGE NOTES

GROTTO.

Members of the Masonic fraternity will have their attention focussed Monday night on Hilltop Casino, where Nemrod Grotto is to conduct a novelty dance and Mardi Gras which the committee promises will be an A No. 1 gala event.

This evening of pleasure is planned to surpass anything yet held at the Casino and being a strictly fraternal party Nemrod's uniformed patrol will give an exhibition drill to help idle away the moments of intermission.

During the entire evening streamers and balloons will be in abundance, while other entirely new novelties will be worked in during the dances, affording everyone opportunity to cast away sorrow and join in the merry-making.

EAGLES

The regular meeting of Norwich Aerie, No. 367, was held Tuesday night in their rooms on Shetucket street with Worthy President Edward J. Mullins in the chair. There was a large attendance at the meeting and several applications were acted upon.

The aerie also voted to hold another large class initiation in the lodge rooms on the second Sunday in October and the following committee was appointed to make arrangements; R. A. Krohn, Timothy Fields, John Callahan, George Nadolny and Herman Arrendt.

The aerie made a fine showing during the last quarter, both financially and in gain in membership. Much interest is being shown in the weekly pinochle tournaments which are played on Thursday evening, the prizes for this week going to George Nadolny, 1st; Nelson Lelrick, 2nd; Albert Woodmansee, 3rd.

Following the meeting a social time was enjoyed the social committee providing refreshments.

DAUGHTERS OF VETERANS

The regular meeting of Clara Barton Tent, No. 7, was held at the Buckingham Memorial Tuesday evening with President Lillie E. Wolf in the chair. Considerable business of importance was transacted and the secretary's and treasurer's reports were read and accepted. The members also voted to attend the basket lunch picnic at the home of Commander and Mrs. Orrin M. Price at 35 Lafayette street, Tuesday, Sept. 11, taking the 10 o'clock car from the square. It was also voted to hold a rummage sale in the Buckingham Memorial, the latter part of October. The meeting closed in the usual form by saluting the flag after which a social time was enjoyed.

Mrs. Chandler Gives Facts To The Public

"That weak, tired feeling that had distressed me for so long went away like a flash when I began taking Tanlac," recently declared Mrs. Wm. F. Chandler, 36 Keith St., Springfield, Mass.

"I was in a weakened, run-down, nervous condition for about a year, and felt so tired-out I was barely able to drag around. What sleep I got did not seem to rest me, and I would get up without appetite and continue that way through the day. My liver action was poor also, and this feeling of lassitude and utter weariness stayed with me in spite of all I could do.

"Three bottles of Tanlac increased my weight several pounds and made my health as good as could be desired. My appetite and digestion are perfect, I sleep soundly, have plenty of strength and energy, and just feel like an entirely different person."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.

The Minuet

Grandma told me all about it,
Told me so I couldn't forget it,
How she danced—my grandma danced—
Long ago.

How she held her pretty head,
How her dainty skirt she spread,
How she turned her little toes,
How she softly leaned and rose
Long ago.

Grand ma's hair was bright and sunny;
Dimpled cheeks, too—ah, how funny!
Really quite a pretty girl,
Long ago.

Bless her! why she wears a cap,
Grandma does; and takes a nap
Every single day; and yet
Grandma danced the minuet
Long ago.

Now she sits there, rocking, rocking,
Always knitting grandpa's stocking
(Every little girl was taught to knit
Long ago.)

Yet her figure is as neat
And her way to stand and sweet,
I can almost see her now
Bending to her partner's bow
Long ago.

Grandma says our modern jumping
Hopping, whirling, rushing, bumping,
Would have shocked the gentle folk
Long ago.

No—they moved with stately grace
Everything in proper place,
Gliding slowly forward then
Slowly courtesying back again,
Long ago.

Modern ways are quite alarming,
Grandma says; but boys were charming—
Girls and boys, I mean, of course—
Long ago.

Bravely modest, grandly shy,
What if all of us should try
Just to feel a little those who met
In the graceful minuet
Long ago.

With the minuet in fashion
Who could fly into a passion?
All would wear the calm they wore
Long ago.

In time to come, if I perchance,
Should tell my grandchild of our dance,
I should really like to say,
"We did it, dear, in some such way
Long ago."

The Climber

Mrs. Merryweather's uncle, on her dear old mother's side,
Kept a slaughter house in Punkville till the very day he died;
And her father's youngest brother dealt in hay and oats and seed,
While her father as a butcher had a struggle to succeed.

Now, the daughter of a butcher can be just as sweet and fair
And as charming as the daughter of a banker-millionaire;
And May Liverwurst was gracious till the morning she was wed.
Then as Mrs. Merryweather she began to toss her head.

She knocked her dear old uncle from the ancient family tree,
From the slaughter house in Punkville she was happy to be free,
And she scorned her father's brother, for 'tis difficult indeed
To get into society by talking oats and seed.

She forgot when people want you they'll come tapping at your door,
That you cannot find a welcome where you've never been before,
And poor Henry Merryweather lived a most unhappy life
Because the social leaders wouldn't recognize his wife.

She spurned the friends in Punkville and the friendly folks near nearby;
When a smiling neighbor passed her, she tossed her head up high;
And the upper crust just chuckled, and the Punkville folks agree
She has lost the gracious manner of the girl who used to be.

GETTING AHEAD

Dear Sisters of the Corner: Isn't it refreshing to see so many more letters in the Corner and some of the members realizing they have been going backward instead of ahead?

We're a little bit like spoiled children today. It isn't so much the stringency of the present that we detest; it's rather that yesterday's easy times are gone. We found it so delightful to travel ahead at first, sea-and and third that it's both disconcerning and provoking to find out that life has a reverse speed as well.

The slopes of life are always with us. Very seldom indeed do we climb to a summit to remain there. After enjoying the view and congratulating ourselves on the success of the climb we're quite sure to take the descent, are we not? A hilltop is a place for inspiration, for refreshing, but seldom a place for continued staying. We could never progress did we stay—we are already at the top.

Even descent may mean progress if we go down rightly. Digging our heels into the earth, protesting and scolding at every step, we shall find the going down doubly difficult. Accepting the situation, going down as easily as may be, with our eyes fixed on other things, we shall not so much mind the road. There are pleasures in the valleys also.

We've only just so much nerve force and strength at our command. That which we spend in worry and rebellion, and nothing takes more out of us than do these, we shall not have for living. What we cannot help way worry about? That which we can change, why not use the force and effort for changing?

Foolish optimism! Impossible vapering! By no means. Merely plain logic and common sense. Try it and see!

Yours for The Corner.

ANOTHER PICNIC ON THE 20TH

Dear Social Corner Sisters: As I have been in obscurity as far as the Social Corner is concerned for some time past, I will now make my appearance o you in the form of an announcement that you are all invited to attend a picnic on Sept. 20th at "Hillside Farm." Coventry your health and weather conditions permitting, where we are to celebrate a Social Corner sister's 75th birthday. Please bring a birthday card with appropriate verse and sign your name which will be quite a shower of cards if you all bring one. Bring basket lunch, soup plate and spoon, as clam chowder will be served at 12. o'clock sharp. Ice cream and a birthday cake will also be features of the occasion. Bring your appetites and wear a smile and forget your troubles for a while. Take the 10:45 where you will be directed by motor-trolley in Willimantic for Coventry, man where to get off. Those wishing to attend kindly address a card to "Sis Hopkins" Box 54 South Coventry.

RECOLLECTIONS OF "FORT NED"

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: I read the letters with interest and wish to do my part to make them interesting. I know about "Fort Ned" to, and can remember when it was quite a little village with a paper mill and a small store and some Sundays there were religious services held in a grove. At one time a horse got unfastened and the minister spoke right out while he was preaching, "Some one catch that horse."

I think I know "Four Times Twenty." Your family was quite musical if I am not mistaken.

Aunt Jerushy: I expected to hear from you after our delightful day at Hampton, at the two hundredth anniversary of the town and church isn't it wonderful?

L. K. H.: What are you doing these days?

C. E. S.: I do not see your letters very often now. I suppose you are busy as ever. We must soon think of the winter and get ready for it. The summer has seemed short to me, but has been a very happy one.

Best wishes to all.

SAVING STEPS.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: While we are doing so much to save things, how many of us think of saving steps? It calls for brain work but it is worth while. By keeping our minds on the job we can eliminate unnecessary pilgrimages up and down stairs, unnecessary steps in performing regular duties, and even unnecessary motions in the smallest of tasks.

Here are some specific aids which help to save time, steps, and energy: First of all comes the question of meals. Beginning with the breakfast, "oven toast," made by brushing the slices with butter and laying in a flat pan in the oven, may be made with less heat and nerve expenditure than the usual method. In making muffins, mix enough for two mornings; adding a spoonful of baking powder the second day. If you prefer making your own bread, make up and bake rolls enough for two breakfasts; use some of the dough for the first morning for fried breadsticks or English muffins. Meals are made easier by using what's seasonable in garden or market.

One may also save energy by doing all cooking possible early in the day, thereby eliminating a fire at noon, unless family requirements make it necessary.

In cooking dinner, use vegetables liberally, that you may have left-overs for the next day's salad. This necessitates the planning of meals at least one day in advance, which in itself is an economy. Cold potatoes may be served hashed brown, creamed or in salad. These combinations of vegetable left-overs are delicious; carrots and peas, string beans, tiny onions and tomatoes, any sort of beans and corn, with tomatoes sometimes used to moisten, or vegetable macedoine, a spoonful of each of half a dozen different varieties.

Business may be combined with pleasure by preparing vegetables, fruit, etc., out of doors. Time may be saved by cutting string beans by the handful rather than one by one, and beat required for cooking them may be reduced if they are slivered slantwise, thus exposing a greater cut area.

There is nothing more wasteful of work and steps than cooking hand-to-mouth meals every day. Another labor-saving idea is the "cafeteria lunch," which should be eaten out of doors when possible. This brings the omission of the regular work of serving and saves in the number of dishes used, also.

Dishwashing should be simplified as much as possible during hot weather, if at no other time. The use of the tray in bringing dishes from the table to the sink and returning them to the dish cupboard and of the dish drainer in drying them are both time and step savers.

A small note book carried around in one's apron pocket while doing the housework will prove a great help and saver if one jots down the things found needed and the store in which they may be bought.

In searching for lost articles, you may save yourself much nervous energy and irritation if you will sit down and quietly and calmly think. Try to reconstruct the scenes and circumstances under which you used or saw the article last and what you did next.

A good slogan for hot weather especially is "Never go up or down stairs or to or from the basement empty-handed." There will always be something to carry. Dust or sweep down the stairs some time when you are going down rather than as a special job. Realising that when energy and ambition are sapped by heat and that the health suffers when we habitually get over-tired is accomplishing the day's duties, is it not worth while to plan out the work in advance and then follow the plan in order to eliminate these losses of time, steps and mental and physical energy.

CENTURY PLANT.

MAKING JELLY.

Dear Sisters: Where are you all? Are you canning, doing up jell, or getting rested after your vacation?

The jell making time is here for some of us, and for others it is not far off. Certain fruits lend themselves more readily to jelly making. These are apples (except sweet ones), crab-apples, currants, blueberries, grapes, quince, raspberries and plums. Other fruits may be made into jelly, but it is more difficult to get good results. Certain conditions are necessary. The fruit must be firm and thoroughly ripe. There must be considerable acid in the juices used. If the fruit juice is one of mild acidity it will be improved by combining it with the juice from some other fruit of greater acidity. A substance known as pectin is necessary to bring about the hardening of the jelly. The fruits which "jell" easily are the ones rich in pectin. The lack in other fruits may be made up by combining with the juices of such fruits as crabapple, currant, quince or wild grape. All jellies require the addition of some sugar. The flavor will vary according to the quality of the juice, the length of time the liquid is cooked and the amount of sugar added. These same factors will affect the color.

There are two distinct operations in making jelly: (1) extracting the juice from the fruits; (2) converting this juice into jelly. The extracting is particularly important as regards the cost of the jelly, for the more juice there is extracted from a given amount of fruit the lower its cost per jar will be. Jelly, properly made with two extractions, cannot be distinguished from that made with only one and will cost one-third less per glass. For example, if a one extraction jelly costs 12 cents a glass for the ingredients, that made from two extractions would cost only eight cents.

The first extraction is made by cooking the fruit slowly in water, allowing one pint of water to each pound of hard fruit, such as apples, one cup of water to one quart of soft fruits, such as berries. For the first extraction only the amount of juice which runs freely through good cheesecloth should be taken. The fruit should be put back to cook with twice as much water as was originally added. After this is heated every bit of juice should be squeezed out through the cheesecloth. Mix the two extractions and strain through four thicknesses of cheesecloth.

To convert this juice to jelly, measure out the desired amount of juice, not more than three or four quarts at a time, boil it rapidly until the volume is reduced one-half in the case of hard fruit juices and one-third in the case of soft fruit juices. Add the sugar (without heating it), using from one to two cups of sugar to each quart of juice. Base the amount of sugar on the original amount of fruit juice. Boil the juice and sugar together rapidly until the jelly test is obtained. The test is two drops of juice coming together and tearing off or "shooting off" the spoon instead of dropping.

Jelly made in this way has excellent flavor, color and texture.

ORANGE CAKE.

Dear Corner Members: I wish we might keep on with this delightful picnic weather for several more months. I dislike to think that we will soon be shoveling coal and snow and trying to keep warm.

This week I want to send you an orange cake recipe and hope you will try it.

Orange Cake. Cream together one cup granulated sugar and one-half cup butter. Beat light with two eggs and one-half cup of milk and one tablespoon orange juice. Then add two level cups flour which has been sifted twice with three teaspoons baking powder. Bake in layers.

For the frosting: Take one table spoon melted butter, juice of the rest of the orange and rind (grated) or half of it. Beat in enough powdered sugar to make it the right consistency to spread on cake. Frost cake when cold.

A Good Relish: Here is a good relish recipe that can be made any time of the year and is always good: One large head of cabbage, six large onions, eight large sweet peppers (seeds removed). Mix and add half a cup of salt and let stand over night. Drain in the morning and add two tablespoons of mustard seed, two cups of whits vinegar, one tablespoon of celery seed, add vinegar, fill jars to within a half inch of top, then cover with vinegar and seal.

NORMA.

A PORCH RUG FROM TWINE.

Dear Cornerites: Possibly if your pens are not busy your needles are. I have received the directions for making a porch rug out of twine which I am sending. Any twine not too thick to go through a keyhole easily may be used but the regular colored jute twine is often used.

This rug is oblong and fringed and abbreviations used are: "ch" for Chain; "sl st" for Slip Stitch; "s c" for Single Crochet; "d c" for Double Crochet; "st" for Stitch; "nat" for Natural Color; and * for repetition.

The pattern is a Navajo Indian one. Its colors change frequently, and the method of changing them is as follows: Keep two loops of first color on hook as usual; then draw a loop of new color through the two loops on hook, work as many stitches of the second color as may be necessary over the strand of main color, drop second color and proceed in the same way with next color. Let the thread of colored motif hang in front of the work. Work over the end from new color in the next few stitches.

First Row: With wine color ch 62, skip 1 from hook, 1 s c in each of 60 chs working on thread back of ch, (71 inches across); turn at end of each row.

Tenth Row: 31 nat, 5 orange, 31 nat; 1 row of 29 nat, 9 orange, 29 nat; 1 row of 3 nat, 21 blue, 3 nat, * 7 orange and reverse from *; 1 row of 4 nat, 3 blue, 13 nat, 3 blue, 3 nat, 4 orange, * 1 black and reverse from *; 1 row of 5 nat, 3 blue, 11 nat, 3 blue, 3 nat, 4 orange, * 3 black and reverse from *; 1 row of 6 nat, 3 blue, 9 nat, 3 blue, 3 nat, 4 orange, * 5 black and reverse from *; 1 row of 7 nat, 3 blue, 7 nat, 3 blue, 3 nat, 4 orange, * 7 black and reverse from *; 1 row of 8 nat, 3 blue, 5 nat, 3 blue, 3 nat, 4 orange, * 5 black and reverse from *; 1 row of 9 nat, 3 blue, 3 nat, 3 blue, 7 nat, 4 orange, * 3 black and reverse from *; 1 row of 10, nat, 3 blue 1 nat, 3 blue, 9 nat, 4 orange *, 1 black and reverse from *; 1 row of 11 nat, 3 blue, 11 nat, 7 orange, 11 nat, 3 blue, 11 nat, 1 row of 13 nat, 3 blue, 13 nat; 5 orange, 12 nat, 3 blue, 12 nat; 1 row of 13 nat, 1 blue, 15 nat, 3 orange, 15 nat, 1 blue, 13 nat.

Fringe: Wind enough wine color around a card four inches long, and tie 3 strands in every other st.

Best wishes for the Corner.

TESS.

HELP KEEP THE POOR AND NEEDY WARM.

Dear Social Corner Friends: The summer is fast fading away, vacations on land and sea are about to close, long evenings will soon be here and there will be more time for all to send in their mite to the Corner page. The Corner page must be provided with good letters to make people take notice. The Corner family has become so large it would be impossible for the writers to please all readers. If we write what the mind suggests perhaps it may be of some use to people we never saw or even heard of. Let us try it.

There are many opinions in regard to Social Corner letters. Some like fun and are looking for something to make them write, while others might say it was foolish and should not be printed. Surely the editor has a great task on his mind to know what to print as the letters come in to the office. No doubt it would be impossible to find one writer in the Corner family who would be willing to take his place. It hardly seems fair with hundreds of members of the Corner the page should not be full and over flowing from week to week.

It was our pleasure to attend one Corner picnic at Alexander lake the past summer and we met some old members and many new ones who seemed very friendly and made one feel at home. It is coming a cold winter and with very high prices for coal and wood. There will be much suffering with poor people. How about the clothing hanging in the clothes presses doing no one any good? Let us look them over before the snow is here and send them to some needy family to keep them warm the coming winter.

Look them over today before they are forgotten. In many homes there are dresses for women and children, coats for men and women that have been almost forgotten. If they are not quite in style they will keep some one warm the coming winter. There was great suffering last winter from cold for want of proper clothing by the poor and needy. Let us hope the Social Corner family will donate something. Search the garret and clothes presses and see what can be sent to the poor to make them comfortable. Must stop now and make room for others. With best wishes to one and all, from RURAL DELIVERY.

FRUITINES.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I think its about time that I wrote a few words to the Corner. I thought a nice recipe would go fine so here it is.

Fruitines: Two eggs, one and one-half cups sugar, one-half cup melted butter or shortening, one tablespoon salt. Soak one cup raisins in two tablespoons boiling water for ten minutes or more. Then put through meat grinder. Mix three and one-half cups flour, one tablespoon soda in two tablespoons milk, one tablespoon cinnamon, one-half tablespoon cloves.

I am glad that we shall soon meet again for I enjoy the meetings very much.

Many thanks to Scottie for the pretty post card sent me on my birthday.

Did you get my card, Balsam Fir and Chocolate?

Well I think I've written enough but I think I'll write a little more often. Lots of live to all the sisters, I still am

HOPE.

CATSUP AND CHILI SAUCE

Dear Corner Folks: A friend of mine recently asked me for my catsup recipe, and after giving it to her I thought some in the Corner might like it. It is a hot tomato catsup and a real old southern recipe.

Hot Tomato Catsup: To half a bushel of tomatoes cut in quarters add one pint of sliced onions and cook until very mushy. Run them through a sieve. Return the juice to stove and add six tablespoons of salt, six tablespoons of mustard, six tablespoons of allspice, four tablespoons of black pepper, six tablespoons of sugar, two tablespoons of mace, two teaspoons of cayenne pepper and two quarts of vinegar. The spices in separate cloths so the catsup won't be too dark. Unless one likes it very hot, I would advise reducing the quantity of cayenne pepper. Cook to proper consistency and bottle.

Here is another recipe that is good:

Catsup: Boil and strain 1 bushel of tomatoes and add to 10 red peppers (hot) put through the finest knife of the meat grinder, 2 quarts of cider vinegar, 1 1-2 cups salt, 4 1-2 cups white sugar, (or more if desired) 1-2 teaspoon cayenne pepper, 3 tablespoons mustard, 1 tablespoon ginger. Mix the above in a little vinegar. Put into this mixture a handful of cinnamon a cheesecloth bag. Boil until quite thick and bottle.

I am adding also a chili sauce recipe.

Chili Sauce: One bushel tomatoes (peeled) 3 quarts of onions, 5 cups of mon, cloves and allspice (whole) in cider vinegar, 6 cups of sugar, 6 hot red peppers, 4 teaspoons of cloves, 6 teaspoons of allspice, 8 tablespoons of salt. Let boil three hours, and bottle while hot.

PUEST WILLOW

TAKE PRECAUTIONS WHILE CANNING

Dear Corner Friends: After canning some fine looking peas or corn and looking forward to eating it in the winter months, it is a great disappointment to find that any or all of the goods have spoiled. With a few simple precautions and attention to methods most of these failures can be avoided.

Much of the present spoilage in canned goods may be attributed to two things, (1) defective equipment, (2) flat sour. In the first case spoilage results through bacteria entering the jar after processing has been completed, and of course the food spoils. If a jar is cracked or has a defective bubble which might burst in the processing it is foolish to use the jar, for if it did occur the food in the process-ing the food product as well as the jar would be lost. In every case the product is worth more than the jar, it is best not to use the jar for cannings. Such jars make very satisfactory containers for cereals or on the pantry shelves. Defective rubbers are also a problem. There are a great many poor rubbers on the market this year. Often six out of a dozen are useless. A good rubber will stretch to twice its length without breaking, or when folded back on itself will not break at the fold. Covers should fit evenly on the jars. They should not rock when tapped with the finger.

After careful selection of the jar and rubber, there is still chance for spoilage in the flat sour. This spoilage is most common in asparagus, peas, beans and corn. It is due to a micro-organism which is found on the vegetables and is not easily destroyed by processing as it has a form in which it becomes heat resisting. This organism seems to be more prevalent in some gardens than others. The product looks well but has an unpleasant sour odor and taste. The food has to be thrown away. Careful washing of the vegetables is a great help in reducing this spoilage. String beans and peas should be washed before being cut or shelled.

After vegetables are picked chemical changes occur in them rapidly. For this reason food is to be canned should be picked within as few hours as possible of the time when it is to go into the cans. If you want a good vegetable in the winter, you must put a good vegetable into the can.

Overpacking the jar is another cause of spoilage. There is little room for water, and if packed tight the circulation is poor. The food in the center of the jar is not reached with the boiling liquid, the bacteria are not killed, and eventually the canned food spoils. Ordinarily packing the jar to within one-half inch of the top is satisfactory. In the case of corn and peas, it must be remembered that they swell during the processing, therefore the jars should not be filled quite as full. Having taken these precautions, the housewife is dependent on the processing to rid her of bacteria which would otherwise cause spoilage. If she has been faithful in these precautions, she will have little or no trouble with spoilage.

WHEN PEOPLE LIVED IN THEIR STOVES

A STORY OF PRIMITIVE TIMES

In the early days man lived in his stove! An astonishing statement, no doubt, but it is true. Because in the primitive times his crude shelter was devised that he might have a warm place in which to shelter himself and in which he might do his simple cooking away from the interference of the unfriendly element.

In fact, we are told that the word "stove," in its original form, meant "a heated room."

Just visualize this ancient ancestor of ours. He roamed the woods at will, living on the berries and fruits he found at hand, and sleeping under the stars or in the kindly shelter of the rocks or in caves.

From his still more primitive ancestor he had received the great legacy of fire, and his simple mind learned how it was possible to start a new fire at will. He realized that he was comfortable near a fire; his body was warm and glowing and it chased away the evil spirits of cold and numbness.

But there was a constant battle between heat and cold. A fire built out in the open had to combat fierce winds and icy blasts. Gradually he learned to protect his fire—first with large stones, placed close to the blaze. Then came the time when he constructed rude shelters, large, conical structures made from branches of trees held together by clay, mud and grass. These rude dwellings protected him from the rain, but they were cold and damp until he began kindling his fire within them.

Now he had a heated room—"a stove." Imagine his delight with this great advance in civilization. He had a place where he was assured of being dry and warm, and he did not complain of the dense smoke that filled his room. Some of the smoke, it was true, curled out of the little opening at the top, but if he was annoyed by the smoke, he was soothed by the warmth, and our ancester was not given to complaining.

And in this heated room—this stove—he did his cooking. Above his fire he suspended a pole, held in place by props driven into the ground at either end. On this pole he hung the fish he caught in the nearby stream or the small animal he had captured or killed with his rough weapons.

He was content. His home was a warm place and a place where he could cook. His home was his stove.

Contrast this picture with the modern home, and its many varied rooms. Now we have our living rooms, our dining rooms, our sleeping rooms. Modern invention has showed us how to distribute heat without the attendant discomfort of smoke.

Then we have our kitchen, an entire room set aside for the modern "stove," and, if the housewife is wise, it is a Sterling.

A sturdy, never-failing range, finished attractively in glossy black or soft gray enamel. It uses either coal or gas, and uses them economically. In fact, the Sterling Range, by actual performance, will bake a barrel of flour with a single hod of coal.

No smoke, no annoyance, no uncertainty! Think of the transition from the heated room of the dim ages to the Sterling of the present century—yet the Sterling may be placed in your kitchen with less effort than was expended by that primitive man in building his weak little fire in his primitive home—his "stove," because your Sterling Dealer offers a convenient budget plan of payments which enables the Sterling to practically pay for itself by the savings it effects.

VACATION MAIL.

When on our holidays away,
How eagerly we hail
The hour of all the happiest
That brings the evening mail.

To hear from home, from absent friends—
O, let the cynic sneer;
However sweet the Summer's joys,
Home is to us most dear.

And so we crowd the village store,
And wait and wilt and fan,
Because our quaint Postoffice is Built on the air-tight plan.

And lovely ladies shriek "My dear!"
And children push and yell
The while our quaint postmaster is Reaching himself to spell.

But patiently we stand in line
And smile at push and pull,
For we can see our letter box
Is very nearly full.

At last, our waiting o'er, we seek
A ventilated spot
To feast on all this news from home,
Let's see, what have we got?

One service postcard from the home town. Postmaster advising us that a magazine is being held for additional postage.

One envelope, legal size, containing a circular headed "Attractive Bond Offerings for September," from our favorite trust company.

One square envelope, without printing, elegantly conveying the announcement of a Summer shoe sale by the home town Elite Bootery.

One thick letter with a homely scrawl, apparently full of personal news, but addressed to someone named Klotz, and put in our box by mistake.

One copy of the Church Quarterly.

THE TIME I'VE LOST IN WOOING.

The time I've lost in wooing,
In watching and pursuing
The light that lies
In woman's eyes,
Has been my heart's undoing.
Though Wisdom oft has sought me
I scorned the lore she brought me—
My only books
Were women's looks,
And folly's all they taught me.

Her smile when Beauty granted,
I hung with gaze enchanted,
Like him the sprite
Whom maids by night
Oft met in glen that's haunted.
Like him, too, Beauty won me;
But when the spell was on me,
If once their ray
Was turned away,
O! winds could not outrun me.

And are these follies going?
And is my proud heart growing
Too cold or wise
For brilliant eyes
Again to set it glowing?
No—vain, alas! the endeavor
From bonds so sweet to sever—
Poor Wisdom's chance
Against a glance
Is now as weak as ever.

—Thomas Moore.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

"Do you think your father will make any objection to our marriage?"

"Oh, no, he has always humored my silliest wishes."—London Opinion.

Alice—Why do you let your husband do just as he pleases?

Virginia—It keeps me in spending money.—Life.

"No doubt it is a wise plan to tell your troubles.'

"Eh?"

Crabshaw—No hope of that. He's never so pleased as when you tell him he's one.—New York Sun and Globe.

"Mummy, isn't that monkey like Uncle George?"

"Hush, you mustn't say things like that!"

A lady was visiting her sister in the country. She overslept one morning and was awakened by her little nice, 3½ years old, who exclaimed, "Aunt Annie, get up; the world has begun!" —Christian Register.

Junior law partner—We must take our head clerk into partnership. He has had half a million dollars left to him.

Senior ditto—Into partnership? No, no! We must part with him on good terms and get him as a client.—Boston Transcript.

"Is your daughter going to practice on the piano this afternoon?"

"Yes."

"Well, then, will you please loan me your lawn mower? I have to do the lawn some time, anyway."—Pennsylvania Farmer.

"Yes," said Simmons, "observation justified my faith."

"In what?" asked Biffum.

"In the transmigration of souls. Every time I see an end-seat hog or a fellow monopolizing the road I can hear the squeals and grunts of that man's future."—Richmond Times Dispatch.

"George," said his father, "I am sorry to hear that you were among those present at that disgraceful party at the Drinkwells' last night."

"Father," pleaded the young man with somewhat bleary eyes, "I can assure you that I was only there as an observer."

"Yes," replied his parent, "so I am told—and Tom was the pilot and the table was the airplane."—Toronto Goblin.

MARKET WAS IRREGULAR

New York, Sept. 7.—Price movements in today's stock market were irregular and generally inconclusive but the list, as a whole exhibited a firm tone. Trading was largely a professional affair with pool operations again evident in a number of specialties.

Revival of speculative interest in the railroad shares, which were reactionary yesterday on reports of a decrease in net income in July as compared with June, was one of the day's features. Southern Railway was particularly active on reports that the net earnings of the first eight months would cover the fixed charges and the preferred dividend for the entire year, the stock closing 1 5-8 points higher at 34 1-8. Net gains in other issues were limited to fractions.

The feature of the foreign exchange market was a drop in German marks to 1 3-4 cents a million followed by a mysterious jump to 4 1-2 cents. The gain was not maintained. Demand sterling sold nearly a cent higher at $4.52 5-8 and Italian lire improved nearly 4 points to 4.31 1-2 cents. French and Belgian francs gains slightly. The Japanese rate was slightly recaltncary on declaration of a 30-day moratorium in the stricken area.

BOND MARKET

New York, Sept. 7.—Indications that large sums of money are still available for investment were seen by local bankers today in the quick absorption of the $20,000,000 Union Pacific long term issue of 5 per cent. bonds following the prompt over-subscription of the $55,000,000 Argentine short term issue yesterday.

Listed bonds on the New York stock exchange showed mixed price changes, mostly unimportant. Austrian 7's closed more than a point higher after touching a new low at 85, or 5 points below the offering price. Serbian 8's also advanced a point. U. S. government bonds held steady.

Railroad liens moved up in sympathy with the stock prices with chief interest centered on the Erie, St. Paul, New Haven and other so-called speculative issues. New York, Westchester & Boston 4 1-2's advanced 3 points and St. Paul 4's of 1925, 1. Pennsylvania General 4 1-2's dropped a point.

Fluctuations in the industrial and public utility groups were narrow and irregular.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Sept. 7.—Wheat scored a material advance in price today largely as a result of lower estimates of the 1923 Canadian yield. Closing quotations were unsettled, 7-8c to 1 3-8c net higher, September 1.03 and December 1.06 3-4 to 1.06 7-8. Corn finished 3-8 to 3-4c, oats at 1-4c a 3-8c to 1-2c gain, and provisions showing a rise varying from 2 to 30c.

Better export business helped to lift the provision market.

CURB MARKET

New York, Sept. 7.—Further cuts in mid-continent crude prices imparted a reactionary tone to today's curb market. There was a large accumulation of over-night selling orders in the oil shares with no rallying tendency in evidence until late in the afternoon when a few issues, notable Standard Oil of Indiana and Vacuum, succeeded in cancelling their losses and moving to slightly higher ground.

METAL MARKET

New York, Sept. 7.—Copper quiet, electrolytic spot and futures 13 3-4 a 13 7-8. Tin firm, spot and futures 42.12. Iron steady, prices unchanged. Lead steady, spot 6.75 a 7.00. Zinc quiet, East St. Louis spot and nearby delivery 6.55 a 6.60. Antimony, spot 7.50.

NORWICH, CONN., SATURDAY, SEPT. 8, 1923.

The Bulletin

Norwich, Saturday, Sept. 8, 1923.

THE WEATHER.

Conditions.

Friday night the air pressure was abnormally high over the Canadian maritime provinces, relatively high over the Rocky mountain and plateau regions, and low in the far southwest and over the region of the Great Lakes. This pressure distribution has been attended by a continuation of mild temperature throughout the eastern states.

There have been showers within the last 24 hours in all districts east thereof, except the north Atlantic states.

In New England the weather will be unsettled, with showers Saturday, and partly cloudy to cloudy on Sunday with continued moderate temperature.

Winds.

North of Sandy Hook: Moderate southerly, overcast thick weather, probably showers Saturday.

Sandy Hook to Hatteras: Moderate southerly, overcast weather and probably showers Saturday.

Forecast.

For New England: Cloudy, probably showers, Saturday; Sunday partly cloudy, moderate temperature.

Observations in Norwich.

| | Ther. | Bar. |
|---|---|---|
| 7 a. m. | 60 | 30.60 |
| 12 m. | 75 | 30.60 |
| 6 p. m. | 70 | 30.60 |

Highest 75, lowest 60.

Comparisons.

Predictions for Friday: Increasing cloudiness, followed by showers.

Friday's weather: Cloudy, southerly wind.

Tells How She Was Restored to Perfect Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Memphis, Tenn.—"Two years ago I was completely run-down and my nerves were a wreck. I could not sweep a room without resting. I could not do my work except a little at a time, and the doctor's medicine did not help me. One day some one threw your little book on to my porch, and in it I read several testimonials of women who had been like myself. I went right out and got me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and before I had taken the whole of that bottle I knew it was helping me. I took six bottles, and then in about three months I took two more. Now I am in perfect health. I do all of my own work and could do more. I can truly say that I know Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound gave me my health."—Mrs. O. J. HINCKLEY, 816 Union Ave., Memphis, Tenn.

LEADERS NAMED FOR CAMPAIGN FOR BACKUS HOSPITAL FUND

President Henry A. Tirrell, of the William W. Backus Hospital, will be chairman of the advisory committee, that is forming for the $250,000 building and endowment fund appeal, recently announced by the hospital. He will be assisted by four vice-chairmen, Milo R. Waters, Herbert M. Larue, Rev. William A. Keefe and Samuel Goldberg. The advisory committee, when completed, will comprise representatives of every group in the community.

At the invitation of Mr. Tirrell, James L. Case has assumed the active leadership of the campaign as chairman of the executive committee and campaign leader.

Nathan A. Gobbs, treasurer of the Thames National Bank, has accepted Mr. Tirrell's invitation to serve as campaign treasurer.

"It is with deep satisfaction," said Mr. Tirrell, Friday evening, "that I realize that the long-awaited community movement on behalf of the Backus Hospital now is actually under way. The public has known of the needs of the hospital and has expected that it would organize an appeal for the purpose of satisfying those needs through public subscription. At last, after the most careful deliberation, we are ready to proceed with the work, and I believe that every circumstance favors success.

"For more than thirty years the Backus hospital has been serving our community without important public support. The people of Norwich and of the neighboring towns have had hand, without ever having been called the benefit of hospital care close at upon to participate in the creation or maintenance of the service by which they have benefited.

"This is a rather exceptional state of affairs. For the host part, hospitals are established and supported, from the beginning, by organized community effort and by continous community contributions.

"The little community of Westerly, with hardly more than 20,000 population in the territory, has just given three quarters of a million dollars to build and maintain a hospital of its own. It now has no hospital at all. As a result of this splendid community effort, it will have a hospital of a capacity of more than fifty beds, provided with every facility for the care of all patients who may need its ministrations.

"Westerly realized the need for this effort, although the community was in a measure served by other hospitals, including the Backus hospital, which cared for an average of twenty-five Westerly patients each year.

"Norwich and neighboring towns have made constant and increasing use of the Backus hospital without realizing, to the full, what it would have meant to them if they had no hospital to serve them. Our appeal is for the purpose of improving the hospital service that is already at hand. From the point of view of a hospital, we have been a privileged community. It is time for us to make our own active contributions to hospital service, so that each and every one of us may continue to have the fullest advantages of hospital care.

"Our appeal will be organized in such a way that the opportunity to every citizen and every group accordhelp the hospital will be offered to ing to ability.

"First of all, we need a new home for our nurses, so that they may be suitably housed under proper conditions of living and with the best advantages for training. Second, we need a fund to maintain the new home.

"Third, we need additional endowment, so that the income from our invested funds may enable us to keep on furnishing the higest standard of hospital service at moderate rates. These are the objects of the campaign.

"I am sincerely glad that Mr. Case has consented to assume the active leadership of the campaign as chairman of the campaign executive committee. His experience in campaign work, his intimate knowledge of the community and its needs, and his ability to get things done will be of the very greatest value.

"With the aid of the vice chairmen of the advisory committee, we are now gathering together a body of representative citizens who will give the hospital appeal the strength of their influence and standing and who will help, by their experience and counsel, to give force and effect to the appeal.

"The needs of the hospital are the needs of the public which the hospital serves. In helping the hospital to go forward, the people of our community will be helping themselves."

Mr. Case has taken hold of the work of building up the campaign organization. The appeal is to be an intensive one as no subscriptions will be sought until the latter part of October, Mr. Case said. The dates for the appeal are ten days from Oct. 19 to Oct. 29. By this times volunteer working force of three or four hundred Norwich people will have been enlisted and not less than ten towns will have established campaign committees for their respective communities.

"Our objective of $250,000," said Mr. Case, "in my judgement is well within the giving powor of this community. Accordingly we shall regard the $250,000 as an irreducible minimum and bend all our efforts toward going handsomely over the top. The amount decided upon as our goal will barely be enough to build the necessary Nurses' Home and set aside a sum for its proper maintenance. That will not suffice for the needs. The hospital is being called upon for constantly expanding service. The income from investments is no longar sufficient with the increased costs of operation to continue providing the service that this community has the right to expect.

"Suppose, for the moment, that we had no hospital here. Does anyone doubt but that we would establish one, as other communities have established their hospitals? But think how much that would mean, as compared with the amount that is now sought for the purpose merely of enlarging the hospital service we now have. To build and endow a hospital of fifty-one beds, Westerly has just contributed $750,000 and more.

"To build and endow a new hospital for our needs would call for not less than double that amount. This shows how great is our indebtedness to the founders of Backus hospital. In all the years since their generosity established the present group, we have been the beneficiaries of an investment that would now be equivalent to a million and a half dollars. All that we are now attempting to do is to add by our own individual efforts to the splendid plant which was created for us, so that there may be no reduction or impairment of service under the increasesd demands made for hospital care. We cannot do less.

"The method that will be followed in this campaign is the method that has been used with uniform success in hospital appeals throughtout New England. In Providence and Woonsocket, R. I., in Keene and Concord, New Hampshire; in Salem, Beverly and Worcester, Mass., hospitals have been established or enlarged by public appeals conducted just as we shall conduct our appeal for Norwich, and the towns outside of Norwich, served by our hospital.

"The need for the fund is acute and is recognized by all who have studied our hospital situation. The amount of the objective is well within the giving power of the community. The method by which the fund is to be raised is a tried and a successful method. Under these circumstances there is no chance for failure. I am confident of success. I am glad of the opportunity that has been offered to me to lead the campaign and I intend to give to the work all that is in me. With the active cooperation of the community upon whicn I count without hesitation, I am sure that we shall not merely attain the goal but pass it by a generous margin."

WILL GIVE WELCOME TO SALVATION ARMY LEADERS

Commandant Samuel V. Furman and Lieut. Evangeline Furman his daughter, who have been appointed to take charge of the Norwich Salvation Army corps, will have their welcome meeting on Saturday night and Sunday all day, at the headquarters, 10 Cliff street.

Commandant Furman has just left Lynn, Mass., where he has been stationed four years, has been an officer over thirty years, has two sons officers in the Salvation Army, one is in China with his wife and the other has been appointed to Auburn, New York state. Commandant Furman and his daughter, who will assist her father, have spent years in the service and trust to be able to meet the needs of the community regardless of creed. The new commanders, are good speakers and musical and have come with recommendations from the mayor and city authorities of Lynn, who were loath to part with them. Lynn's loss will be Norwich's gain. The public is invited to the opening services.

SALVATION ARMY HELPING BURNED OUT FAMILY

Commandant Samuel V. Furman of the Salvation Army will be glad to hear from any one who may be interested in the Durham street family that was burnt out Thursday afternoon. Furniture and utensils of all kinds will be acceptable for its aid. Telephone 1793.

RECALLS FIRST FAIR ON CHELSEA PARADE

Among the few now living who attended the first fair ever held by the New London County Agricultural Society is George Lincoln Yeomans of Lafayette street. Mr. Yeomans, who is now 90 years and five months of age, said that the first fair was held on Chelsea Parade, in 1854. All the side streets in that section were closed to traffic during the fair.

At that time there lived in Norwich Town, Moses Pierce and Mr. Yeomans was temporarily employed by Mr. Pierce during the absence of Mr. Pierce's hired man. Mr. Yeomans took care of Mr. Pierce's entry at the fair.

Came to Attend Fair

Mr. and Mrs. George Le Pan, former Norwich residents, now of Milford, who have been visiting in Greeneville over the three days of the county fair, left Thursday morning for Hartford where they will attend that fair before returning home. During their stay, Mr. and Mrs. Le Pan, who are covering the trip in a beautiful car, called on several Norwich Town friends and former neighbors, they having resided there about 15 years.

Betrothal Party At Hallville

About twenty-five friends of Miss Ida Fishbone gathered at her home in Hallville Tuesday evening for the festivities connected with her betrothal to Irving Hermann. A most enjoyable evening was spent with games, songs and dances. Among the guests was the famous Yiddish Cantor, David Schermann, of Berlin, whose singing was greatly enjoyed. After a repast the guests had a story hour during which $35.00 was contributed toward the Palestine fund.

JUDGE BROWN WILL CHARGE JURY TUESDAY

Giuseppe Contino, alias Joseph Contino, of New London will not know until next Tuesday whether he is to be found guilty or not on the charge of manslaughter for which he has been on trial for two days in the superior court here before Judge Allyn L. Brown and a jury.

Friday afternoon the evidence in the case completed and the arguments were finished so that Judge Brown will make the charge to the jury when the court comes in next Tuesday morning. Attorney D. J. Crowe, who has been assisting the state attorney, made the first argument for the state and was followed by attorney Clayton B. Smith for the accused man, State Attorney Hull made the closing argument for the prosecution and when Judge Brown learned that a re-ri of the jurors would have difficulty in getting home if he held them late to hear his charge he adjourned court and told them he would charge them Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock, standard time.

Contino was on the stand in his own defense Friday against the manslaughter charge for causing the death Lonog was thrown out of Contin's motor Tony Longo of New London, when tor truck when it struck a tree on Pequot avenue, New London, on the night of May 20. Longo died from his injuries on June 3.

Contino testified that he hit the tree because he was blinded by the lights of an approaching machine and he denied that his machine went over 400 or 500 feet after hitting the tree, as witnesses for the state testified. He denied the charge against him that he was under the influence of liquor when driving and said that he had had nothing to drink before the accident, but that immediately afterwards he was very nervous and excited and somebody put a bottle to his lips and forced him to take two drinks. He felt the effects at once. There were thirteen people in the truck, he said, and they were on their way to a christening. He testified that they were going 7 or 8 miles an hour when they hit the tree.

After testimony from Orelie Faillace, a boarder at the Contino home, who was riding in the truck, the defense rested, and the state put on grief rebuttal testimony by George McCaskey and officer Braxton Hill. Earlier in the day Dr Thomas Soltz had been put on the stand by the state to explain x-ray pictures showing the injuries that Longo received.

Sent to Inebriate Farm

In the city court Thursday morning a Colchester man charged with intoxication was sent to the inebriate farm for six months. A Providence man and one local man, both charged with being drunk, went to jail for lack of funds with which to pay their fines.

Party for George Hawker

A party was given George Hawker, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Hawker, of 114 McKinley avenue on his 8th birthday Wednesday afternoon twelve of his little friends being entertained. Games of all kinds were played. The winner of the Buster Brown games was Martha Driscoll and the consolation award went to John Kennedy. All the children received favors. Selections on the piano and Victrola were enjoyed and ice cream and cake were served. The young host received many gifts. Mrs. Hawker was assisted by Mrs. John Brasill in carrying out the arrangements for the pleasant affair.

EAT MORE WHEAT

Caramel Cake

3½ cups John Alden Flour,
4½ teaspoons baking powder,
½ teaspoon salt,
2½ cups sugar,
¾ cup shortening,
3 eggs,
1½ cups milk,
¼ teaspoon vanilla.

All measurements are level. Sift the flour once before measuring. Cream the fat and sugar together, add the beaten eggs and beat. Then add the milk alternately with the flour, salt, and baking powder which have been mixed and sifted. Add the vanilla last. Bake in 3 well greased layer pans for 25 to 30 minutes in a moderate oven (365°F).

FROSTING

3 cups brown sugar,
½ cup white sugar,
2 tablespoons butter,
2½ cups milk.

Brown the white sugar in a pan over the fire, stirring constantly to avoid burning. Add the brown sugar and the milk and butter and boil until it forms a firm ball in cold water (235°F).

Take it off the fire and allow to cool, then beat until the mixture is stiff and creamy and spread it on the cake.

SEVEN DESTROYERS WRECKED AND 25 SAILORS DROWNED

All the Destroyers Are Total Losses—In a Heavy Fog They Went on the Rocks on Coast of California 75 Miles North of Santa Barbara—More Than 500 Men Were Rescued From the Destroyers—A Score of the Injured Are in the Santa Barbara Hospital—Relief Train is Bringing 600 Survivors to Santa Barbara—Pacific Mail Steamer Cuba Was Wrecked on the Island of San Miguel.

San Francisco, Cal. Sept. 9.—Seven United States destroyers are ashore miles north of Santa Barbara, 23 sailors are missing and 13 have been landed and taken to the hospital at Santa Barabara, according to a message received here late today.

The destroyers, comprising almost the entire destroyer flotilla of the United States Navy in California waters, include the Delphy, S. P. Lee, Chauncy, Fuller, Woodbury, Nicholas and Young. They are all badly damaged and it is feared several will be a total loss.

The Delphy is said to have grounded first, about 9:30 o'clock. The others went on the rocks a few minutes later. The vessels stranded at the foot of high cliffs which rim the ocean at that point.

Shortly after the vessels struck, aid was summoned by radio and by land telegraph wires and the mine sweeper Partridge and the U. S. S. Melville stood by to lend assistance.

The Cuba ran ashore on the Island of San Miguel, off the Pacific coast, near Santa Barbara, and the destroyer fleet piled up one after the other, at Point Honda, about 75 miles north of Santa Barbara.

The survivors of the destroyer wrecks are being held under naval discipline near Honda, on the coast line of the Southern Pacific railroad, just above Point Arguello, and about 60 miles from Point Conception, where the first of the destroyer fleet went ashore last night.

When the Cuba struck the rocks at San Miguel Island, the destroyer Reno was nearby and went to the rescue. The Reno's commanding officer reported that the Cuba's lifeboats, loaded with refugees, were heading out into the Pacific, the crews having been confused in the dense fog.

The Reno cruised about and picked up the small boats, until it had accounted for nearly all those aboard the Cuba, which carried 118 passengers and 65 members of the crew, including about twenty officers.

After picking up the Cuba's passengers and crew, the Reno turned southward intending to make for its home port at San Diego, but it was diverted by naval orders and docked at San Ledro, Calif. None of the passengers was suffering from exposure, it was stated.

The naval authorities sent three tugs from San Pedro to Point Honda to assist the crews of the seven wrecked destroyers, and ordered other vessels to proceed from San Diego.

The wireless plants of the seven destroyers went out of commission when the boats piled up. The following destroyers are ashore: Nicholas, Fuller, Delphy, Chauncey, Woodbury, Young and S. P. Lee.

The actual cause of the piling up of the destroyers were not definitely known. However, the theory was advanced by mariners that the compass bearings, taken from a nearby shore station, as guidance through the fog, had been transmitted erroneously.

With the line secured between the two ships, all remaining members of the crew made their way ashore, as the Chauncey was beached on the mainland.

A twist of fate that sent the destroyer Reno tearing southward at 30 knots an hour to the west of the channel islands instead of down the Santa Barbara channel, according to her schedule, saved sixty-eight survivors from the wreck of the Pacific Mail Liner Cuba from almost certain death at sea, according to the Reno's commander, Lieutenant Commander J. R. Barry. The Reno reached San Pedro harbor today with the passengers and crew of the wrecked Cuba.

Lost in the fog and headed due west for the open sea in the belief that they were bound for the mainland, two of the Cuba's boats were sighted yesterday by the Reno as she was speeding through the fog on her annual full power trials. Chance sighting of the first lifeboat through a rift in the fog was all that saved the Cuba's ill-fated passengers, declared Commander Barry. He said:

"We were making thirty knots and were hitting it up since we left Puget Sound for San Diego. We were scheduled to have passed down the inside of the channel, but the fog was so thick that I decided to strike outside for safty.

"About 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon we sighted a small boat on our beam. We thought it was a fishing boat at first, but as we dashed by I saw that it carried too many persons for such a craft. Three miles farther on we passed a second boat and knew that they were in distress.

"Our speed forced us to make a long circle of more than five miles to slow down before we reached the first life boat in charge of the Cuba's chief engineer, W. J. Owens.

"Owens had his craft as well as the one following him, headed directly west in the belief that they were going east. He gave us an idea where the Cuba was piled up and an hour later we found her, down by the head and the heavy seas piling over her decks.

"The passengers, women and children, wearing coats and overclothing of the ship's officers, were lying in bedragged heaps about the beach."

Fog and lost bearings, aggravated by the lack of wireless to ascertain compass bearings, was responsible for the accident, according to the officers of the Cuba.

"Our radio set has been disabled since we left the Panama canal, and we knew we were, lost yesterday morning, but were helpless without radio," said Radio Operator E. N. Willis.

SERIES OF DISASTERS IN THE PACIFIC OCEAN.

Los Angeles, Sept. 9.—In a series of disasters unprecedented in the history of Pacific Coast navigation, seven United States Navy destroyers and the Pacific Mail liner Cuba today are piled on the rocks of San Miguel Island and the shores of the Santa Barbara County, California, coast line. The ships ran aground late last night during one of the heaviest and most impenetrable fogs ever seen on the Southern California coast, according to shipping men.

Twenty-five members o the crews of the United States destroyer flotilla have lost their lives, and 10 or more are in the Santa Barbara General Hospital, according to the latest available figures.

One officer and eight men of the liner Cuba are adrift in a small boat, but all other passengers and members of the Cuba's crew have been saved, it is reported here.

15 SAILORS LOST THEIR LIVES IN NAVAL DISASTER

Santa Barbara, Calif. Sept. 8.—(By The A. P.)—Seven United States destroyers and the Pacific Mail Liner Cuba were wrecked yesterday morning and last night. The navy vessels crashed on the rocks in a dense fog off Arguello light, 75 miles north of Santa Barbara and the passenger steamer on a reef off the south end of San Miguel Island, 35 miles off this port.

Twenty-five enlisted men of the destroyers lost their lives in the naval disaster and all destroyers were reported as total losses.

The liner Cuba was reported to have sunk during the night, but all passengers and members of her crew either were landed at Los Angeles by the destroyer Reno, or are on their way to San Francisco on board the Standard Oil tanker W. S. Miller, with the exception of Captain C. J. Holland, the purser, steward and eight seamen, who remained on board to guard a shipment of $3,500,000 in silver bullion.

Dense fog was the cause of both disasters.

The destroyers Chauncey, Woodbury, Fuller, S. P. Lee, Nicholas, Young, and Delphy, were all beached within a few minutes of one another, according to naval officers.

The flotilla of which the wrecked waft formed a part was in command of Captain Edward Watson, commanding officer of the Delphy, and was on a practice cruise.

The dead were all trapped in their bunks on the Young when that vessel struck and were drowned when the craft capsized within two minutes after striking.

More than 500 men were rescued from the wrecked destroyers.

Of the survivors, fifteen of the seriously injured were brought to the Santa Barbara county hospital here. One hundred others were cut and bruised in their swim to safety over the jagged rocks. The destroyers were traveling in formation at 30 knots an hour in a heavy sea and dense fog when the leading vessel crashed. Carried ahead by a strong tide, the others piled on the beach in succession.

U. S. Skipper Joseph Slimak, Henry T. Kirk, Enrique Torres, Buchan, Harrison, Heddock, Salser, Martin, Kirby, Grady, Ben Schank, Taylor, Overshiner, Duncan, Ray H. Merris, John Young, C. F. Rogers and Conroy.

The body of Conroy was the one recovered tonight.

The rescue of most of the crew of the Young was effected when Boatswain's Mate Peterson took a line overboard and swam with it to the Chauncey, which threw it 15 feet.

DIED FOLLOWING FIGHT AFTER A POKER GAME

Pittsfield, Mass., Sept. 9.—William B. Hill, a textile worker, died last night after a poker game at his home here had broken up in a fight. Emile J. Belot, one of the guests at the card party, was arrested, charged with manslaughter. He was released today on $5,000 bail for arraignment tomorrow.

According to the police Hill, Belot and several other players engaged in an argument as to who was the winner of a "jack pot." The dispute passed from words to blows and Belot, the police say, bumped Hill's head against the table. The entire party then went outside, and a few minutes later Hill was dead.

12,000 IMMIGRANTS ON LINERS IN NEW YORK HARBOR

New York, Sept. 9.—Twelve thousand immigrants are on trans-Atlantic liners berthed in New York harbor tonight, awaiting examination at Ellis Island.

Steamship companies having no substitute vessels in New York are at a loss to find a way to keep sailing schedules as indications are that it will be five or six days before their human cargoes can be taken off.

FATAL GRADE CROSSING ACCIDENT IN MAINE

Freeport, Maine, Sept. 9.—Mrs. Roy W. Wallace of Bath was killed and two other persons seriously injured when a Boston & Maine passenger train struck their automobile at Hillside crossing, there miles from here, tonight. Three other occupants of the car escaped with minor bruises.

The automobile, driven by Arthur Williams, of Bath, was stalled at the crossing when the train struck it and threw it 15 feet.

CABLED PARAGRA...

PNest Died of Wounds.

Peking, Sept. 9.—Father Melotto, an Italian priest, died today from wounds received in making his escape from Chinese bandits near Hankow. The priest had been in the hands of the bandits for eighty days.

Discussed League of Nations.

Geneva, Sept. 9 (By the A. P.).—The league of nations interest today focused on the conference between Lord Robert Cecil and Premier Baldwin at Aix-les-Baines, where the British prime minister and the chief English delegate at Geneva spent two hours discussing the future of the league as affected by the Greco-Italian incident. No statement was made concerning the conclusions reached.

GOVERNMENT TO ISSUE $200,000,000 4½ PER CENT. NOTES

Washington, Sept. 9.—After retaining out of the money market three months, the treasury today announced a new issue of certificates of indebtedness, aggregating two hundred million dollars and maturing six months from September 15. The notes will bear four and one quarter per cent. interest.

The announcement of the September financing programme also contained the declaration that no further fiscal operations are contemplated by the government before December 15, when maturing certificates of indebtedness will require new borrowings. Thus it is shown that the treasury will carry through the first half of the current fiscal year with only two pieces of financing and this, in the opinion of financiers, is evidence of a satisfactory position with respect to caring for the great public debt, most of which grew out of the world war.

Government securities, matured and outstanding September 15, aggregating slightly in excess of half a billion dollars, must be provided for in the September programme. The treasury figures that it will receive about $240,000,000 in September income and profits ta collections—the third quarterly installment of this calendar year—and this with the funds obtained from the new certificate issue and the usual monthly receipts from miscellaneous taxes will care for maturing obligations and provide for current cash requirements until the next tax installment, December 15.

About $290,000,000 incertificates of indebtedness will become payable on September 15, and the treasury has made the usual offer to exchange new for old certificates that has characterized refunding operations. At the same time, interest on the public debt amounting to $145,000,000 must be paid. In addition to these obligations provisions must be made to care for about $53,000,000 in Victory notes, some of which were called for retirement last December and the others of which matured last May, and about thirty million dollars in war savings certificates, maturing last January, which like the Victory notes have been coming in slowly for retirement.

VESSELS IN COLLISION IN VINEYARD SOUND

Vineyard Haven, Mass., Sept. 9.—The schooner Frederick J. Lovatt, of Machiasport, Maine, was badly damaged early today in collision with the steamer Everett, Boston to Norfolk, off Hedge Fence lightship, Vineyard Sound. The schooner, which was struck on the port side at the main rigging, was cut through to the main hatch and apparently down to the keel. She immediately filled with water, but being wood construction remained afloat. The steamer had a few bow plates dented.

The coast guard cutter Acushnet, summoned by the steamer's radio, towed the Lovatt to this port, the Everett standing by until the cutter arrived. The schooner was bound from Norwalk, Conn., to Machiasport.

The collision occurred in clear weather. According to Captain John Latty, of the Lovatt, the schooner was sailing on the starboard tack at about six knots and the steamer was apparently under her headway. The captain and chief officer of the Everett were on the bridge, and Captain Latty and one seaman were at the wheel of the schooner.

Captain Latty and his crew lost all their personal effects and several hundred dollars belonging to the ship also was lost.

FIGHT BETWEEN POLICEMEN HAD FATAL TERMINATION

New York, Sept. 9.—As a result of a fist fight between two city policemen off duty last night, one of them is dead and the other arrested charged with the killing. Patrolman Jeremiah McCarthy died in a hospital early this morning of a fractured skull.

Today Patrolman Archibald Robertson surrendered and admitted that he had had an altercation with McCarthy last night when Mrs. Robertson told him that McCarthy had insulted her. Both men identified themselves to each other, being in civilian attire. Then Robertson struck McCarthy in the face, knocking him down, he told detectives. He did not think McCarthy seriously injured and went on his way, he said.

"BIG JIM" GALVIN SHOT BY BROOKLYN POLICEMAN

New York, Sept. 9.—"Big Jim" Galvin, Irish middleweight champion wrestler of twenty years ago, is in Norwegian hospital, Brooklyn, at the point of death, shot early today, police said, by Patrolman Joseph A. Hagan, who had been on sick leave.

After the shooting, which took place in front of Galvin's restaurant, Hagan was locked up, charged with assault, and ordered suspended from the force. He will be arraigned tomorrow.

Hagan insisted he knew nothing about the shooting.

A QUAKE OF MODERATE INTENSITY RECORDED

Washington, Sept. 9.—An earthquake of moderate intensity was recorded between 5:23 and 6:40 p. m. today on the seismograph at Georgetown University. Father Tondorf, the seismologist, said it was very difficult from the record to determine the distance of the disturbance, but he estimated it centered 2300 or 2400 miles from Washington. It had two periods of maximum intensity, at 6 and at 6:15 o'clock.

FIRE IN TREASURY BUILDING AT WASHINGTON

Washington, Sept. 9.—Fire broke out in the Treasury Building tonight, bringing out all available fire fighting apparatus.

The blaze was discovered in a pile of brooms on the basement floor near the large vaults. It was brought under control in about 10 minutes, although when the fire department arrived it had a good start. The damage was estimated at about $1,000.

Planning Protection Of Coal Consumers

Suggestion Made by Governor Pinchot to President Coolidge—To Keep Prices Down.

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 9 (By the A. P.).—Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania tonight made public a letter to president Coolidge suggesting that, with an anthracite coal supply assured for the coming winter, as a result of the agreement reached by representatives of operators and miners here last night, steps be taken to safeguard the consumer against increased prices.

The governor proposed that the interstate commerce commission investigate coal transportation rates with a view to reducing them and announced his own intention of asking the Pennsylvania public service commission to go into freight rates in this state. He also told the president he was preparing to invite the governors of anthracite using states to go into the matter of margins and profits of wholesalers, brokers, jobbers and retailers with him.

The governor's letter to President Coolidge follows:

"Dear Mr. President:

"Now that the danger of a strike in the anthracite field is disposed of for two years, I would like not only to thank you again for your telegram of congratulation, but to express my very great appreciation of your public approval of the terms of settlement which I suggested, and of the very valuable information which was supplied to me by the United States coal commission at your direction.

"Both miners and operators deserve great credit for their courtesy, their readiness to consider each others' points of view, and their patient willingness to stay on the job. I emphasize labor particularly because I doubt if any of them had the slightest expectation when they came to Harrisburg that the negotiations would last more than a day or two, or that the strike would be settled.

"A supply of anthracite to the consumer for the next two winters having thus been assured, the next question is that of price. The total legitimate increase in the cost of coal under the terms of the settlement is about sixty cents per ton. Of this amount not less than ten cents should properly be taken up by all the operators, many of whom could absorb the whole of the sixty cent increase and still make abundant profits.

"In fairness the remainder of the sixty cents should never reach the consumer. It is certain, however, that this amount, and probably much more, will be exacted from consumers unless public action is taken to prevent it. Accordingly, since you were good enough to indicate that suggestions from me concerning anthracite would not be unwelcome, I am writing to suggest that real advantage to the public would result if the interstate commerce commission would take up and consider anew the rates charged for the transportation of anthracite coal, with a view to reducing them if justification for such reduction should be found.

"On my part, I propose to ask the Pennsylvania public service commission to consider anew the reasonableness of all freight rates on anthracite within the borders of Pennsylvania.

"I realize that the action of national and state bodies having authority over freight rates on anthracite coal cannot alone solve the problem of fair cost to the consumer. Other factors also have weight, such as efficiency in operating the mines and reasonable profits in distribution. It would greatly assist the public in reaching sound judgments in these matters if the findings of the United States commission on profits and costs in mine operations and in wholesale and retail distribution were made public in great detail at the earliest possible moment. This information will be of the greatest use to me as to others in making plans to protect the public interest.

"The margins and profits of wholesalers, brokers, jobbers and retailers are mainly local matters which must be dealt with as such. Accordingly, you will, I am sure, be glad to know that I am preparing to invite the governors of all anthracite using states to go into this matter with me.

"I am exceedingly glad to tell you that the mining of anthracite is likely to be resumed before the 20th of this month. You will realize as fully as I do the desirability of securing at the earliest possible moment whatever protection can be provided for the consumer against any undue and unnecessary increase in the cost of coal.

"Since the public is deeply and properly an interested party in this matter, and since public opinion will have so large an influence in securing justice, I have taken the liberty of making this letter public in the confident belief that I shall have your approval in doing so.

"With renewed appreciation of your courtesy in this whole matter, believe me,

"Sincerely yours,
"GIFFORD PINCHOT."

AGREEMENT PLEASES LEADERS OF MINERS

Philadelphia, Sept. 9. — President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers returned to his headquarters here today well satisfied with the wage conference at Harrisburg which resulted in a 10 per cent. increase for all anthracite mine workers and a two-year contract. It is one of the best contracts the anthracite workers have ever made, said the union leader, greeting friends. He expected the contract would be ratified by the miners' convention at Scranton called for Sept. 17. In a formal statement Mr. Lewis said:

"The new agreement spells substantial progress for the anthracite miners. It does not represent all of their ideals, and leaves them still suffering from many ills, but it is a vast improvement over the agreement that has just expired.

"In addition to the eight-hour day for all workers and the 10 per cent. increase, the contract provides for many improvements in working conditions.

"The mine workers in this instance followed a policy of moderation which reflects their sincere concern for the public interest. The fact that the agreement runs for two years will operate to give stability to the industry and relieve all apprehensions of the anthracite consuming public. The miners will resume operation after the agreement has been ratified by a delegate convention representative of all the mine workers throughout the region.

"There is no question but that the agreement will be regarded by the mine workers as a distinct achievement and will be ratified by a practically unanimous vote of the convention."

Clothing Wanted in Earthquake Region

The Greatest Problem is the Housing of the Millions of Homeless—Food Supply is Assured.

Osaka, Sept. 9.—(By The A. P.)—After a week of supreme effort conditions in the edrthquake region show remarkable improvement. The food supply in Tokio has been virtually assured, but clothing is wanted, especially in view of the approaching autum season. The greatest problem is the housing of the millions of homeless, who at the present time are facing the unusual autumnal rainfall.

The exodus from Tokio by rail and by sea aggregates thousands of persons daily. Reports show that order is being maintained in the districts surrounding Tokio and Yokohama.

The Tokio Central observatory announces that the earthquake originated between Atami and Oshima Island. It is stated that volcanoes on the islands off Isu Peninsula are showing signs of eruption. The Osaka observatory says the shock was due to the contraction of the earths crust in the center of the Tokio district.

Other theories attribute the quate to volcanic activities in the range which includes Mount Fujiyama, Hakone and Izu Mountains.

INQUESTS OVER 32,564 BODIES HELD IN TOKIO

Tokio via Osaka Asahi, Sept. 7.—(By the A. P., delayed.)—The Tokio police have announced that up to Thursday morning the coroner had directed inquests over 32[illegible] corpses in the Honjo military warehouses and yards alone.

It had been learned that many refugees riding on the roofs of trains were knocked off and killed in Usui Tunnel, nea Karuisawa.

It has been learned that many passengers on the roof of a train in the Usui Tunnel, near Karuizaka, were shaken off and killed by the earthquake.

Public markets will be opened in Tokio shortly, it was announced, and distribution to refugees will temporarily be carried on by the numerous relief centers.

Housing problems, it was announced, will be solved by temporary barracks.

Landmarks and points along the Japanese coast have entirely disappeared, and the shore line of Kamakura Bay has been raised. It was stated here today.

200 FOREIGNERS WERE KILLED IN EARTHQUAKE

Osaka, Sept. 9.—(By the A. P.)—The latest report from Yokohama on the number of foreigners killed by earthquake and fire places the total at 200. The charred corpses have been gathered temporarily at the site of the Grand Hotel for burial in the foreign cemetary ar Yokohama, according to advices received here today.

"On my part, I propose to ask the Pennsylvania public service commission to consider anew the reasonableness of all freight rates on anthracite within the borders of Pennsylvania.

23,000 PERSONS KILLED AND 40,000 INJURED IN YOKOHAMA

Tokio, Sept. 9. —(By the A. P.)—Twenty-three thousand persons were killed and forty thousands injured at Yokohama in the earthquake disaster, according to an official announcement.

Seventy-one per cent. of the city of Tokio was destroyed. In Hakone district ten thousand are dead.

FLUCTUATION OF THE GERMAN MARK IS PUZZLING

Berlin, Sept. 9.—Official joy over the prospective recovery in the value of the mark, as reflected in the New York quotations Friday, proved shortlived as far as unofficial trading in Berlin was concerned. Although the Bourse did not hold a session and foreign currencies remained unquoted, the dollar unofficially early regained its status of the previous day, after being quoted at 40,000,000 during the morning. Just what caused the slump to 30,000,000 in New York and along the Berlin curb Friday remained a mystery to the Bourse, and unprofessional speculators, who have not yet recovered from their panicky fright are now discreetly awaiting Monday's developments.

BODY OF MISSING MAN FOUND IN THE WOODS

Meriden, Sept. 9.—The body of Wilbur F. Hunt, sixty-two, who disappeared from his home here Thursday night, was found late today in a patch of woods in the western section of the city. Death was pronounced due to natural causes. He was stricken while taking one of his customary evening walks. Although on this occasion he went farther than ordinarily.

CONDITION OF MAYOR HYLAN IS IMPROVED

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Sept. 9.—The condition of Mayor John F. Hylan, of New York city, ill at his summer home here, was greatly improved this morning, it was said in a bulletin issued by the five attending physicians this afternoon. The mayor's temperature, pulse and respiration are normal, the bulletin said, and the patient was cheerful.

TO CONDUCT THE BOSTON SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

Boston, Sept. 9. — Announcement was made today of the appointment of Serge Koussevitsky, former director of the Russian state orchestra, and subsequently of orchestras in Paris and London, as conductor of the Boston symphony orchestra. He will succeed Pierre Monteux at the beginning of the autumn of 1924. Koussevitsky will be the first Russian to lead the Boston orchestra. M. Monteux this fall begins his fifth season as conductor.

Paris, Sept. 9.—(By The A. P.)—Greece's acceptance of the terms of the council of ambassadors in connection with the Italo-Greek controversy was received officially at the French foreign office today. The acceptance lays particular insistence on the evacuation of Corfu by the Italians at the soonest possible moment.

NOTE FROM GREECE TO COUNCIL OF AMBASSADORS

Athens, Sept. 9.—(By The A. P.)—Greece has replied to the note of the council of ambassadors, announcing her readiness to conform to the decision of the ambassadors with regard to Italy's demands in connection with the killing of the Italian members of the Greco-Albanian boundary commission. After ten days of intense passion on the part of the Italian people it was considered that the situation between Italy and Greece was on the way to a solution.

GREECE HAS FORWARDED REPLY TO AMBASSADORS

Athens, Sept. 9 (By the A. P.)—The Greek reply to the note of the council of ambassadors was forwarded to Paris this forenoon.

It was described by M. Alexanderis, the foreign minister, to The Associated Press as broadly accepting the conditions presented, and as leaving to the ambassadors the fixing of the date and the details of the salute, the funeral services and other formalities.

In a statement to the Greek newspapers M. Alexanderis terms the solution of the crisis as a Greek diplomatic victory, inasmuch as the inquiry into the murders is to be made by various nations while the tribunal will fix the indemnity.

ITALIANS GRATIFIED OVER DISCOMFITURE OF GREECE

Rome, Sept. 9 (By the A. P.)—There was much gratification throughout the country today over what was considered acknowledgment of Premier Mussolini's right in demanding reparations from Greece for the killing of the Italian members of the Greco-Albanian boundary commission. ## NO TRACE FOUND OF THE WRECK OF LINER CUBA

Santa Barbara, Calif., Sept. 9.—The Pacific mail liner Cuba, which went aground yesterday on a reef off the southeast end of San Miguel Island, 35 miles from Santa Barbara, apparently has sunk, according to the Santa Barbara Morning Press, which sent a boat to the scene last night. The boat returned here late today and reported no trace was found of the vessel.

NEW DESIGNS FOR PAPER MONEY ARE APPROVED

Washington, Sept. 9.—Secretary Mellon's approval of the new designs for paper money, under consideration for more than a year, was announced today at the Treasury Department and many brand new bills of distinctive type and marking soon will be in circulation.

The new designs at first will affect only United States notes, silver certificates, and Federal Reserve notes in denominations up to one hundred dollars, with the exception of the "unpopular" two dollar note, but it is hoped later to extend the new designs—amounting almost to a program of notes and ultimately to the rare gold certificate.

Working to make the job of the counterfeiter less remunerative, treasury experts chose the method of standardizing designs, giving one denomination of all kinds of currency one distinctive design for face and back, so that those persons into whose possession the money comes may recognize instantly if alterations has been attempted.

The faces of the new bills will carry portraits of well known figures in American History, mostly Presidents, and the best known faces have been chosen for the bills most used. The one dollar bill, for instance, will have Washington's portrait; the five, Lincoln's, and the ten, Jacksons's. Cleveland's likeness will appear on the twenty dollar bills while for the fifties and one hundreds, the portraits of Gen. Grant and Benjamin Franklin, respectively, have been selected.

The seals, sequence numbers, and symbol letters will be overprinted in colors on the face of the United States notes and silver certificates and the same plan will be followed for the Federal Reserve notes, which also will carry the name of the issuing Reserve Bank. The overprinting on the silver certificates will be blue, on the United States, green and on the Federal Reserve notes, red. The whole design with the exception of the portrait and the overprinting, therefore, will be uniform, and the difficulty of "raising" bills to higher denominations, Chief Moran of the Secret Service, believes, will be greatly increased.

The backs of the new bills will be of the same general character as the present gold notes, consisting of the conventional scroll work panel with lathe work border and no pictures and thus the design of any one denomination will become well known, whether it be a United States note, silver certificate or Federal Reserve note.

As for the two dollar bill, the statement said the committee has been unable to find reasons for its unpopularity, but a new design for it was not included in the changes approved by Mr. Mellon since its discontinuation is being considered. It is finally decided to continue the bill, however, a portrait of Thomas Jefferson will be useed and a design in accord with the new program will be worked out.

"GOOD-WILL" DELEGATION HAS ARRIVED IN FRANCE

Havre, France, Sept. 9.—The fourth "Good-will" Delegation to come to France from the United States in 1923, composed of women from Pittsburghh, Minneapolis, Harrisburg, and Hartford arrived today on board the steamer Lafayette. They were welcomed in the name of the government by the Under Prefect as well as by a representative of the Mayor of Havre.

The visitors will remain in France one month. One week will be spent in the devastated regions, while the remainder of the time will be used in tours from Paris to southern France and the Riviera.

ESCAPED CONVICT SHOT DEAD IN EAST COLUMBUS

Columbus, Sept. 9.—Albert Dolloff, one of four persons who escaped from the Ohio penitentiary yesterday, was shot and killed by Marshal Ralph Crissler of East Columbus near the Columbus reserve depot today. His three companions escaped into a cornfield.

Within an hour, two airplanes were flying over the cornfield in an effort to locate the three convicts, while scores of guards armed with riot guns surrounded the field. All efforts to locate them had been unavailing late tonight and it is believed they escaped the net that had been set for them. Dolloff was serving a life sentence for second degree murder.

Late last night the four men were fired upon by a guard at the reserve depot. One fell but was on his feet in an instant and all four escaped.

Marshal Crissler, believing the man to be near the depot, was on the scene early today. About 10 o'clock he saw four blue-shirted men break from a small woods and head toward a cornfield. He fired. Dolloff fell. He was dead when Crissler reached his body.

The four men made a sensational escape from the prison yesterday while engaged in switching coal cars in the stockade. They jumped from the top of a car to the wall and overpowered a guard, taking his shotgun and knocking him into insensibility. Leaping from the wall, they escaped in a stolen automobile.

ALLEN H. WHITING SUICIDED BY SHOOTING

New York, Sept. 9.—Allen H. Whiting, president of the Whiting Motor corporation of New Jersey, was found dead in his West 95th street apartment today with a bullet wound in his head.

An investigation, police said, showed that Whiting had killed himself. He was found in the bedroom of his apartment.

Whiting, considered an expert on automobile mechanics, was 49 years old. Mrs. Josephine Whiting told police her husband had threatened suicide a number of times. One of the rooms of the apartment had been turned into a workshop in which Whiting had been working on some inventions.

It was said that Whiting had been pressed by financial reverses.

Mrs. Whiting found her husband seated in the bedroom of their apartment with the weapon in his hand.

He was a member of the Automobile Club of America and the Engineers Club of America, and had been the recognized referee of the eastern division of the Automobile Association of America, acting in ocial capacity at nearly all endurance runs, hill climbing and track races at Singleton Beach.

Nine local young men, Henry Couchon, James Hegley, Leo Vorley, Fred Chartier, Martin Tierack, Edward Alaskeen, Clarence Moriarty, Leonard Lieger and Arthur Haggerty were rounded up in this city Saturday noon, by state policemen from Danielson, and taken to East Brooklyn where they were given a hearing before Justice of the Peace Frank Bedard, on the charge of breach of the peace. It was alleged that the local young men with others from Brooklyn and vicinity caused a disturbance at a dance in that place Friday night. It is thought that at least two of the young men gave fictitious names, the names printed above being those which appeared on the writ in possession of the grand jurors.

This (Monday) morning, workmen will begin tearing down the old Horseshoe bridge over the Willimantic river in lower village, to replace it with a new and stronger structure. A false bridge is to be constructed first. Vehicles bound for Windham Center, Scotland and other points must detour by way of South Windham or up the North Windham road and, around St. Joseph's cemetery as the bridge will be closed for some time. It is expected that the new bridge will be in place in about a month.

In answer to Coach T. A. Callahan's call for football candidates from the Windham High school, a squad of 22 appeared. They are captained by Harold Simonds. The team is already doing light work at Recreation park and promises to come out with an excellent rating at the end of the season. The loss of Louis Mandell, the best all-round back seen in this city last season, is keenly felt by his teammates. The season opens at Westerly Sept. 28 when the locals will run up against the speedy Westerly pigskin warriors. Bristol high school is a newcomer on Windham's schedules this year. The remainder of the schedule follows: Goucher 6, New London Vocational at Willimantic: Oct. 13, Killingly at Willimantic; Oct. 20, Middletown at Middletown; Oct. 24, Norwich at Norwich; Oct. 27, Killingly in Danielson; Nov. 3, open; Nov. 10, Bristol in Willimantic; Nov. 17, Norwich in Willimantic.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Bradley Theatre, Putnam.

Seeing one of Walter Scanlan's plays is like taking a brief trip to the Green Isle, so natural and realistic is the stage setting and the telling of the story written by the dramatist. "The Blarney Stone," which Mr. Scanlan will present at the Bradley theatre, Putnam, on Thursday evening, is an interesting relation of the lovers of one Brian O'Linn, a young musician, and Kitty Tyrrell, a charming lass who comes over from New York to claim some property near the little village in which Brian lives and tries to eke out a living by publishing a newspaper. Of course, the usual rough path is laid out for the lovers, otherwise the story would not be interesting. Kitty is obliged, through the eccentric will of a relative, to marry another Brian or his brother by a certain date, or forfeit her claim to a large estate. She hesitates for a time, undecided whether it is best to remain unmarried and relinquish all claims to the property, or marry Brian and take the estate. Brian is good to look upon and moreover, he sings Irish melodies in a manner that would melt the heart of the Sphinx, if that stony affair possessed such an organ, so she decides without very grave consideration that Brian and the estate are well worth having and thus makes the lad, as well as herself, happy. There are designing relatives introduced who would prefer to have Kitty remain a spinster and give up the property to them, but they are not allowed to have their way and are sent off to seek themselves by other means. Among the songs that Brian sings to the fair Kitty are "A Bit o' Pink and White," "The Minstrel's Prayer," "Kitty," "A Shamrock Flirtation," "When I Kissed the Blarney Stone," and "The Top o' the Morning".

The box office for the sale of seats for Mr. Scanlan's engagement opens today.

Kingston Fair to Have Greatest Number of Entries in its History.

Never before has such widespread interest been shown in Rhode Island's big fair as this year. This is particularly true in connection with the exhibits for children. A great number of entries in the fancy work division have been received from children all over the state and in other parts of New England. The ages of these competitors range from 5 to 16 years with one from a child of 4. The boys are sending in exhibits of poultry, livestock and a great variety of garden products.

This interest to such an unusual extent among the young people is only an indication of that shown by agricultural and manufacturing interests throughout the state. The auto show this year is to be far in advance of all previous records. This also applies to exhibits of farm machinery including tractors and trucks. And for this branch of the fair new and more extensive quarters have been secured in order that all exhibits may have as favorable showing as possible.

This week is fair week. It is unnecessary to tell anyone in the South County of this fact but there are interested people all over New England many of whom will come from great distances to enjoy and to observe the exhibits and the many interesting activities of the big fair. Tuesday, opening day is Children's Day and a special programme of rare interest for the youngsters has been arranged. Wednesday, September 12, is Grange Day when farmers from all over the state will make their pilgrimage to Kingston. Thursday is Governor's Day and the address will be made by Dr. George E. Vincent, A. D., Phd., Lld., a lecturer and educator of international reputation. The firemen's muster promises to provide one of the keenest competitions in recent years.

Vaudeville at the Strand.

Another perfect programme is assured the Strand patrons for the first half of this week consisting of four fine acts of Keith vaudeville and the photoplay "The Hero."

Flaherty and Stoning offer "Vaudeville Tid Bits." Margarie McClintock appears with her harp. Rowles and Nathane Bros. offer a comedy skating novelty.

"The Hero," which is the feature film now playing at the Strand theatre, opened as a Broadway stage play, there was much speculation as to the identity of the author. The piece was hailed by every metropolitan critic as one of exceptional merit but the name of the playwright, Gilbert Emery, was not familiar to the devotees of the theatre.

After several weeks of its long successful run the information leaked out from the office of Sam H. Harris, the producers of the stage play, that "The Hero" came from the pen of Emery Pottle the well known writer of short stories. Pottle's novel, "Handicapped," was the occasion of directing attention to his work some seasons ago when it was published simultaneously in London and New York.

"The Hero" holds such rare qualities as a piece of excellent dramatic composition that it is included in the latest issue of Burns Mantlee's year book of the American stage, "The Best plays of 1921-22."

Broad Theatre.

Elinor Glynn has written an unusual and most absorbing screen story in Six Days, which has been produced for Goldwyn Pictures Corporation by Charles Brabin. It held the audience last night at the Broad theatre where it will be shown for two more days, entirel yin its spell. The characters are sympathetic and vividly portrayed; photography by John Mescall is everywhere satisfactory and in many instances touches the highest pictorial beauty. The direction of Charles Brabin is of the kind that producers dream of but seldom get for their pictures.

The beautiful and charming Corinne Griffith heads the cast as Laline Kingston, a young American girl engaged to Sir Charles Chetwyn, a wealthy Englishman; Frank Mayo is featured with Miss Griffith in the role of Dion Leslie, the lover; Claude King is Sir Charles, and Myrtle Stedman, the girl's mother. Other important roles are played by Maude George, Spottiswoode Aitken, Charles Clary and Evelyn Walsh Hall.

Engaged to Sir Charles Chetwyn, at the behest of her mother for financial and social reasons, the young American girl, Laline, loses her heart to Dion Leslie, son of a famous actress appearing in Paris. They are imprisoned, along with a priest who acted as their guide, in a German dugout which collapses when a secret mine is exploded by touching a German helmet. Facing death, the lovers are married by the priest. In their efforts to escape, after the death of the priest, they fall into a chalk mine, become separated and eventually both are rescued. Believing Dion dead, Laline is forced by her mother to marry Sir Charles. How the lovers are reunited forms the big exciting climax to the picture.

Other pictures on the bill include the Pathe News and an Educational comedy.

POETRY FOR THE WIDEAWAKES

Old Crow

The bird, in the corn
Is a marvelous crow,
He was laid and was born
In the season of snow;
And he chants his old catches,
Like a ghost under hatches.

He comes from the shades
Of his wood very early,
And works in the blades
Of the wheat and the barley,
And he's happy, although
He's a grumbleton crow.

The larks have devices
For sunny delight,
And the sheep in their fleeces
Are woolly and white;
But these things are scorn
Of the bird in the corn.

And morning goes by,
And still he is there.
Till a rose in the sky
Calls him back to his lair
In the boughs where the gloom
Is a part of his plume.

But the boy in the lane
With his gun, by-and-by,
To the heart of the grain
Will narrowly spy,
And the twilight will come,
And no crow will fly home.

—John Drinkwater

The Hour of Prayer

Child, amidst the flowers at play,
While the red light fades away;
Mother, with thine earnest eye
Ever following silently;
Father, by the breese of eve
Called thy harvest work to leave—
Pray! ere yet the dark hours be,
Lift the heart and bend the knee.

Traveler in the stranger's land,
Far from thine own household band;
Mourner, haunted by the tone
Of a voice from this world gone;
Captive, in whose narrow cell
Sunshine hath not leave to dwell;
Sailor, on the darkening sea,
Lift the heart and bend the knee.

Warrior, from the battle won,
Breathest now at set of sun;
Woman, o'er the lowly slain,
Weeping on his burial plain;
Ye that triumph, ye that sigh,
Kindred by one holy tie,
Heaven's first star alike ye see,
Lift the heart and bend the knee.

Felicia Dorothea Hemans.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO WIDEAWAKES

Most of the boys and girls are now back in school after more than two months of a happy, long vacation. It is a period which no doubt has put you in fine trim to resume the work of getting an education.

Now all the boys and girls realize the great advantages which are placed in their way to obtain an education. After thinking of how Abraham Lincoln and others struggled with few books and no advantages it should impress all with the importance of improving each and every opportunity.

Going to school is not something to be shirked. Getting an education is not something to be dodged. The time to obtain it is when you are children and those who neglect it or getting the wholly wrong idea that it isn't necessary will find out their mistake only when it is too late to make it up.

Refreshed from a summer of pleasure, obtained through the many possible avenues, each one should be eager to tackle the school work that lies before him. If it is new, or if it seems hard it simply calls for greater effort and determination. Success in other directions are never obtained by giving in because tasks seem hard. Big things require big efforts, and conquering the school tasks should be the aim of every Wideawake. The great benefit of the work that is put forth in school days is going to be reflected in years to come, and you are the very ones who are going to profit by it or lose by it in accord with the disposition you display toward it. Those who go at it with a will and a desire to succeed make light work of it. Let the Wideawakes aim high and keep to the top.

WINNERS OF PRIZE BOOKS.

1—Dorothy Avery of Stonington—The Camp Fire Girls on the March.
2—Bertha King of Elliott—The Camp Fire Girls at the Seashore.
3—Myer Brauman of Norwich—The Auto Boys' Camp.
4—Catherine Drew of Norwich—Grumpy Weasel.
5—Alphonse Bernier of Plainfield—Slow and Sure.
6—Mary Garboni of North Franklin—Battling the Clouds.

Winners of prize books living in Norwich may obtain them by calling at The Bulletin business office after 10 o'clock Monday morning.

LETTERS OF ACKNOWLEDGMENT

Dorothy Hansen of Norwich: I thank you for the book entitled, An Aviator's Luck. I have started it and if it ends as well as it starts it is a dandy book.

My Vacation

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about my vacation. I started it July 4th and went up to my Aunt Grace's in Mansfield Depot. I stayed there four weeks and then went to my Aunt Lottie's at Storrs where I am now staying. I have been here one week.

HARLAND THOMPSON, Age 11.

Our Picnic.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to write about a picnic which we had today.

We started from Phoenixville at 9.30 a. m. and we reached South Woodstock at 10.30 a. m. On our way to South Woodstock we saw the Putnam high school, Putnam hospital, Pomfret hill, and a little Japanese house. After quite a while we reached Roseland park, South Woodstock. Then all of us jumped off the truck. We ran on the platform which extends out into the lake with a little house on the end of it. We stood there and waited till a boat came to the platform and then we all jumped in and rowed all the way across the lake. Afterwards we stopped and looked at a diving platform which was held up by barrels. We rowed a little further till we came to a platform. Then we got off the boat and looked for a camp back from the lake. First we saw some camp boys playing ball and afterwards we came to a place where some other camp boys were singing. We listened to them till they finished two songs and then we went back to our boat again. We rowed across the lake again till we came back to the platform we started from, where we jumped off the boat and went back to our truck again.

We took our dinner at quarter of two. After our dinner we had ice cream. I had four cones of ice cream. After our ice cream we had a sack race and every child who won one race would get a penny. One girl got two pennies and another girl got one. Then we had the three-legged race which was for boys. Every boy got a penny. Then we had the "Riley race" for boys and girls. There were three lines. The line on the left hand side won, and every child in that row got a five cent cone of ice cream. Afterwards the grown-ups played "a very sad and solemn occasion," and then we put a rope high up in a tree and if any boy could climb up the rope he would get a penny. One of the boys got five cents, another one of the boys got two cents.

We all got into the truck again and rode home. We left Roseland park at quarter of five and reached home at six o'clock with a happy heart.

BERTHA KING, Age 12.

A Trip to Lantern Hill.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you of a Girl Scouts' trip to Lantern Hill. There were twenty of us going in a truck. We traveled on an old turnpike road. When we arrived at Lantern Hill we all took off our knapsacks and went down to the spring to get a drink, for we were quite hot and dusty. After we had all rested we started to climb to the top. One of the girls had stayed with the knapsacks and we were to signal to her from the top. It was a steep path and many of the rocks from the hillside had rolled into the path. At last we had reached the top and we were all tired so we sat down to rest. One of the party told us a true story of an Indian girl who had jumped off the highest bluff of Lantern Hill for a quart of whiskey. She did it and came back alive. They gave her half of it and to get the other half she jumped off again. The second jump proved fatal.

We were all rested now so we started for the bottom. Going down was worse, for we slipped and fell several times. We reached the bottom in time to eat our lunch. Many of the girls cooked their own dinner over an open fire. We played games until it was time to go home. We left for home at ten minutes of eight, having enjoyed the trip very much.

DOROTHY AVERY, Age 13.
Stonington.

The Spoiled Child.

Dear Uncle Jed: Paul was a young boy of six years. Being the only boy he was petted so much that he would not mind.

Paul never could wait. He scrambled up in the morning, scurried and hurried through his breakfast, spilling it over his clean blouse, and rushed through his lessons with many mistakes. He burned his mouth with hot food because he couldn't wait for it to cool.

His toys were always getting broken because he couldn't stop to put them away. His canary flew away because he neglected to fasten the cage door.

But one thing he was obliged to wait for against his will, and that was to grow up. It did take such a long time, but on his 12th birthday his father gave him a pony which he was supposed to ride only on days when his lessons were perfect. Lessons certainly went better after that and the rides were much enjoyed.

One day Paul dragged his pony into the road and jumped upon his back and jerking the bridle he went clattering down the road. On galloped the pony and he pitched Paul over his head. Poor Paul, he had such a bruised face that he was obliged to stay home from school for days.

It hurt him very much, but it hurt him more when father said that such a silly boy was not fit to be trusted to ride and he must wait a whole year before he could ride his pony again.

After a year of thinking Paul grew up to obey his parents and felt ashamed when anyone spoke to him about the pony, and then grew up to be a gentleman.

LAURA MATHIEU, Age 11.

My First Long Bicycle Trip.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about my first long bicycle trip

One day this summer I decided to take a trip to New London on my bicycle. I started out about ten o'clock in the morning. All went well until I reached Montville. Suddenly I heard a noise and to my great astonishment found that I had a puncture.

After this occurrence I was delayed for about twenty minutes. Then I started out on my trip again. Everything went well and I arrived in New London at half past twelve.

After my arrival in New London I had dinner with some of my friends. At two o'clock I started for home and I arrived there at four. It had taken me only two hours to get home, because I had no trouble on the way.

MYER BRAUMAN, Age 11.
Norwich.

My Pet Cat Spottie.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you. I am going to tell you about my pet cat. He is a calico cat, and a very nice, clean one. He keeps his fur sleek and shiny.

Spottie goes to sleep in a doll carriage even better than a doll. He sleeps on his back with his front paws folded together looking as if he didn't have a bit of mischief in him. But he has. He stole so much meat one day that he took a fit. It scared us all and ever since we keep a close watch of him.

Other Wide-Awakes like kittens, too, I hope.

Dogs are nice, but the only pet I have is Spottie.

CATHERINE DREW, Age 9.
Norwich.

Bunny's Dream

Dear Uncle Jed: Once there lived a rabbit and he had a friend, the squirrel, and they always used to go around together, and one time they were in a person's garden eating carrots and a little boy came out and they ran away so fast that they were out of breath when they got home, and then Mr. Rabbit said he must find his mother and they went away to find her; they asked everybody where she had gone, but they did not know; they hunted all around for her until they came to a place where she had left him and there found her sleeping gently and not a sound was heard from them.

Harriett O'Malley

Making a Tent.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am writing a story for I haven't written any for some time. This summer my friends asked me to make a tent. We started in the afternoon about half past two and we finished about five o'clock. We played all day. We would play Indians and we would have some fun. My friends asked me to make believe we were Boy Scouts. We had a meeting and I was captain. Then we went in the woods and made a log cabin. There were some boys there who were building a cabin, too. We fought with them. We had many battles and we won them all.

ALPHONCE BERNIER, Age 13.
Plainfield.

Visiting the Beaches

Dear Uncle Jed: I have a little cat home and it is black and white. It plays hide and seek with me and plays with my balls and when I speak to him he talks to me. We call him Snooks. I am at my grandma's house now. She takes me riding in the auto and we've been to Watch Hill, Ocean Beach, Weekapeug beach, Narragansett Pier and Atlantic Beach.

We take our lunch and go in bathing and we go to Mohegan park and swing in the swings. Now my vacation is over I have to go to school again and next summer I will come again.

VIRGINIA E. MacNEIL, Age 9.
Hartford.

Our Dog Nellie

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I've written to the Wideawake Circle. We have a farm. We have a dog and her name is Nellie. We like her very much. She had little puppies and we like them, too. Best wishes to the Wideawake Circle.

ESTHER PASTER, Age 10.
Hallville.

Cruel to the Cat.

Dear Uncle Jed: I would like to join the Wideawake Circle. My brother tried once but did not succeed.

Once I caught a bat. It bit my brother's hands as he went to get hold of him; so he took it and put kerosene all over him. He took a match after that and burned him. He let go of him and he flew a little way, trying to put out the flames, but did not succeed in doing it, so he died. Hope to succeed.

MARY CARBONI, Age 13.
North Franklin.

Dandy Catches Rats.

Dear Uncle Jed: I have a nice cat whose name is Dandy. He is yellow and white. He is two years old. Dandy likes to ride in my doll carriage. I live near the college poultry plant. Dandy "Winks" catches rats at the plant almost every day.

CHAPLIN

Rev. H. C. McKnight of Coventry supplied the pulpit of the Congregational church Sunday and gave a fine sermon from these words: "Keep yourselves in the love of God." Rev. Mr. McKnight was pastor of the Chaplin church from 1911 to 1916.

Natchaug grange held a picnic Monday on the grounds at the Ross mill, South Chaplin. This is one of the most picturesque spots in the town. A good number attended.

W. E. Gallup conducted an auction for Patrick Walsh at the south end of the village Tuesday. A quantity of household goods, farming implements and hay were sold and the farm of 35 acres, a desirable and productive one, was sold last and was struck off to Henry Harowitz of Colchester for $2,100. A crowd attended from this and surrounding towns.

The two schools in town opened the fall term this week with the same teachers, Mrs. Myrtle Locke at South Chaplin and Miss Elizabeth Rabinowitz at the Center.

POETRY

GREEN MANSIONS.

O Paradise is a garden land with fair flowers blooming
Where Gabriel's white lilies spring fadeless from the sod,
And roses red as martyr's blood, with gold hearts gleaming,
And roses white as a young girl's soul as it comes fresh from God.

And often there as early as the Resurrection morning
The Master of the garden walks softly 'neath the trees,
He stoops to clasp the tendrils of the vine's green yearning
And to lift a dew-filled chalice for the thirsty roving bees.

And there I think there walks with Him in friendship fast abiding—
Communion such as gardening folk alone can ever know—
All those who through the winter night have waited spring's appearing
Have treasured bulb and rootlet and gone forth in faith to sow.

O Paradise is a garden land, its beauties past believing
For all who've sown and watered and bent to trowel and spade.
Since He whose risen glory was in likeness of a gardener
Is theirs in full companionship within its blossoming shade.

—The Churchman.

A BIG TALL MOUNTAIN PINE.

I love a big, tall, mountain pine;
To know him I have been allowed,
And so he is a friend of mine,
And so I feel a little proud.

He stands upon the wooded heights
In all his dignity and grace;
Through brightest days and darkest nights,
Steadfast he always keeps his place.

Whene'er on him I chance to call,
Whatever time of day it be,
Be it in Summer days or Fall,
He bows his head to welcome me.

He shields me from excessive heat,
And tells me much I want to know,
Far more than I can now repeat,
And even which way the wind doth blow.

The wild birds hold him very dear;
To where he lives they find their way,
And carrying a world of cheer
Pour forth a new song every day.

The zephyrs love to gather round,
When day's bright splendors wane and dim,
And in their unison of sound
They chant for him an evening hymn.

With all his charms I feel this one
Is why I prize and love him best—
When I a leisure hour have won
Close by his side I find sweet rest.

Then, when I turn toward home to go,
New plans and hopes my mind run through,
And with new vigor all agiow
My lease of life I thus renew.

—Thomas F. Porter, in Boston Globe.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

"Is Dorothy a good dancer?"

"Not very, old dear. I had to break her if by any chawnce she had an engagement to meet somebody on my feet."—Michigan Gargoyle.

Sam—I got down for breakfast early this morning, in fact I beat the landlady up.

Lou (rather dumb)—I don't think that was very nice of you.—Princeton Widow.

Miss Oldsmith—"He said my cheeks were like roses."

Miss Katz—"And I always did like those old-fashioned yellow roses."—Detroit News.

Customer—Do you make like-size enlargements from photographs?

"If I only knew what to do with baby!"

Holly said he didn't care for euchre. They wanted to know why.

"Well, it's a slow game at best and then I'm all the time holding such good poker hands."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Teacher—Newton discovered the law of gravity by an apple falling from a tree upon his head.

Yes'm; if he'd been in school he'd never have discovered anything at all.—Boston Transcript.

"Ha!" cried Mr. Henpeck. "That must be why women have no hair on their chins."—Everybody's Magazine.

TAFTVILLE FIELD DAY WITH PARADE AND SPORT EVENTS A BIG SUCCESS

Saturday was a holiday in Taftville, all the business houses closing during the afternoon to allow their employes to attend the field day and outing of the Taftville Field Day Association, the most gigantic event ever held in this vicinity. The weather man provided ideal weather for the occasion, the sun being concealed behind clouds, providing comfort for the contestants and the hundreds who were unable to find seats on the grand stand and who lined the field from the cliffs to the entrance of the grounds.

The festivities began with a monster street parade, which formed in two sections, section 1 near the No. 8 Mill of the Ponemah Company, and Section 2, at the Ponemah Wheel Club. Marching north on Norwich avenue, the second section joined the first at their place of formation, and the entire body moved up South B street to South Second avenue, up Providence street, south on Hunters avenue, east on South B street, encircling the grounds and passing in front of the grandstand that the occupants might behold the gigantic spectacle.

Led by the grand marshal, Joseph C. Marsan, who had as his aides William Smith, Andrew Frohmader, Roderick Molleur, Arthur Ouimet and Louis Glaude, the first section included a dozen or more American flags, followed by the banners of the twenty-five organizations which hold membership in the Field Day Association. Tubbs Military band furnished the music for this section, and they were followed by the committees in charge of the event, and representative members of the organizations who were participating in the membership. The Taftville Fire Department, resplendent in their new uniforms and badges were next in line, with their new chemical and pumper, led by Chief C. Ralph Dion and Deputy Chief Philemon Gauvin. The Boy Scouts of the town led by their drum corps and directed by Assistant Scoutmaster Joseph Waldron of Troop 4, brought up the rear of this section.

The second section marched up Norwich avenue with banners and flags flying, led by John B. Benoit, President of the Field Day Association and the Ponemah Wheel Club, Alwin Kaempf, president of the Taftville Maennerchor Club, and John Krauss, president of the German Shooting Club. They were followed by Swahn's Military Band, who preceded the Turning Section of the Maennerchor Club. The Turning Section got plenty of applause all along the line of march, both the boys and girls classes in their light uniforms showing up excellently. They were led by their director, Karl Kalin. Brunelle's band furnished the lively music for the members of the Ponemah Wheel Club, the Maennerchor Club, the German Shooting Club and the J. B. Martin club.

By the time the parade reached the Providence Street grounds, it was estimated that 1700 people had gathered to watch the sports. The program was kept snappy by Announcer John B. Benoit, and was perhaps the finest collection of events ever staged at any field day. In most of the races, Jim Murphy easily showed his superiority in speed, and Robert Cardie invariably finished second. The greased pole furnished a great deal of sport for the onlookers, as thirty or more enterprising youngsters did their best to capture the five dollar bill at the top. Finally Robert Greenwood, with the aid of two or three sticks patiently spliced together and held by his small army of backers, annexed the prize. The obstacle race also provided a great amount of amusement, the contestants being compelled to crawl through barrels and jump through automobile tires, and then run for the line. The relay race for ladies was perhaps one of the best races of the afternoon, the entrants being so evenly matched and performing so well, that it would have been hard for anyone not in the judges' stand to pick the winners.

During the afternoon the Turning Section gave an exhibition of their marches, drills, gymnastic exercises and pyramids under the direction of Mr. Kalin. It is unanimous opinion that nothing in this line ever shown here compared with their work. The clocklike precision of the movements in the drills would be hard to duplicate, and their skill in forming the pyramids spoke well for their training from Mr. Kalin, who is a well known gymnast. This number called for great applause from the spectators.

The tug of war caused a great deal of excitement as both teams were evenly matched, and the recorder remained absolutely motionless for three minutes before the victors finally pulled their opponents off their feet. The battle royal was won by Aidaige Marion who outlasted all his opponents in the ring.

The Taftville Chapter American Red Cross had a flag-decorated booth on the grounds under the direction of Supervisor of Production Miss Mathilde Stapfer. The booth was flying the American and Japanese flags, and collections were made for the Japanese Relief Fund. Over $166 was realized at the booth, which was very gratifying to the Relief Fund Committee.

The judges of the events were Joseph D. Aiken, A. E. Pingree, William Bailey and E. W. Yerrington. The starter was John D. Sharples, George H. Young was the timer and the Field Secretary was John H. Murphy. The proceeds of the day, which will be large are to be turned over to a committee representing the Allied Clubs for a big Fourth of July celebration in 1924.

The winners of the events were as follows:

DODGERS LAND ON McQUILLAN AND BEAT GIANTS, 6 TO 3

Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 9—Landing on Hughey McQuillan with a thud in the opening inning and sending him to the showers with one out, Brooklyn defeated New York here today before 22,000 fans, 6 to 3. Five hits and a pass produced four runs before McQuillan was derrecked in favor of Ryan. The latter was found for one run in each of the second and third innings, Fournier accounting for the latter with his twentieth home run of the season.

Henry started for Brooklyn and held the Giants in check for three innings. He was nicked for three runs in the fourth on Young's single, Meusel's double and Kelly's eleventh home run of the season. Henry was still wobbly in the fifth and after two hits had been made off him as a starter, Vance was called to the rescue and held the world champions to one hit thereafter. The score:

YANKS TAKE BOTH ENDS OF DOUBLE WITH RED SOX

New York, Sept. 9—The New York Americans defeated Boston in both sections of a double-header here today, the American league champions winning by scores of 6 to 2 and 4 to 0.

The superior pitching of Bush and Shawkey proved too much for the tail enders. Bush yielded six hits in the first game and Shawkey three in the second.

Home runs by Witt and Scott accounted for four of the Yankee runs in the first game, Bush driving in two others with a single.

Witt and Ruth also hit home runs in the second game, the latter's bit being his thirty-fourth of the season, and places Ruth only one behind "Cy" Williams of the Philadelphia Nationals. Ruth's home run was tainted as Reichle misjudged his high fly.

Flagstead's fielding and throwing featured the first game, as he threw out three Yankees on the bases, twice making double plays. The score:

Riverview Swamps Sterling

The Riverview club of the State Hospital won an easy game from the Sterling team Saturday afternoon at the State Hospital, 9 to 0. Sterling lacked the ability to hit and the work of the outfield was loose, many of the hospital hits going for extra bases through outfield errors. Coullard was the chief hitter of the Riverview club getting a triple and three singles.

REDS REGAIN SECOND PLACE FROM PIRATES

Cincinnati, Ohio, Sept. 9—Cincinnati advanced to second place in the national league race today by defeating Pittsburgh, 8 to 5. Cooper, star left hander of the visitors, was hit hard in three innings. Luque was also pounded freely, but superb support kept down the Pittsburgh score. It was Luque's twenty-third victory of the season. Captain Daubert of the Reds, who was injured in St. Louis yesterday, was unable to play, his place being taken by Fonseca, whose long hitting was a feature. The score:

ALLYN L. BROWN WINS E. C. TENNIS SINGLES TITLE

Judge Allyn L. Brown fought through four hard sets with Robert W. Smith of New York Saturday afternoon at the Norwich Golf club courts and won the Eastern Connecticut Tennis singles championship, 8-6, 7-5, 3-6, 7-5.

The first set was hard fought with Judge Brown winning after a hard struggle. The second set was also a repetition of the first and the champion was forced to extend himself to emerge the victor. Smith played his strongest set in the third and won handily but lost after a hard fought set in the last. Both players were evenly matched and there was little difference in their play, Brown driving a little harder than his opponent.

WEST PITCHES ONE-HIT GAME AND NORWICH SHUTS OUT STAFFORD SPRINGS

Tony West, after winning his game at the state hospital on Saturday, held Stafford Springs to one lone hit Sunday afternoon at the Fairgrounds and won his second victory of the week, 8 to 0. West was given good support, especially by Dinty Moore who accepted seven chances without an error. Jerry Fay led the Norwich attack getting a double and single in three times at bat. Harry Mills also connected for a double in the first inning.

Cleary, who pitched for Stafford Springs, hurled a good game allowing only 6 hits but passed four men three of them scoring the runs for Norwich. West fanned eight and issued two passes. Several fast double plays were executed by the Norwich team.

Norwich scored the first run in the last half of the first inning when Cleary issued a pass to Burns. Moore attempted to bunt but popped up a fly to Cleary.

Mills crashed out a long fly that rolled to the score board and Burns went around for the first run, Mills tried to stretch his double to three bases but was caught on a pretty throw by Calchera to Howard.

The next run came in the fourth inning when Cleary gave Moore a free trip to first. Mills sacrificed and Massey hit to Gilman who beat the runner to the bag. Moore going to third. Moore scored on Fay's single to right center.

In the seventh inning Cleary had himself in trouble but fast fielding pulled him out with only one run being chalked up against him. Clabby the first man up was thrown out on a easy roller. Reddy was safe on an error by Pollanck and then Cleary passed West. Coullard singled filling the bases. Burns hit to Howard and Reddy was forced at the plate. Dinty Moore got a scratch hit scoring West. Mills filed out. The score:

CLEVELAND BUNCHES HITS AND TAMES TIGERS

Cleveland, Ohio, Sept. 8—Cleveland made three less hits and one error than Detroit today but the locals managed to bunch their hits winning, 5 to 3. Manager Speaker tied the score in the sixth inning with a home run over rightfield fence with a man on base. The score:

KAMM'S BASERUNNING WINS FOR WHITE SOX

Chicago, Sept. 9—Daring baserunning by Willie Kamm, who stole home in the second inning, coupled with opportune hitting behind bases on balls enabled Chicago to defeat St. Louis 4 to 2 in the final game of the series. A double play started by Kamm and the fielding of Sheely were features. The score:

THREADMAKERS RETAIN MILL BASEBALL CUP

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, Sept. 9.—The baseball team representing the Willimantic Mills of the American Thread Company retained possession of the cup offered by President R. C. Kerr of the company by defeating the nine from the Merrick Mills of Holyoke, Mass., in easy fashion at Recreation park yesterday afternoon. The final score was 12 to 1 and the outcome never in doubt after the first inning. Mathewson in the box for the locals hung up a strikeout record for the season by whiffing 18 of the visitors. He fanned every one of the visitors at least once and his particular victim was Scanlon who breezed four times. Five hits were all that the Bay State players could connect for. The score:

RECRUIT PITCHER HURLS SHUTOUT GAME AGAINST CUBS

St. Louis, Sept. 9—Eddie Dyer, recruit left hand pitcher for St. Louis, shutout Chicago 3 to 0 today in the first game he started this season. Dyer had the edge over Kaufmann in a hurling duel. The Cardinal runs were scored as a result of three hits in the second inning and a home run by Smith into the rightfield bleachers in the third inning. Score:

TAFTVILLE TAKES FIRST LEG IN MARTIN SERIES

Taftville A. A. got the jump on the J. B. Martin team Sunday in the first game of the series to decide the baseball title of the village, Taftville winning by a 9 to 5 score. Although the Martin team outhit the Taftville team fifteen to six the Taftville club was aided by a few misplays behind which they bunched hits for six runs in the third inning. Fisher pitched a winning game for the Velvetmen but poor support and several wild heaves gave the game to Taftville.

Four minor accidents held up the game for some minutes when the injured players were fixed up. Jack Murphy broke a finger in going after a hard hit ball; Fisher suffered bruised knuckles when hit by a pitched ball; Cardie was struck in the face with a foul tip and Welch split a finger. None of the injuries were severe except the one Murphy suffered which will keep him out of the game for the remainder of the season. The score:

THE COAL AGREEMENT.

Bringing about an agreement between the miners and operators has been accomplished on the give and take basis. There was presented a long list of demands, sufficiently long so that there could be a curtailment and some of them sufficiently high so that there could be a reduction without denial of desired results. The understanding is of course a decided victory for the miners. They get an increase in wages and a shorter day, meaning the placing of an additional expense upon the industry of over $30,000,000. The Pinchot plan of settlement was one which was in their favor from the start.

The operators might have been as successful in making an adjustment with the miners had they been willing to grant on their own responsibility an increase in the wages. This they were not disposed to do. It was Governor Pinchot who made the suggestion and it is therefore not the operators but the governor who must get the credit or the blame for it.

The public gets the assurance that the mining of coal will not be held up more than ten days more and that there will be no such shortage as there was a year ago. It also gets a clear vision of the probability that it will be obliged to stand that $30,000,000 increase in addition to what it is already shouldering. That is it will be obliged to do that if it uses anthracite rather than substitutes. But in addition to that there is nothing to assure it that the same condition will not arise next September or a year from next September and each year regularly thereafter as advantage is taken of the opportunity to use the hold-up methods again.

Governor Pinchot has expressed confidence in his ability to have this $30,000,000 absorbed along the line, that is, paid by others than the public. Possibly he is justified in that confidence. There are those who have gouged the public heavily, including the state of Pennsylvania, and it is to be hoped that the governor will be as successful in his efforts in this direction as he seems to think he will be. The consumer who has been paying steadily increasing coal bills for so long is bound to be skeptical.

REBUKING FISHER.

Possibly it was felt by Professor Irving Fisher that he had been entrusted with a great public service, when he made the statement that President Harding really favored going into the league of nations although he openly opposed any such action and was elected in a campaign in which that very question was an issue. Professor Fisher took occasion to say that the late president was really opposed to the Wilson league and that what he favored was a league of nations that had been remodeled in a way that would meet American approval. That of course doesn't mean going into "the" league of nations but the professor's statement quotes him as being just as much in favor of entering "the league of nations" as he was.

Whatever President Harding may have said to Professor Fisher and however accurate or inaccurate he may have quoted him, the fact will not down that it was a most unwise thing to attempt to disillusion the country on such a subject in such a manner and under such circumstances. President Harding had referred favorably to an association of nations and he might have in time disclosed his plans in that direction but for Professor Fisher to undertake to claim that he was posing in a false light, after the time had passed when he could refute any such assertion has naturally aroused much severe criticism. It is impossible to see that it is other than justified.

For a city in Ohio to cancel the speaking engagement of Professor Fisher on that very ground is but the natural outcome. For a man in his position it displays poor discretion to say the least and when one city in Ohio insists that it does not want to hear him it is only a course which many others are likely to follow.

OKLAHOMA'S GOVERNOR.

In view of the instances that have been disclosed where there is such a flagrant disregard for law and order in a number of states, attention cannot fail to be directed to Oklahoma where the governor has declared martial law in order to deal with a distressing situation.

Instead of insisting that the authorities must act and in giving them the necessary support that should be expected there are those who have persisted in taking conditions into their own hands and endeavoring to apply punishment and through that effect a remedy. They entirely ignore the importance of establishing proof. Their conduct is nothing more than the administration of the deplorable lynch law which doesn't check crime and only goads others to retaliations which quickly set up a lawless condition with serious consequences.

Such practices by include burning at the stake, hangings, deaths as the result of other tortures such as have been practiced in southern states too frequently, or they may take the form of floggings that stop only short of death. But whatever they are they only force the admission that in those communities those who are endeavoring to better conditions are themselves resorting to lawlessness of a serious character, showing themselves to be defiers of the laws under which they live and who even make a joke of the very government under which they live.

When the governor of Oklahoma resorts to martial law he is forced to it. It is drastic action calculated to deal with a desperate situation. It reveals nevertheless that he is determined that law and order shall prevail if it is possible for him to accomplish it by the machinery at his command. In that attitude and action he is to be highly commended. Would that there were more of such governors who were unafraid to live up to their responsibilities and at the same time convey to the commonwealth that those who attempt to take affairs into their own hands can expect to be punished as their acts deserve.

TONIGHT'S CAUCUS.

Tonight is the time appointed for the republicans of Norwich to nominate those whose names will appear upon the republican ticket in the coming town election. Town affairs are important. Our town government has been most admirably administered during the past several years while in the hands of republican office holders. It is natural that the townspeople should desire such efficiency and economy in town affairs to be continued. Not only should they desire it but they have a right to expect it.

It is therefore of the utmost importance that the republicans should make it their business to go to the town hall this evening and aid in nominating for town officials those whose ability will commend them to the voters of Norwich.

A caucus should not be regarded as unimportant. There is work to be done there that should reflect the opinions of a representative gathering of party members, rather than the voice of a few. Let there be selections for the good of the community and such nominees cannot fail to appeal to the good judgment of the voters regardless of the party to which they belong.

It is at the caucus where the opening guns of the campaign are fired. Let them awaken Norwich to its duty in standing by its own welfare. Let them speak the sentiment of the party that is striving for the best interests of the town and let them express the will of more than a mere handful that is interested in maintaining a town government on the same high plane that it has been placed in recent years.

MUSSOLINI'S EXPLANATION.

When Premier Mussolini of Italy tries to justify his attitude toward Greece on the ground that he has been endeavoring to emulate the United States he may hope to offset some of the criticism that has been coming from this country over his action. Ordinarily we might be impressed by any such claim. Possibly we ought to be flattered.

But when Mussolini undertakes to justify his actions by things that this country has done he fails to realize that conditions haven't been parallel. He completely overlooks the fact that Italy is a member of the league of nations along with Greece, that such a league is for the purpose of adjusting just such disputes and endeavoring to have peace replace war.

Whatever he may have reference to as having been done by the United States to justify his action, he failed to remember that there was no league or body of which this country was a member that could be appealed to to effect an adjustment. It makes a difference whether it is possible to reach desired ends in more than one way.

Italy as a member of the league could have had its honor properly sustained without resorting to the murder of children on the island of Corfu. It was for the purpose of dealing with conditions that could easily lead to war that the league was supposed to exist. Does Mussolini consider that he has set an example for all other members of the league when conditions which threaten war arise? He cannot do so on the claim that he emulates America.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Have your smoked glass ready for the eclipse today.

Every republican understands his duty on the night of a republican caucus.

The man on the corner says: If these are melancholy days, just keep them coming.

It is the duty of all republicans to attend the town caucus tonight and start the campaign off properly.

Jokes about the German marks may be bad, but they will have to hustle to get worse than such paper currency.

The fact that anthracite may cost more isn't bothering those who have laid in a winter's supply of bituminous.

Some will listen to the bell ringing for the straw hats this week. Others will be governed by the offering of the weatherman.

If the coal miners and operators have reached an understanding, the important question now is, How does it leave the public?

When the claim is made that there is nothing to arbitrate, it is highly probable that no consideration is being given to the interest of the consumer.

The captain of the Berengaria has reported that he passed an iceberg 200 feet high and 900 feet long. He is to be congratulated on his good judgment.

If it is going to be possible to detect earthquakes a week in advance, how long before it will be possible to get similar knowledge about burglars and gold brickmen?

Greeting the returned vacationist with "How does it seem to get back?" doesn't make the return any easier or happier. It is like asking the youngster how he likes to get back to school.

If Germany could discover some way of making those paper marks go up as rapidly as they have been going down some relief might be obtained. It looks as if the wrong thought was being used.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

When washing painted surfaces or wood work use a small blunt-handled wooden paddle for odd corners.

Turpentine will remove paint or putty from glass surfaces.

If hot water is needed for cooking do not use that which comes from the faucets. Boil it fresh.

Clean your white enamel ware that has become discolored with a paste of salt and vinegar.

Always keep what paper is left after papering a room. Then if any accident occurs, a new strip may be put on.

The tops of summer beets and turnips and the outer leaves of lettuce can be cooked as spinach. They make excellent greens.

Do not throw away sour milk or cream. Save in a glass jar and when it thickens use for cottage cheese, griddle cakes, gingerbread, etc.

Meat left overs from dinner can be chopped and used in an omelet for the next day's luncheon. Or it may be combined with rice and tomatoes and used in a scalloped dish.

Bits of green peppers and a few drops of onion juice add to the tastiness of the fish cakes.

When moving, pack your books in small bundles rather than in large wooden boxes. They will be much easier to handle.

Saturate a piece of cheesecloth in kerosene and hang it in the sunlight to dry. You will have an excellent dustless duster.

If roaches or water bugs make their appearance in the kitchen mix dry powdered borax with its own bulk of white sugar and set in shallow vessels where the bugs are likely to be. Renew the mixture every few days.

To clean windows place two tablespoonfuls of ammonia in two quarts of water and use without soap. This will give the windows a clear, bright polish.

Dipping keys in oil occasionally will keep locks in order. All hinges must be touched with an oiled feather now and then to save the annoyance of creaking doors.

IT HAS MANY USES.

Turpentine should always be kept in the household. It gives quick relief to burns, it is an excellent application for corns; it is good for rheumatism and sore throats. It is also a sure preventive against moths; by just dropping a trifle in the drawers, chests and cupboards it will render garments secure from injury. It will keep ants from storerooms if you put a few drops in the corners and upon the shelves. A spoonful of turpentine added to a pail of warm water is excellent for cleaning paint.

USED WITH EGGS.

Eggs are so often used for light luncheons during the summer months and if scrambled these are some of the other items of food that blend well with them: Tomatoes skinned and pulped. Shelled shrimps. A couple of tablespoonfuls of baked beans. A few sticks of chopped asparagus, peas or French beans, and, if onions are liked, a medium-size baked onion cut up small. All ingredients used in scrambled eggs should be thoroughly well cooked previously to being added, as the eggs themselves take such a short time to thicken.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

Vanishing cream is good to use before going boating, or for a long tramp in the wind, or out for golf or tennis. Ordinarily, I do not advise vanishing cream for the face, but at these times, with a thick coating of powder, it is useful. A thick cold cream, or petroleum jelly, can be used before you go boating.

For large pores some oatmeal powder, which is coarse and mealy to the touch. Hold the wet cloths over the nose as before, moisten a little powder, and rub well into the skin. Wash off with hot water, and repeat. Rinse with hot water and then cold water, or rinse with cool water and spray a little astringent toilet cinegar over the skin.

Sea bathing is very good for the feet, it makes them less tender, it is more cleansing than even soap and water; it does wonders in preventing corns. But if there are corns, follow the usual treatment, soak the feet in hot water, preferably with bath salts added, or soda, cut or file off the callous, paint with collodion, rub every day afterwards with cold cream.

Rowing, swimming, tennis and golf are the best of the outdoor sports for pretty arms. If none of these are available, join a gymnasium if you can, or stand at your mirror and do exercises by yourself. Any sort that tense the muscles are good, especially if combined with deep breathing.

COLORFUL WINDOWS.

Gone are the days of the stiff, heavy white window curtains. Light fabrics and gay colors now give us at once more air and more beauty at our windows.

Many decorators prefer to use a very sheer white or cream net for glass curtains, all over the house, then inside draperies of bright cretonne, silk or other color-fast material. But there is surely a strong tendency toward color in the nets themselves.

The smartest shops are showing heavy Tuscan nets in colors, such as red, jade green, orange, Copen blue and violet. One hesitates, however, to use these directly against the glass, for they do make the outside of the house look rather like Joseph's coat, especially if different colors are used in different rooms.

Perhaps a happier solution of the color problem is to select some dainty net of a natural cream or deep ecru tone, such as an Oxford cross net, and choose one which has tiny bits of color in design. The color scarcely shows from outside, but inside the room these bright spots of rose, blue or gold on the sheer surface of the net gleam like jewels and add much interest and decorative value to the window treatment.

SMART WAY IN HATS.

With ribbons by far the most fashionable trimming on present and predicted modes for the fall season, it is a simple matter to make one hat do the work of several. Nothing so completely alters the appearance of a hat as changing the angle at which it's ribbon bow is placed. The same hat may be worn one day adorned only by an oddly twisted ribbon around the crown and the following day with a large looped bow of ribbon of a different color tilted at one side. Indeed, it is a wise woman who has learned that the smart way in hats is the way of economy. Snaps sewed to the hat and the bows assure a quick change.

DICTATES OF FASHION.

A doll, whose wide skirts of black taffeta, piped in green, conceal a roomy bag, is a pleasant companion for beach or country.

Ermine, mink, broadtail and caracul are to be used lavishly this winter not only for coats and wraps but for trimmings and in combination with other furs.

Silk alpaca is made into the most charming street frocks, but on the simplest lines with only smart lingerie collars and occasionally a bit of embroidery for trimming.

A white taffeta frock with a full skirt and a close bodice is trimmed with hand-painted red roses and an occasional blue ribbon.

Even so early in the season, the feather turban has appeared. It is a close fitting, round little hat, with no brim or other line to break the Cossack helmet effect of the high crown.

Skirts for street wear are of medium length, but considerably longer on evening frocks.

The influence of the modes of 1830 is quite evident in the silhouette, while designs are plainly inspired by the decorative motifs of Persia and Indo China.

Many frocks show a front upward drapery and the greater number give an effect of slimness even though more material is used in their fashioning.

On evening frocks of metal brocades there is frequently a wide band of fur about the bottom of the skirt.

In England the younger generation is reported to be wearing blanket wraps composed of a perfectly straight piece of cloth slung around the shoulders and kept in place by a cord. To slip on after tennis or to wear in the cool of the evening these garments are ideal.

VOGUE OF RIBBONS.

Even the best of ribbons are sometimes a bit wayward and the result is invariably charming. Several yards of six-inch navy blue satin ribbon recently became rampant while it was being used to trim a sleeveless gray crepe de chine frock with consequence highly gratifying to the eye. The first few yards behaved very nicely, allowing themselves to be sewed in two rows around the bottom of the skirt. Then the ribbon became less docile and for two more rows went only half way around, making four rows in front and two in the back. This unexpected touch was the only feature that marred the gay placidity of the frock — yes; it was originated in Paris.

UNIQUE MENDING BAG.

The unpleasant task of mending was never so pleasantly suggested—or concealed—as it is now by the boudoir doll. She is a long-necked, ludicrously large eyed young lady with capacious cretonne skirts ample enough to hold a dozen stockings till mending time arrives.

CHIC WRIST BAG.

A fascinating little wrist bag shown today is of pale blue watered silk gathered into a flat, oval disk which forms the top. The bag is decorated with tiny, brilliantly colored feather tufts arranged in the form of miniature peaches, apples and grapes.

LAUNDRY HINTS.

To iron your tablecloth to best advantage fold it wrong side out with selvages together and corners even. Then iron both halves of the work wrong side.

If the inside belting of your skirt has lost its stiffness, try dipping it in cold starch and press with a hot iron. It will renew it.

To iron a round centerpiece so that it will not pucker in the center, always iron from the center to the outside edge.

At the extreme right end of the ironing-board fasten a tiny writing-pad, a pencil and a paper of pins. As an article is ironed, record missing buttons and tears on a slip and pin to the upper side of the garment when it is finally folded. No need to unfold any article to see if it needs mending.—Designer.

ONE WAY TO MAKE TEA.

It makes all the difference in the world what tea it is that you use, and, strange to say, the average American needs to be thoroughly acquainted and educated as to the merits and demerits of tea. It is said that Ceylon or India tea is more popular along the eastern coast, while still farther west there is a preference for Japan tea or natural green tea. Whatever the brand of tea you use, whether it be a particularly fine blend of Ceylon teas, or the tea of India or of Japan, in order to have it fresh and pure, retaining its goodness you must be sure that it is kept in a closely covered retainer, free from dampness.

Experts will tell you that the only proper way is to have a crockery teapot, scald it out and while it is warm put in a teaspoonful for every two cups. Next pour on freshly boiled water (but be sure that it is bubbling) and allow it to steep from five to eight minutes, then serve.

If it has to be kept any longer than eight minutes, it will be necessary to pour the liquid off the leaves into another hot teapot.

Remember always that tea becomes stronger the longer it is allowed to remain in the teapot. If the tealeaves rise to the top, instead of sinking to the bottom, you may be sure that you have not made it properly.

No country house will be considered properly equipped without the necessary paraphenalia required to serve tea, whether on the veranda, the lawn, the breakfast room or living room.

A LUNCHEON DISH.

Here is a tasty dish that will go well with any luncheon or dinner. If the portions of meat are scanty this will help to make up the deficit. First boil the sweet potatoes in an enameled ware saucepan. Then remove the skins and mash the potatoes, seasoning them to taste with a little salt and pepper and putting in a lump of butter about the six eof a walnut, and a little milk.

Butter an enameled ware baking dish, put the potatoes in this, patting them level with a spoon. Put mashmallows on top and put the dish into a hot oven. Cook until the marshmallows are brown and begin to melt.

CONCERNING WOMEN.

In Paris the surplus of women is greatest between the ages of 20 and 29.

The Canadian Parliament buildings has a staff of approximately 800 charwomen.

The Union of French Women has year added 900,000 adults, distributing more than 2,000,000 articles.

The number of women registered to vote at the coming elections in Harrisburg, Pa., outnumber the men.

Farmers' wives in Japan rear silk worms just as women on the farms in this country keep poultry.

The customs of India's women are slowly changing. Many are now going out into medical and other professional schools.

CHILDREN'S MANNERS.

Treat children as you wish them to be when the days of childhood are past. Those who have learned in childhood the niceties of conduct will not forget them under the most primitive conditions.

KITCHEN CABINET.

Your kitchen cabinet should be entirely emptied of its contents at least once a month and thoroughly washed and aired.

RECIPES.

Shepherd's Casserole. — One pound of mutton without fat or bone; two tablespoonfuls of olive oil; half of a small cabbage, salt, black pepper, a saltspoonful of dried thyme one bay leaf. Cut the mutton into convenient sized pieces, brown it slightly in the olive oil, add the cabbage cut into quarters, the seasonings and half a cup of boiling water. Cover tightly and let cook very slowly till the meat is tender and the water is all cooked away.

Quails or grouse may be cooked with cabbage and the same seasoning, except that the olive oil is replaced by bacon, well fried, before the birds are introduced.

Cafe Frappe: — Scald one cup of ground coffee in one cup of milk, add one-half cup of sugar pour this mixture over three eggs slightly beaten, add one-eighth teaspoon of salt and another half cup of sugar, cook (without straining) in a double boiler until the mixture coats the spoon, add one cup of rich cream and let stand one-half hour, cool and strain through a double fold of cheesecloth or thin muslin; add two cups of cream and freeze. Serve in tall, thin glasses and finish each with a cone of whipped cream sweetened and delicately flavored with vanila.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Appreciated Co-operation.

Mr. Editor: Permit me to express, in behalf of the recreation commission of Norwich, Conn., as well as personally, our thanks for the co-operation and assistance given the recreation commission's first organized playground work.

We are much indebted to you and your staff for the prominence accorded the recreation work in your daily columns, for without your co-operation the fruits of our labors would not have been so well known locally.

Very faithfully yours,
HAROLD ANSON BRUCE,
Superintendent.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, who is due to arrive in Canada today to spend a vacation on his ranch in Alberta, is traveling incognito, and therefore will not use the familiar title which has been borne by the heir apparent to the English throne almost from time immemorial. The title of Prince of Wales has a curious and interesting origin. It dates back to 1284, when Edward the First made a promise to the Welsh people that he would give them a prince "free from any blemish, upon his honor, and unable to speak a word of English." Queen Eleanor, Edward's spouse, was expecting the birth of a second son and the King sent for her at once and the child, a boy, was born at Carnarvon Castle in Wales. It was in this way that Edward made good his promise to the Welsh people and from that time the heir to the throne has borne the title of the Prince of Wales.

Stories That Recall Others

Her Way of Looking at It.

The young husband had paid bills until he was almost broke. And he decided that the way to teach his wife finance was to place responsibility on her shoulders. So he sat down and talked to her, telling her that they must not go into debt. "I'll give you an allowance," he explained. "I get $60 a week and we'll go fifty-fifty on it."

"Oh, George," she exclaimed, "that will be fine. But when will I get my first $50 and 50 cents."

The Number Was Inverted.

A man who does much public speaking came back to his home town recently and spoke before the Community club. The club members thought the speech remarkably good and were much surprised to see in the copy of the weekly paper, which appeared the next day, an account of the gathering and then a speech itself, but not the one that had been given at the meeting. One of them called him about it.

"Oh, that isn't so bad," he remarked after he had looked at the paper. "They just turned the number upside down and copied speech number nine when I gave number six."

FACTS ABOUT TODAY'S ECLIPSE.

Many planets will be visible during totality.

Less than three-tenths of one per cent of the total land area of the globe will be touched by the shadow.

The eclipse will be partial all over the United States, from New England, where it will be 50 per cent. to San Diego.

San Diego, California, will be the only city in the United States that will be well within the area of totality.

Not since 1806 has there been a total eclipse in southern California, nor will there be another until the twelfth day of August 2045.

First shadows cast by the moon will fall on the earth northwest of Japan, so that the path of total eclipse will begin on the Pacific ocean.

The band of darkness will speed across the Pacific, touch the extreme southern part of California and enter Lower California at Ensenada, a small seaport town.

Thence it will pass over Mexico and enter the Gulf of Mexico at Tampico, cross the gulf and thence into the Caribbean sea, where it will leave the earth at sunset.

Much evidence for and against the so-called Einstein theory of relativity is expected to be gathered by scientists during the brief period of the eclipse.

Professor Einstein, it is expected, will seek verification of his theory, while other well known men will seek evidence to overthrow his assertions regarding it.

Astronomers will measure the duration of the partial and, especially the total, eclipse to the nth part of a second. They will endeavor to locate a planet, thought to be wandering somewhere between Mercury and the sun.

Shafts of light which will dart out from the sun as it retires majestically from sight will be photographed for later consideration; pictures likewise will be made of the corona, the exact nature of which has never been determined.

Southern California, Lower California and the islands off the adjacent coast will be the camping ground for scientific expeditions from all parts of the world. The American institutions that have made special preparations for observing the solar phenomenon include the Lick Observatory, of the University of California; the Clark Observatory, the Leander McCormick Observatory, the Mount Wilson Observatory, and the Yerkes Observatory, of the University of Chicago.

Waste of Time

A certain amount of valuable time and energy is still being lost in Germany in calculating the value of paper marks as well as in printing them. —Washington Star.

One woman of artistic training makes a good living by visiting the homes of the wealthy and offering to repair damaged wall paper. Her method is to place a piece of white paper over the damaged portion and then paint in the appropriate design.

MRS. HINCKLEY NERVOUS WRECK

Memphis, Tenn.—"Two years ago I was completely run-down and my nerves were a wreck. I could not sweep a room without resting. I could not do my work except a little at a time, and the doctor's medicine did not help me. One day some one threw your little book on to my porch, and in it I read several testimonials of women who had been like myself. I went right out and got me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and before I had taken the whole of that bottle I knew it was helping me. I took six bottles, and then in about three months I took two more. Now I am in perfect health. I do all of my own work and could do more. I can truly say that I know Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound gave me my health."—Mrs. O. J. HINCKLEY, 316 Union Ave., Memphis, Tenn.

SAVED LARGEST PART OF PALMER'S FIREARMS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Jewett City, Sept. 9.—The thirteen-room two-story house on the farm owned by Charles and George Palmer was destroyed by fire Sunday afternoon.

The cause is unknown.

At about 3.30 Mrs. Terry and her daughter were asleep in the lower part of the house. The men and Mrs. Palmer and two children were at the shooting range not far from the house. Susan Terry smelt smoke and discovered the ell part of the house was all afire. At the same time Charles Palmer saw the smoke from the range. Thers had been no fire in the stove and Mr. Palmer was positive the electric lighting system was not the cause. The owners are at a loss as to the cause. A peculiar circumstance is that it started in the same place where the fire at Daniel Morgan's farm started just a year ago, and none ever knew the cause of that fire.

John Davis and Edward Wyatt from Jewett City were at the shooting range and it was due to their quick work with the owner's help that nearly all the almost priceless collection of firearms owned by Charles Palmer were saved. He stated that firearms worth probably $10,000 or $15,000 were saved. One hundred revolvers and several antique firearms, as well as a large number of shells of small calibre were burned. A large part of this collection which contained every manufacture of firearms in the world, was given Mr. Palmer by his uncle, the late William D. Palmer of Meriden, and he owned many himself. Mr. Palmer is one of this country's crack marksmen, holding the highest records.

Much of the furniture was saved with the help of neighbors. The brothers are insured, but not for the amount of loss.

The house stood on the line between Preston and Griswold, this line running between the barn and house. The main part was built by Ebenezer Clark in 1720 and partly rebuilt in 1818. The Clarks, Palmers and Terrys have occupied it for several generations, it never having gone out of the hands of the family. Attached to the house were a corn house and a hen house, both of which were destroyed.

Just after a call on the telephone for help was put in, the line went out of order. The wires were not in the vicinity of the fire, so that was not the trouble. But a steady light at the Central office came in, and was still on at 9 o'clock at night, showing the line to be out of order, for some cause. The family have no plans for the future as yet, but spent the night at neighbors.

WEDDINGS

Byrnes-Seymour

At Trinity College chapel, Hartford, Saturday at 12 o'clock noon, Robert D. Byrnes of Hartford, son of Mr and Mrs. Perry Byrnes of this city, was united in marriage with Miss Dorothy Seymour, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Seymour of Greenwich, this state. The ceremony was performed by Dr. Remsen B. Ogilby, president of the college.

The best man was Raymond Byrnes of this city, brother of the groom and the matron of honor was Mrs. Lowell, a sister of the bride. Only members of the immediate families were present at the wedding. Following a short wedding tour Mr. and Mrs. Byrnes will reside in Hartford, where he is employed on the Hartford Courant.

Mr. Byrnes is a graduate of the Norwich Free Academy and Trinity college, class of 1922.

Jones-Prue

Saturday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock Clinton Story Jones of No. 83 Washington street and Miss Eleanor A. Prue of Rochester, N. Y., were united in marriage at the parsonage of Christ church by Rev. Richard R. Graham, rector of the church. They were unattended. Following a wedding supper the bride and groom left for a tour.

Mr. Jones is the son of Isaac S. Jones and the late Adeline Brown Jones and has made his home with his father at No. 83 Washington street. He was formerly employed at Rochester and is now employed in the engineering department of the state highway department. During the world war he was a member of the students' training corps at Lafayette college.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Prue of Rochester where she was born. She has always made her home in Rochester.

FUNERAL

John Henry Humphrey.

With a large attendance of relatives and friends the funeral of John Henry Humphrey was held Saturday morning at 8.15 o'clock from his home, No. 326 Prospect street. At 9 o'clock a mass of requiem was held at St. Mary's church with Rev. Frederick M. Coholan celebrant. Two hymns, Beautiful Land On High, and Nearer, My God to Thee, were rendered by Miss Eleanor L. Donovan, Miss Sadie L. Driscoll presiding at the organ.

The bearers were John Starr, Frederick Ortmann, Patrick J. Casey, Patrick Mumford, Frank Donohue of New London and James Casey and burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery, Rev. William A. Keefe, rector of St. Mary's church, conducting the committal service. There were many beautiful floral remembrances.

The large attendance included relatives from Suffield, New London, Montville, Worcester, Webster, Troy, N. Y., Providence, New York city, Fairhaven, Vt., Greenwich, N. Y., Poultney, Vt., and other places. There were also delegations from the Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus, from the Connecticut Power Company and the Eastern Connecticut Power company where Mr. Humphrey had been employed.

CONTRIBUTIONS OF $832 FOR JAPANESE RELIEF

To date a total of $832.82 has been raised in Norwich by the local chapter of the Red Cross for the Japanese relief fund. The quota for Norwich is $2,000 and it is expected that this figure will be reached within a day or two. The Red Cross headquarters at C. V. Pendleton's store will be open all day Monday to take care of contributions. Mrs. F. A. Mitchell and Mrs. A. H. Chase will be in charge and will be assisted by Miss Alif Stephens, Mrs Albert Lewis, Miss Faith Leavens and Miss Adelaid Butts.

Made Long Automobile Trip.

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Ross and two children Raymond and Madeline have returned home after a delightful automobile trip of two weeks. They made the trip in their own car and did not even have to change a tire. The places of importance that they covered were New York, Albany, Saratoga Springs, Montreal, Quebec, Showhegan, Augusta, Portland, Me., and Boston. On the way home they stopped at the home of Mrs. Rose's sister, Mrs. J. E. Davis of Milford, Mass.

FORMER PASTOR PREACHES SERMON AT NEWENT CHURCH BI-CENTENNIAL

REV. W. J. REYNOLDS

Newent Church Pastor

The two-hundredth anniversary of the Newent Congregational church, Lisbon, was observed Saturday and Sunday, recalling the organization of the church and the ordination of its first pastor, Rev. Daniel Kirtland, December 10, 1723, with its subsequent history.

Saturday the conference of six churches was held, two hundred and twenty-nine attending. The decorations of the church were very beautiful. Quantities of gladioli, asters, dahlias, hydrangeas, day lilies, marigolds and ferns were banked at the front of the platform in effective combination. At one side on a table, rested the old pewter communion set suitably inscribed. There was also a photograph of the old church, the picture being the property of Mrs. J. R. Kennedy of Lisbon and a picture of Rev. Daniel Kirtland, the first pastor. Rev. W. J. Reynolds, pastor of the church presided. The organ voluntary was played by Frank E. Hyde of Lisbon, who has officiated in that capacity for forty-two years.

After the doxology was sung, a prayer was read by the entire congregation, led by the pastor, Rev. Wm. J. Reynolds. The Gloria followed, and responsive reading. All the hymns were the good old fashioned tunes and words.

The choir sang the anthem, How Beautiful Upon the Mountains. Rev. Howard S. Stephenson of Jewett City offered prayer.

Rev. Mr. Reynolds welcomed the people to the church and its services, and also gave everyone the privilege of visiting his wonderful dahlia gardens, as a part of the day's pleasure. He said that the ten years had been eventful. For nearly every farm had changed owners, some two or three times. He spoke of the few on whom the events of the church hinge, and mentioned one family of four in which is a deacon, organist, choir director, two choir members, superintendent of Sunday school and two teachers, who live four miles from church. And of one woman who has taught in Sunday school almost every boy and girl who has attended for years.

Sermon by Dr. Howe.

He introduced Rev. Samuel H. Howe, D. D., pastor of Park church, Norwich, as one of the best preachers and finest men the conference ever entertained. Dr. Howe's theme was the Fountain Head of All Christianity. We are poor students, said Dr. Howe, if we have not learned that Christ's religion is extraordinary in its teachings and redemptive power. He created a new type of man, who appears the same age after age. He is a product of the personality of Christ Himself. We follow in his train and end by being like Him. It is the only religion with a cross, and the only religion that reveals God's approach-seeking us. It is a religion for heroic men. It lays a heavy demand on the intellect and supplies the demand. There is little use for vest-pocket creeds. The Bible contains truths that appeal to the intellect in the most remarkable way. Extraordinary is the sounding of all the depths of our natures. It faces the hard facts of life and it breaks the death clutch of every man's sin. It unlocks the door which opens upon immortality. It is the one religion that strikes the note of universality and is at home on the five continents and seven seas. It demands the whole of us, or we should not touch it.

Prayer was offered by Rev. J. P. Richardson of Pachaug.

The dinner hour proved very delightful. It was served cafeteria style under the trees on the church lawn. Many availed themselves of the opportunity to visit the pastor's dahlia gardens in which were one thousand plants with wonderful blossoms both in size and colors.

Afternoon Session.

In the afternoon greetings were received from the Mother church in Norwich Town. They were given by Rev. Gurdon H. Bailey, pastor of that church. He gave the congratulations of the mother church which was 63 years old when her daughter was permitted to establish a home of her own. He particularly emphasized that there should be an old time revival of loyalty to state and constitution, and all laws, in individual respect and enforcement.

Rev. Roderick McLeod, pastor of Hanover church, gave the greetings from the daughter church. He said he hoped it would be possible for the daughter church to co-operate with the foreign speaking people in the surrounding country, as was being done in the Newent church. There would always be the friendly rivalry as to who can best serve God and His Kingdom.

The business session included the reading of the minutes of the last conference by the clerk, Mrs. E. H. Hiscox. The roll call of the churches showed from Plainfield 11, Preston City 19, Hanover 21, Pachaug 29, Jewett City 25, Newent 64, visitors 60. The Scripture Confession of Faith was read in unison.

Historical Address.

A historical address was read by Rev. Sherrod Soule, D. D., superintendent of the Missionary society of Connecticut. He gave an intensely vivid and interesting account of the life of Samuel Kirtland, the great missionary to the Seneca and Oneida Indians, who was a son of Rev. Daniel Kirtland, the first pastor of Newent church. In Samuel Kirtland, declared Dr. Soule, Newent church has a jewel in its crown more beautiful than any of which any other church in Connecticut can boast.

Everyone present was asked to place their name in the book of remembrance. A notice from the Jewett City Chapter of the American Red Cross, regarding the campaign for money to be sent for assistance to the Japanese sufferers was read and announcement made that a collection would be taken in Newent church next Sunday for that purpose.

Five of the descendants of the men who issued tth call for the first pastor of the church were present on Saturday.

Anniversary Service.

Three hundred and fifty attended the anniversary service at Newent Sunday. During the two days' observance people were present from Foochow, China, San Bernandino, Cal., Tongaloo, Miss., Athens, Ala., New York city, Mt. Vernon, N. Y., Kenduskeag, Me., Portland, Me., St. Paul, Minn., Holyoke, Mass., Hartford, Providence, Plainfield, Pachaug, Jewett City, Hanover, Preston, Lisbon, Norwich, Norwich Town, Greeneville, Taftville, Willimantic, Goshen, North Franklin, Lebanon, Niantic, Versailles, Baltic, Canterbury, Wellesley, Mass., New London, Bozrah, Columbia, New Britain, Yantic, North Stonington, Pendleton Hill, Voluntown, Danielson and Scotland.

The opening exercises in the morning were conducted by the pastor, Rev. William J. Reynolds. The scripture was Acts 2, a marvelous sermon preached in Jerusalem nearly 2,000 years ago. After an anthem by the choir, Rev. William Muttart of Preston City offered prayer. A memorial offering was received.

Anniversary Sermon.

The anniversary sermon was preached by Rev. Edwin Bradford Robinson of Holyoke, who was ordained in this church.

Prayer was offered by the pastor. There was a basket lunch at noon, the church providing hot coffee, milk, baked beans, meat salads and cake.

In the afternoon the praise service was led by Mr. Reynolds. The addresses were by the pastors of the churches of the conference on Present Day Religious Problems.

The first speaker was Rev. Roderick McLeod of Hanover. His subject was the national Congregational council which is to be held in Springfield Oct. 16-23. He would we like to feel we have a part in the United States. In the same way we should be a part of the great Congregational body in the United States. Our work and knowledge would be more vital if we attended this council or became an associate member. Then all matter pertaining to our church would be sent us.

Rev. J. P. Richardson of Pachaug spoke on Prohibition. He said that two weeks ago Canon William Carnegie of Westminster Abbey arrived in New York and made the statement that prohibition is the outgrowth of Puritanism, and Puritanism is but half-way Christianity. He saw no beauty in our ancestors or the planting of churches in this country. Before the World war the wave of prohibition was more or less influenced by Puritanism. The war hastened it. Soldiers must have bread. The cry was for food—not drink. Uncle Sam closed saloon distillery and brewery. No one complained. He named three P's—Protestant, Puritan, Prohibition. Each has a grand record. Christian temperance has the biggest job—it never ends. Watching, praying, working. It is a big job, but the Christian likes it for its very bigness.

Rev. William Muttart of Preston City itemized many century old problems and then what is the present day problem. It is the adjusting of church work—movement and service to young people. It is done by simplyfying of the religion and worship.

Rev. William Prentiss of Plainfield spoke on the problem of Leadership—the working of the parishes in which the churches stand. It is high time to begin systematic and intensive working in the parishes. The people of the church should do it. Not pray or wish for people to come to church—go after them.

Rev. H. S. Stephenson of Jewett City talked on Leadership, speaking of two types—the worldly and prophetic. Find leaders who are not afraid of the future and will take the best of the past.

Following is the list of pastors of Newent church:

ANNIVERSARY SERMON.

The Salt of the Earth was the theme of the anniversary sermon by Rev. Edwin Bradford Robinson Sunday morning at the two hundredth anniversary of the Newent Congregational church, Lisbon. He spoke as follows:

At the fiftieth anniversary of his pastorate, which celebration, itself, is now seventy years less one, in the past, Rev. Levi Nelson, toward the close of his sermon said, "I have no doubt, that ever since the organization of this church in 1723, the Lord has had a people here, who will be to the praise of the glory of His grace forever." And in view of the preservation of this little church—through all the trials it has experienced, when there have been terrible convulsions among the nations of the earth, when states and kingdoms have been overthrown—when many a candlestick has been removed out of its place, we have abundant reason to say: "Hitherto hath the Lord helped this people at Newent. And may it come to pass that the means of grace shall be enjoyed here and this church live and flourish, so long as the purposes of God, shall require such an organization on earth."

In the half century since Rev. Levi Nelson spoke these impressive words, stupendous changes have given us a new heaven and a new earth. In no other seventy years in history have the changes been as revolutionary. Nevertheless this blessed candlestick has not been removed from its place, neverthless the foundations of this ancient church still stand sure.

A Personal Privilege.

I count it a privilege to stand here this morning. Here I was ordained on November 22, 1898. The honored preacher of yesterday morning, Rev. Dr. Samuel Howe of Norwich, was also the preacher on that occasion. Professors Edward L. Curtis and Benjamin W. Bacon, both of Yale, took part in that service. After a quarter-century I still feel the hush of that sacred afternoon, and the awe of my first celebration of the holy communion on a Sunday morning shortly after. Mrs. Robinson and I began our married life in your historic manse, and there our daughter Miss Dorothy Robinson, now a candidate for holy orders, was born. My first christening was in a home below the arch and the name to be remembered name was Wilhelm August Budett, suggesting new blood transfused into the veins of an ancient community. My first funeral was that of the mother of George Rose, whose loyalty to this church is witnessed, summer by summer. We were constantly welcomed by the hospitality of homes for miles around. We had the joy of seeing this building thoroughly renovated. We had the joy of experiencing the loyalty of people living in communities at a distance, but with check books thoroughly loyal to the church, which had nurtured their tender years.

I have never seen any other institution at all like the Conference of the Six Churches. I give my hearty admiration to the scheme, and appreciate the help, which it brought to me as a young minister of Jesus Christ. With the deepest sincerity, I confess my joy that Newent was our first pastorate, and I offer deepest appreciation of the invaluable training which came to us here. It was a unique opportunity in connection with the work at Newent to serve for a considerable period as acting pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at Versailles, and for a shorter time at Jewett City, in association with the late Rev. Dr. Leonard Bacon.

The Spirit Showed by Norwich.

We praise the fair and generous spirit of the mother church at Norwich Town. That admitted without quibbling that this section was "very remote from the place of public worship, not only by reason of the distance but by reason of a great river which is not only difficult, but at all times dangerous to cross." One gains a respect for the record keepers of old as one reads in the old parish record at Austerfield, after the centuries, of the christening of William Bradford. We are deeply in debt to those who keep the records here, all too scanty at times, but sufficient for us to reconstruct the heroic life of this church. In the documents of the first days we read of "Lord George, King of Great Britain, etc., etc." In the record of the colonial legislature for 1722 we find the record of this vote: "Resolved by this assembly: That for the future the North East Society or Parish in the town of Norwich be called by the name of Newent."

Ipswich, Massachusetts; and Newent, England.

What sweep is given to our imagination, in the coming of settlers from neafering Ipswich, washed by the waves of extreme northeastern Massachusetts. Could they have changed their environment more completely! A still broader sweep is given to our imagination as we cross the Atlantic and then cross England to East Anglia, that birthplace of so many names familiar to those that love New England. Newent, England, is one hundred and ten miles from London, and eight miles from Gloucester, with its beautiful cathedral. What clinging memories of a lovely shrine in England festoon the name of this parish! We are touched as we remember the generous gift of the mother Newent in England to her daughter here—a gift of books suggestive of sanctified intelligence in those that gave and those that received.

Three Church Buildings.

In these anniversary days our minds stage a pageantry of thought. We picture not only the coming of the settlers, the buying out of the Indians, but more particularly the building of the first meeting house, located a half mile south of where we are now worshiping. We smile as we read of the "cushen" which lent color to the pulpit.

That earliest building served for a little more than fifty years. Today we lament that there ever was a third building and wish that that beautiful building which served for ninety years might have served at the least for another ninety years. I often try to visualize that second church building, with its high tower without, and its high pulpit within; with its broad aisle; its box pews; and its separate section for male and for female negroes, respectively. I, myself, buried some that had sat in those galleries. The spirit in which that second meeting house was built is revealed in this record of February 5, 1770: "Voted to proceed to build a new meeting house, the money to be raised by subscription —to pay ye cost of building said house and we do agree to proceed forthwith to provide oak and pine boards and other stuff necessary for this work, and next winter to get the frame, and then proceed as fast as we can, with conveniency to finish s'd house."

The Early Pastors.

Rev. Dr. Soule has told in detail the story of Rev. Daniel Kirkland, the first pastor, who served from 1723 to 1753. It is easy to remember and place the second pastor, Rev. Peter Powers, for he graduated from Harvard in the class of John Hancock, the Boston patriot. He was in charge during the French war period. The Separatist distraction troubled both of the first pastorates.

The first pastor had to witness the construction of another meeting house built only a few rods away from the building which had housed a flock all too small to count defection a small matter. In "together" days like ours, it is hard to be patient with this divisive movement which came to these small churches, because some maintained that there was a want of edification in the regular ministry; that the churches lacked "gospel orders;" that they were without ordained elders and deacons; that they owned Christ in "words, but not in deeds," etc., etc. The Separatist movement did some good in opposing the unrighteous management of the civil powers, in forcing men through taxes, and by still severer methods, to uphold church ministrations.

The First Church of Christ in Bennington, which is the oldest Protestant church in Vermont, was formed on Dec. 3, 1762, by the union of the Separate churches from the towns of Hardwick and Sunderland in Massachusetts, together with members from the Separate church in Newent. Among the treasures of this Bennington church is a little book in which are bound together fourteen well mounted folio sheets, beside a few fragments, which turn out to be records of the Separate church at Newent. What a story it would be could one but tell how these old records traveled from the crotch in the rivers way off to the Green mountain section of Vermont.

During the closing years of the second pastorate, the movement to found a daughter church at Hanover was under way, and before the beginning of the third "settled" pastorate it had been accomplished in 1766. The first pastor of the Hanover church served almost 44 years.

The experience of Rev. Joel Benedict, the third pastor, makes vivid Revolutionary war conditions, as they affected the rural churches of Connecticut. By reason of the heavy taxes for the support of the war, there was so great a failure in the society in furnishing the pastor with sufficient maintenance, that of necessity he sold his dwelling house, parted with land, and for the time was driven to secular business for support. Later he was pastor for 32 years of the church at Plainfield. In 1786 Newent, with Hanover, became the town of Lisbon. In 1784 a committee had been appointed to forward a subscription for the purpose of creating a permanent fund, the interest of which should go toward supporting a minister. Sixty persons gave sums ranging from £2 to £70, with three subscriptions of £60 each. In 1873 this fund amounted to $10,000. Although the pastorate of Rev. Joel Benedict ended in 1782, the society was in arrears to him for unpaid salary until June 8, 1792, when it made a final payment of £31. We are happy as having as fourth on our honorable list of early pastors the name of Rev. David Hale, Yale's and his country's youthful hero. He stood firmly for Congregational principles at a time when it was the fashion to ape Presbyterianism. His niece was the second wife of Rev. Levi Nelson, of whom you will hear more in a minute or two. Rev. Mr. Hale was very kind, very gracious. For a time he conducted a boarding school in his own home. In 1795 he built the house,

BEIT BROS.' MARKET WILL BE CLOSED TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY ON ACCOUNT OF HOLIDAYS

MADE LATE START FOR CAMP EUSTIS

Battery B and the Combat Train, 192nd F. A. Artillery, C. N. G. entrained Saturday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock, daylight time, at the New Haven road station on a special train for Camp Eustis, Va., for their annual 15 day tour of duty. The guardsmen were nearly two hours late in getting away from Norwich, as their special train did not pull into the station until shortly before 5:30 o'clock. The boys assembled at the armory at 12:30 daylight saving time to receive their final instructions.

A detail was sent to the station yard to load the baggage car and the loading was completed before 5 o'clock. The Danielson company came to Norwich in army trucks which were left at the local armory awaiting their return from the southern artillery camp.

Mothers, wives, sweethearts and friends of the boys were at the station to see them off. The guardsmen were a happy lot as the train pulled out of the station for the 20 hour trip to Lee Hall, Va. where they were to arrive Sunday about noon.

At New London the local companies and the Danielson unit were joined by the New London companies and the special train pulled out of New London about 7 o'clock Saturday evening.

JULIAN DAZE ENDS HIS LIFE WITH BULLET

Julian Daze, about 62 years of age, committed suicide by shooting at his home, 44 Second street, some time Friday night. He was found dead on the kitchen floor with a bullet hole in his head about 1.40 o'clock Saturday afternoon by his daughter, Mrs. Matilda Blanchard, of 54 Merchants' avenue, Taftville. Medical Examiner C. C. Gildersleeve was notified and conducted an investigation.

A .38 calibre revolver was found near the body and one chamber of the revolver had been discharged. The bullet passed through the man's head and was found beneath the kitchen table. He had been employed at the Shetucket mill and lived alone. The reason for his suicide is not known.

He was known to be eccentric and last winter was before the city court on a charge of firing a shotgun at a number of young men who tormented him by throwing snowballs at him near the Shetucket mill. Surviving are two daughters. He was a Russian by birth.

STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE RECEIVES SCALP WOUNDS

Shortly before noon Saturday, Michael Allen, 70, of No. 163 Cliff street, was hit by an automobile driven by Lewis B. Hull, Jr., on North Main street. Mr. Allen was walking in the street at the time. Dr. Edward J. Brophy was called and attended his injuries, which examination at the Backus hospital showed to consist of a small scalp wound and bruises. His condition is not considered serious.

REV. JOHN W. ARESON DIED IN CALIFORNIA

Word has been received in Norwich that Rev. John Welling Areson, formerly rector of Grace Episcopal church, Yantic, died August 31, at Ventura, Cal. Rev. Areson was rector of Grace church for three years, resigning there in 1919. He was 60 years of age.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Anna Laurence Crawford Areson, one son who is an Episcopal clergyman and one daughter who resides in Evanston, Ill.

Watch for the Eclipse.

An eclipse of the sun will be visible here this (Monday) afternoon. About 45 per cent. of the surface of the sun will be obscured by the moon's shadow to observers in this latitude, who will see the eclipse begin at 2.43, daylight time, and end at 5.28. The maximum obscurity will be at 5.38 p. m.

WESTERLY

Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock, at the corner of Liberty and West Broad streets, when Traffic Officer Francis J. McMahon had temporarily halted John W. Dawson of New London turnpike, Norwich, driving a Buick touring auto 43-292, Conn. with four passengers, he was run into by the Durant touring car 17-837 Conn. driven by Mrs. George Heinboldt, also of Norwich, when the stop signal was not seen. With Mrs. Heinboldt were three small children. No injuries were sustained by any of the parties. Damages to the machines consisted of bent and twisted right side mudguard on the Buick and a broken windshield on the Durant amounting to $17 with both automobiles insured.

Elizor Metivier, Henry Havens, Albert Albermonti and George Vardilles are members of an automobile party which left Westerly Sunday morning for a trip to Canada. A visit to Dempsy's training camp at Saratoga Springs is planned for today (Monday) to be followed later by stops at Buffalo, Montreal, Quebec, with the return home by way of New Hampshire.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Henry Osgood of Norwich were in Westerly Saturday.

Miss Christine E. Krebs and Miss Margaret I. Crockett left Westerly on Sunday morning on the Federal express for Boston, and are to pass two weeks' vacation in North Conway, N. H.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Larkin of Westerly are passing a week's vacation on an automobile trip through Maine. Miss Eaton will supply as organist at Christ Episcopal church in the absence of Mrs. Larkin.

Peter Comi arrived in Westerly on Saturday after ten weeks' visit in Italy, making the return trip on the steamship Paris, which docked in New York Friday.

Rev. Edgar Tobin, rector of Christ Episcopal church, and family are taking three weeks' vacation motoring through New York state.

Horace P. Dodge of the West Side, who has been confined to his home by illness, is able to be out.

Phebe Lewis has returned to her home here after spending some time at Lacheard Camp, South Fairlee, Vt.

After a visit with relatives in Adrian, Mich., Rev. L. A. Walker, the pastor of the Calvary Baptist church, and his wife have returned to Westerly.

At the direction of the town council of Westerly workmen Saturday cut up and removed the tree trunk with the branches which had floated down the Pawcatuck river and lodged against the pier of the Broad street bridge, constituting an eyesore and a catch-all for all kinds of refuse floating down the river. The workmen also dislodged some of the refuse which had become lodged under the Barrows building.

The Bliven Opera House Inc. has sold to Maurice E. Barron, a theatrical man of Boston, the Opera House building and land on which it is located. The transfer was made Friday, but a lease on the property, which does not expire until July 1, 1924, is held by Samuel Grand of Boston, for whom Frank Vennett will continue as manager until that time.

Miss Helen Mary Larkin, 42, for a number of years a teacher in the West Broad Street schools, died at Home Memorial hospital, New London, Saturday. The eldest daughter of Charles S. Larkin, of Ashaway, she made her home with her father. Recently she was taken to New London for a serious operation and not much hope was held for her recovery. She is survived by three sisters, Miss Charlotte and Miss Elsie Larkin and Mrs. Franklin Smith and a brother, Charles H. Larkin. The death of her mother occurred early this year.

On Saturday, the closing day of the fifth annual convention of the Department of Rhode Island, American Legion, in Westerly Town hall, Bertram W. Wall, Kearney post, No. 6, of Bristol, R. I., was elected department commander. The retiring commander, also presiding officer of the convention just closed was T. J. H. Peirce, of Edgewood, R. I. County Vice Commanders were elected as follows: Providence, George H. Carr, Saleaville; Washington, Wilfred E. Barber, Hopkinton; Newport, George H. Laird, Newport; Kent, Charles R. Campbell, Providence; chaplain, Rev. Geo. E. Hathaway, Providence.

Nominations were made for delegates to the national convention of the American Legion to be held in San Francisco, Oct. 15-19 and the following were elected: Bertram W. Wall, Bristol, commander-elect; T. J. H. Peirce, Edgewood, retiring commander; George J. P. Regan, Newport, in charge of the most successful Newport Post fair held recently; Raymond B. Littlefield, Central Falls, adjutant; Miss Margaret McCartin, Providence, active in the adjutant's department; David Loiselle, Woonsocket, successful in adding a large number to post's membership; Bennie Gentile, Warwick, and Arthur Costigan, Cumberland. Delegates receiving highest votes of remaining candidates were named as alternates as follows: John Whorf, Warren; Davis G. Arnold, of Providence; Edward Kenney, Auburn and M. C. Wells, Scituate.

At the Saturday morning session, the convention was addressed by Governor of Rhode Island William S. Flynn and Lieut. Gov. Felix A. Poupin. Later in the session Liaison Officer between the Legion and the Boston Veterans' Bureau in District No. 1, Percy J. Cantwell spoke, favoring the retention of disabled veterans in this district and a resolution was presented by the resolutions committee to this effect and was passed by the convention.

East Greenwich, R. I., was chosen for the meeting place of the Rhode Island department of the American Legion for 1924.

Votes of thanks and appreciation were passed to the Westerly hosts for entertaining the state convention, to the post, committee in charge, and for the use of the Westerly town hall, as well as to the retiring state department officers.

Following the convention adjournment at 2.15, a luncheon was enjoyed at the Elm Tree inn at Pawcatuck. At the conclusion of the luncheon the delegates returned to the Westerly town hall, where a group picture was taken.

Late Friday afternoon Frank Stello, who had been arrested by Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown and Sergeant Donald Ferguson, charged with operating an automobile without an operator's license, was presented before Judge Michael J. Turano. Pleading guilty, he was fined $10 and costs, amounting to $13.80, which was paid, immediately the defendant was arrested upon a warrant charging him with committing an assault with a dangerous weapon upon Marvin Dortch. Pleading not guilty, bail was fixed at $500 and the case is to be heard in the Third district court Friday, Sept. 14.

At the home of his brother, John Shea, 44 Stillman avenue, Friday morning at 8.30 o'clock was held the funeral of Daniel Shea, who died in Norwich Wednesday. Requiem high mass was celebrated at 9 o'clock at St. Michael's church by Rev. J. J. Fitzgerald. During the mass Martin H. Spellman sang Face to Face and I Come to Thee. Burial was in St. Michael's old cemetery, the bearers being John Shea, William Shea, Joseph Fitzgerald, Thomas Shugrue and David O'Keefe. Rev. Fr. Fitzgerald read the committal service.

Lussier of Lowell, Mass., is visiting her parents at 24 Lawton Heights; also her two sons, Ralph and Leodore, who have just returned from Canada, where they have been attending college for five years, and are now making their home with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Allard. Mrs. Lussier will return soon to her duties as nurse at the Blanchard private hospital.

PUTNAM

While it is yet too early to determine just what amount was realized from the street fair held Friday and Saturday evenings on Pomfret street for the benefit of the Nurses' Home at Day Kimball hospital, the amount of business done in the various booths assures a substantial sum being realized and without doubt the campaign to raise $20,000 has gone well over the top.

Pomfret street from Canal street to the bridge over the Quinebaug river, over which all travel was suspended, was a brightly illuminated way and was crowded. Cargill park was used in conjunction with the street and it was here that a band stand and stage was erected. Music and entertainment was furnished from the opening to the close. Grotesquely costumed workers passed about the crowd selling various articles and it was almost impossible to get near to the booths as the articles displayed were in great demand.

Plans for the home were displayed and admired. The building, a three story structure, will cost $40,000 to complete. With half of this amount available, the trustees hope to be able to begin construction in the spring.

With the completion of the home there will be more room for patients. Ever since the hospital has been functioning the nurses have had to remain in the hospital building at all times, except when off duty and away from the institution altogether. This at times made the quarters crowded and was unattractive to nurses coming to Putnam to work at their profession, as they had little or no privacy during their off-duty hours.

Interest in the republican caucus for the nomination of town officers this (Monday) evening centers in the nomination for tax collector, the only contested office so far as appeared on Saturday. The contest has developed through the candidacy of Attorney Irving H. Miron who has come out in opposition to the present tax collector, Attorney Ernest C. Morse.

Both candidates are well known Putnam attorneys. Mr. Morse has held the office for several years. Mr. Miron has never held public office although he has been a hard worker for republican party interests. For the past three years he has been bill clerk in the United States senate. He studied law in the office of Torrey & Geissler and passed the bar examinations in 1919. The contest which has developed and the work done in the interests of the candidates assures a largely attended caucus and a hard fight by the friends of either candidate.

When little Tom and Jerry O'Brien, of Mechanicsville, went to call on their father, Jerry O'Brien, caretaker of the office of the French River Textile Company Friday afternoon, their visit nearly resulted in a tragedy. Only the interference of the guardian angel of children saved the life of Jerry when a revolver went off unexpectedly and the bullet passed through the fleshy part of his arm.

The boys were roaming about the office while the father was busy with his work. They opened a drawer and their attention was drawn to a revolver of rather large calibre. They lifted the weapon out of its hiding place and while it was in the hands of Tom it went off. The father heard the report. The injured lad was rushed to a doctor who dressed the wound and the boy was at play again on Saturday, little realizing the narrowness of his escape from death.

Mrs. Helen Willey of Norton, Mass., Miss Nancy Boyd of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Richard Holmes of Worcester, were week end guests at the home of Mrs. A. W. Macdonald.

C. E. Wulff and family left Putnam Thursday afternoon for a motor trip to Cape Cod.

Mrs. A. D. McIntyre and daughter, Janet, have returned from their summer cottage at Niantic.

State Treasurer G. Harold Gilpatric and family returned Saturday evening from Juniper Point, Me., where the family have been spending the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth A. Ballard of Winthrop, Mass., are spending two weeks with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Newton A. Ballard and Mr. and Mrs. J. Richard Carpenter.

The 5.10 p. m. train from Boston came in Friday evening with a window in the smoking car broken. While the train was passing under a bridge between Millville Heights and North Uxbridge there was a crash of glass that startled the passengers in the smoker and especially a man sitting in the seat where the window. There was a small hole like a bullet would have made but it is thought that possibly a boy on the bridge used an air rifle with effect or threw a small stone. This is the second time within a short period that a car window has been broken while a train was passing this point. Railroad police will make an investigation.

Origene Touchette and George Bricault have returned from Portland, Me., where they went as delegates to the national convention of the Foresters of America.

The trustees of Woodstock Academy have announced that Mrs. Frank Wright Pratt, formerly of Hopedale, Mass., now of Deerfield and Richmond, Va., is to present the town of Woodstock a handsome memorial library. The library is at present located in inadequate quarters in the Academy building.

The library building will be erected on Woodstock Hill west of the Academy, facing the state road and the road leading to the post office. Construction will begin early next spring so that the library building may be occupied the following winter. The present library contains 5,000 volumes and when in its new quarters will be for use of the townspeople, as well as for the Academy.

Checks are finding their way to Miss Harriet Brown, treasurer of the Putnam Red Cross chapter, Saturday, in response to an appeal for the Putnam chapter to raise $1,000 as its quota of the $5,000,000 relief fund to aid the sufferers of stricken Japan. Among the first to come publicly to the aid of the fund are the officers of the S-A Amusement Company who have announced that ten per cent. of the gross receipts at its five theatres, Putnam, Danielson and Rockville, Thursday next, will be donated to the fund.

The continued cases of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Descatelle and Joseph Richard, charged with a violation of the liquor law will come up for a hearing in the city court this (Monday) morning. All have entered pleas of not guilty and have been out on bonds.

Definite announcements have been made that three business blocks, in addition to the one now under process of construction will be built within a year. This does not include the National bank building now practically completed. Charles Seder is to build on his property acquired from Mrs. H. F. Hopkins, Main street. The Savings bank is to build its new bank on Main street and William St. Onge is to build on Livery street. These new business blocks will follow closely on the erection of the Strombolis block being built on the site of the Donahue block, destroyed by fire last February. With four new blocks in the business section the lack of store and office space will be supplied. Nothing further has been learned of the east side of Main street of a business block by Kaminsky and Weil, talked of some time ago. There is also considerable building of residences planned for spring, according to the requests for building permits being received by the common council.

There is a movement among the brothers of Putnam Lodge of Elks to form a band, orchestra and glee club. In an endeavor to find out what talent there is among the members questionnaires have been sent out to each brother asking if he plays a band instrument, an orchestral instrument and if he can sing. In addition to this, he is asked if he would be willing to play in such a band, orchestra or glee club if organized.

A lobster dinner will be the feature fall feature for Putnam Chamber of Commerce. The dinner will be served at the Putnam inn, next Friday evening at eight o'clock. There will be an orchestra present and there will be singing. The principal speaker will be William T. Mullaly, head of the Mullaly Advertising Agency, New York, whose topic will be Advertising.

GALES FERRY

The annual election of the Gales Ferry Country club resulted as follows: President, Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham; vice president, Rev. Horace B. Sloat, Hartford; secretary, Vincent Jones, New Haven; treasurer, Walter M. Buckingham; assistant treasurer, D. R. Povey; directors, George W. Frost, Montclair, N. J., Mrs. Mary G. Watrous. At the close of the election a vaudeville entertainment was given to a capacity house with the following program: Overture, G. Reginald Ashbey; illustrated songs, Yes, We Have No Bananas, Louisville Lou, Swinging Down the Lane, Bubbling Brook, Mr. Ashbey at the piano; vaudeville acts, Will She Come from the East? March of the Wooden Soldiers, The Circular Staircase or the Tragedy of the Lighthouse, The Minuet, Whispering Wires, The Golfy Sisters, My and By; dancing, Pavlova Russell; specialty, Mr. McLeer, Tut-auk-amen. Dancing concluded the evening. Herb Smith's orchestra of Norwich furnished music.

The Ladies' Aid society of the M. E. church held a food sale and a sale of aprons and luncheon sets, with fancy articles, on the lawn at Rufus W. Hurlbutt's recently. Those in charge were: Ladies' Aid tables Miss Alice Satterlee, Mrs. Nelson Parker; Long Cove auxiliary, Mrs. Charles Litwhiler; food table, baked beans, brown bread, pies, cakes, Mrs. Bertha M. Hoyt, Mrs. Andrew P. Miller, Mrs. R. Irving Hurlbutt, Mrs. Abbott; ice cream, Mrs. Alton M. Stoddard, Miss Lillian Parker; flowers and vegetables, Mrs. Rufus W. Hurlbutt.

The Long Cove auxiliary of the Ladies' Aid society of the M. E. church, through its president, Mrs. Charles Litwhiler, made an additional gift last week of $5 to the Kate B. Colver memorial fund, for the upkeep of the M. E. Parsonage and $15 toward the coal supply for the M. E. church for the winter.

Repairs were made on the main street of the Ferry last week by order of the selectmen of the town of Ledyard, Calvin R. Main, J. Edmund Norman and Leslie F. Gray, under the direction of Mr. Norman. Four teams, with men, were employed in filling in and grading.

Miss Madeline Walrous of Philadelphia has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Ashbey of Norwich at their summer cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Evans of Washington, D. C., who have been motoring through the northern states and Canada for about five weeks, were recent callers at the home of Mrs. Harriett F. Crandall and Mrs. Harlan A. Pierce while en route to Washington via New York. Other guests were Dr. Albert S. Bolles and Mrs. Bolles of Williamstown, Mass., their brother and sister-in-law, who arrived the first of the week.

Miss S. Nettie Johnson of Jewett City was the guest of Mrs. Henry W. Hurlbutt Thursday of last week.

Rev. W. D. Woodward and Mrs. Woodward, with their daughter, Miss Ethel Woodward, of Storrs Agricultural college, left the Ferry Sunday afternoon in the automobile of Rev. Truman H. Woodward of Wapping, for a tour to Morrisville, Vt. The party spent the night at Wapping, leaving early Monday morning, and are guests of Mrs. Woodward's sister, Mrs. Edwin J. Bryant, this week.

Mrs. Harold J. Bartlett of New London has been the guest of her sister-in-law, Mrs. R. Irving Hurlbutt.

An oratorio, The Childhood of Joseph, was given in the M. E. church Sunday evening by Miss Grace A. Chapman, Mrs. Monet S. Lawson, Mrs. Dudley C. Perkins, Mrs. Amos Main, Mrs. R. Irving Hurlbutt, Mrs. Eugene LaFontaine, Misses Jennie G. Perkins and Gertrude Allen, Mrs. C. E. Colver, reader. Mrs. Rufus W. Hurlbutt was organist. At the conclusion Gladys Russell recited Somebody's Mother.

Miss Gladys E. Stratton, home demonstration agent for the farm bureau, was a recent caller in the place, arranging with Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham, chairman of the educational department of the Village Improvement association, for the season of 1923-1924. The dates will be given later for the following speakers: Small Fruits, Mr. Darrow (evening meeting); Vegetables, H. A. Wilkinson (evening); Hot Dishes for Supper, Mrs. Dakin (afternoon); Millinery, Miss Mildren Annan, October, all-day session; Dressmaking, Miss Edith Mason, after the holidays.

STONINGTON

Miss Carrie Gilman of Norwich, is the guest of Mrs. Harry Babcock.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pendleton and daughter have returned to New York having spent their vacation in Stonington.

Mrs. L. J. Conrad and daughter are visiting in Greenboro, Vt.

Miss Lillian Thomas has returned from a visit in Greenfield, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Doughtw are enjoying a motor trip to Cape Cod.

The regular summer season dance at Wequetequock casino, was enjoyed by about five hundred Friday evening.

MYSTIC

Plans are under way for an old folks' concert and several one-act plays during the fall.

Mrs. Alice Weemes of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Mrs. J. B. Brown of Stonington have been guests of Mrs. George Henry Greenman.

Miss Margaret Bindloss and Mrs. Thomas Pollard are visiting Newport relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. George Berry have been entertaining, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Berry and son, of Hartford.

AUCTIONS

SALE AT PUBLIC AUCTION AT LAUREL GLEN, CONN.

Several tracts of land together with a wood lot and with a dwelling house, reservoir, dam, water wheels, and other mill improvements thereon, lying in the towns of North Stonington and Voluntown, Connecticut, and being all of the property of the Laurel Glen Line Company, Incorporated, of North Stonington, Connecticut, the land estimated to total seventy (70) acres. For many years there stood a factory building on the premises which was successfully operated, until forced to suspend by the burning down of the building a short while ago. The site is an ideal one for almost any kind of operations involving plentiful water supply and other advantages, the natural resources being nearly inexhaustible and the improvements very numerous. Among other things there is the Laurel Glen Dam built of stone with cement top, about one hundred (100) feet wide and Thirteen and one half (13 1-2) feet high. Reinforced cement Penn Stock, Three Hundred and Sixty (360) feet long running to the mill site, three (3) feet in diameter inside measurement. Twenty-three and one half (23 1-2) feet fall from top of dam to water wheels. Double water wheels set in wheel pit that can be made ready to run at a very small expense and produce about seventy-five (75) h. p. if new water wheels were installed the horse power would be greater. There is a forty-two (42) horse power boiler all set at the mill site believed by the Boiler Inspector to be in good condition. This company owns the controlling flowing rights of the Laurel Glen property located in North Stonington and the controlling flowing rights of the Green Falls Reservoir located in Voluntown. This dam is one hundred (100) feet wide, thirty-nine (39) feet deep and is built of solid masonry with gate valve in bottom to control supply. There is one cottage house located at Laurel Glen recently remodeled and all in good condition. There is a wood lot of about sixty (60) acres included in this property. The ponds are ideal for bathing and fishing; and all the premises are much suited to hunting, there being plenty of game. The premises are located eight and three-quarters (8 3-4) miles from Westerly and three and three-quarters (3 3-4) miles from Ashaway, R. I., and may be reached by improved highways. Parties wishing to see the site call Mr. C. P. Eccleston at his office on Oak Street, Westerly, and be taken to the property.

The sale will take pla[illegible] September 20, 1923, at 3 p. m., standard time, in front of the dwelling house on the premises at Laurel Glen.

Said Real Estate is to be positively sold on said date to the highest bidder. May be offered for sale in two parcels, one on Mill Property and then the Wood Lot, as may be determined by the Trustees at time of sale.

Harold M. Pingree of Goodyear spent the week end at his home on North Third avenue.

James Stubbs of New Bedford, Mass., is the guest of the Misses Stubbs of North B street.

Thomas Bamber of Plainfield spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Hindle of North Third avenue.

Rev. Edwin Gordon Crowdis led the Young People's meeting at the Taftville Congregational church Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Bogle have returned from a week's stay in Holyoke, Mass., where they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Osten Ferguson.

NORWICH TOWN

The September meeting of Home chapter of the King's Daughters is to be held this (Monday) afternoon at the Johnson home, the first meeting for this season.

The Lathrop Memorial Foreign Missionary society is to hold its first meeting of the season Wednesday afternoon at 3.30, daylight saving time, in the First Congregational chapel. Miss Ruth Beebe, a teacher of Trinity school, Athens, Ala., is to give a talk about her work among the colored race.

Miss Irene Brown and Miss Catherine Brown of Brooklyn, N. Y., arrived Saturday and are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frederic H. Wyant and Mrs. Frederica Hinrichs of Town street.

Having passed six weeks in West Rutland, Vt., as the guest of her sisters, Mrs. Eunice Goodspeed and Mrs. C. M. Plant, Mrs. Irving Mott of Norwich Town since returning has been spending some time at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Fargo, of Fitchville.

General Agent Walter H. Phelps of the Connecticut Humane society and Mrs. Phelps, the latter worthy matron of Corinthian chapter, O. E. S., of Hartford, were recent callers at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Charles H. Lanza. Mrs. Phelps, who has a cultured soprano voice, entertained with several beautiful numbers, playing her own piano accompaniments. Mrs. Phelps, who is popular in musical circles in Hartford, often delights shutins with her charming voice.

Miss Gertrude Avery and Miss Helen Avery, graduates of Connecticut College for Women, returned recently to their home in Norwich Town after taking the special teachers' course at Columbia university, New York. Miss Helen Avery has commenced her duties as teacher in the high school at Canaan. Miss Gertrude Avery is to be a member of Norwich Free Academy faculty at the opening of the Academy Wednesday morning. Another sister, Miss Ruth Avery, also a graduate of Connecticut college, is a teacher in the high school at Bethel, near Danbury.

HAD 33,859 ATTENDANCE IN NORWICH PLAYGROUNDS' SEASON

The city of Norwich recreation commission held their last meeting Friday night at the playground headquarters, the Norwich Commercial School. The meeting was presided over by Chairman William Fitzgerald and the usual routine of business was dispensed with. After the meeting Superintendent Harold Anson Bruce gave out a short summary and appreciation of the past season's work as follows:

He said in part, "The recreation commission's playground movement in Norwich, as a municipal educational institution of recreation, has had, during the past season, the usual experience in progress, wherein public opinion is not yet prepared to grasp the meaning of the movement.

It takes a few years from the time the seed is sown for the educational recreational idea of an organized nature to take root in the minds of the people, and the idea grows and expands only as the public mind absorbs it.

There are several stages of progress in the public mind concerning playgrounds. The first stage is of total indifference to the movement; second stage is when the people realize the need of playgrounds and that something could be done to secure them; then the experimental stage with its action and corresponding reaction, and at last the final stage when in the minds of the taxpayers a playground department with an educational program accomplishing a definite purpose is a necessity. This final stage seems to have been reached in Norwich this season and the coming year will witness expansion of this definite purpose.

In winding up the playground program of the recreation commission, hearty appreciation is extended by them to the citizens of Norwich, both men and women, and the public in general, for their kind interest and moral support throughout the past season.

The following is the attendance for the eight weeks playground season: First two days, Thursday and Friday, week of July 4th, 1,359; first week, combined playgrounds, 3,679; second week, combined playgrounds, 2,991; third week, combined playgrounds 3,-297; fourth week, 4,210; fifth week, 3,-224; sixth week, 4,358; seventh week, 5,993; eighth week, 4,748. Total attendance 33,859.

Wider Program Next Year.

The city recreation commission, which so gloriously finished its first organized playground season the night of August 30th at the play exhibit at Greeneville, has completed all arrangements for a more extensive program next year. The past season's demonstration of recreation and playground work has been a tremendous success and far exceeded the expectations of the members of the recreation commission.

Superintendent Harold Anson Bruce has been working, since the official closing of the play centers, having all portable equipment boxed and stored, so that everything purchased by the commission during the past season will be available for use in the future. The matter of packing has taken the superintendent a little over a week, as the apparatus in some cases was very bulky and required considerable carting.

Prizes Distributed.

All the prizes have been sent to each teacher for distribution and the prizes were awarded the first four places in each and every event, together with a set of firsts for the winners of all championship teams or groups. Some two hundred and sixty were awarded to various winners.

The work of the industrial department of the recreation commission has been on exhibition for the past few days at the Shetucket street show window of the Boston store. The exhibit will continue up to and including September 10th, after which the children who have been responsible for the exhibit can collect their property by applying to Mr. Lewis at the Boston Store.

Superintendent Bruce has awarded the first prizes in connection with the teaching corps for the best boys' and girls' departments for the season. The awards were made to the boys' department at Greeneville conducted by Phillip Allen and in the girls' department it was Miss Catherine Dodd of the Lake street play center. Both Mr. Allen and Miss Dodd developed the most thorough and all around departments throughout the playground season.

The final statistics concerning attendance, records the fact that the recreation commission handled 33,859 children throughout the playground season. The teaching corps has now disbanded and Superintendent Bruce is writing the annual report which will be published in pamphlet in the near future.

ST. PATRICK'S RECTOR URGES PROMPT AID TO RED CROSS

In his announcements at the 7.30 mass in St. Patrick's church Sunday, the rector, Rev. M. H. May, referred to the world-wide movement to aid the suffering Japanese, expressing the conviction that a mere reminder of the effort of the Red Cross to render prompt assistance would be all that was necessary to incite the generosity of Catholics, ever liberal in their giving to any cause of distress, irrespective of the color, creed or condition of those in need of succor. Their generosity, Father May said, is always like their faith—Catholic. The woes of the afflicted nation of Japan requires no comment; what is needed is that each give according to his means—and give quickly.

It was the sixteenth Sunday after Pentecost, the epistle read in the masses being Ephesians, 3, 13-31, and the gospel, Luke 14, 1-11. Father May preached on the thrice repeated question of Christ to Peter, "Lovest thou me?" and the reply of the Apostle who was to be the head of Christ's church, "Lord, Thou knowest that I love thee. Thou knowest all things." Love of Christ is manifested, not only in profession of belief—the demons in hell believe—but in practice of that two-fold command, love of God and love of neighbor. True love of the God-Man, one's Creator, Redeemer, the spouse of one's soul, ultimately to be one's judge, would manifest itself in the desire to be with Christ, not alone on Sunday, but on every day of the week.

The customary hundreds gave practical proof of their faith by going to the altar, to receive holy communion from Father May, who had the assistance of Rev. Myles P. Galvin in administering the Eucharist.

Miss Jane Clark Resigns

Miss Jane A. Clark, executive secretary of the Catholic Diocesan Bureau of Social Service, has resigned to take effect Oct. 1st. Miss Clark will leave shortly for New York where she will take a special course at the New York School of Social Service. Miss Delia Marooney of New Haven has been appointed to succeed Miss Clark.

Fifty Year Pastorate.

We are proud of the fifty year pastorate of Rev. Levi Nelson. We smile as we learn that his pastorate of half a century was held by a man who had been forced as a youth, because of ill health, to give up his purpose of graduating from college, though Williams college later gave him an honorary degree. At his ordination the prayer was made by Rev. Samuel Nott of Franklin, pastor there for over 70 years. The combined pastorates of three of the men taking part in his council mounts to 166 years, or an average of 55 years and 4 months each. This memorial pulpit recalls the excellencies of Rev. Levi Nelson and of his wife, Mary Nelson.

There have been twenty pastors in 200 years, five in the first 150 years and fifteen in the last 50 years. My knowledge of the pastors of the past half century is almost naught. Rev. Josiah G. Willis, now blind, is reported as living in Wilbraham, Massachusetts. Rev. Tyler E. Gale died in 1921, after a most distressing illness of 18 months. Rev. Oliver Brown died in 1919; Rev. Charles W. Burt died in 1922, and is buried in the Reade cemetery. Rev. Frank A. Fuller is pastor at West Stafford.

A Crown of Men.

John Hampden, invaluable British patriot, came from a hamlet. What men have gone out into the wide world bearing upon them the imprint of this darling church of ours which during the past two hundred years has ministered so loyally to this extremely rural community. The deep loyalty which it has aroused is symbolized by the devotion of the Baldwin family, members of which have been a vital part of this parish for 162 years, although they have lived beyond the Lisbon borders, at South Canterbury. Here have lived souls of Pilgrim stock, descendants of Elder Brewster, Isaac Allerton, John Howland and Miles Standish. Members of congress, judges, lawyers, doctors, clergymen, missionaries are recorded as having spent their early years under the influence of this church which we love. To them and to the nation it has meant much that this light has been kept trimmed and burning. As Secretary James Wilson, a Newent church product, once declared, "Those quaint neighborhoods in Connecticut have produced grand men." Over thirty Newent men have graduated at Yale.

We think now of Dr. Charles Bishop, the temperance reformer; we recall Aaron Dwight Stevens, who in 1859 died with John Brown at Harper's Ferry; we meditate upon those brave souls, living and dead, that have made and are making the thrilling story of this venerable church. There must be scores of able and generous people who would gladly give some bi-centennial gift toward still further securing the permanence of this church and widening its usefulness. This light must be kept shining.

Salt of the Earth.

Shall we not say of the brave souls of Newent, of the living and of the dead "Ye are the salt of the earth." Let these words of St. Matthew 5: 13 be our bi-centennial text. This verse belongs beside the Beatitudes. Salt is an inevitable symbol of that which preserves, of that which gives flavor, and to one that knows Old Testament ritual, of incense, rising Godward. Against corruption, but also against deadly dullness, salt raises its effectual protest. As an ingredient in incense salt is a type of that love of man toward God without which our Father mourns.

On this solemn day we hear the warning of Jesus, "But if the salt have lost its savor, it is thenceforth good for nothing but to be cast out and trodden under foot of man." Moisture played havoc with the grossly impure blocks of salt quarried on the shores of the Dead sea. Savorless salt symbolizes a dead church. There is a terrible responsibility resting on a small parish like this to see that the saving salt is mixed to the last possible extent with every possible family to the very remotest bounds of the parish. A dead church is utterly intolerable. We long for the passion of a Giovanni Papini. Love that is not passionate is not safe. Salt in one basket and fish in another was exactly that which Jesus would not tolerate. There must be a thorough and joyous mixing of the whole gospel with all the life of this ancient parish. Thus shall the heritage be saved. Those five first pastors at Newent form a glorious constellation in the ecclesiastical history of this section. They sterilized the spiritual soil against the bacteria of folly and fanaticism. They deserve spiritual descendants of ideal aims, businesslike methods, sportsmanlike principles. They did not pack their goodness in bags of respectability, to be kept in the storehouse of a safe repute. With them the salt reached the fish, the salt flavored the food, the salted incense reached the Lord.

REV. EDWIN BRADFORD ROBINSON

Newent church has been the salt of this section of God's kingdom. It has fought off corruption. It has made life interesting and valuable. No mighty city church is dowered with a fairer diadem than "the crown of men" which sparkles today as the diadem of this beloved parish. It wears "the crown of men," i. e., the crown of human beings saved toward Christ, striving in His strength to live the Beatitudes life. This is an hour of consecration. This old church has that without which this community cannot truly live. Our epitaph for those that have gone reads most distinctly "the salt of the earth." Ministering as their successors, let every one upon whom this historic parish has ever exerted an ennobling influence hereby humbly and earnestly resolve that as far as in us lies Newent parish shall continue to exert a saving, flavoring, worshipful influence, living the indispensable gospel of Jesus Christ.

NEW LONDON HOOCH DEALERS TUMBLE INTO STATE POLICE NET

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, Sept. 9.—Peter Mros and Konstanty Plascik, both residing at the corner of John and North Bank streets, and John Turner, of 11 North Bank street, were arrested Saturday night charged with violation of the liquor law, the arrest of the trio being the result of the boldness of Turner in informing two sailors where they could obtain liquor. Turner's willingness to obtain liquor for the sailors was stated so audibly that it was heard by Prosecuting Attorney Daniel M. Cronin, who instructed the police to watch the place. Mros as owner of the place, was held in bonds of $700 and Plascik, who is alleged to have provided Turner with the liquor, was also held in bail of $700. Turner was also admitted to bail as was Acatvo Cavillion, of U. S. S. Mine Planter Baird, to whom Turner furbished the liquor. When Prosecuting Attorney Cronin was walking through North Bank street on his way to the police station he heard Turner remark that he could procure liquor for the sailors at the North Bank and John street saloon. When Turner was observed to enter the place the prosecutor informed Lieut. Benjamin Beebe what had occurred. Sergeant Nelson Smith and Patrolmen Thomas Lyden, Howard Sloan and George Labous were ordered to go to the vicinity of the saloon and procure the evidence necessary to arrest the offenders. Turner emerged from the place and handed Cavillion a pint of "hootch". As Cavillion received the liquor it was taken from him and both the sailor and Turner were placed under arrest. Turner declared to the officers that he purchased the liquor from Pascik for $2.50, so the latter was taken into ocustody. When Mros admitted ownership of thte saloon and told who was in the place when Turner obtained the booze, he also was placed under arrest.

Mrs. Richard M. Brockett is confined to her home on Montauk avenue as a result of injuries sustained a few days ago when she fell down stairs at her home. The injuries however, are not serious.

The condition of Frederick W. Bruce of 119 Golden street, who suffered a a shock recently, is such that but little hope is held out for his recovery.

The fire department was called out Saturday forenoon for a blaze at the Star garage, Bank street, which resulted in slight damage. The damage was confined to an automobile, owned by P. Paquette, a Bank street merchant.

Waterford republicans held their caucus Fridaynight and because of practically all the offices to be filled being contested, the nominating was spirited. The session was attended by about 260 taxpayers and voters. The ticket named follows: Assessor, William Lanphere, 39; Malcolm Brown, 53; Board of Relief, William Hendrickson, by acclamation; First Selectman, Thomas Woodworth, 109; George A. Forsyth, 78; Second Selectman, Hugh McKenzie, 83; Fred Jacques 89; Town Clerk, Charles A. Gallup, 46; John J. Floyd, 152; Town Treasurer, Walter I. Barrett, by acclamation; Registrar of Voters, First District, George Sistare, 88; James C. Smith, 17; Second District, Lawrence Eldridge, by acclamation; Tax Collector, F. Clifford Lewis, 79; Fred Simpson, 359; Fred L. Goss, 32; School Committee, Anthony Dixon, 83; W. W. Wright, 33; Grand Jurors, Ernest Lewis, Judson Hempstead and John Maloney; Auditor, Dr. Frank T. Howard, 66; E. Victor Washabaugh, 73; Constables, John W. Sousa, Fred Dimock and Walter Tallowen; Board of Relief to succeed Fred W. Jacques, who was nominated for first selectman and who resigned as a member of the board; Mrs. Hugh Mc Kenzie, 14; Leroy Forsyth, 25.

Arthur Weaver of Pleasure Beach, Waterford; Mrs. Frank Noyes, Groton, Miss Marion Counovel, Oswegatchie, Waterford; Thomas Murray, son of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Murray, Huntington street; Frank Perkins, Mrs. Carl French and infant daughter, Bank street, David Warren, Colman street and Mrs. William Gifford, Main street, were patients discharged Saturday at Lawrence hospital.

John Pascucci of 33 Smith st. was struck by an automobile owned and operated by Edward Stevens, Saturday forenoon, when Pascucci was attempting to board a trolley car. Pascucci was taken to Lawrence hospital where the only injury found was to his shoulder. After the wound had been treated Pascucci went to his home.

Mrs. Loren P. Davis of Meridian street, wife of a former State street plumber, now residing on Meridian street, complained to the police Saturday afternoon that her husband was taking their three year old child from the city and that she wanted her husband detained, in order that she could recover possession of the child. Mrs. Davis declared that her husband intended going to Utica, N. Y., and would make the trip by automobile. A watch was maintained for Davis, but he was not found. The police were of the opinion that the taking away of the child by Davis was the result of a difference of opinion between Davis and his wife and had the husband been found the police would have been unable to act, other than as mediators, as the husband had as much legal right to the custody of the child as did the mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schwartz and daughter, Gersidine, have returned home, having spent a week motoring in New England and on a visit to Mrs. Schwartz's relatives in Providence.

Morris Agen, a taxicab driver, fell into the 'soup' when he attempted to make money on the side—on the wrong side. He couldn't resist the chance to get some easy money, so he became a bootlegger for just the parties that were looking for fellows of his kind. State Policeman Fred Caron had his suspicion that taxicab drivers were dealing in liquor and he had a pretty strong notion that Agen was in that game. So he tried him and Agen did not stand the test. Indeed he went into the soup up to his neck. Caron represented that he was a chauffeur here from New York with his employer, "But I want a drink," Caron told Agen. The latter had a tank in his car and gave Caron a drink, which the state policeman declared to be good stuff. Then he asked Agen to get him a bottle of it and Agen saw several dollars loom right up in front of him. He was willing to accommodate the alleged 'chauffeur,' and getting next to Tony DiMarco, another taximan, Agen was told to drive his customer to the DiMarco house and get a bottle. Caron received the bottle from Agen in the taxi, tasted the whiskey and declared it all right. Agen charged Caron $10 for the whiskey, and Caron paid it. He also learned the name of the person who sold the whiskey to Agen from the lips of the latter. That party was the wife of DiMarco. Agen paid $8 for the whiskey, which he sold to Caron for $10. Then Officer Caron notified Agen that he was under arrest as a whiskey dealer. Caron also arrested Mrs. DiMarco and both were prosecuted in the police court Saturday. They made no defense and were fined $200 each and assessed the costs of trial. Both paid.

A. H. Swine, colored, a seaman at the submarine base, belies his name for he is no hog when a fellow wants a drink, if the latter will pay for it. Swine met officers of the state police force on the street in civilian garb and asked them if they wanted a drink. Though the officers did not look for fish to come right into their net without any bait, they admitted that they would buy some booze if they could get it at a reasonable price. Swine took them to his home where he supplied them with whiskey at $2.50 a pint. They bought and prosecuted him. Swine was fined $200 then arrested the negro sailor and He has a wife and five children living at 576 Bank street. The youngest child is a baby in arms. Swine explained his predicament by saying that he had been reduced in rating in the navy and that his pay had been cut and these circumstances led him to make the booze he sold that he might get more money for the support of his family. That experience will take all the money Swine can get hold of in some time. He may have told the truth, but as to that there is no confirmatory evidence.

Roman Vilauch, residing on Main street was fined $200 for dealing in booch. Roman kept his stock in his yard buried in the ground, but not so deep that it was not discovered. Vilouch did not attempt a defense.

Maxie Downey was prosecuted for keeping liquor in her home on Hill street, which was raided as a vile place Thursday and when Maxie was fined $200. A bottle of whiskey was found in the house after the officers visited the place and 'pulled' it Thursday, so the liquor was taken away on a search warrant the next day.

The accused engaged a lawyer and claimed that she did not have the liquor though a quart bottle was found there and she resented the imputation that she had it for sale. There was no evidence that Maxie did have the liquor though it was found in her place and the court found her not guilty. It was represented that some of Maxie's friends brought in the liquor.

Steamer Plymouth of the Fall River line, which has brought excursions to this port every Sunday since early in that made the trip was the smallest on here this afternoon and the crowd of the year. But 600 men and women July, made her final trip of the season on the craft when she docked, the crowds heretofore have been anywhere from 1200 to 1800.

Carter Harrison, a stranger, was arrested late last night by Special Agent Sweet of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, charged with trespassing on railroad property, when Harrison was found riding on a freight. Harrison will be present in the police court tomorrow morning. Haakon Borlson 99 Hamilton street, Daniel Scanlon, Groton, are under arrest in New York, as runaways. The New York police this afternoon requested the New London authorities to notify the parents of the youths of their predicament, but as the lads reside outside of the city the matter was turned over to the state police.

Joseph and Francis Gargano, residing at the corner of Vauxhall and Phillips street, were arrested late this afternoon charged with breach of the peace. In default of a surety on their bonds the brothers were held at the police station, pending a hearing in the city court tomorrow morning.

Joseph Gargano became involved in a fight with his wife about 5 o'clock and when the battle ended Mrs. Gargano lodged a complaint against her husband. Patrolman William Corcoran and Motorcycle Officer John Cavanaugh went to the Gargano home and took Gargano into custody. The arrested man's brother, Francis, was at the Gargano home when the fight started and the arrest of his brother took place after the officers and their prisoner had left. Francis Gargano set upon his sister-in-law and administered a severe beating to her, the woman's eyes being discolored and her earrings ripped through the lobs of each ear. Another telephone message caused Officers Corcoran and Linehan to be sent to the house but the second woman-beater had vanished. The officers made a search, however, and took Francis Gargano to the police station and made him a prisoner in a cell alongside that occupied by his brother.

The annual convention of the Sons of Italy, a three days' session, was started in New London today, the convention opening with an address of welcome by Mayor John F. Murray, in the lodge room of the society in the Dart building on Bank street, after which business of the order was taken up. At the close of the meeting a banquet was served at the Hotel Mohican at which there were present a representative number of members and guests. The convention will last until Tuesday.

The condition of Philip E. Douglass, instructor at Bulkeley High school, ill at the home of his mother, Mrs. Annabel Douglass, of Jay street, is reported as being slightly improved.

The first real move toward the obtaining by the clerks of a general closing of stores at 6 o'clock Saturday, was started Saturday evening when some of the State street drygoods and jewelry establishments suspended business. The closing was by no means general. An effort is to be made next week to secure the stores that remained open Saturday night to agree to the new closing schedule. These merchants however, have already been interviewed and have refused to agree to the early hour of closing Saturday nights, declaring that their largest business is transacted that day.

The automobile owned and operated by Charles Bloomquist, of Quaker Hill, collided with a car owned by John H. Hooker, 807 Montauk avenue, this evening, on Huntington street. Bloomquist was ordered to appear in the police court tomorrow morning and answer to a charge of reckless driving. Hooker's automobile was parked beside the curb while he visited a friend. Bloomquist was operating his machine in an easterly direction and crashed against the end of the parked car. The impact of the collision caused Bloomquist to be thrown against the steering wheel, causing his face and mouth to be bruised and cut.

Rev. Dr. Timothy M. Crowley, rector of St. Mary's Star of the Sea church, severely criticised the activities of the Civic League in advocating the election of Lucius E. Whiton, Waldo E. Clarke and Edward L. Streeter, Jr., to the city council tomorrow and by attacking the speakers at the meeting in the First Baptist church last Thursday when it was alleged that crime was allowed to be committed in New London without any regard for the law, some of the speakers intimating that criminals were put on protection by the police and no effort made to put an end to bootlegging. Fr. Crowley declared that the meeting in the First Baptist church was nothing less than formulating propaganda to secure the election of such candidates as the church desired. He referred to prohibition and stated while the law should be enforced that it was apparent that citizens throughout the country were dissatisfied with the 18th amendment and that the enforcement of prohibition would be mighty hard. Fr. Crowley referred to the police force, declaring it to be as efficient as that of any city in New England. He spoke of the salary of City Manager Barlow ($7,500 salary and $1,500 expenses), and inquired what the city manager had accomplished since he took charge as head of the city. Fr. Crowley ridiculed the alleged affidavits printed and distributed among the attendants at the meeting, inasmuch as there was not direct allegations made against a specific place or person.

At a union meeting held this evening in the Methodist Episcopal church Rev. J. Beveridge Lee declared that the persons committing crime in New London would be forced from New London and that the task of eliminating drunkenness, gambling and lewdness here was going to be accomplished before long. Rev. M. E. Genter, pastor of the church, referred to the existence of crime in New London and declared that the law should be enforced.

Tomorrow will be election day when members of the city council will be chosen. There are nine candidates seeking the office, three of whom will be elected two at tomorrow's election and one at the election to be held the 24th. The candidates are Lucius E. Whiton, Waldo E. Clarke, Edward L. Streeter, Jr., George W. Sisson, Henry S. Dorsey, Philip E. Douglass, William C. Fox, Emily C. Spiers and Mary O'Brien. The members elected at the two elections will not take office until October 3rd.

Washington, Sept. 10.—Confidently anticipating the contribution by tomorrow of the full $5,000,000 asked of the American people for Japan's earthquake sufferers, the executive committee of the Red Cross has called a meeting to take action on Ambassador Wood's cabled request for $1,000,000 to be sent immediately for expenditure in the devastated area.

A total of $4,179,600 had been reported as donated tonight.

The total amounts reported by divisions up to six o'clock tonight were: Washington $2,439,000; New England $300,000; Southern $76,250; central $645,000; southwestern $250,000; Pacific $267,800 and Insular and foreign $201,500.

A statement stressing the fact that the money collected will be expended solely for relief work was issued today by Chairman John Barton Payne of the Red Cross.

"In order to obtain the utmost coordination and effectiveness in the administration of Japanese relief funds," he said, "President Coolidge at the outset designated the American Red Cross as the agency to which all contributions should be sent.

"In addition to money contributed by the Red Cross to the Japanese relief fund the organization, in accordance with its congressional charter, is utilising its regular relief facilities to expedite immediate shipments of food, hospital supplies and shelter for sufferers in the devastated area.

"It must be remembered that every cent of the money now being collected will be utilized for actual relief. We are sending no personnel; the funds will be administrated by a volunteer committee of substantial businessmen."

Acting to prevent any serious outbreak of disease in the stricken cities, Red Cross officials prepared tonight to send medical supplies on the steamship President Jackson, which will sail tomorrow from Seattle.

A cablegram from Admiral Anderson stressing the urgency of the situation was received at the navy department. The greatest need, he said, was food and material, not personnel.

Consul Hitchcock, at Nagasaki, reported to the state department, that Vice Consul Irvin C. Correll was proceeding to Kobe under instructions issued by Consul General Johnson to help handle the refugee problem there. On September 7, Mr. Hitchcock said, clothing was being forwarded from Nagasaki for the use of the Yokohama refugees in Kobe.

FOODSTUFFS ARRIVING IN EARTHQUAKE ZONE

London, Sept. 10.—The Japanese embassy here is in receipt of advices from the foreign office in Tokio stating in effect that the general situation in the earthquake zone is ameliorating. Large quantities of rice and other foodstuffs are arriving and the food situation has been greatly relieved. Railroad traffic has been completely restored, except on a portion of the Tokaido line, and in a few days complete repairs will be effected on the telephone system.

Although the chief centers of business in Tokio and Yokohama were completely destroyed, order is being maintained and the banks are making payments in accordance with the moratorium. When imperial sanction has been received for opening the vaults of the Bank of Japan and the issuance of bank notes, assistance will be rendered to the smaller banks in the country, which will greatly improve general credit transactions and facilitate resumption of business.

MESSAGE OF GRATITUDE FROM COUNT YAMAMOTO

Washington, Sept. 10.—Ambassador Shidehara presented to Secretary Hughes today a message from Count Yamamoto, Prime Minister of Japan, expressing the deep sense of gratitude of the Japanese sovereign and people and declaring that "this precious gift of American sympathy" cannot but "serve the peace of the world, in drawing still closer the bond of friendship and trust between the two countries."

"At a time when Japan was making her best endeavors to follow the letter and spirit of the Versailles Treaty and the Washington treaties, which we believe, have laid the foundation of world peace and will greatly promote human welfare," the Prime Minister said, "the Empire was visited by a most appalling disaster, which all the elements combined.

"In this hour of deep grief and anxiety, felt alike by the Emperor and all his subjects, the President of the United States issued a proclamation urging the American people to come to the aid of the stricken people of Japan and designating the American Asiatic fleet lost no time in despatching the ships under his command to the scene of the disaster and offered the services of the entire fleet for the immediate relief of the sufferers. Some of these vessels have already arrived in the Harbor of Yokohama. At the same time the Philippine Government sent transports loaded with full cargoes for the relief.

"In the midst of the bewildering devastation, American Ambassador Woods, together with the Staff of Embassy and Americans resident in Japan are helping the relief work with a marvelous spirit of self sacrifice in spite of the fact that the Embassy itself was destroyed by fire.

"The report of these spontaneous and prompt measures taken by the President, the government and people of the United States, is creating a profound impression in the grateful hearts of suffering Japan.

"With these facts in mind, I desire to express in the name of the Japanese government their most heartfelt thanks to the American government and at the same time to convey to the President and people of the United States the deep sense of gratitude of my Sovereign and of the entire nation of Japan for this noble manifestation of a sincere and generous sympathy. I am happy in believing that this precious gift of American sympathy in the hour of greatest trial for the Japanese nation, cannot but serve the peace of the world, in drawing still closer the bond of friendship and trust between the two countries."

IRISH FREE STATE ADMITTED TO THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Geneva, Sept. 10.—(By The A. P.)—The enthusiasm with which the Irish Free State was admitted to the League of Nations today was the dominating topic of discussion in Geneva tonight. Like De Valera, when touring the United States, President Cosgrave began his salutatory address to the parliament of peoples in Gaelic, but quickly changed to English and delivered an eloquent oration.

Desmond Fitzgerald, who conducts the foreign affairs of Erin, addressed the journalists, telling them something of Ireland's hopes and ambitions.

"Our country is, perhaps, the most scarred of any in the world," Fitzgerald began. "Eighty years ago we had a population of eight and a half millions; today we have four and a quarter."

This was the sad result of continual warfare, Ireland, he declared, had the name of being belligerent, merely because she had arrested her fundamental right to liberty. Now Ireland had obtained her long sought freedom and he was convinced Ireland would henceorth be described as one of the most peace-loving nations of the earth.

Ireland, he said, rejoiced over her reception into the league, demonstrating that she takes her place "among the nations of the earth."

THREW HUSBAND'S CLOTHES OUT OF THEIR HOUSE

Hartford, Sept. 10.—Suit for divorce was brought against William T. Sloper, manager of Judd and Company, investment brokers, of this city, today, by Helen Lindenberg Sloper. Cruelty was alleged in the complaint and $150,000 alimony was asked.

At about the time the papers were being served, a woman who said she was Mrs. Sloper notified the Hartford office of Judd and Company by telephone that she had thrown her husband's clothes out of their house at No. 69 Bloomfield avenue and that if they wanted to look after his belongings they had better come up and get them.

Mr. Sloper had left the office. His father, former Senator Andrew J. Sloper, president of the New Britain National bank, said tonight that his son would sail for Europe tomorrow for a rest and that he was in a nervous condition after his experience. Lawyer W. C. Hungerford of New Britain will represent Mr. Sloper's interests, Bolden & Peck are lawyers for Mrs. Sloper.

PREDICTS CHINA WILL NOT ACCEPT PROPOSAL OF POWERS

Providence, Sept. 10.—Declaring that compliance with the demands made by the great powers following the capture by Chinese bandits of 13 American and 16 other foreigners by Shantung bandits in May would be inconsistent with the dignity of the Chinese government, Alfred S. K. Sze, Chinese minister to the United States, speaking before the 19th annual convention of the Chinese students' alliance at Brown university today, prophesied that China would reject the proposals made by the powers.

While pointing out that his statements were made in a personal sense only and that he had received no official advice from Peking as to the course that would be pursued by his government, he asserted positively that China could not accept the conditions asked by the powers.

WOMAN ARRESTED FOR SHOOTING PROVIDENCE MAN

Providence, R. I., Sept. 10.—Search for the woman who Ernest R. Smith, coal merchant of this city, claimed shot him on August 29, in a lonely spot in Smithfield, ended shortly before six o'clock this evening with the arrest of Gertrude Gilheeney, Nee Fish, alias Norman, at the home of her mother in the Mount Pleasant section of this city.

At the hospital where Smith is still under treatment, he identified the prisoner as the Gertrude Johnson he said shot him after he had refused a demand for $10,000 alleged blackmail money.

The woman refused to say anything about the affair.

AN EXCEUTIONAL VIEW OF ECLIPSE IN MEXICO CITY

Mexico City, Sept. 10 (By the A. P.)—Irregular masses of cumulous clouds parted sufficiently today to afford the people of Mexico City an exceptional view of the solar eclipse, which at its maximum was 994-1,000ths complete.

The eclipse began at 1 hour, 30 minutes, 59 1-2 seconds, Mexican afternoon time and ended at 4 hours, 1 minute, 41 9-10 seconds.

As this cloudbank passing approximately at the maximum of the eclipse caused a weird, unearthly sort of twilight, which enveloped the capital and obliged the turning on of electric lights indoors.

EUROPE OBSERVATIONS ON WEST COAST UNSUCCESSFUL

Los Angeles, Calif., Sept. 10.—Observations of the solar eclipse from camps on Santa Catalina Island off the coast near Los Angeles were unsuccessful, it was announced over the Los Angeles Times radio this afternoon by Professor A. O. Lauschner, University of California astronomer.

82 Persons Killed in Train Wreck.

Riga, Sept. 10.—A dispatch received here from Moscow says an express train was derailed Saturday at Omak and that 82 persons were killed and 162 injured.

HILEY P. DISHER SLAYS WIFE, THEN SUICIDE

Scituate, Mass., Sept. 10.—[illegible] day that his wife, formerly Miss Josie Cheney, of South Manchester, Conn., had arranged to meet her attorney in Boston to disclose divorce proceedings, Hiley P. Disher summoned her to his room in their summer home at Egypt this morning and shot her dead, according to the Scituate police investigating the tragedy. Disher then turned his army pistol on himself. He died two hours later.

Chief of Police Turner, of Scituate said he had learned that Disher and his wife had quarreled frequently of late over money matters. Mrs. Disher, a daughter of the late Richard O. Cheney, of South Manchester, Conn., was said to have objected to her husband's expenditures. A week ago Mrs. Disher, who, the police said, furnished the funds for the house, dismissed all the servants but a caretaker and the chauffeur. Within the past two or three days she had made plans to meet her attorney today to initiate divorce proceedings, they said:

Mrs. Disher's brother, Richard C. Cheney, of South Manchester, Conn., a director of Cheney Brothers, silk manufacturers, and president of the South Manchester railroad, arrived here late today to take charge of affairs.

Mrs. Disher had been married twice, her first husband, whose name was Denison, having been employed by her father as a chauffeur. She secured a divorce from him several years after her marriage. Three years ago after her marriage to Disher she bought the house at Egypt. She was said to have an income of $40,000 a year.

Disher, who is said to have lived formerly at Culver, Ind., served in the air forces during the war, receiving his commission as second lieutenant in January, 1918. In January, 1919, he was a pilot at Bolling Field, Washington. In 1920 he was sent to Manila, where he served as supply officer and a pilot in the Third Air Squadron. He was discharged at Manila December 31, 1920, and was commissioned a second lieutenant in the organized reserves in July, 1921. In April of this year he requested active duty at Mitchell Field from July 8 to September 15, but the request was not granted.

OKLAHOMA GUARDSMEN TO COPE WITH KU KLUX KLAN

Oklahoma City, Okla., Sept. 10—(By, the A. P.)—Adjutant General Baird H. Markham was instructed today by Governor Walton to prepare orders holding Oklahoma National Guard units in readiness for immediate movement in connection with Ku Klux Klan demonstrations expected during the week.

KLAN OFFICIALS CALL OFF MASKED ASSEMBLAGES

Oklahoma City, Okla., Sept. 10—(By the A. P.)—Bowing to Governor J. C. Walton's edict against masked assemblages, state officials of the Ku Klux Klan issued an order here tonight forbidding Klansmen in Oklahoma to hold masked parades or meetings.

The order came when preparations were under way by Governor Walton to use troops, if necessary, to prevent a series of Klan demonstrations scheduled over the state this week, the first of which was advertised for Bristow tonight.

Adjutant General B. Markham had been instructed earlier in the day to hold National Guard units in readiness for movement to the counties in which the Klan parades were planned.

"The Klan is our law and order first, last and all the time. Because of this fact, any parade or masked meeting of any kind in the state of Oklahoma absolutely is forbidden," said the statement of Grand Dragon N. C. Jewett, announcing the Klan order.

"Since Governor Walton," the statement added, "has apparently declared war on the Klan and issued his edict that there shall be no more parades in masks or public assemblies of klansmen, were we to follow our constitutional rights under the laws of this state and our country, it would give him much pleasure to invoke martial law, thereby casting a shadow of disgrace upon the great state of Oklahoma.

"This action has not been taken because of any fear on the part of the Ku Klux Klan of state troops, but because of fear of the consequences that might arise through disobedience of this despotic edict."

KU KLUX KLAN ORGANIZER ARRESTED IN MACON, GA.

Macon, Ga., Sept. 10.—J. P. Durkee, organizer of the Ku Klux Klan in Macon, was arrested here tonight on two warrants charging him with rioting and assault and battery in connection with the Macon flogging cases.

Durkee is charged with participating in the flogging of R. F. Mills, a local chiropodist. His bond was fixed at $5,000.

Durkee's arrest is the ninth in the clean-up campaign being conducted here by city and county officials.

ESCAPED CONVICT SHOT IN HAND AND RECAPTURED

Kingston, Ont., Sept. 10.—Edward McMullen, one of four convicts who escaped from the penitentiary today after setting fire to the stables, was captured late this afternoon. He had been shot in the hand by a guard, he said, and was unable to keep up with his companions. Posses are still hunting the other three men, and all railway lines are guarded.

FABER LINER TO LAND ALIENS AT PROVIDENCE

Providence, R. I., Sept. 10.—The Faber liner Patria, is scheduled to arrive at this port tomorrow morning at 7 o'clock with 861 passengers from Marseilles and other ports. # Forecast of Crops By Department of Agriculture

Corn Crop Better Than Expected Earlier in the Season—Wheat Shows Decrease.

Washington, Sept. 10.—Abundance of rain in the corn belt this summer has resulted in a better corn crop than expected earlier in the season, but decreased threshing returns and th ravage of rust caused a drop in the estimated wheat crop, it was shown in crop estimates issued today by the Department of Agriculture.

The forecast based upon the condition of the spring wheat was 221,000,000 bushels, or about four million bushels less than estimated on August 1st by department experts. This brought the all wheat estimate to 789,000,000 bushels, as compared with the previous figure of 793,006,000 bushels.

The corn crop was estimated at a yield of 3,076,000,000 bushels which exceeds by 94,000,000 bushels the estimate based upon the crop condition nf August 1, but oats showed a decrease of four million bushels from last month's estimate, being 1,312,000,000 bushels against 1,316,000,000.

Other important crops showed only slight increases or decreases from a month ago. Those showing increases included white and sweet potatoes, tobacco, flaxseed, hay and apples; while rice, barley, pea barley, peaches, peanuts and grain sorghums were under August 1 estimates.

PROF. IRVING FISHER ADDRESSED NAT. W. C. T. U.

Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 10.—Despite protests made by Mrs. John Gordon Battelle, associate member of the republican national committee, and Charles W. Montgomery, chairman of the republican state central committee, on "behalf of the republicans of Ohio and friends of the late President Harding" against the appearance of Prof. Irving Fisher, of Yale university, "tonight or at any other time at a public meeting held in the home state of President Harding," Professor Fisher tonight addressed the national convention of the W. C. T. U. in session here on the league of nations.

Miss Anna Gordon, national president of the W. C. T. U., tonight refused to comment on the protest, declaring "I have nothing to say other than Professor Fisher will speak."

The protest was based on a recent statement of Professor Fisher that President Harding was in favor of the league of nations and was only opposing it for political reasons, because of the necessity for keeping harmony within the ranks of his own party.

MAINE KLAN OFFICIALS CLAIM POLITICAL VICTORY

Portland, Maine, Sept. 10.—Officials of the Ku Klux Klan, Realm of Maine, tonight claimed victory in the first attempt of the Klan to influence an election in this state. The "plan three charter" providing for a council of five and a city manager supported by the organization, was adopted by the voters of Portland today by a margin of approximately 1100 votes. Two years ago a similar plan came within 100 votes of adoption.

Although the Plan Three charter was supported by Klan leaders, the non-partisan committee of 100, which sponsored the charter, had denied publicly that the Klan was associated in the movement. Two other plans of city government were submitted to the voters at the same time. Fifty per cent. of the total votes cast required for adoption of a charter.

F. Eugene Farsworth, King Kleagle of the Ku Klux Klan, Realm of Maine, exhorted members of his organization at public meetings and newspaper advertisements to take part in the elections and "vote against the gang."

FALLING OFF OF CHURCH ATTENDANCE IN NEW ENGLAND

Boston, Sept. 10. — Protestant churches in the northeastern United States are losing ground rapidly to a spirit of materialism fostered by Sunday golf, auto excursions, war reaction, immigration increases and money worship, delegates from six New England states told 300 clergymen assembled at the second day session of the New England conference on Evangelism here today. The conference is being conducted under the auspices of the American Baptist Home Missions society.

Maine, with the largest rural population of New England, is the highest in percentage of non-church members, statistics submitted by the investigators revealed. According to statistics compiled by Rev. George H. Hamlen, D. D., delegate from Maine, 65 out of every 100 persons in that state are admittedly out of the church.

AMBASSADORS INQUIRING INTO SLAYING OF ITALIANS

Paris, Sept. 10.—(By the A. P.)—The inter-allied council of ambassadors took up this afternoon in detail the organization of the inquiry into the assination of Italian commissioner Tellini and his suite, of the Albanian border commission, the cause of the present disturbed Italo-Greek relations. The council also considered the dates for the carrying out of the different acts required of Greece in satisfaction of the Italian demands.

The reply to Greece's acceptance, giving these details and making it clear that the evacuation of Corfu will follow the complete execution of the measures demanded of Greece, will be drawn up at another meeting of the ambassadors tomorrow.

$20,000 DAMAGE BY FIRE IN CENTER OF HARTFORD

Hartford, Sept. 10. — Fire which started in the basement of the Slater Shoe store in the center of the city at 4:16 o'clock tonight, resulted in damage estimated at $20,000. Smoke was responsible for the greater part of the loss, millinery, jewelry and women's apparel in nearby stores being ruined by the heavy fumes from the burning leather. Frank E. Smith, head of the Astna Stamp works, occupying the fourth floor, was overcome by smoke before he could escape from the building, and was carried to safety by firemen. Chief John C. Moran was injured in the left leg by a claw hook used in removing an obstruction.

Favors Probe of Coal Freight Rates

President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers Backs Governor Pinchot's Suggestion.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 10.—President John L. Lewis, of the United Mine Workers, today sent a letter to President Coolidge supporting the suggestion of Governor Pinchot that the interstate commerce commission investigate anthracite coal freight rates. The governor, Mr. Lewis said, has placed his finger with unerring precision "upon the method by which the consumers of anthracite may be given substantial relief from present excessive prices, and the possibility of a future increase."

Mr. Lewis' letter is as follows:

"My dear Mr. President: Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania with unerring precision has placed his finger upon the method by which the consumers of anthracite may be given substantial relief from present excessive prices and the possibility of a future increase. The existing freight rates upon anthracite to tidewater and New England points are excessive, unjustified and indefensible. The cost of transport per ton mile as compared with bituminous substantiates this judgment.

"The United Mine Workers have long contended for a revision of these rates, and the public is to be congratulated that such a powerful influence as Governor Pinchot has pointed the way to immediate relief in this major problem. If the administrative agencies of the federal government will cooperate with this proposal its success will be insured and relief will be given to millions of householders and busines interests in anthracite consuming territory.

"Governor Pinchot's suggestion that the United States coal commission make public its findings upon anthracite profits in production and wholesale and retail distribution is recommendable. It is unfortunate, indeed, that the commission could not have made public this report on July 9th, when its major report on anthracite was issued. This report when issued should deal not alone with the profits of the industry based upon present valuation, but should set forth in detail earnings and profits based upon original investments.

"The proposals of Governor Pinchot as set forth in his letter to you, made public today, are constructive, reasonable and practicable and you would be conferring a boon upon the people of anthracite consuming states if the inuence of your high office were directed in support thereof."

PINCHOT CALLS GOVERNORS FOR COAL CONFERENCE

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 10.—(By The A. P.)—Speaking as the chief executive of the only anthracite producing state, Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania today called upon the governors of thirty other anthracite consuming states to join him in seeking methods of safeguarding coal users against higher prices during the coming winter.

In a letter to the governors, in which he told them he is directing an investigation in his own state of "means or methods of any and every kind which could be used to prevent gouging of the consumer," he suggested similar studies in each of the other states looking toward a personal conference concerning joint action later.

As an initial step in his own investigation, he conferred with Chairman W. D. B. Ainey, of the Pennsylvania Public Service commission, which body, he told President Coolidge in a letter last night, he would ask to make a study of the reasonableness of anthracite freight rates within the state. He suggested to the president that the interstate commerce commission make a similar investigation of transportation rates on hard coal with a view to their readjustment.

Certain other factors, he pointed out in his letter to the governors, are so local, "outside action could not influence them while there are others upon which joint action of the governors "would be useful in preventing extortion." Among the more local matters to which Governor Pinchot referred are the profits of coal dealers, such as wholesalers, retailers, jobbers and distributors.

The governor also conferred today with officials of the state department of mines which tonight made public figures of the annual distribution of anthracite from Pennsylvania to the largest consumers of coal among the states. These figures were: New York 11,850,000 tons, New Jersey 7,250,000, Massachusetts 3,490,000, Illinois 11,700,000, Connecticut 1,637,000, Wisconsin 1,320,000, Michigan 1,000,000, Maryland 870,000, Minnesota 760,000, Rhode Island 590,000 and the District of Columbia 530,000. The figures were based on 1922 exports. They included 7,250,000 tons consumed in Pennsylvania.

Besides the governors of these states, Mr. Pinchot sent his letter to the chief executives of the other New England states, and those of Delaware, Virginia and West Virginia, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Missouri, Nebraska, North and South Dakota, Ohio, Tennessee, Texas and Alabama.

Plans for a joint conference of the governors are indefinite and dependent, it was indicated, upon the results of the action they may take in response to Governor Pinchot's letter. No immediate preparations will be made for a meeting it was said at the state capitol, none probably would be made until the return to Harrisburg of the governor, who left late today for a two weeks' vacation.

RAIDS IN MIDDLETOWN BY 26 STATE POLICEMEN

Middletown, Conn., Sept. 10.—Twenty-six state policemen, under direction of Superintendent Robert C. Hurley, assisted by Chief Charles A. Anderson and thirteen Middletown policemen, tonight made raids on 14 places here, the proprietors of which were suspected of violating the liquor laws.

Evidence was obtained in eight places. Two women and six men were held in bonds of $500 each for appearance in city court tomorrow morning.

Ernest A. Inglis, state's attorney for Middlesex county, who has announced that he intends to "clean up" Middletown so far as liquor violations are concerned, was directly responsible for the raids.

STORY OF GROUNDING AND WRECK OF THE DESTROYERS

Shore Directions Were Garbled by the Flood of Air Messages From the Wrecked Steamer, Cuba—Crews of the Woodbury and Fuller Clung to Their Ships All Through the Night—All Seven Destroyers, Valued at $1,500,000 Each, Are Believed to be Beyond Salvage.

Los Angeles, Calif., Sept. 10 (By the A. P.)—Treachery of the sea and air were the main factors in the wreck of seven of Uncle Sam's sea hornets, destroyers of the Pacific fleet, which pitched, at 20 knots an hour onto the jagged rocks of La Honda, 75 miles north of Santa Barbara Saturday night, according to the belief of naval experts here. Twenty-two lives and seven warships paid the toll.

Four hours previously the Pacific Mail liner Cuba had piled up on San Miguel Island, 35 miles away, and the air was filled with radio messages telling of her plight and directing the work of rescue.

In the meantime Destroyer Squadron 11 of the fleet was cruising south in a heavy fog, 19 clean-cut craft, breasting a choppy sea in column formation and steering behind their leader, the Delphy, dead reckoning the wireless compass directions from ashore.

The shore directions are said to have become garbled with the flood of air messages on the Cuba wreck and the speedy destroyer squadron was left to the fog—and the sea.

Then the evil genious of the latter added its quota to the sea fighters' dilemma, and cross currents swept the flotilla out of its course to fling seven of the leading vessels onto the La Honda cliffs, an estimated twenty miles from the ocean lane they believed they were following.

The Delphy crashed first and within a few moments, six of her sister ships, Chauncey, Young, Woodbury, Fuller, Lee and Nicholas, were impaled with her on the rocks. A heavy surf swung them back and forth against the reefs, pounding the frail sides of the navy's speed boats into sieves; the Young turned over and imprisoned 19 of her crew below decks in berths that became their tombs. Three of the Delphy's company also went to sailor's graves, while three more of their shipmates went adrift on a raft. Their fate still is in doubt.

The Woodbury rammed another cras and listed heavily. The Fuller joined her on the seaward side of the same rock. The Lee grounded close in shore and the Nicholas came to her end a few yards farther out with her bow pointed landward.

As the Delphy touched bottom and a moment later crashed, her shrill siren split the fog in warning to the remainder of the squadron. The whistle blast probably saved eleven of the flotilla but six of the leaders of the column behind the Delphy were too close to avail themselves of the warning and plunged forward to their doom. The other destroyers of the flotilla had taken a different course.

With the grounding of the craft their fires were banked, searchlights were dark and the only illumination of their tilted decks were occasional hand flashlights.

Chief Electrician Erckenberg of the Delphy swam forty feet to the nearest rock with a lifeline and his shipmates came along it hand over hand. Erckenberg again jumped into the raging sea and carried the line ashore.

Chief Boatswain's Mate Peterson, of the Young duplicated the electrician's feat. Peterson married a line from his vessel to the Chauncey and gave his comrades a slim path of safety from their overturned ship.

The crews of the Woodbury and Fuller, speared on two sides by the same cluster of crags, clung to their ships all through the night. They were the farthest out of the unfortunate seven ships and were taken off at daybreak by a fishing smack that loomed up a welcome rescuer through the fog.

For those who reached the shore during the night the dark, cold hours in scant, wet clothing, were almost as trying as for their squadron mates still aboard the wrecks.

Later railroad ties were gathered and camp fires were lit. Doctors came from Lompoc to attend the five score injured who were bruised and battered by the pounding surf. A special train with doctors, nurses and food started for the refugee camp from San Luis Obispo before 2 o'clock in the morning and Santa Barbara too sent her quota of medical aid to the castaways. Thirteen of the more seriously injured survivors were rushed to a Santa Barbara hospital.

Two life rafts put off from the stranded flotilla and headed blindly for supposed safety through the black fog. One, with five men aboard was picked up at Arlight, a naval wireless station, about three miles south of the wreck this morning. Three men are still missing.

Seaman Pearson, of the Delphy, blinded by the oily coating on the sea and crazed by the pain of his injuries, he resisted efforts of his mates to rig a breeches buoy to carry him to safety. Then the vessel began to break up and his comrades were forced to lash him to a mast as a last resort but as the remainder of the crew went over the side the craft cracked in two and Pearson went down with his ship.

The fog, treacherous currents and the air full of confused radio, tied the hands of the remainder of the destroyer squadron and prevented them from going to the aid of the stricken seven. Standing out in the channel during the night, warned by the fate of the others that they were far off their course and unable in the darkness to correct their bearings. They were unable to offer help without the almost certain probability of joining the others on the rocks.

The body of Fireman's Mate Conroy, of Oklahoma, was the first recovered last night.

All of the seven smashed ships are believed to be beyond salvage except for some of the equipment. Each was valued at approximately $1,500,000.

NO EXPLANATION OF DISASTER TO DESTROYERS

Washington, Sept. 10.—Lacking even the barest official explanation of the loss of seven first class destroyers on the California coast, Navy officials tonight continued to withhold judgment on what they termed the most severe peace time blow the Navy has ever sustained.

Although regulations prescribe that every effort be made to forward immediately names of dead and injured in such cases, no such list had been received at the department up to a late hour tonight. The initial dispatch from Admiral Robinson, commanding the Pacific Fleet, informed the department that specific orders had been issued for the preparation and relay of this list. The duty being assigned to Captain Edward H. Watson, commanding the wrecked squadron.

The theory advanced in press dispatches that radio operators on the ships which had requested them to aid in the rescue work had become panic stricken and in the confusion had failed to report the names of the dead and injured, was declared by officers in the department to be doubtful. Leaving out of all consideration, they said, destroyers were thrown off their reckoning by shore signals intended for the Reno; was declared by officers in the material difference in location of the stranded mail steamer and the destroyer group, "position signals" invariably are addressed specifically to the ship which has requested them. This was held to render it improbable that all of the operators on the Naval vessels could have taken the signals as bearing upon their own course and to have acted in concert, although one might have done so.

Unofficial description of the scene of the wreck and known peculiarities of the coastal area in which it occurred, led to the belief by some officials that a tidal disturbance of unusual force threw the destroyers far off their course, probably without the knowledge of the officers on board.

MURDEROUS WORK OF MAN CRAZED WITH "MOONSHINE"

Bellevile, Ill., Sept. 10.—(By the A. P.)—Walter C. Cochran, 40 years old, said to be crazed as a result of drinking moonshine whiskey, held two score of police officers and deputy sheriffs at bay for four hours this afternoon while barricading himself in his home here after fatally shooting his wife and seriously wounding his mother-in-law and two officers.

He finally was captured after a barrage of riot guns was directed against the house and a dozen tear bombs were thrown inside by police officers from St. Louis, who were summoned to the aid of the local department.

During the exchange of shots, the wife, Mrs. Maude Cochran, 33 years old, lay in the yard of the house, dying from wounds in the abdomen and neck, while officers were unable to reach her. Later, she was removed to a hospital where she succumbed to her wounds.

The wounded are Mrs. Emily Hall, 70, years old, the mother-in-law, who is not expected to recover; George F. Schilling, 48, patrolman, and A. Petri, deputy sheriff, both of whom are said to be in a critical condition.

DEMENTED MAN ATTACKED HIS FAMILY WITH HATCHET

Lincoln, R. I., Sept. 10.—Mrs. Annie Fitzpatrick, 63, died at the Memorial hospital in Pawtucket tonight from wounds inflicted by her demented nephew, Arthur Rushton, 42, early this morning, when he attacked her and his mother, Mrs. Mathilda Kellett, 63, with a hatchet as they lay asleep in their bed.

Rushton had been released from the state instution on parole four weeks ago. This morning he says he was told by "voices" to cut off the heads of his mother and aunt. He went down to the cellar, got a hatchet and crept into the room where the two aged women were sleeping.

He attacked his aunt first. Her screams awakened his mther, who was wounded in attempting to restrain him. His stepfather, James Kellett, finally subdued the man.

Mrs. Kellett is still at the hospital. Rushton was recommitted to the state institution.

ZR-1 TO GO OVER NEW YORK CITY IN TRIAL FLIGHT TODAY

Lakehurst, N. J., Sept. 10.—Weather conditions permitting the giant naval dirigible ZR-1, will leave her hangar at the United States naval air station here at o'clock tomorrow morning, (daylight saving time) on a trial flight that is expected to take her over New York city. It is expected that the ZR-1 will reach New York in the early morning hours.

The huge ship made her third flight this evening, taking the air at 6:15 and remaining aloft for an hour and a half. Officers at the station declared that the flight was a complete success and that the ship behaved perfectly.

SEISMIC INSTRUMENTS RECORD VIOLENT QUAKE

Florence, Sept. 10.—The observatory here registered shortly before midnight a violent earthquake in a northeasterly direction at a distance of about 4,700 miles. The seismic instruments were in an agitated condition for about two hours.

Victoria, B. C., Sept. 10.—An earthquake, so far away as to confuse the record and make estimation of the distance uncertain, was recorded at Gonzales Heights observatory yesterday. The first wave was registered at 8:25:45 p. m. The maximum wave was at 8:46 p. m.

PASSENGERS AND BULLION TAKEN OFF STEAMER CUBA

San Francisco, Sept. 10.—With [illegible] passengers, most of the crew and $500,000 in gold and silver bullion safely landed, Captain J. C. Holtz and four members of his crew tonight remained on the Pacific mail liner Cuba at the spot where she struck a reef near Santa Barbara Saturday night.

The captain and his men stayed on the ship to look after the interests of the owners pending arrangements for salvaging the vessel. Reports that the ship had broken up were unfounded.

Daniel Cunningham of the Natchaug district, Chaplin, is in a critical condition at St. Joseph' Hospital this city, with a bullet wound in his head near the right eye received at his home late Sunday afternoon. A great deal of mystery is involved in the shooting. The hospital authorities will not make any statements concerning the facts, except to acknowledge that Cunningham is a patient at the institution. Residents of Chaplin, living close by the Cunningham home knew nothing about the case when interviewed by a reporter Monday and Mrs. Cunningham and her 14 year old daughter Corinne had left the premises, without giving out any information.

Some of Mrs. Cunningham's friends called her on the telephone Sunday evening but the only statements she would make was that "one bullet from the gun had entered Mr. Cunningham's right eyeball".

One story told was to the effect that Cunningham was cleaning a gun and that it accidently discharged. Dr. A. D. Marsh was called after the accident but owing to Cunningham's condition he sent for Dr. Owen O'Neil, for a consultation. It was thought advisable to take Mr. Cunningham to the hospital and he was brought here in Killourey Brothers' ambulance. Mr. Cunningham is a waiter in a Hartford hotel and visited his home in Chaplin every two weeks. He first came to Chaplin about ten years ago and for a number of years was employed in Providence, R. I., hotels. His daughter, Corinne Cunningham, entered the Hartford High School, this fall term.

Mayor Charles A. Gates has issued an appeal to local residents to contribute Willimantic's share of the $5,000,000 fund being raised throughout the United States for the relief of the residents of Japan recently visited by the greatest catastrophe in the history of the world. The appeal is for $1,000 to be raised within 48 hours. President Frank P. Fenton of the local chapter of the Red Cross, which has the work in hand, states that large subscriptions are not looked for, as contributions of 50 cents or $1 each from 2,000 residents will raise the amount set as the Thread City's quota. Contributions of any denomination are solicited and may be left with Mr. Fenton at the town clerk's office or at the Windham National Bank, the Willimantic Trust Company, or the Willimantic Savings Institute.

Everett Weldon Sweet, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Sweet, of 83 Walnut street, this city, and Miss Fannie Lee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Wolfe Rosen and his family were in New York last week to await the arrival of Steamship Astonia. There were about 1,500 immigrants from Russia on board, including Mrs. Rosen's mother, Mrs. Mollie Levine. The ship docked in New York fifteen seconds before noon Saturday and as the August quota of immigrants from Russia had been filled, the authorities refused to allow the passengers to disembark. The distressing rumor was then heard that the ship would probably leave shortly to return to Europe. Hundreds on board became frantic with fear of being sent back and many threatened to commit suicide rather than return to their native country. Counsel was engaged by relatives and friends of the passengers and the matter was brought before Secretary of Labor Davis, at Washington.

Meanwhile, the passengers were straining against the railing of the ship and crying out to those on land. Relatives paid exorbitant prices to be allowed to go on board and render what consolation they could. Mr. Rosen succeeded several times in climbing a rope on the ship and speaking to his mother-in-law and offering her what assurance was possible. Secretary Davis finally rendered a decision in which he said that the Astonia had dropped anchor two minutes after noon, therefore the passengers, being on the September quota would be allowed to disembark. Mrs. Levine is now with relatives in New Jersey recuperating from a slight shock resulting from the suspense.

Nine local young men who were brought before Justice of the Peace Fred M. Bedard in Brooklyn town court, pleaded guilty to the charge of breach of the peace and were fined accordingly. Five were under age and Thomas F. Towan of this city was appointed guardian at litem for them. They were: Clarence Moriarty, Edward Aloboszek, Martin Clere, Fred Chartier and Leo Lavalley. The others were: James Healey, Henry Couchon, Arthur Haggerty and Leonard Lingler. Fines of $6 and costs were imposed. An additional charge is prefered against Edward Aloboszek by an Eastford man who claims that the former crowded him off the road on the Eastford highway, causing a tire to burst on his machine. Aloboszek, who will appear in the Eastford town court, claims that the Eastford man was driving a Ford and was hogging the road.

The Hall Memorial School and community building at South Willington was dedicated Friday evening in the presence of a large number of residents. There was music by a Stafford Springs orchestra and songs were sung by children of the seventh and eighth grades of the Town schools and the Alumni, under the direction of Mrs. Walter Gahan. Scripture reading and prayer was by Rev. W. V. Allen and was followed by a flag salute. Talks were given by Dr. A. E. Meredith, commissioner of education and by N. S. Light, director of rural education. The dedicatory program was read by Dr. Meredith with responses by the people. In behalf of the pupils of the South Willington schools, Beatrice Male gave the school a large picture of the late William Henry Hall. Holman Hall, in behalf of the alumni, gave pictures of Sir Galahad and The Angelus. Brief addresses were made by L. T. Garrison and others. The fine new structure was erected by Mrs. Gardiner Hall, Jr., and Rosa C. Hall as a memorial to Gardiner Hall, Gardiner Hall, Jr., and William Henry Hall. The structure is of pressed brick with limestone trimmings and granite steps and has a green slate roof. It is 137 feet long and 80 feet wide. Included in the rooms is a large auditorium, with a stage.

The funeral of Edward William Kelley was held Monday morning at ten o'clock from the home of his parents, 12 Grove Place. Burial was in the family plot at St. Joseph's cemetery. Killourey Brothers were in charge of the arrangements.

Miss Lucille Harroun, who has been at the home of her parents for several weeks has returned to Washington, D. C. Mr. and Mrs. James L. Harroun and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest W. Collins motored with her to New Haven. Mr. and Mrs. Collins are now at their newly furnished home in East Hartford.

There will be a large representation of local Rotarians at the fall conclave which begins in Rutland, Vt. this (Tuesday) afternoon. Sixteen members with their parties left Monday by automobile. They planned to spend the evening as guests of the Holyoke Club and later, of the Pittsfield club for a supper and dance. They are expected to return here Friday.

Rosh Hashanah, the Jewish New Year, was observed by local Hebrews at the synagogue on Bank street Monday evening at 6 o'clock. Rabbi Max Levine was in charge of the service which will be continued this (Tuesday) morning at 7 o'clock. The service today, will last until noon and Rabbi Levine will be assisted by Rabbi A. Jacobson of Norwich. The closing service is to be held this evening at sundown.

John Arnold, a member of Company G, 169th Connecticut Infantry, who was struck and badly injured by an automobile at East Haven July 18, while the company was encamped there, was taken Sunday from the New Haven Hospital to his home 18 Spruce street. Mr. Arnold still suffers from the accident, having two fractures of his left leg and a broken forearm.

Norman Richards, eleven, of 148 Quercus avenue is at St. Joseph's Hospital with two broken ribs and a severe wound extending from the forehead to the back of the head. The Richards boy fell to the ground from an apple tree on Mountain street a distance of fourteen feet.

The selectmen of the town of Coventry have closed their books for the fiscal year ending September 1st, 1923 and the auditors have completed their examinations of the accounts, finding a balance in favor of the town of $1,263.30. As far as the records show there are only three other towns in the state showing a surplus in available assets over outstanding orders.

Mrs. Joseph Caillouette, 67, fell down a stairway and into the cellar at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Lamoureux of Willowbrook street, recently and fractured her wrist.

WILLIMANTIC POLICE COURT RAPPED BY ALDERMAN

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, Sept. 10.—The Willimantic police court received a severe rapping from Alderman William E. Jackson Monday evening at the September meeting of the board of aldermen, over which Mayor Charles A. Gates presided. While making a report of the investigations of the police court, Alderman Jackson said that no definite steps had been taken but that the police committee was endeavoring to find out the amount of power with which they were vested and if the committee is within its rights a thorough investigation will follow. Alderman Jackson said that the whole affair would be turned over to the sanitary committee.

Mr. and Mrs. Amos Bill appeared before the councilmen to present a claim for damages made by Mrs. Ora A. Bill in 1915 to property on Lebanon avenue. The Bills asked for a replacement of the walls abutting their property, which had been torn down when the avenue had been extended. According to law, the present council could take no action on the matter.

The report of Chief of Police Allan McArthur showed 57 arrests during the month. The expenses of the street department totalled $1,897.34. The permanent members of the fire department petitioned for a raise in salary of $1 a day, aggregating $35 a week, and the matter was referred to the fire committee for investigation.

Petitions from the business men and property owners on North and Church streets were read asking the council to retain the same parking rules as now exist. Alderman Jacobs moved that the petitioners be given permission to withdraw the petition. Additional lights were asked for Jackson and Pleasant streets, and the committee on lights was given power to act. A petition from Judge of the Police Court Frank H. Foss was read asking for necessary equipment and stationery for the local court room. The petition was referred to the police committee, to confer with the selectmen, and act in conformity with the latter body. Six sidewalk applications were read. The purchasing committee was authorized to buy six large garbage cans for the city. The resolution was introduced by Alderman Jacobs.

Mayor Charles A. Gates was authorized to call a city meeting to determine whether or not the taxpayers will vote to fully equip and rebuild the icehouses recently destroyed by fire. The resolution was offered by Alderman Roy.

Mrs. Elizabeth Barrows of Prospect street is to receive the sum of $200 for damages caused to her property by the falling of two abutting trees. The resolution was submitted by Alderman Flynn. Alderman Hickey gave a report of the last city meeting on the parking system. Alderman Jacobs moved that the report be accepted and that the ordinance committee be empowered to draw up whatever ordinances they deemed necessary and to cause their enforcement. The committee was authorized to draw parking lines on Main street.

The division of the day into hours is of such antiquity that its origin is uncertain, although it is said to go back as far as the third century B. C.

JEWETT CITY

W. A. Richardson, driving with his wife, and with Daniel Shea as a passenger, in the Richardson automobile, were in collision with another machine near Middleboro, Mass., Friday afternoon. The accident was one of the unavoidable collisions of the highway with no blame attached to Mr. Richardson. Mrs. Richardson was painfully injured, being first taken to St. Luke's hospital, and later removed to the Clinton, Mass., hospital. No definite statement could be made by the doctors Monday noon to the ultimate results of her injuries. Mr. Shea had six stitches taken to close a scalp wound. Mr. Richardson was badly bruised about the body. His wife is a graduate nurse and has gained the esteem an love of many local friends.

The following scores were shot on the Voluntown Rifle club range. Mrs. Fred Stebbins made a very fine 50 shot score in the rest match, 498 out of a possible 500 and Fred Stebbins was the winner of the Edmond Medal with a score of 95 out of a possible 100 on the expert target.

There is to be a prize shoot at the Pachaug Grange fair which all lovers of the sport will be invited to attend. A number of prizes will be shot for.

Arrangements are being perfected for one grand fair of the Pachaug Grange association. There is to be a carnival with two good, clean sideshows, a merry-go-round, rifle shooting and concessions occupied by attractions of various sorts. Most appetizing dinners are to be served each day. The farm exhibits have always been well worth seeing. The sports committee is arranging a fine programme.

The Pachaug orchestra gave the first in a series of dances in the town hall Saturday night, which wass well patronized. A feature of the programme was the ladies' quadrille. There was a novelty waltz the prize being won by Miss Alice Pepin and her partner. Those who were present expressed appreciation of Officer John Dolan's assistance in making the evening a safe and sane pleasure. The proceeds of these dances are to be used for improvements in the town hall.

A large gathering of sportsmen is expected at the meeting of Ashland Fish and Game Protective association, to be held at Ashland club house Tuesday, Sept. 11. During the short time the association has existed there has been liberated in the local brooks 45 cans, containing over 11,000 trout; 30 of the cans contained fish ranging from 6 to 8 inches in length.

The association has also secured and raised 517 English pheasants which were liberated in the following towns: Griswold, Voluntown, Lisbon, Preston, Canterbury and southern Plainfield. The birds were scattered as much as possible to avoid any possibility of having any certain spot get exploited as being thick with birds and thus have a bunch of hunters shoot the place up.

Several of the hunters whose only luck last year was to bag a few tail feathers are going to avail themselves of an opportunity to improve their shooting by holding a practice shoot next Saturday afternoon at the club's trap ground. Several of the older hunters are to be on hand to limber up and to coach the younger marks men.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

September building during the first week in the month is up to the normal average six permits for new buildings and alterations having been granted by Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton. The permits are for four frame garages, a one-story brick structure and a frame shed. During the month of August there were 31 permits granted by Fire Marshal Stanton, the total valuation placed on the buildings by the owners is $61,875. The permits were as follows: new frame houses 6; new frame garages 12; new brick buildings 1; new frame sheds, 2; alterations and additions to frame buildings, 9; addition to brick building, 1; total 31.

Good progress has been made on local building projects during the past week and things in the building line are being rushed along toward completion. At the new Palace theatre site the construction work will be completed within the week and the decorators were expected to start their work on Monday. The oil-burning heating system is practically installed and the interior work will be rushed to completion for the opening of the theatre as soon as possible.

The foundation work on the new house for Aaron Gordon at the corner of Broadway and Broad street is finished and the contractors are laying the brick underpinning.

The two new houses near the roque grounds have been boarded in and are ready for the exterior work. Other dwelling houses that are being erected in various sections of the city are well along. The house for W. F. Lester on Laurel Hill road is well along, the exterior work having been completed.

To P. Ambrose Sullivan to erect a frame shed on Spring Garden avenue. The shed will be 10x30 feet.

To Edward G. Flather to erect one-story brick building on Franklin street. The walls will be eight inches thick and the roof will be covered with paper.

To John Gorman to erect a frame garage on West Thames street for H. J. Sohn. The garage will be 10x18 feet.

To Martin J. Farrell to erect a frame garage on Watrous avenue. The garage will be 9 1-2x14 feet.

To William N. Douglass to erect a frame garage on Corning road. The garage will be 20x21 feet.

To Axel Johnson to erect a frame garage on Geer avenue. The garage will be 20x32 feet.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

In Norwich during the past week there were eight sales of real estate as compared to 12 sales for the corresponding week in 1922. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $32,325 and $16,329.

There were 19 sales of real estate in New London during the past week, eight more than for the same week a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $72,200 and $2[illegible],000.

State Building Situation.

The record of building permits issued in the past week in Connecticut centers emphasizes again the large number of alteration and remodeling jobs which are under way at the present time. The number of permits granted in the week was 305, the buildings costing $671,640, comparing with 188 permits in the like week of last year, when buildings cost $661,202 and 191 in 1921, for buildings costing $362,892.

NEW LONDON.

Plans and specifications have been completed for a Boston style house to be erected on Sharaf street for Louis Sharaf, Bank street. The proposed new dwelling will be 28x31 feet, two stories high, and will be arranged for five rooms to each tenement. The exterior will be of stucco and shingles, and there will be steam heat and all conveniences.

The Titus & Bishop Land Co., 108 State street, has started work on a store and gasoline station at Mago Point, Waterford. The building will be of frame, 25x25 feet, one story high. The work is being done by the day.

The Utley building on State street has been demolished and work is started on the cellar for the proposed new business building for the Ailing Rubber Co.

Samuel Miller has taken the permit to erect a private dock at 112 Howard street. The structure will be of frame, 4x100 feet.

Applications for Building Permits.

Samuel Miller, dock, 112 Howard street, $500.

F. H. Bray, garage, Riverview avenue, $300.

Laura A. Wragg, addition, Jefferson avenue, $300.

John Girolliatti, garage, McDonald street, $600.

Titus Land Co., Inc., frame dwelling, Terrace Boulevard, $2,000.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

His friends here were greatly surprised Monday when a telegram came from Melrose, Mass., announcing the death of Walter Caswell, for many years a resident of this town. Mr. Caswell became ill Sunday and died unexpectedly Monday morning. For years he was engaged in mill work in Elmville and other parts of this town. He leaves his wife, who was Miss Grace Sherman, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Sherman, for years residents of the Valley district, and a son, Wallace. At Melrose for a number of years Mr. Caswell had conducted a store.

Just a few minutes before midnight Sunday, residents in the neighborhood of Main and Academy streets and for a block in all directions were awakened by a crash and the rattle of broken glass as a sedan driven by Lionel Fournier smashed into a big elm tree opposite the residence of Charles E. Francis. The car was considerably damaged and one young man who was a passenger received a gash on the nose. Officer Christopher Andrews, on night duty in the business section, investigated the accident.

Fournier represented that the accident was due to the car sliding on the trolley rails as the machine crossed over, the car being thrown against the tree. No one of the party of several in the car was seriously hurt.

Brown is the young man who shot his cousin, Thomas Clifford Dann, 16, Sunday afternoon while the pair were afield hunting woodchucks near North Sterling. Coroner Arthur G. Bill's investigation of the affair resulted on Monday in his determination to prevent Brown in court. It appears that Brown was carrying a .22 calibre rifle on the hunting expedition, in itself a violation of the law on Sunday in Connecticut, while Dann was equipped with a small calibre revolver. Coroner Bill said Monday afternoon that he learned that while the pair were going along side by side they jumped into each other once or twice and that the remark was playfully passed that in case of any more bumps a gun would be pulled. This remark is still regarded as having been made in jest but what followed proved very serious, for Brown, having raised his rifle and pointed it at Dann accidentally pulled the trigger, seriously wounding his cousin, who has been visiting at North Sterling. The bullet entered Dann's body very close to the stomach, which may have been perforated went through the edge of the liver and lodged between two ribs near Dann's backbone. The bullet came so near passing out that it could be seen lodged just under the skin and was removed at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam, where the injured youth was rushed after being given treatment by a Moosup physician.

Coroner Bill said Monday afternoon that Dann's condition remains critical and the outcome of his injuries cannot be determined for some time as the wound had opened vital odrgans allowing the blood to flow out of its natural courses in the body. In case of the boy's death, the charge against Brown will be changed to manslaughter, Corroner Bill said.

Brown's bail was fixed at $500, the amount being furnished by Louis McFain of Moosup.

When John Kozuski of Providence appeared in the town court Monday morning, to face a charge of operating an automobile without having the registration of the car with him, he entered the novel defense that the car was a rented one and that he supposed the registration was in the machine when he took it from the garage. It appears that a concern in Providence rents cars at a charge of $1 an hour and that Kozuski had taken one for a Sunday outing. His explanation won him consideration from the court and his fine fixed at $3 and actual costs, a total of $7.77, which he paid. This case was the first one heard in the Killingly court in which a rented car figured.

The worst fears of those who have been to considerable effort in conjunction with the superintendent of the state fish and game commission to stock brooks for miles around with trout seem about to be realized, for the continued lack of rain has left these trout streams nearly dry or at the lowest levels they have reached in several years. Even such large brooks as Snake Meadow and Quonnock in this town are unusually low, and many experienced trout fishermen doubt whether the thousands of young fish released during the past few weeks will live through the present dry period. If all that has been done to restock the brooks fail, there will be keen disappointment, but not discouragement, for the restocking operations can again be undertaken next year.

Over in Sterling there has been much activity this season in getting voters to register on caucus lists. The republican registrar, C. B. Montgomery, declares he had upwards of 300 names on that list and has them card indexed. Selectman George F. Pierce, Jr., and others lent their assistance in compiling the republican list. Frank W. Hazard, democratic registrar, has also been active in securing names for that party's caucus list.

Julian Benac, employed as a barber by Henry Lague, was struck and knocked down by an automobile while he was near the Danielson Trust Company building Sunday evening. He was quite severely bruised and unable to be at work Monday. The car that figured in the accident is said to be owned on the West Side.

Less than 1100 applicants for admission as electors are on the list that will be taken up by the selectmen and the town clerk when they meet Saturday of this week at the offices of the selectmen to make voters in time for the annual town election on the first Monday in October. Considering the fact that both men and women who are qualified may now vote, the number of applications for admission this year is unusually small.

Only small damage resulted Monday at noon, when a fire alarm called the department to High street to extinguish a blaze in a shed at the Moses Berthiaume, Jr., property. High school boys had the fire well under control before the arrival of the department. The blaze is believed to have been caused by spontaneous combustion in a cellar hole, speaks flying forth and igniting the shed.

Scores of people watched the eclipse of the sun here Monday afternoon, getting a good view of the phenomena through smoked glass or other devices intended for the protection of the eyes. Only a small segment of the sun's surface was in eclipse, though many here had gained the impression that the eclipse was to be total.

Through the going astray of a news letter Sunday afternoon Danielson was not represented in the columns of The Bulletin Monday.

Judge W. Fenner Woodward will be in a Sterling justice's court today to represent a client in a pending action.

John C. Morell of New Bedford was a visitor with friends in Danielson on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Call motored here for the day Monday from their summer place at Cedar Tree Point, R. I., where they are remaining for September.

At the Woodstock fair this week there will be exhibits in the needlework department by local women.

J. Carl Witter was in Hartford Monday to conduct an auction sale of Missouri and Kentucky bred saddle horses.

With all candidates nominated and the stage set, political workers are now out boosting the chances of their favorite candidates for election at the annual town meeting on Monday, October 1.

Increases in registration are expected in the schools of the town this week as delayed pupils enter for the year's study.

The Treble Clef club has its first meeting of the season scheduled for this (Tuesday) evening.

PUTNAM

That he is something of a seer and can read a man's past, present and future was demonstrated in the city court Monday morning by Judge M. H. Geissler while he was disposing of the week-end's accumulation of cases.

Louis King of Killingly, charged with having been intoxicated, was the subject the judge selected for the display of his powers: "You come from Ballouville," began the judge," and have been there only a few months. Saturday evening you came over to Putnam and met a friend and he asked you to have a drink and you agreed, although you never had seen your friend before, and you did not drink very much, but were not feeling very well and the stimulant had a bad effect upon you." King listened in amazement and punctuated the court's recital with an unvarying series of Yesca. "You can't remember what your friend looked like, nor where you saw him in Putnam, though you are certain that you did and in due course of time an officer came along and arrested you and you spent Sunday at the police station." By that time King was entirely free of doubt about the court's ability to read his past. Then getting down to the present, the court said: "And this morning you are without enough money to pay a fine." King again agreed. Whereupon the court, peering into the future, declared that he could foretell King's whereabouts for the next 30 days, for which length of time he sentenced him to Brooklyn jail.

Ballouville drunks who come into the Putnam city court have a stock story to tell. The court listens patiently, being aware in advance what each answer will be. The strange friend with a drink version isn't a winner any more, however, as King now leagues and will not be the means of getting one off on easy terms. Ballouville will have to evolve a new story to fit present day needs in court. The old verrion is done for.

Luke Champagne of this city and a Joseph Bard of the town of Killingly also were sent to jail from the Putnam city court Monday morning to serve terms of 30 days each for having been intoxicated.

John Bayer of the town of Thompson was in court Monday to plead to a charge that he was under the influence of liquor while operating an automobile that ran into a fence here. The case was not disposed of, a continuance of a week being allowed in order that Bayer might obtain counsel.

A liquor case against Joseph L. Richards, continued from last week, was again continued by the court Monday morning. Further continuance to October 8, was also agreed upon in the case of the state vs. Philip Desautels, charged with violation of the liquor law, and the state against Mrs. Aura Desautels, charged with resisting an officer.

Joseph Fredette of this city was fined for having been intoxicated, at Monday's session of the court.

Figures just compiled show that the cost of schools in the town of Putnam during the fiscal year 1922-23 amounted to $66,673.38, this being the gross amount. The cost in 1921-22 was $61,235.82.

Of the past year's expense $21,814.62 is apportioned to the high school, the cost here being less than in the previous year, when $22,661.74 was expenses for this branch of the town's educational system.

The graded schools during the past school year cost $43,757.49, as against $37,574.62 the preceding year. The evening school cost in the past school year was $1101.07, as against $897.46 the year before.

The per capita cost at the high school the past year was $92.42, the per capita in the graded schools $61.24. The per capita cost considering all schools was $70.41.

N. Waide Kennedy has left Birmingham, Ala., for his home in Connecticut and will be in Eastford within a few days. Relative to his departure and his work in Birmingham a paper of that city says: N. Waide Kennedy has left for a well earned rest after having completed one of the most successful campaigns in the history of his entire twelve years as a supervisor for the Loyal Order of Moose.

Mr. Kennedy came to Birmingham in December to reorganize and rejuvenate Birmingham lodge, No. 447. During the intervening months he has worked faithfully and with the sole assistance and splendid co-operation of the entire membership the lodge has grown to be one of the most important in the south, numbering among its members some of the most influential citizens of Birmingham.

James J. Davis, secretary of labor, and director general of the Moose, said the past week that it was largely in appreciation of Mr. Kennedy's efforts that he came to Birmingham in the face of many duties pressing upon him in Washington.

At Washington, Mr. Kennedy will be joined by Mrs. Kennedy and Miss Florence B. Wells, secretary to Mr. Davis, and they will come to Eastford to spend several weeks. In October Mr. Kennedy will return to Birmingham and resume his duties with the Moose lodge there.

Members of the fire department would mightily like to establish the identity of the man who pulled in a false alarm from Box 47 late Saturday night and gave members of the fire department a run over to the Chapel-Truesdell streets section of the city.

A resident of Chapel street, looking out the window as he was about to retire, saw the man pull the box and then run. This afforded something of a description of the miscreant and may eventually lead to his apprehension. In more ways than one the false alarm imposed considerable work upon members of the fire department, and unnecessarily.

Putnam's evening school will be opened again during October. During the past several years the evening school has proved its worth and has been very much appreciated by those who have attended. The teaching staff will likely again be headed by Lewis F. Battey, who has been the efficient principal for several years.

Friday of this week the superior court will come in in this city to consider cases on the civil list. It is likely that court will be in session here for several weeks. A considerable number of divorce cases are listed for trial.

Race horses and their equipment, Woodstock-bound, were one of the first indications Monday that the annual fair in that town is near at hand. Today will be entry day. The fair promises to be as successful as

True Beauty

Is impossible to those who leave film on teeth

Prettier teeth form one great beauty item. And millions now enjoy them. Every day they are combating the dingy coats of film.

This offers you a ten-day test of the method they employ. It is used by dainty people of some 50 nations now. And you will always use it when you once see what it does.

That cloudy film

The clouds on teeth are due to film — that viscous film you feel. Much of it clings and stays on teeth under old-way brushing.

Soon that film discolors, then forms dingy coats which hide the luster of the teeth.

Film also causes most tooth troubles. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Hardly one in fifty, in the old days, escaped these film-caused troubles.

New-day methods

Dental science has now found two ways to fight that film. One acts to disintegrate the film at all stages of formation. The other removes it without harmful scouring. Those methods were proved effective by many careful tests. Then a new-type tooth paste was created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent.

Now that tooth paste is in world-wide use, largely by dental advice. Wherever you go you see the benefits it brings.

Natural ways

Pepsodent acts in natural, gentle ways. Its effects do not come from harsh grit.

Pepsodent multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva, also its starch digestant. One is to neutralize mouth acids, the other to digest starch deposits. These great natural tooth-protecting agents gain manifold power from each use.

Pepsodent will bring you a new conception of what clean teeth mean. Send for this 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth become whiter as the cloudy coats disappear.

Do this for your own sake and your family's sake. Cut out the coupon now.

Protect the Enamel

Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never was a film combatant which contained harsh grit.

WESTERLY

A special meeting of Westerly town council was held in the council chambers of Westerly town hall Saturday noon, there being present the following councilmen: Clifford Campbell, Thomas Morrison, George B. Utter, Farquhar Smith and John Nichols, Council Clerk Everett E. Whipple and Town Solicitor John Ferguson. Council President Campbell called Town Treasurer Pendleton on the telephone and on his arrival it was announced that some of the bills voted at the previous meeting had been held up. It was the desire of the town treasurer that a special financial town meeting be held and for that purpose official notice was given Monday for the meeting to be held at the Westerly town hall Monday evening, Sept. 19th, at 7.30 o'clock. This special financial town meeting is called to pass a vote to authorize the Westerly town council to hire money and to issue town notes therefor to meet the expenses of the construction of the Bradford and Pleasant street schools, authorized by the general assembly of Rhode Island, June, 1923 and June 1923. With the passage of this vote, it was explained by the town treasurer, he could hire money to pay the bills when they became due.

As a preparatory measure of the town meeting, the Westerly town council expects to meet in special session Wednesday at 11.30 for the purpose of canvassing the voting list to be used at the special financial town meeting.

A town order for $91.74 in payment of services for Helen Marshall, a school teacher, having been lost, authority was given the Westerly town treasurer to stop payment on the order and the authority was granted him to issue a new voucher for the amount. After a record short session the meeting adjourned.

The president, secretary and thirteen other members of Westerly Board of Trade were present in the council chamber of the Westerly town hall Monday night for the first meeting of the current years. Among matters considered was the Fort Mansfield property at Watch Hill. The desirability of having perishable goods delivered by freight in Westerly early in the day was shown. The recommendation of the Westerly Board of Trade to the Boston Chamber of Commerce for classification of the New England railroads either with a continental trunk line, or by a New England division alone, was voted, referred to the the executive committee, with power to act.

The payment of $35 for a booklet of the Rhode Island department, American Legion convention, with data on Westerly, was voted and referred to the finance committee.

Authorization letters of the Westerly board by the secretary to canvassers and solicitors was voted discontinued.

Mr. Parker of the Ithaca Sign works gave a short talk on wood, cloth and metal signs.

Several board members expressed themselves opposed to the idea of an organizer placing the Westerly board on a higher financial plane for more thorough work. The meeting adjourned at 9.30 o'clock.

Patrolman Michael Curtin returned to duty Monday night on the Westerly police force after an absence due to illness.

Charles Starr Barker was the guest of his father, Charles E. Barker, Sunday night, returning to New York Monday morning.

Officer Charles Connors of the Pawcatuck police department was on duty Monday night after two weeks' vacation.

Mrs. P. H. Lynch of Philadelphia is visiting her sister, Mrs. M. J. Burke, in Westerly.

Rev. Arthur L. Wardsworth of Pasadena, Cal., was the Sunday night preacher at the First Baptist church in the absence of Rev. Byron U. Hatfield. Rev. Mr. Wardsworth is connected with The Baptist Watchman.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Swanee Quartette at Baptist Church.

On Thursday evening of this week the Swanee Quartette (colored) of Shaw university, Raleigh, N. C., will, as a part of the 7.45 p. m. mid-week service of the Central Baptist church, render a number of "spirituals." Dr. John L. Peacock, a former pastor of the Westerly church, is now president of this university. Everyone is cordially invited to the Thursday evening service.

At the Breed.

The Motion Picture News, one of the largest motion picture publications, has the following to say about The Man Without a Country, the American Legion film classic which comes to the Breed theatre Wednesday and Thursday, under the auspices of the Robert O. Fletcher Post: "Such a production as The Man Without a Country deserves presentation in the best of houses for no situation of it strikes a false note. Its historic interest is great. The feud developed to such serious proportions that it terminated in the famous duel in which the brilliant seafaring man lost his life is pictured with all accuracy. It is one of the most dramatic of the many dramatic passages in the history of our country, and its handling here is truly great. Duncan McRae's interpretation of Hamilton is convincingly stately and human, and Charles Graham's playing as Burr is of the same high order. But the acting of Arnold Daly, the star, is perhaps the outstanding feature of the picture. His characterization of Philip Nolan, who in his exile grows to love his forbidden country more with each day, is one of the finest pieces of acting ever contributed to the screen."

Special orchestra at evening shows. Admission: Matinee, adults 25c; children, 15c. Evening, 40c. Pictures begin at 2.30 and 4 p. m. Evening, 7 and 8.40 o'clock.

Breed Theatre.

In "Six Days," the new Goldwyn photoplay which is the feature at the Breed theatre today, Elinor Glyn, author of the sensational novel, "Three Weeks," tells one of her most original and colorful stories. It has bold drama, swift action, with characters all drawn in bold relief. There are thrilling episodes and spectacular events in this screen story, which was directed for Goldwyn by Charles Brabin, the man responsible for "Driven," and one of the ablest directors in filmdom. He has made of the Elinor Glyn story a picture that enthralls the interest from start to finish, that is entirely credible in atmosphere and in action, and realistic in characterization. This production furthers his standing as one of the leaders in his profession and also gives a new angle on the literary genius of Elinor Glyn.

The story is too complicated to be told here in detail and such a telling would lessen the picturegoers' pleasure in seeing it unreeled. It deals with a mother's attempt to marry her daughter to a wealthy Englishman for social an financial reasons. The girl meets and falls in love with the man's son. They are married in circumstances that lead them to expect certain death. Rescued separately, the girl is forced to marry the father and is then claimed by his son. Suspense is admirably maintained; the photography is clear with many extraordinary beautiful shots and the story is one sure to appeal to every taste.

Corinne Griffith, one of the popular screen stars of the day, is seen at her best as Lalina Kingston, an American girl engaged to Sir Charles Chetwynd, but who falls in love with the latter's son of whom the father is in ignorance. Frank Mayo, who has been starred in many big productions, is featured, along with Miss Griffith, in the role of the lover. Both give extremely good and appealing performances. The cast contains many other notable names, such as Myrtle Stedman, Claude King, Maude George, Spottiswoode Aitken, Charles Clary, Evelyn Walsh Hall and others.

The Pathe News completes the bill.

Vaudeville at the Strand.

A programme of four Keith vaudeville acts and a photoplay "The Hero," was presented last night to a most gratifying audience and will continue through Wednesday when there will be an entire change of vaudeville and pictures.

The vaudeville programme opened with Flaherty and Stoning in "Vaudeville Tid Bits," which consisted of some fine songs, dances and comedy patter. Marjorie McClintock followed with her harp which furnished ten minutes of good music. Rowles and Gilman in the comedy offering were good. The Nathano Brothers closed the bill with a very funny combination of roller skating and comedy.

Of the numerous sincere efforts at really great picture productions that have been made during the season, none has come nearer to hitting the bull's eye than does Gasnier's production of "The Hero," shown here for the first time at the Strand theatre.

Ordinarily one might classify this production as a triumph of direction. But the work of every member of the well-rounded cast wins equal praise. There are Barbara LaMarr, Gaston Glass, John Sainpolis, Ethel Shannon, David Butler, Martha Mattox, Frankie Lee and—yes, "Cameo," the gifted dog. Surely as capable a company of players as well could be imagined.

Then, it must be remembered that this is the screen version of the brilliant stage production by Gilbert Emery, declared by critics to be "the most promising first effort ever offered by an American playwright." And the brilliant scenario by Eva Unsell. Last but of tremendous importance, is the masterly photography by Karl Struss.

Bradley Theatre, Putnam.

In witnessing the performance of Walter Scanlan in "The Blarney Stone," one can almost smell the turf smoke as it rises from the chimney of his mother's cottage. Those who love a fine play dealing with delightful Irish characters will find in "The Blarney Stone" at Bradley theatre, Putnam on Thursday evening, September 13, a most satisfying performance. The play has all that charming romance that still lives in the Green Isle, the gentle wit and rollicking humor that is so characteristic of the Celtic race, and withal a love story of absorbing interest. Edward E. Rose, the author, is a skilled dramatist who knows how to blend all the elements that make a successful play in amasterly manner. In this last creation of his there are unique characters who bring to the story a picturesque atmosphere, and yet are thoroughly racial in type and true to the soil. He has given Mr. Scanlan a character that fits him well. The hero is a young musician and composer, who eked out a living by publishing a newspaper in a small village. Here he spends more time in writing operas than editorials, with the result that the income of the publishing business dwindles away. At this point in the story romance comes to his editorial sanctum and the hitherto unimpressible heart of Brian is caught in Cupid's mesh. The conquerer is a young heiress to a large estate, who comes from [illegible] the property [illegible] testator [illegible] to prevent the [illegible] ting possession [illegible] Brian [illegible] of the [illegible] part of the [illegible] ance Mr. [illegible] eral of his [illegible] which he [illegible] them. ## MYSTIC

Mrs. Calista Doughty, 71, a resident of Mystic, died Monday morning at Lawrence hospital, New London. Death was due to a general breaking down. Mrs. Doughty was born in Mystic, the daughter of Captain Rhodes and Amanda Bennett Burrows and had lived in the village nearly all her life. She is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Mary J. Irons and Mrs. Amelia Hill, both of Mystic.

EAST HADDAM

Mrs. Emma Francis is visiting friends in West Haven and Chester.

W. W. Beckwith is visiting at the home of his sister, Mrs. Silas Chapman, in Norwich.

Mrs. Mary Butler, who has been camping with friends at Cornfield Point, has returned home.

Mrs. Ellen Rogers is seriously ill at her home at the Falls. Mrs. Rogers is in her 90th year.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Comer of Groton spent Tuesday night with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Comer, and Wednesday attended the East Haddam fair.

Mrs. Fred Kellogg has returned to her home in Deep River after two weeks' visit at W. I. Gelston's.

The annual picnic of the Congregational church and Sunday school was held Tuesday at Hammonassett Beach.

The annual East Haddam fair was pronounced a great success. A record-breaking crowd was in attendance; the tickets on sale at the gate gave out long before the crowd stopped coming.

Dr. Trumbull Williams Cleaveland, who died very suddenly from a stroke of apoplexy at his home in New York city Aug. 24th, was well known in East Haddam, having made Moodus his summer home for the past 23 years. He is survived by his wife (Antoinette L. Hungerford of Chester) and three children, Mrs. Ralph B. Monroe, Mrs. Russell G. Booth and Miss Cornelia Cleaveland.

ABSORBING THE INCREASE.

Following the settlement that has been reached between the coal miners and operators Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania properly calls attention to the fact that it means an increase in the price of coal to the consumer unless the increase which has been granted to the miners is absorbed before it gets to him. That is based upon past practices which are certain to be employed, unless it can be prevented. The fact that the consumer feels that he is already paying too much for anthracite seems to have no bearing. He has been threatened with a 50 per cent increase, but with that cut in two the attitude will be that he will be satisfied at such a reduction and will even smile as he pays over a boost that is figured at 50 cents a ton but which may run to any figure that is considered advisable. The settlement has opened the way for it.

Governor Pinchot, however, writes to the president that this ought not to be and that steps to prevent it should be taken. He advises that the president ask the interstate commerce commission to go over the rates for transportation and see if it is not possible for a reduction there that will partially offset the increased cost of coal mining. That means that he wants the railroads to help out the coal industry by having the regulatory body cut the amount which it is legitimate to charge for transportation. He wants the railroads to eliminate part of their revenue that the miners may get what is agreed upon without having it come out of the consumer.

No one believes that the railroads should be getting any higher rates than they are entitled to, but if there is to be a cutting of rates, why shouldn't the man who pays the freight actually get the benefit of it instead of having it thrown into another industry? If the rates are unjust they should be changed, but such an idea is advanced at the very time when new demands are being made upon the railroads for increased wages. Can the coal industry be relied upon to aid the railroads revenuewise or will the railroads be justified in asking for increased rates instead of having them reduced?

PROTECTING WILD LIFE.

While efforts are being made in behalf of an international understanding for the protection of migratory birds and other wild life, in furtherance of the effort for conservation and protection that has been begun in this country and Canada, attention cannot fail to be attracted by the decision of the Minnesota district court to which was taken the protest against the drainage of Swan Lake, a body of water covering over 10,000 acres which it was hoped eventually might be devoted to agricultural purposes.

The real opposition to the proposed plan for ending the existence of the lake and turning the land to other use came from those who were interested in wild life, through both state and federal agencies, and was put forth on the ground that the lake is and had been for a long time a feeding and nesting resort for wild birds and insectivorous birds that are of great value to the farmers and that no step ought to be taken that would wipe it out. Not many years ago such a plan would have encountered no difficulty. There would have been little thought given to the wild life. It would have been urged that it be permitted to shift for itself had the question been raised. But a change has taken place. It has been recognized that through lack of conservation efforts certain species were becoming extinct, and some had already been wiped out. There was need for protecting certain kinds to prevent them from extinction, and the result is that states and the federal government have been devoting more thought and some legislation to the situation, and now there is a well organized effort to have such interest extended throughout other countries, even to Europe and beyond.

Whatever may become of such an undertaking it becomes established as the result of the Minnesota decision that the importance of wild bird life cannot be totally ignored in this day and generation, and that better protection is assured through the laws and the courts.

HIGHWAY SAFETY.

When the registrar of motor vehicles in Massachusetts points to the increase in the amount of driving by motorists who have been drinking, and insists that the safety of the highways demands that they be dealt with in such a manner that fewer instead of more will be arrested for such an offense, he unquestionably deals with a matter that is all important, and a situation that concerns other states than Massachusetts.

Recklessness is the terror of the highways. Accidents develop as the result of speed and the disregard of the rights of others and there is none who is more responsible for that find [illegible] than the person who has been drinking and therefore is in no condition to drive a car.

It is becoming more and more apparent that the overlooking of such a condition in auto drivers only invites frequent repetitions. If no penalty is applied that sends home to those drivers sufficient reason for refraining from such acts, recklessness is being encouraged by those who are expected to put a stop to it. The growing number of drunken drivers may be attributed to the ease with which liquor can be obtained, together with the fact that such drivers are invariably ready to pay such fines as in reality amount to a license fee. The large increase in the number of automobiles makes the menace from the driver who has been drinking all the greater. There are more chances of collisions, more opportunities for the wobbling machine out of control hitting poles or being ditched and a lessened regard for the rules of the road or the rights of others.

It is well that those at the head of the department of motor vehicles in the different states direct attention from time to time to this situation surrounding the drivers who have been drinking. It is only through such efforts, accompanied by revocation of licenses and the imposition of jail sentences that the practice is to be broken up and greater safety obtained.

THE MENACE OF FOG.

Earthquakes are not the only things that cause wreckage. There is no denying the fact that they are leaders when it comes to raising havoc but the piling up of the flotilla of United States destroyers on a rocky island off the California coast brings to mind the fact that fog is still as merciless as ever when it comes to causing destruction.

But for the fog there seems to be no reason why those vessels should have been off their course and miles away from where they supposed they were. They were acting in concert and proceeding to the assistance of a steamship that had also gone on the rocks because of the fog. Navigation through such an almost impenetrable blanket is always hazardous and yet much of it is done and has to be done in order to prevent delays and respond to transportation demands.

As in the case of all such wrecks there will be an investigation to determine where the fault was. Considering the number of vessels it is one of the worst affairs of its kind that can be recalled. If it was faulty reckoning it discloses a surprising situation but there seems to have been no suspicion that they were following a false course or in any such danger. It was a case where they were proceeding in a fogbank but the precautions that were being observed were insufficient. There was a serious slip somewhere and it remains to be seen where it was and what the chances are that it will be repeated again under similar circumstances.

EVACUATING CORFU.

In connection with Italy's acceptance of the agreement concerning its demands upon Greece as proposed by the council of ambassadors it agrees to evacuate the island of Corfu when Greece has satisfied all of its demands for reparations. That seems to indicate that Italy intends to retain its forces in the island of Corfu and charge the expense of maintaining them there until reparations are paid over.

When, however, Greece agrees to put up the 50,000,000 lire as a guarantee that it will meet the full reparations finally decided upon there seems to be no ground whatever for Italy to continue to cling to Corfu, pile up the expense against Greece and lend encouragement to irritations that may lead to even more serious conditions.

Inasmuch as the council of ambassadors has set forth the terms and both countries have agreed to abide by them the responsibility for seeing that they are carried out rests upon that council, quite the same as it would have rested upon the league of nations had Italy permitted the league to adjust the matter.

One of the best bits of evidence of what Italy intends to do in regard to the evacuation of Corfu will be furnished by the action it takes to such an end. Evacuating the island as well as the other islands occupied should require no great amount of time. The opportunity to hasten the healing of the wound that has been caused is before Italy if there is a desire to improve it, but it can be expected to serve as a basis for trouble and demonstrations as long as it is continued. Italy has a chance thereby to better the impression that it has created.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Japan has had some of its warships scrapped that were not listed for such treatment.

The man on the corner says: When it comes to speeding rumor frequently sets a new record.

Possibly Mussolini will urge the organization of a league of nations according to his own ideas.

One of the constantly increasing problems is that of making the highways safe for those who use them.

Earthquakes disturb a country severely, but there are times when certain sections get bad shocks from the tax rates.

It is only a matter of a short time now before football replaces baseball in the sporting circles and on the campuses.

From the way the Italians continue to seize Greek islands there seems to be a fondness for this neighboring territory.

Even if the fund for Japanese does go over the top conditions in that country are such that Japan can make good use of it.

If the Mussolini plan succeeds it will be a case of wrecking the league of nations from within. He certainly hasn't strengthened it.

Russia has 125,000,000 bushels of grain for export. Does that mean that it will be appealing to this country for enough to plant next spring?

With a fleet of destroyers going ashore on the California coast one might suppose that the floor of the Pacific had been raised elsewhere than near Japan.

LARGE MYSTERY

The lady who had been married some time surveyed the bride on whom she had come to call with considerable interest. That young person carried in her arms, a man's vest, two golf clubs, a package of tobacco, three magazines, several neckties, a soiled collar, a suit of pajamas, some socks and several other items.

The bride looked defiant. "They're George's," she explained. "Maybe I've missed a few other things lying around! I'm going to pile them right in front of the front door where he can't help but see them when he comes home tonight! There's simply no reason why I should spend my life trotting around like a valet picking up and putting away his things! When he at least could reach out his hand and lay them on a table or chair! He drops every single thing he gets through with right on the floor and nothing I can say does any good! I'm just through!"

"Har, har!" said the lady who had been married for some time. "I'm sure I don't know what you think you're through with! I'd have you know that you've taken on a job for life instead, Den't you know that there are two things no real man ever can be taught to do? One is to find anything he is looking for in the house and the other is to hang up and put away his belongings."

"Well do I remember how John's mother in the days we were engaged told me over and over, especially in front of company, what a fortunate girl I was because she had trained John with a view toward the future happiness of his wife. She would relate how, when he was but 6 years old, he would lay his little ruffled shirt away neatly in the bureau drawer, pick up every toy and deposit it in the box where they were kept, see that his brush and comb were laid parallel on his little dresser and point out to his father that the paternal towels in the bathroom were not folded and hung at the correct angle. John, she said complacently, was a perfect joy around the home and if every young wife could have the treasure which was to be mine, would this not be a happy world!

"I was considerably worried for fear I should not come up to John's standards and the first time I found a suit of his upon the floor I actually thought stricken to the heart, that he had become so bitterly discouraged over my own carelessness and that he had just given up and thrown the habits of a lifetime into the discard. Meekly I picked up that suit, brushed it and tenderly hung it away and I have been hanging up suits since then with precision and rebellion. Also I have been hanging up and putting away all the other various things that John uses.

"Oh, yes, I tried reforming him! Sitting upon the arm of his chair and running my fingers through his locks in the approved way I murmured, 'John dear, won't you do something for me?' and John said, 'Yes Indeedy!' and then I asked him pathetically please not to throw things on the floor where I had to break my back stooping to pick them up—and filled with contrition, John would hurl to the floor the paper he was then reading, crying, why, what a brute he was and of course he wouldn't make me all that work!

"Putting his arm around me he would lead me to the sofa, leaving the paper where it lay, and as he promised solemnly that never again would he be guilty of such thoughtlessness nor make so much unnecessary work for his little wife, he would successively drop on the floor his cigar ash, the cigar stub, a magazine knocked from the table by his elbow and my knitting needles and wool, which were in the corner of the sofa.

"Totally unconscious of these deeds he would go whistling away to shave, quite happy thinking how good he was going to be to me and what a shame that he had been so thoughtless, mean-while absent-mindedly littering the bathroom floor with towels, shaving paper, his collar and tie and anything else with which he was finished. Then he would come out to dinner beaming—and after dinner I would pick up from the floor his napkin which he had dropped as soon as he was through with it.

"After several experiences like this, varied with tears and storms, I gave up. I realized that something in the nature of a man is antagonistic to petty order. A perfectly nice man could be comfortably happy in a home where nothing was picked up from Jan. 1 to Dec. 31. His wife couldn't be happy, so she does what she does. All over the land inside every four walls there are women this minute bending over and picking up——"

"Oh, well," sighed the bride, reluctantly moving toward the chiffonette with the neckties, "I spose it would be kind of mean to put 'em on the doormat when George comes home so tired! Only I don't see——"

"You never will," promised the lady who had been married some time, getting up and sticking the golf clubs in the bag and laying the magazines on the table. "It gives you something to wonder about when times grow dull! And you can always blame it onto their mothers!"—Chicago News.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Brig. Gen. James Brattle Burbank, who celebrates his eighty-fifth birthday today, served for sixty years as an officer of the United States army. When the Civil war broke out he was in Galveston, Texas, and hastened to his home in Hartford, Conn., to enlist for military service. He was appointed assistant quartermaster-general of the state of Connecticut, but desiring more active service, he resigned his commission and enlisted in the Third United States Artillery. He saw service at Gettysburg, Chancellorsville, and numerous other engagements, and escaped without even an abrasion of the skin, although seven times his clothing was pierced by bullets in one engagement alone. At the close of the war he was assigned to the regular establishment and continued in the service until 1904, when he was retired with the rank of brigadier-general by act of congress.

Stories That Recall Others

A Rather Unusual Bell

He is a bachelor in whose name appears the syllable bell. And he is much sought after by the young women. Recently a girl visitor began to display some interest. After seeing him she began to ask questions about him.

One of her friends gave her a wise smile and retorted, "If you make any sort of a hit there you'll have a long, hard job. Almost every one of us girls has been trying to ring that bell over a year."

Little Johnny's Idea

A local celebrity visiting one of the schools thought it a good idea to ask the youngsters a few questions.

"Can any little boy or girl tell me," he said impressively, "what is the greatest of all virtues?"

There was no reply.

"We will try it again," said the visitor. "What am I doing when I give up time and pleasure to come and talk to you in your school?"

"I know now, mister!" exclaimed Johnny raising his hand.

"Well, what am I doing, little man?"

"Buttin' in!" was the startling rejoinder.

Best Home Treatment For All Hairy Growths

Every woman should have a small package of delatone handy, for its timely use will keep the skin free from beauty-marring hairy growths. To remove hair or fuzz from arms or neck, make a thick paste with some of the powdered delatone and water. Apply to hairy surface and after two or three minutes rub off, wash the skin and it will be free from hair or blemish. To avoid disappointment, be sure you get real delatone and mix fresh.

CHILD TRAINING

WHEN SHALL WE TEACH BETTY TO PICK UP HER PLAYTHINGS.

By Ora A. Clement.

Betty's mother had just gotten the little four-year-old settled down for her afternoon nap.

"And now I will not much more than get this room put to rights before she wakes up again," she laughingly remarked to her college friend, now a primary teacher, who was spending a few days with her.

"Why not leave the playthings where they are and let Betty pick them up when she wakes?" the friend asked.

"Sometimes I do, but she always wants to make play of it and it really takes more time to keep her at it than it does to do it myself."

Her visitor said nothing for a few minutes and when she spoke again it was without reference to Betty. "What did you do with those cunning chicks you took out of the incubator this morning?" she asked.

"Oh, I divided them up among three or four hens who were simply wild to be mothering something. Now the little ones are cuddled up snug and warm under real feathers, and they have no idea in the world that they are, by rights and inheritance, poor, machine-hatched little orphans."

"Why did you put them with the hens so soon? Would it not have been safer to have cared for them yourself until they were a week or so old, and strong enough to run with the older chickens?"

Betty's mother laughed. "That shows that you do not know chickens. I tried that plan the first year I used an incubator and I learned something. It is only for a few days that a foster mother can be introduced to incubator chicks. If they are put with her during the first few days of their lives they will adopt her and follow her obediently till half-grown, like chickens hatched under a hen, but after a week alone they seem to get used to being orphans and they will not follow a hen no matter how much she coaxes and clucks and scolds. Isn't it odd?"

She had the playthings all in order and settled herself with her mending in her lap.

"Instinct," said the teacher. "Nature puts an urge into the little chick that makes it seek a mother at the time it needs her most. And if you are to be successful as a poultry woman you must work with Nature—you can't oppose her."

She drew a thread thoughtfully and then went on: "It is odd, and it is still more interesting to watch the same thing in children. Did you ever think what a powerful urge there must be in the little child to keep him trying to walk in spite of the discouraging falls he gets?

"All through Betty's childhood and youth she will be led by instincts and desires through which Nature strives to produce and develop perfect womanhood. And in handling children as in poultry raising, it saves us much pain and trouble if we work with Nature."

"Just now Betty is passing through what students of child life call the 'imitative age.' She imitates everything she sees you do."

The mother smiled knowingly. She loved the baby's little make-believes.

"She plays set table, and sews, sweeps, kneads bread and makes beds as you do. If you work with Nature now you will save yourself and Betty a great deal of grief in the years to come."

"You are thinking of the playthings on the floor," exclaimed the hostess.

"Yes. While Betty wants to do just as you do, train her in habits of orderliness and cleanliness. The imitative age will not last long. After that, about the time she goes to school, there will come a period when your little girl will be lawless, careless and selfish, inclined to put her will and her judgment against yours in everything. If she has become orderly and neat from habit before that time comes it will be a great comfort to you and of inestimable value to her while she is going through the 'trying 'Big Injun' age. If she has not, you will have to make up your mind to pick up after her for many years to come, for there will never be another time during her childhood and youth when it will be easy to teach Betty the lessons of order."

"Thanks for your little lecture, Grace," said Betty's mother as she rolled two little stockings into a ball. "I had never thought of it that way before—I shall begin at once to train Betty to follow'".

Writing done with real lead pencils in old manuscripts can be differentiated either by the microscope or by chemical tests from writing done with the graphite which since 1870 has displaced lead.

Men called to military service of this country during the world war from South Dakota weighed on the average more than those from any other state, 146.96 pounds, while those from Rhode Island were lightest, averaging only 136.44 pounds.

MRS. G. W. HALL SICK FOR YEARS

Wants Women to Know How She Was Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Lima, Ohio.—"Indeed, your medicine is all you say it is! I had very severe troubles such as women often have, and could do no heavy work. I was sick for several years, and from reading your ads. I finally decided to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I am now doing my own washing, which I haven't done for several years, and can walk long distances without those dragging pains and weak feelings. The Vegetable Compound is fine, and I never forget to say a good word for it to other women when they say they need something."—Mrs. G. W. Hall, 539 Hazel Avenue, Lima, Ohio.

There are many women who find their household duties almost unbearable owing to some weakness or derangement. The trouble may be slight, yet cause such annoying symptoms as dragging pains, weakness and a run-down feeling.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a splendid medicine for such conditions. It has in many cases relieved those symptoms by removing the cause of them. Mrs. Hall's experience is but one of many.

Sure Way to Regain Robust Bloom of Youth

A smooth, velvety-soft skin, with a delicate, peach-like bloom, is one of the Creator's most exquisite works. When the first blush of youth is over, this beautiful tint and satiny lustre are rarely seen. How to preserve them—that's the question. Famous beauty experts abroad long have known that ordinary mercolized wax works wonders in this direction. It actually gives a new surface to the skin, restoring that marvelous girlish color and softness in a remarkable manner. An ounce of this wax, procurable at any drug store, will convert a faded, worn-out, discolored, freckled or pimply complexion into one of captivating lovelyness. No special skill is necessary in using mercolized wax. Just apply at night like cold cream and wash off in the morning.

TROUBLED WITH ITCHY PIMPLES

On Face. Would Lie Awake For Hours. Cuticura Heals.

"For about a year and a half I was troubled with pimples that were scattered over my face. They were red and very hard and would fester and break out bleeding. They itched so that I was almost insane, and many nights I would lie awake for hours. I dreaded to go out among my friends.

"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. I got relief and afterwards bought two cakes of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment which healed me." (Signed) J. D. W. Hanlon, 16 Frederick St., So. Boston, Mass.

Give Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Talcum the care of your skin.

WEDDINGS.

Wildes—Tate.

A marriage of interest to Mansfield residents in general, and Spring Hill in particular, occurred at the Episcopal church, Centerdale, North Providence, at 4 o'clock last Saturday afternoon, when Miss Eleanor R. Tate of Centerdale became the bride of Leland A. Wildes of Eden Park, Auburn, R. I., son of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Parker Wildes of Wildfern, Spring Hill, this state. The ceremony was performed by the pastor, Rev. Edmund C. Bennett, the double ring service being used.

The bride, accompanied by her father, entered the church to the music of the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin, played by William J. Blanz of Philadelphia, her cousin. Miss Olive G. Wildes, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor, and George H. Tate, the bride's brother, acted as best man. Miss Eleanor Norton, a niece of the bride, was the flower girl, and Master Leland Hawkins, nephew of the bridegroom, was ring bearer.

The ushers were Harry Norton and William Storey.

The bride was gowned in white crepe de chine trimmed with Spanish lace and wore a veil caught with orange blossoms. The maid of honor wore a canton crepe dress with hat to match. The flower girl was dressed in yellow organdie with hat to match. The mother of the bride wore tan Suvverlyn and the mother of the bridegroom was dressed on gray satin faced with canton crepe.

After a wedding trip comprising a motor tour to Maine, Mr. and Mrs. Wildes will live at 29 Waterman avenue, Eden Park.

Williams—Kingsley.

Miss Carlyn Kingsley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey C. Kingsley of New Britain, and Russell Walton Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Williams of 240 North Oxford street, Hartford, were married Saturday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attended by Miss Dorothy Williams, the bridegroom's sister, and Miss Irene Swift of New Britain as bridesmaids. The best man was Philip Foster of Springfield, and the ushers were Stuart C. Kingsley of New York and George Berlin of Hartford. The bride wore a dress of beaded white canton crepe and carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaids' dresses were of cream lace over both colored crepe. They carried tea roses and corn flowers.

A reception was held following the ceremony. Mrs. Williams attended the Beechwood school at East Hampton. On their return from a wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Williams will live at 19 Dennison street, Hartford.

The bride and her parents were former residents of Norwich.

OBITUARY.

Joseph Landolt.

Following a short illness, Joseph Landolt, aged 67, died Monday morning at 2 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Susan Chrest on Cliff street. Mr. Landolt for years resided at 7 Bath street. He was born in Naflas, Switzerland, Aug. 26, 1856, and came to Norwich in 1868. He was a skilled skater and gave many fine exhibitions on the ice in Norwich during his younger days.

For three years before he came to Norwich Mr. Landolt was engaged in the barber business in New York and on coming to this city opened up a barber shop in the Breed building. He conducted the shop for 31 years, retiring some years ago. For a time after retiring from business Mr. and Mrs. Landolt conducted a home for homeless children. They adopted one boy, Henry Landolt, who served with credit in the United States navy, and who will be retired from the navy within a few years.

Mrs. Landolt died a number of years ago and since her death Mr. Landolt has lived with Mrs. Chrest and family. Some time ago he returned to his native town in Switzerland and after remaining there a short time came back to Norwich to pass the remainder of his life.

He was a member of St. Patrick's church and was well known to many Norwich people who deeply regret his death. For years Mr. Landolt was one of the collectors at St. Patrick's church.

Mrs. John Steiner.

A message received Monday by Norwich friends announced the death, at 2 o'clock Monday morning, at her home, 1368 Elizabeth street, Denver, Col., of Mrs. John Steiner, 84, following four months' illness from heart trouble.

Mrs. Steiner was a native of New York, but had resided in Norwich for many years. For over thirty years the family home was the original Captain Colt property, 77 Church street, a mansion commanding a view of the city and the harbor, and here Mr. and Mrs. Steiner dispensed free-hearted hospitality with signal generosity. Mrs. Steiner had private means which enabled her to give liberally to every worthy cause and she continued the owner of valuable business property in Newark, N. J.

Four years ago, the family left Norwich to join the sons, John G. and Col. Henry J. Steiner, prosperous business men in Denver. They purchased a fine home in that city. Mr. Steiner died in May 1921, and was buried in Denver, where Mrs. Steiner's burial will take place also. Besides her sons, she leaves a daughter, Teresa Steiner, and there are several nieces in New Jersey.

While in Norwich Mrs. Steiner was a devout member of St. Patrick's church and of the Catholic Woman's Club of the parish. She was also one of the founders of the Benedit club, charitable women who organized at her home and have continued in quiet activity, caring for many needy and deserving persons year after year.

Mrs. Steiner was of commanding personality, sympathetic and agreeable, presiding with dignity and charm in her handsome home, where frequently she had entertained among other distinguished guests the governors of the state and their staffs during the terms when her younger son was serving as a staff officer. She had kept up her attachment for Norwich and her local friends and to the last was keenly interested in everything pertaining to the city which had been her home for so many years.

FUNERAL

Mrs. John E. Sherman.

The funeral of Isabel F. Harvey, wife of John E. Sherman of Preston, was held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of her brother-in-law, George E. Fellows, 342 Franklin street, with a large attendance of relatives and friends. There were many beautiful floral forms. Rev. Charles H. Ricketts, pastor of the Greeneville Congregational church, conducted the service. Relatives acted as bearers and burial took place in the family plot in Yantic cemetery. A committal service was read at the grave by Rev. Mr. Ricketts.

Undertakers Church & Allen had charge of the funeral arrangements.

State Hospital Prize Hogs.

The Berkshire boar, sow and litter of pigs which were exhibited at the county fair by the Norwich state hospital took six first prizes and one second.

15 PETITIONS AND FOUR DAMAGE CLAIMS BEFORE COMMON COUNCIL

Fifteen petitions and four damage claims came up for action at the adjourned meeting of the court of common council held Monday evening in the council chamber. The meeting was called to order at 7.40 o'clock, standard time, by His Honor, Mayor Milo R. Waters. According to custom the minutes of the previous meeting were accepted without reading. Petitions were received and disposed of as follows:

From James Ibbotson and others, for acceptance of Whittington avenue as a public street. Referred to the public works committee.

From the Shetucket Coal and Lumber Co., for removal of two trees from in front of the old St. Mary's church property on North Main street. Referred to the public works committee and tree warden with power.

From the board of park commissioners for the installation of three electric lights at the skating pond in Mohegan Park and ten electric lights along the park entrance from Boswell avenue. Referred to police commissioners with power.

From residents of the East Side asking that crossings be built at Main street and Hamilton avenue, Main street and Carter avenue, Main street and Stanton avenue and Main street and Mulberry street. Referred to the public works committee.

From Mary E. and Charles A. Yerrington asking that their assessment for the Laurel Hill sewer be reduced from $310 to $150. Referred to public works committee and corporation counsel.

From Mrs. F. J. Freeman and 30 others asking that the trolley stop at Main street and Broadway be reinstated. Referred to police committee.

From H. R. Branche and others for an electric light on the second pole at the Washington strete entrance to Mohegan Park. Referred to police commissioners.

From Youngs A. Bailey of 45 Spring street, asking that the sidewalks on Spring street be placed in proper condition and that the walks be kept cleared this coming winter. Petition pointed out that last winter only about tw in ten walks were kept clear of ice and snow. Referred to public works committee.

From Mrs. Maud Perkins Wheeler for removal of two trees in front of No. 156 West Thames street. Referred to public works committee and tree warden.

From M. J. O'Mara and others for sewer for Pratt street. Referred to finance committee.

From Herbert F. Burdick asking that an electric light be installed at or near 84 River avenue. Referred to police committee with power.

From David D. Disco asking that the warning for the next city meeting include an appropriation for the concreting of Ferry street. Referred to the finance committee.

From Mrs. Mary Donovan asking the removal of three trees near 48 Roath street. Referred to the public works committee and tree warden with power.

From residents of Avery street for a sewer from 84 Avery street to connect with the sewer on Mt. Pleasant street. Referred to the public works committee.

From Joseph Tonoski, Mary Gromko and Nicholas Kosak for permission to connect their properties on Golden street extension with the sewer in Hickory street. Referred to the public works committee.

Committee Reports

Committee reports were made as follows:

Public works committee recommended permissio nbe given Joseph Tonoski, Mary Gromko and Nicholas Kosak to connect their properties on Golden street extension with the sewer in Hickory street.

Public works committee submitted a report fixing the grade for the sidewalks on Rose place. The report was accepted and a public hearing on the matter set for the evening of October 1st in the council chamber.

The public works committee recommended that Peter Sellas and Thomas J. Constantine be ordered to lay new sidewalks in front of their property on Rose Place and setting November 1st as the date by which the new walks are to be completed. The council accepted the report and set the evening of October 1st for a public hearing.

The council voted to refund to Mrs. Rose Tillinghast whose husband served in the civil war the sum of $16.60 taxes paid the city through error.

The council voted an appropriation of $100 to help defray the expenses of the recent roque tournament held in Norwich under the auspices of the National Roque Association, Eastern Division. This year the council made a cash contribution instead of providing a free band concert at the roque grounds as in other years.

A deed to sewer and water rights and a large lot of land presented to the council through Arthur F. Libby, trustee of the estate of Maria T. Turner, was accepted by the council, the payment by the city to be $4,925.

The police committee reported that a new electric light has been ordered placed near 308 Boswell avenue. In regard to the petition for two arc lights, one at Rose Place and the other at Ferry street the committee reported that they have ordered an arc light placed at Rose Place and have ordered an arc light placed at Rose Place and have substituted a bug light for Ferry street which it was found will answer the question.

The monthly reports of the city treasurer and the street department were accepted as was the annual report of the city auditors.

Claims for Damages

Next came four damage claims, all of which were referred to the finance committee and corporation counsel. The claims were as follows:

From Frank A. Collins who alleges he broke his wrist in a fall on an icy walk near 36 Broadway, February 13th last.

From George A. Davis of Stafford Springs who claims his auto was badly damaged about 6.30 a. m., June 29th when it hit a loose manhole cover in Main street, near 541 Main street. The claim alleges that the cover flew off when the right front wheel hit it and that the rear wheel of the machine dropped into the hole.

Carrie Miller in her damage claim stages that she broke her right ankle September second when she tripped and fell over exposed tree roots near 73 Roath street.

Alice Karachick presented a claim in which she alleges she was burned by hot tar being used in the West Main street improvement when the tar was allowed to spill onto the sidewalk as she was passing. The place where the injury took place is given as West Main and North Thames street and the date, August 14th.

Special Constables

Daniel J. Maher, George E. Elliott, Benjamin F. Brewster and Edward Connelly were appointed special constables, the clerk being instructed to cast one ballot in favor of the four appointees.

Alderman Edward Crooks of the fire commissioners extended an invitation to the members of the council to witness the official test of the new pumper recently purchased for the Greeneville fir station. The test is to take place today (Tuesday near the Industrial building on the West Side.

NORWICH BOYS MISSING IN CANOE AT BEACH

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Sept. 10.—Two youths residing at Crescent Beach are believed to have been drowned in Long Island sound during the day, and a general alarm all along the eastern Connecticut shore has been given in the hopes that the missing youths, William Wilson, aged 13, and Robert Montgomery, aged 17, will be picked up by passing craft. The youths started from home in a canoe about 8 this morning, with no particular point in view to land. When they did not put in an appearance at nightfall an alarm was given out. The state police barracks at Groton were informed of the boys being missing and they in turn notified the New London authorities.

A watch is being made in the vicinity of Ocean Beach and along the waterfront in the hopes that the youths will be sighted or the missing canoe found. The United States coast guard at Fort Wright, Fisher's Island, has also been requested to maintain a lookout for the missing youths.

The missing boys are both from Norwich. Young Montgomery is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Montgomery of 28 Coit street and Wilson is the son of Mrs. Edith Wilson of 36 Thirteenth street.

Up to midnight no trace of the missing boys or their canoe had been found.

WARNS MERCHANTS AGAINST LATE MAILING HABIT

Postmaster John P. Murphy stated Monday night that the 5 o'clock collection for the street boxes Monday afternoon was heavier than in the holiday season. This condition has become most noticeable since Sept. 1. This growing custom, he said, was unnecessary, as much of the mail that is found in the boxes at that time could have been mailed earlier in the day.

Business firms are expected to be considerate but they seem to be exercising no thought, he said, for the post office employes and the department. If this practice of late and heavy mailing continues, it will be a case for postal employes of dispatching all the mail possible in the time they have to work it and letting the rest till the next day. There is a limit to the amount of mail three men can properly handle between 5 and 8 p. m. and that is the number of men assigned to this work.

DEMOCRATS IN PLAINFIELD FILL OUT THEIR TICKET

(Special to the Bulletin)

Plainfield, Sept. 10.—At the democratic caucus held in the town hall in Central Village tonight at 8:30 o'clock Clarence Reid was chairman and W. H. Buteau, clerk. The nominations were made as follows: Assessor, Albert A. DeForge; Board of Relief, Leon E. Doyle; First Selectman Henry J. Bessette; Second selectman, Louis Gendron; Town Clerk and Treasurer, William Buteau; Auditor, John T. Govan; Grand Jurors, Edmond Jolicoer, James H. Smith; Town School committee, Albert C, DeForge, Daniel Smith; Town committee, Clarence Reid, Albert DeForge, Jason P. Lathrop, Napoleon LeBlanc, Leon E. Doyle, Duffield Barnier, Mrs. Emma Metivier.

SPRAGUE REPUBLICANS NOMINATE FOR SELECTMEN

At the Sprague republican caucus held Monday evening at the town hall in Baltic with a good attendance, John C. Stevens was elected chairman and Arthur P. Cote clerk. John C. Stevens was nominated for first selectman and John C. Donovan was the choice as candidate for second selectman.

The following committee was appointed to fill out the remainder of the ticket: John C. Stevens, chairman; Lawrence G. Dreschee, William G. Park, Napoleon Belanger, Horace Hunt; auditor, Henry C. Isham; grand jurors, William M. Weitz, Edward B. Lyman, Madison Woodward; collector of taxes, Miss Eva M. Collins; registrar of voters, Curtis A. Holmes; town school committee, Lucius W. Robinson; constables, Harry Brousseau, Bernet Zenowitz, Lester J. Hutchins.

The voters were very much surprised when Hubert P. Collins, for 15 years town clerk and treasurer, and D. A. Lyman, first selectman and grand juror for many years, failed renomination on the ticket. Mr. Collins was nominated on the democratic ticket.

JAIL AND FINES FOR TWO MOONSHINE DEALERS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Sept. 10. — Kostanty Plasick and Peter Mros will have to serve a term in jail, the former for ten days and the latter thirty days, each to pay $200 for selling liquor and keeping a place where liquor has been sold, unless the court of common pleas for New London county shall modify sentences imposed by Judge Prince in the police court today. Judge Prince told the accused that the evidence against them was abundant after he had heard witnesses today and the accused had the opportunity to make defense. The case came o the court through the good luck of Officer Sloan in apprehending the men as violators of the law. The officer, in civilian garb, after he had completed his tour of duty Saturday evening, heard a quartette at the corner of State and North Bank street arranging for the purchase of liquor. In the party was one man who was to do the buying. John S. Turner, an employe of the Robert Gair Co., at Montville. Turner started to get the booze and went right for the saloon kept by the men accused. He went in and came out with a pint of booze for which he paid $2. Officer Sloan was at the door to meet him. He demanded to know what Turner had in his jeans and was told that his pockets contained a pint of good moonshine. He was not at all backward in telling where he got it and who sold it to him. He went right into 11 North Bank street, where the saloon is located and pointed out Plasick as the fellow who sold the liquor to him. Mros was there, too, and admitted to the officers and others that he was the owner of the place. The pair was marched to the police station where they procured $700 each in cash, which was deposited for their appearance in court this morning. They were on hand all right, but neither would admit that he sold any liquor to Turner. Instead they denied that he bought anything but near-beer, representing that Plasick was paid $25 a week for peddling out soda and cigars and that Mros, who was part owner of the saloon with a fellow named Felix, now in Europe, was the owner of the other half of the place. Mros said he also sold baths. This caused laughter in the coure.

Turner told the story of the sale and so did Sloan. Turner did not pretend that he was a man who never drank. He said he took a drink occasionally, but he did not propose to cover up the fact that he bought from Plasick. He said he got what he bought and that had he bought the real whiskey he would have had to pay from $3 to $20 a quart for it. He could not stand that sort of liquor. The accused were represented by an attorney who made the defense that the action of the law was an abridgement of the personal liberties of the men accused. He said he wanted the case tried where the evidence and the facts could be brought out and the law would be applied. The prosecutor referred to that sort of talk as idle.

The convicted men appealed and Mros gave a bond of $1,1000 and Plasick one of $700.

Today the strictest orders have been given to the police to bring to justice all violators of the liquor law. The Plasick place has been under suspicion, but the police could never find any liquor there. They went there with a search warrant Saturday night and even then could not secure any liquor.

The cases against Matthew Keenan, GeGnaro De Lucca and Mariannon Barca, alleging the sale of liquor, were to have come to the court for a hearing today, but could not be heard, for Frank Parks of Bliuman street who accuses them, is in the hospital suffering from paralysis as the result of drinking moonshine. The accused deny that Parks obtained any liquor from them.

MIDDLETOWN MAN DIED AT PINE GROVE, NIANTIC

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Sept. 10.—Frank Ashton, a well known resident of Middletown, died suddenly of heart trouble at his summer home at Pine Grove, Niantic, late Saturday. Mr. Ashton had been feeling as well apparently as usual until he collapsed and died almost instantly. He was 72 years of age.

Charles E. Jeffery of the Golden Spur to which place he removed about three years ago, died at Lawrance hospital Sunday, where he had been under treatment but a few hours. Mr. Jeffery was 62 years of age and is survived by a widow and a sister, the latter residing in Danville, N. Y. Mr. Jeffery had been a sufferer for some time of intestinal trouble. Yesterday his condition became so serious that he was transferred to the hospital where everything possible was done to save his life. Mrs Jeffery formerly conducted a lodging house on Golden street and was employed as janitor at a State street store.

SUES ON $500 PLEDGE FOR JEWISH RELIEF

Through a suit brought against Jacob R. Slosberg of this city, which it is said is only a precursor of others that are to follow against other pledgers to the American Jewish Relief fund in 1923, the American Jewish Relief commission of New York proposes to collect the $500 pledge that it claims Mr. Slosberg made but has repudiated, and refused to pay.

The suit is brought in the common pleas court here and it is alleged that Mr. Slosberg pledged $500 on March 8, 1922 to be paid on or before July 1, 1923 to the fund that the organization was raising for the relief of starving Jews in Europe. A pledge card with a signature on it purporting to be that Mr. Slosberg and the signature of Emanuel Kaplan as solicitor forms a basis for the claim of the plaintiffs in the case, which has been brought with Attorney J. Greenstein as counsel.

CONTRIBUTIONS FOR JAPAN REACH $1,818.07 TOTAL

Further contributions Monday to the Japanese relief fund through the Norwich Red Cross chapter made the total to date $1,818.07 when the headquarters in C. V. Pendleton's store closed on Monday night. Many more contributions are confidently expected to raise the Norwich quota of $2,000, and all those who still wish to contribute are asked by the Red Cross to send their contributions to F. W. Leaver, treasurer, 43 Broadway. The headquarters in the store were not to be continued longer than Monday.

REPORTS CAR DAMAGED, DRIVER NOT STOPPING

Joseph C. Lyons, 133 Montauk avenue, reported at Norwich police headquarters early Monday evening that his automobile had been run into in Shetucket street by another car whose driver did not stop to see what the damage was. Mr. Lyon's car had a rear mudguard broken, runing board damaged and lost a hubcap.

The police were trying to locate the driver of the other car Monday night from a description given by Mr. Lyons.

ORDERS CLOSE WATCH FOR LIQUOR LAW VIOLATIONS

New London, Conn., Sept. 10.—The eyes of local policemen must be focused on all places in this city where suspicion points to violation of the liquor laws, according to an order issued to the patrolmen today by Police Captain Pinney.

The men were informed that they are to make frequent visits to such places and report all that goes on during their presence. The order also contains an "on watch" direction for the front of the places.

POLICEMAN'S APPLES TAKE BLUE RIBBONS

Officer Michael J. Carroll took two blue ribbons at the county fair with his entry of a plate of Rhode Island greenings, and a plate of opalescents, the latter an apple of rather rare variety around here, but of particularly beautiful coloring. The apples come from trees in the yard of Officer Carroll's home on North Cliff street, where he has given them expert care during the season, with frequent spraying.

CONSTANCE GAMMONS MADE ESCAPE FROM RETREAT

Miss Constance Gammons of New London, a patient at the Hartford Retreat, escaped Sunday afternoon, but was captured a few hours later.

Her mother, May Oddo Gammons, of New London, is to be on trial at the present session of the criminal superior court in this city on the charge of assault and battery upon Constance. The case was assigned for trial for last Friday but was not reached, as trial of another case had intervened.

FIRPO-DEMPSEY BOUT ASSURED AS HAGARTY DENIES FIGHT INJUNCTION

New York, Sept. 10—With the removal today of all legal obstacles that have been the path of the Dempsey-Firpo heavyweight title match, work was rushed ahead on the additions to the polo grounds arena, advance ticket sales boomed and the champion and his challenger put redoubled energy into the finishing stages of their training campaigns for the battle next Friday night.

The threatened legal entanglements were brushed aside in supreme court when Justice Hagarty denied the application of Harry Wills, negro challenger, for a temporary injunction against the championship struggle. Wills charged that he had been unjustly discriminated against by the state athletic commission and that his challenge to Dempsey more than a year ago had been ignored, but the court ruled that he had put forward no basis for interference with the forthcoming bout.

Wills alleged that a contract he signed with Dempsey shortly after filing his challenge gave him a prior right to oppose the champion, but the court pointed out that this agreement left either principal free to engage any other opponents, in the meantime.

Wills, in presenting his case last Friday, had asked that the Dempsey-Firpo license be revoked, that one be issued for a bout between himself and Dempsey and that, in event of Dempsey's refusal to accept such an arrangement, the heavyweight title be declared forfeited to the negro. Justice Hagarty, however, emphasized that since the Firpo-Dempsey match had been arranged in accordance with all regulations of the state athletic commission, no specific license for the match was issued nor was one necessary under the state laws.

The proximity of the title struggle today found an overwhelming majority of critics of the opinion that Dempsey would quickly end Firpo's title aspirations and win by a knockout. But in spite of the consensus in favor of the titleholder, experts have shown a growing tendency to recognize the danger of the South American's remarkable strength, his stamina and the devastating power behind his right-hand punch. Dempsey's superior speed and generalship and his acknowledged hitting power were the factors regarded as likely to turn the scales in the American's favor.

The tendency to accord Firpo more than a mere fighting chance, however, was reflected in the gradual shortening of betting odds. One large wager was reported today at 2 1-2 to 1 on Dempsey, as compared with a number recorded several weeks ago at as high as 4 to 1 on the champion.

Even the most ardent Dempsey backers, however, look upon Firpo, with his unusual fighting powers, as far more formidable than any of Dempsey's opponents in the last few years —Miske, Brennan, Carpentier and Gibbons.

Even the most ardent Dempsey backers offices at Madison Square Garden today. It was announced that the cheaper reserved sections had been sold out. There seemed little doubt that Promoter Rickard's estimate of an attendance in excess of 80,000 and a total "gate" of $1,250,000 would be fulfilled.

CORNELL GRIDDERS GET FIRST PRACTICE YESTERDAY

Ithaca, N. Y., Sept. 10—The Cornell 1923 varsity football season got under way today when some fifty candidates reported to Coach Gilmour Dobie. Two practice sessions were held and Coach Dobie said he would hold two each day until the opening of the university on September 27.

Only four members of the 1922 varsity team are available this year, Captain George Pfann, quarterback; Cassidy, fullback; Ramsey, halfback and Sundstrom, right tackle. Coach Dobie has a problem to find another Eddie Kaw for the backfield and must build up practically a new team.

GIANTS HAVE BATTING SPREE AND BEAT BRAVES

Boston, Sept. 10—The world champion Giants went on a batting spree today and defeated Boston 10 to 4. They made sixteen hits for a total of 16 bases and knocked Fillingim out of the box in the fifth inning. Bentley was wild in the first inning when Boston scored three runs. He was retieved by V. Barnes after passing Connolon in the second. Jackson's triple which struck the left field wall on the fly in the ninth and Meusel's home run with Frisch on base in the same inning were terrific hits. ## PIRATES BLANK REDS AND TAKE SECOND PLACE

Cincinnati, Sept. 10—Donohue's wildness and poor support in the infield enabled Pittsburgh to score six runs on one hit in the fourth inning today and easily defeat Cincinnati 8 to 0. Errors by Fonseca and Caveney were costly and Donohue forced in two runs with passes after filling the bases. Meadows had his curve ball under good control and the Reds got only one man to third base. As a result of the victory, the Pirates advanced to second place in the league race. Score:

YANKS SCORE EASY VICTORY OVER RED SOX

New York, Sept. 10—The New York Yankees made it three straight from Boston, winning easily, 8 to 1, today. Sam Jones, who pitched a no hit game against Philadelphia last week, nearly duplicated his feat today. He did not yield a hit until Burns singled with one out in the seventh. Mitchell made the only other Boston hit, a triple in the ninth. Including a game on August 31 with Washington, Jones went 16 2-3 innings without yielding a hit, which is believed to be a record. Ruth again tied Williams for the season home run honors, when he hit his thirty-fifth home run. Score:

GRAND CIRCUIT HORSES RACE ON CINDER TRACK

Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 10—Forced off the mile dirt track by a foot of mud which made racing on it impossible, the Grand Circuit races here today at the state fair were staged on the inner cinder track which is 150 yards short of a mile.

Tommy Murphy, Walter Cox and H. H. Stokes drove the victors in today's event, all class races. Stokes piloting his big roan gelding, Gamey the Great to a straight heat victory in the 2.12 pace. Walter Cox piloted his little brown mare, Fair May to a similar victory in the 2.21 trot, while Murphy drove Mary Anne to a straight heat victory in the 2:14 trot.

Stokes made the best time of the day with Gamey the Great in the first heat of the 2:12 pace when he drove the big gelding to a mile in 2:09 1-4.

WATSON LEADS IN NATIONAL RIFLE SHOOT

Camp Perry, Ohio, Sept. 10—The National Rifle Association matches opened here today with ideal weather conditions and most remarkable shooting. Because of the number of perfect scores, the 200-yard rapid fire match will not be completed until tomorrow.

Lieutenant William R. Watson, fifth Infantry, Fort McKinley, Philippine Islands, was leading tonight with a string of thirty possibles, which he piled up in three minutes on a ten inch bulls eye target.

The Winchester junior rifle match, which opened on the small bore range last week, was finished today. Adelaide Cotter, of Washington, D. C., was announced as the winner with 193 out of a possible 200.

MANY BASEBALL MAGNATES ATTEND MILLER FUNERAL

Newark, N. J., Sept. 10—Services for John "Dots" Miller, nationally known baseball player who died at Saranac Lake, several days ago, were conducted from his late home in Kearny, N. J., today with many well known baseball men among the mourners. John J. McGraw, manager of the Giants, and Miller Huggins, manager of the Yankees were present.

JOHNSON IS BEATEN BY KINSEY IN FIRST ROUND OF NATIONAL TENNIS

Germantown Cricket Club, Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 10—(By the A. P.)—A single upset marked the first day's play in the forty-second annual tournament for the lawn tennis championship of the United States in singles, which began this afternoon on the courts of the Germantown Cricket club.

Robert Kinsey, of San Francisco, provided the startling reversal of form when he completely outplayed and defeated in straight sets, Wallace F. Johnson, of Philadelphia.

Johnson, a finalist two years ago in the national championship against Tilden and a star of fifteen years standing, fell before a masterly exponent of the chop-stroke, a form of play originated and developed by the Philadelphian.

The master was helpless in the hands of the pupil who ran Johnson ragged by his perfect control of chop shots and by abler handling of the ball close to the net.

Approximately seven thousand persons, the largest first-day crowd in the history of national championships, saw the field of sixty-four selected players, representative of seven countries, melt away, through the elimination play of the first round or by default, to a field of thirty-two players, who will begin the second round tomorrow. Dusk was settling over the courts when the last match was completed.

Nine foreign players survived the first round. Two went out through defeats and four others by default.

France retained three in the tournament, Rene Lacoste, the 17 year old star, defeating C. J. Griffin, of California, in straight sets; and Jacques Brugnon and Pierre Hirsch winning by default.

The Alonso brothers, of Spain, Manuel and Jose, won their way in the tourney in straight sets. J. O. Anderson and John B. Hawkes, of the Australian team, defaulted, but Ian D. McInnes and Richard Schlesinger, substitutes in the Antipodean Davis cup team, appeared for play.

McInnes came through with a surprising three-set victory over Willis E. Davis, of San Francisco, while Schlesinger was forced out of the tournament when Howard O. Kinsey, of San Francisco, brother of Wallace Johnson's conqueror, won a four set match.

B. I. C. Norton, of South Africa, came through with the utmost difficulty. Leon De Turenne, of Seattle, forced him to twenty-two games before accepting defeat in the first set and then won the third set from the South African.

F. R. Leighton Crawford, England's sole entrant, lost a straight set match to Gerald B. Emerson, of Orange, N. J., while Claude M. Butler, champion of Mexico, advanced by default of Zenzo Shimizu, of Japan. George King of New York eliminated Willard F. Crocker, of Montreal, champion of Canada.

The four members of America's victorious Davis cup team turned in victories. William T. Tilden, 2nd, champion of the United States took Watson M. Washburn of New York, into camp but not before he had dropped a set and been close to defeat in the fourth set.

William M. Johnston, of San Francisco; R. Norris Williams, of Philadelphia, and Vincent Richards, of Yonkers, N. Y., came through in straight sets.

INJURY TO ZEV MAY KEEP HORSE OUT OF BIG RACE

New York, Sept. 10—Zev's chances of being selected to represent American three-year-olds in the international horse race next month against Papyrus, English derby winner, were endangered today when it was learned the crack Rancocas stable racer had injured a foot—in racing parlance "cast a frog"—in winning the Lawrence Realization last Saturday at Belmont Park.

The accident, in which Zev lost the horny pad from the center of one hoof occurred near the finish of the race, according to Sam Hildreth, Rancocas trainer, and accounted for the fact that the horse appeared badly tired at the end.

Six weeks remain before the scheduled international race at Belmont Park October 20, however, and Hildreth expressed confidence that the foot would be healed long before that and Zev ready to run if selected as this country's representative. Hildreth said the foot is now raw but he thought two or three weeks would bring it around to normal.

Should Zev be unable to return to form, however, several other outstanding three-year-olds loom as international material. These include Rialto and Untidy, both of which lost to Zev in the Realisation, and My Own and Wilderness, which are expected to undergo tryouts next Saturday in the national trial sweepstakes, the final test for candidates to meet Papyrus.

Among turfmen, Zev's victory Saturday had been regarded as practically clinching the big colt's right to oppose the English derby winner for international supremacy.

COLGATE FOOTBALL SQUAD SUFFERS TWO LOSSES

Hamilton, N. Y., Sept. 10—Ray Burke, veteran halfback and Gib Shaler, guard, were lost to the Colgate University football squad today, Burke being declared illigible and Shaler breaking a shoulder in practice. Pete Mason, last year's varsity full-back arrived today to assist Coach Dick Harlow. Five veterans reported for practice today: Neacy, end; Vose and Hustis, guards; Nash, tackle and Gilbert, back.

DEMPSEY REVEALS HIS AMAZING BURST OF SPEED

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Sept. 10—(By the A. P.)—Plunging into his final three days of training, Jack Dempsey revealed an amazing burst of speed in five rounds of boxing, against four sparring partners today, convincing his admirers that he was ready to defend his title against Luis Angel Firpo at the Polo grounds, Friday night.

The world's heavyweight champion satisfied with the power back of his punches, intends to devote the last two days shaping his judgment of distance, Jack Kearns, manager of the title holder, before leaving for New York tonight, said Dempsey would box tomorrow and Wednesday, but only against light sparring partners. Dempsey's characteristic aggressiveness and snap back of his punches, missing yesterday, was in evidence this afternoon, although the weather was almost too chilly for outdoor work. A biting wind, carrying the breath of fall, swept off Saratoga Lake, causing the 500 spectators in the canvas walled arena to shiver, although many of them were wrapped in sweaters and overcoats, Dempsey worked in full length tights, with a snug fitting jersey, risking no chances of catching cold. While attendants were pulling off the gloves, Dempsey nervously jumped up and down to keep in motion, and wrapping a big bath robe over his shoulders, sprinted down the beach to his cottage.

The champion faced a brace of new sparring mates today—George West, a British 157 pounder, and Frank Laureate, a welterweight, of Troy, N. Y., in addition to Jack Burke, the light heavyweight, and Alex Trambitis, a middleweight. Burke was in the ring for two rounds, while the others stepped one round each.

FIRPO SHOWS MORE SPEED AND BETTER LEFT

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 10—(By the A. P.)—The same heavy sparring sessions, made more interesting by their liveliness were done today by Luis Angel Firpo, who meets Jack Dempsey for a world title in New York Friday night. The Argentine worked for speed, practiced defense and gave his jaw and stomach the punch test. His sparring mates, John Lester Johnson, Young Bob Fitzsimmons and Joe McCann, as usual, left the ring pretty well worn.

Only once or twice did Firpo let himself loose and show something akin to fighting. A short right uppercut in the second round with Johnson cut short a workout that had been full of action. After the punch John Lester hung on until the whistle sounded. Firpo shook Fitzsimmons' head from side to side with rights and lefts, but near the end of the session with the redhead sun of the old champion, he left down the defense of the jaw and permitted Young Bob to do a little battering.

The crowd, larger than usual, and pro-Dempsey as usual, got a great deal of pleasure out of the smashes Young Bob hooked to the South American's jaw. They shouted that Dempsey would do the same thing ten times as hard. They called Firpo and his style of things equivalent to dub. But when Joe McCann stepped out for his medicine Firpo was stronger than ever.

McCann's head was used for a receiving board for both rights and lefts. Firpo's left, the use of which he has been developing ever since the training started, was used to good advantage along with the right. The South American seemed to have acquired the knack of shooting left, then right and vice versa, instead of launching the famed right then backing away and letting it go again. He saw the effect of this sort of punching on McCann and appeared pleased.

MOLLA ADVANCES TO 3RD ROUND IN MIDDLE STATES

Philadelphia, Sept. 10—Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, formerly national champion, today advanced to the third round of the middle states women's tennis championships at the Philadelphia Cricket club by her defeat of Mrs. George R. Powell, of Philadelphia, 6-1, 6-0. In the first round Mrs. Mallory drew a bye.

The Misses Lillian Scharman and Eleanor Goss, of New York obtained one-sided victories over their respective opponents, the Misses Phyllis Walsh and Vinette Willard, of Philadelphia, the scores in both matches were 6-0, 6-0.

In an extra-set match Miss Elizabeth Warren, of Baltimore defeated Miss Peggy Ferguson, of Philadelphia, 6-3, 4-6, 8-6.

Flamingo Team Beaten

Philadelphia, Sept. 10—The Orange County Polo team defeated the Flamingo team in the first match of the international polo series at Bala today by a score of 11 to 6.

Sets Another World's Record

Helsingfors, Sept. 10—Stenros, Finnish runner, today covered 20 kilometres in 1 hour, 7 minutes, 11 3-5 seconds, which is a new world's record. The former record held by T. Kiuhumainen, also of Finland, was 1 hour, 7 minutes 40 1-5 seconds.

Travers Beats Wagner

New Haven, Sept. 10—Micky Travers of this city won the decision over Eddie Wagner of Philadelphia in a 12 round bout here tonight.

WARD TRIAL TO OPEN AT WHITE PLAINS TOMORROW

New York, Sept. 10—The grand jury which indicted Walter S. Ward in connection with the killing of Clarenc M. Peters, ex-marine, whose body was found near the Kensico reservoir on May 16, 1922, voted unanimously that he should be tried for murder, according to reports current today. Only two of the twenty-three jurors failed to vote, it was said, and they refrained because they are Quakers and had conscientious scruples against capital punishment.

The trial will open at White Plains Wednesday.

SERGEANT J. L. KANE SUICIDED AT CAMP DEVENS

Camp Devens, Mass., Sept. 10.—Sergeant James L. Kane, of D company, 13th Infantry, shot and killed himself in his company barracks here today. He formerly served with the First Division in France. No motive has been suggested by army authorities.

MONTVILLE

Announcements ward received by friends in Oakdale last Monday of the wedding July 30th of Miss Agnes Auwood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Auwood of Oakdale, and James Kinney of Syracuse, N. Y. They left Sunday for a trip through the New England states, Canada, Syracuse, N. Y., and to Harrisburg, Pa., where they will make their home. Miss Auwood has been employed as bookkeeper for the Massasoit company at Oakdale for a number of years. Miss Arzella Newton of Uncasville has succeeded her.

The Community house at Oakdale is to be used as a school room this year to accommodate those pupils who were to be sent to the West Side district, owing to the overcrowded condition of Montville Center school. The new school will open in about a week. All other schools in the town opened Wednesday morning.

The prayer meeting at the Union Baptist church was held Friday evening instead of Thursday.

The Ladies' Aid society of Uncasville Methodist church held its first meeting after the August vacation Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ralph Meicer.

Miss Dorothy Church has been entertaining Miss Helen O'Rourke of Norwich for a week.

Rev. Charles Smith, pastor of Uncasville Methodist church, has returned after several weeks spent at Cape Cod and in Boston.

Rev. John Hunter Stearns and daughters, Misses Margaret and Jane Creigh Stearns, motored to Canaan Monday to attend the funeral of their aunt.

Moses Chapman of Flanders has been making a few days' visit at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Henry Church.

Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Francis of Oakdale have returned from a week's vacation at Mason's Island.

Mrs. Harold Harber left Tuesday for an automobile visit to friends in Boston, Mass., and Portland, Me.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

Mrs. Jennet Bojko was fined $25 and costs of $9.83 by Judge Heald in the borough court Saturday morning. She was charged with assault and battery, breach of the peace and failure to have a lantern on her wagon Friday night. State Policeman Harmon met Mrs. Jojko near the postoffice and told her she ought to have a light on her wagon. She became very abusive and drove off. Later she was overtaken by State Policemen Hulbert and Hardesty. They also called her attention to the infraction of the law and she became very ugly, striking Officer Hulbert in the face. She was then placed under arrest and was ordered to appear in court. She told Judge Heald at the hearing that she had been to a Polish wedding and had drank cider and wine and that she was drunk. The fine and costs were paid by a friend of the accused.

The town clerk has moved into his new quarters in the new Memorial building and it is expected that the probate office will be moved there today (Monday).

COLCHESTER

Charles F. Brown returned Wednesday from a few days' stay in Brimfield, Mass., where he attended a reunion and picnic of the graduates of Brimfield academy, from which he was graduated. About 1,500 of the graduates attended.

Miss Mary Curgenven has entered a business college in Hartford, where she will take a course in stenography.

Thomas F. Kinney and Charles F. Brown motored to Hartford Thursday.

Miss Helen Kingberger of Fitchville, school nurse for this town, was visiting the schools in town Thursday.

Arthur Holmes of New London was calling on local friends Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Strong and Mrs. Katie Talcott were in Norwich Wednesday.

Mrs. Flora Brown has returned to Hartford after a few days' visit at Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Strong's.

MARKET QUIET AND STRONG.

New York, Sept. 10.—Stock prices continued their upward movement in today's quiet session. The rally, while not extensive, was attributed to more favorable foreign news, including reports that Germany was preparing to cease passive resistance in the Ruhr and that Italy and Greece were ready to accept the peace proposals of the council of ambassadors.

Copper shares showed the most consistent strength, buying being based on the Ruhr news and the fact that August shipments exceeded those of all other months this year except January and March, despite the fact that German buying was one-half of its usual August demand. Utah advanced 1 7-8 and Anaconda, Kennecott and American Smelting 1 to 1 5-8. Passing of the Butte & Superior dividend was not announced until after the market closed, the stock showing a net loss of 3-8, and was explained as due to a desire to conserve the cash resources of the company.

Announcement of the new government financing was generally regarded as a bullish factor because the amount, $200,000,000 was less than expected and involves no change in interest rate. Government long term financing is not new expected until next March.

Publication of the monthly tonnage statement of the U. S. Steel Corporation, showing a reduction of 496,100 tons in unfilled orders, was about what Wall street expected. U. S. Steel closed fractionally higher but some of the independents lost ground.

Baldwin, Studebaker, American Woolen and most of the other industrial leaders closed fractionally higher. Some experimental short selling took place in the oil shares but most of the active issues offered good resistance, Cosden being particularly active and closing nearly a point higher.

Some confused movements took place among the specialties, Woolworth and Kresge advanced 6 3-4 and 7 3-8, respectively. Bros. Tea opened 3 points higher, cancelling nearly all its gain and then moved upward again, closing at 50 3-8, up 1 3-4. Dupont dropped 3 points.

Rails showed mixed changes, Southern Railway being the most active, closing 3-8 higher at 34 7-8.

Call money opened at 4 3-4 per cent, but advanced to 5 before the close. Time money was somewhat more active with 5 1-2 per cent, the ruling rate. Commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Strength of the continental allied currencies was the feature of the foreign exchange market. French francs advanced 10 points to 5.67 cents, Italian lira advanced 3 1-2 points to 4.41 1-2 cents and Belgian francs advanced 10 points to 4.65 1-2 cents. Greek drachmas moved up 12 points to 1.95 cents. Demand sterling was quoted at $4.53 7-8.

AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS

GOOD SEED CHEAPEST MEANS OF INCREASING CORN YIELDS

Corn yields can be increased more surely and cheaply by the use of good seed than in any other way, says the United States department of agriculture. Unless a community has an experienced and honest corn breeder, the best place for the farmer to get seed corn is from the fields on his farm or in his neighborhood which were planted with a variety that has proved successful in the locality. The time for selecting seed corn in the field is almost here and preparations for handling the seed should soon be under way.

In selecting corn for seed, the ears should be taken from stalks which yield best in competition with others. Picking the seed corn direct from the field will give the farmer a chance to do this, and also to get ears that are free from disease and hang at a height convenient for husking. Drooping ears which shed rain readily usually will give the best seed, while in the south it is necessary to choose ears that are well protected from insects by a long, tight husk covering.

The same day the seed is gathered it should be hung in a dry, airy place. One of the best ways to cure seed corn is to hang it from the rafters of a barn or open shed, care being taken to see that it is thoroughly dry before there is danger of freezing. After it is well cured, store the corn in a dry place where it will not be damaged by mice, rats, birds and insects. The corn that produces the best crop is cheapest in the long run and care in selecting and handling seed corn will be more than repaid by increased yields.

COOPERATIVE EGG MARKETING

The farm poultry flock has been made a source of cash income as well as of food for the family by many farm women who have learned from their agricultural extension agents the best methods of poultry management and preparation of products for market. The experience of the women of Fairhaven, (Ga.) community, is typical of the work in many states. These farm women, desiring to improve the earnings of their flocks, brought eggs to the weekly meeting of the extension club, where the home-demonstration agent showed them how to grade and pack properly for shipment. This was continued each week until the members were able to do the work themselves. They then organized to ship their eggs cooperatively, secured a customer in a grocery store in a nearby city, and, according to reports to the United States Department of Agriculture, have been carrying on a satisfactory business for more than a year.

New cooperative egg marketing associations organized in 1922, according to reports handled 498,000 dozen eggs; in 1921 some 400 new organizations handled about 200,000 dozen eggs.

MERITS OF WHEAT AS POULTRY FEED

With the price of wheat in several states lower than, or about equal to, the price of corn, poultry specialists in the United States department of agriculture point out the desirability of giving wheat an important place in poultry rations. The influence of wartime conservation of wheat is still evident, according to specialists of the department, but there are no longer any economic reasons for conserving wheat or using it solely as a human food. On the other hand, it is so plentiful and cheap in many localities that it is a more economical livestock and poultry feed than corn.

Corn and wheat are the two best grains for poultry and are about equal in value for this purpose, although wheat can be fed alone better than corn, which is inclined to be fattening. Best results are obtained when wheat and corn are combined about equally in egg-laying rations. Following is a good scratch mixture: One pound cracked corn, one pound wheat, one pound oats.

While wheat is an excellent feed for dairy cows and meat animals, it needs to be ground for best results with such stock, whereas poultry relish it and utilize it as whole grain.

The department points out also that wheat at 89 cents per bushel, which was the approximate current price recently in seven middle western states, is $29.66 per ton, which is a lower price than prevails for various other feeds having no greater nutritive value. The department's recommendations for putting wheat back on a pre-war basis as a stock feed are reinforced by action already taken by some farmers. A co-operative association of Michigan farmers recently published a list of feeds for which wheat could be more economically substituted. This association contends that the local wheat market was below the cost of production and that local wheat would bring more when fed to livestock than when sold on the open market.

WARNS DAIRYMEN OF SCOURS IN CALVES

This is the time of year that the dairymen must be particularly careful to prevent scours in young growing calves, according to county agricultural agent, because of the liability of sudden changes of weather conditions and also the possibility of getting chilled green feeds.

Probably no disease does more harm to the growing calf than scours. In most cases it can be prevented. There are two kinds of scours. One in the result of disturbance of the digestive system, the other is known as the white scours.

To prevent scours, one must remember that the calf's digestive system is very delicate and should treated and handled according

The account of the Taftville Field Day association parade should have stated that Fire Department No. 2, which appeared in the parade was led by Chief Ralph C. Dion and Assistant Chief Louis Gregory.

Keep your figure young

La Resista CORSETS

A Demonstration

By Mme. Josephine

Expert Corsetiere from the Fifth Avenue Salon of La Resista

THIS WEEK

WE are pleased to announce that we have secured the services of the well-known Mme. Josephine to demonstrate our La Resista Corsets.

There is a special model of La Resista designed for your particular type of figure. Mme. Josephine will help you to select it. She will give you an expert fitting and enable you to see for yourself how comfortably you stand and move and bend in a La Resista.

La Resista is an invisible figure control, the only flexible corset with the unique Spirabone stays. It molds the figure to the smoothest of lines, adapting it easily and gracefully to the smart silhouette of fashion. The Spirabone stays—exclusive with La Resista—are so wonderfully resilient as to meet the body's every movement without ever sacrificing the shape of the corset.

The model illustrated is La Resista "Quick-On," one of the most popular of the new ideas in corsets. This and other types, $5, $7.50, $10, up.

REPUBLICANS MAKE NOMINATIONS FOR TOWN TICKET IN CAUCUS

In a caucus that moved harmoniously through a twenty-minute session Monday night in the town hall, the republicans nominated their candidates for the ticket in the town election in October. William Stewart Murray, whose name was brought before the caucus by Rev. Charles H. Ricketts, both well known Greeneville men, was put at the head of the ticket as the candidate for first selectman, and every name presented was placed on the ticket by unanimous vote of the caucus.

When Judge Arthur F. Libby, chairman of the town committee, called the caucus to order at 8 o'clock a gathering of about 100, including five women, was in the seats in the town hall. On motion of John B. Oat, Judge Nelson J. Ayling was elected chairman and took his place amid applause. Charles W. Cassidy, who was elected clerk on motion of Fred G. Prothero, read the call for the meeting, and the first business was the nomination for first selectman.

Rev. Mr. Ricketts took the floor and said this was an office which was no easy position to fill. It involved a great deal of detail which required much time and attention. It called for a man with business sagacity, such as the man has whom he would nominate. He also is in a position to give more time to the office than those holding it usually do. He has had business training, said Rev. Mr. Ricketts, and has served the city as councilman and alderman. He said that he had known this candidate for twenty-five years and he took great pleasure in nominating William S. Murray.

On motion of Stephen H. Reeves, Charles P. Bushnell, who is now second selectman, was nominated for that place.

C. D. Noyes made the nomination for first assessor. He said that two years ago the party had nominated a young man who was making his first plunge into the political game. He was elected and he had made good and he deserved a renomination. Mr. Noyes named John B. Oat, who was quite so big as God; there is no difficulty but that we can overcome with the help of the God who made us, and when temptation lurks in our pathway, we can win the victory with the aid of the great Christ. If we are to live a pure, noble and successful life, we must swing into line with the will of God; we must parallel our wills with his will. Let us live at our best that when God calls us we will leave behind us a trail of blessing for those who follow us."

Several appropriate poems were read including God's Out of Doors, and I Like to Go to School to God.

HELEN MABREY CHAMPLIN'S RECORD TRIP TO SEATTLE

Writing to her father, Louis Mabrey, from Renton, Washington, near Seattle, Mrs. Ernest C. Champlin (Helen R. Mabrey) says: We have the New England hills, only they are much higher and snow-capped, and called mountains. The sound here is Puget, instead of Long Island, but it's salt, and good bathing, fishing and ideal clamming. Lakes are numerous. The weather is different, thunder storms are frequent; hot weather is unknown. When the temperature reaches 75 degrees, everyone drops work, sweats and complains, "How hot it is!" The temperature has reached 85 degrees on two days since I've been here; but at 5 p. m. it drops noticeably and a sweater is donned at 6. There hasn't been a night since I came that we haven't used two blankets—not cold, but cool, and wonderful for sleep.

No wonder everybody here gets fat —for one can eat plenty of vegetables and fruit and both are cheap.

Last Saturday and Sunday we spent in Rainier National Park; it's wonderful. There is a long camp at the foot of the mountain where we stayed all night. The camping ground is wonderful—tables, fires, electric lights, running water, tents, toilets, et al., also a theatre where lectures are given about the park, and mountain, glaciers, etc. There are all kinds of mineral springs, iron, sulphur, soda.

We started at 7 a. m. Six miles from camp the road begins to be a one-way road which is wonderfully guarded by rangers—only so many cars allowed, each car number taken, and accounted for all the way up and down. Cars are allowed up the mountain on the hour and down the next, when the last car going up has reached Paradise Valley Ranger station. At 7 a. m. only about 100 cars were going up.

We were the last car. No car is allowed to stop between these stops. It's a steady climb, of six per cent grade, good road. Below you, winding around the mountain it's wonderful. You finally reach the snow and flowers which are beautiful—all colors and kinds—snow right beside some wonderful flower; in fact, they say the flowers come up through the snow.

Paradise Valley has a big inn, also a camp connected with the inn, and a public camping ground. They claim there were over 4,000 cars there Saturday night. Anyhow, I never saw so many, while over 200 passed us while we were waiting to go up the one-way road. There are six or seven bears that come down the mountain to the inn garbage cans every morning and evening—cutest things you ever saw, and so tame!

Well, we parked our car and E—— went up the mountain two miles, but I stopped at a sixth of a mile. We had a slide on the snow and ice and looked—at the flowers—one is not allowed to pick a single flower.) We could see four snow-capped mountains. We started down at one o'clock (noon) with at least 500 cars from all over the country. Maine and Massachusetts were represented; there were two Ohio cars. We stopped and cooked our dinner at Long Mine, and came home at 6 p. m.

Last Sunday we spent on the part of the old Ezra Meeker Ranch—now run as a certified milk dairy. Raspberries, loganberries, beets, carrots, peas, etc., had all we could carry home. The old ranch house is as big as an ark. Never saw so many berries in my life. Strawberries, raspberries, loganberries, all in season. The lettuce is the best in the world.

There are so many Japs here; at first it was funny to see them, working by the thousand in the fields—all on their knees weeding—men, women and children. They raise the lettuce. They have cars and trucks. They can't buy, but lease the land and they sure make things grow.

President Harding was in Seattle last week—(the letter is dated Aug. 2nd)—and Seattle turned out in full, though he was four hours late, due to an accident outside the harbor.

You say my trip from Sharon, Pa., was in all the auto magazines. I haven't seen but one account and that was in The Sharon Herald. I didn't know I was making a record. My idea was to get here. I started out to make Seattle against all advises from auto clubs and men who had driven for years. I made Seattle and in record time—so you see it can be done.

I had all the thrills and almost every kind of a road. I only lost the trail once, outside of Lemmon, S. D. We then got 40 miles out of our way before we met anyone to tell us where we were. We had to retrace our route through fields, etc., but finally came into town with speedometer registering 62 where it should have been 27 from Lemmon or thereabouts. We were held a couple of hours from Lemmon anyway—I had a tire fixed the night before at a garage; a five-inch spike cut and tore the tube to pieces. A half mile out of Lemmon, the next morning, the tire was down and when I looked, the man had put in the tube and left the spike in the casing. So I went back to the garage and made him put in a new tube and pull out the spike. It was dark then, so we camped that night but we made 275 miles just the same. Only two days we made under 200, that was in the Bitter Roots mountains and on our last day, when we had only 175 miles to go. Outside Aberdeen, S. D., we came through five thunderstorms one afternoon.

She tells of the rigid laws in various states; in Idaho the law is not over 30 miles—and she and her young son were going 38. Two days after Bitter Root Pass, cars were stuck, and there were bad roads also outside Wallace, Idaho, people paying to be dragged out.

They came upon the new pavement after two miles, and in speeding along were suddenly held up—no use of arguing—it meant a $10 penalty. After that they were more cautious. It was like riding through molasses on some roads, and after two more towns she writes that she never saw so much rain fall in a half hour. They made only four miles in three hours and had to shovel the mud off the tires to let the wheels go round; it was like trying to drive through bread dough; it stuck to the chains and went with the wheels until at 50 feet the space between the wheel and fender was completely clogged. We know now, she writes, why people carry a shovel on the back of their cars, like a spare tire. All cars have the shovel!

Going through Dakota they drove 127 miles in one day and passed only one house. It was here that luck could have been against one, to get out of gas or have a break-down. Motorists didn't see how they were able to make Livingstone, Mont., from Billings in one day, but they did; they ran past twenty cars stuck, each driver saying "Go to it—and luck be with you!" They made it, and made Butte that night.

Mr. Champlin, who had come to Butte to meet his wife and 6-year-old son Louis, had been assured on the train by the conductor that no driver could possibly make Butte under such conditions; consequently he was more than surprised to find Mrs. Champlin registered at the hotel and to be told that the car was not stuck in the mud, but at a garage across the street.

Mrs. Champlin made the 3,200 miles in 15 1-2 consecutive days.

LESSON FROM THE TREES AT Y. M. C. A. MEETING

An audience that filled the parlors at the Y. M. C. A. Sunday afternoon was well pleased with the hour they spent; the program consisted of the singing of hymns, the reading of Scripture, impressive vocal solos by Hugh Kinder, a brief message by Secretary Hill, and a half hour of interesting moving pictures including On the Trail to Health and Happiness, America's Sleeping Giants and Travels in the West Indies. The pictures were clear and the photography was well nigh perfect.

Between the reels, Secretary Hill gave a brief talk on Lessons From the Trees, and he said in part:

"The trees teach us some valuable lessons; the tree is successful in at least two things; it sends its roots down deep into the earth until it finds the water it needs, and it sends its branches up into the sunlight which it must have. Sometimes large rocks are in the path of the growing roots, but the tree never gets discouraged, but simply twines its roots around the rocks that would hinder; the only way to discourage a tree is to kill it. We, as human beings, have our problems, our hindrances, our difficulties, our temptations, and sometimes we are tempted to get discouraged, but we must always remember that there is no problem quite so big as God; there is no difficulty but that we can overcome with the help of the God who made us, and when temptation lurks in our pathway, we can win the victory with the aid of the great Christ. If we are to live a pure, noble and successful life, we must swing into line with the will of God; we must parallel our wills with his will. Let us live at our best that when God calls us we will leave behind us a trail of blessing for those who follow us."

Several appropriate poems were read including God's Out of Doors, and I Like to Go to School to God.

"POQUYOGH" NEW NAME OF PLEASURE BEACH

When that well known summer resort, Pleasure Beach, in the town of Waterford, changed its name this summer to Poquyogh, it aroused much curiosity in New London, Waterford and vicinity as to the proper spelling and pronunciation of the new name. The spelling used is on the authority of Caulkins' History of New London, pages 124 and 406. The proper pronunciation is Po-kwe-o, with the accent on the first syllable. This is on the authority of Chief Lemuel Fielding of the Mohegan Indians. One of the chief's ancestors was a Pequot and he knows the Pequot as well as the Mohegan language. Poquyogh is a Pequot word meaning round clam, and was the old Indian name for the land east of Jordan cove where the round clam was plentiful.

Since the name of Poquyogh was adopted, signs have been placed at the road corners so that all may readily find Poquyogh.

THOMAS CONNELL WITH "JACK & JILL" COMEDY

Thomas Connell of Norwich has left New York with the Jack and Jill musical comedy. Mr. Connell's position with the production is technical director at a salary of $500 a month. His rise in the theatrical profession has been rapid. His first venture was as a clown in Better Times, at the Hippodrome. He left the stage for the producing end of the business and has overcome many obstacles to reach his present position. He will open up in Detroit, and put into Chicago for the winter season.

EXPECTS FIRE FIGHTERS TO SEE PUMPER TEST

The official underwriters' test for the new pumper, Engine 2, to be placed in the Greeneville station, is to take place this (Tuesday) afternoon at 1 o'clock at Falls avenue. After this pumper has been tested by Chief Stanton, Engine No. 3, now at Greeneville, will be held in reserve, to be sent later to the Falls station. The old Pope that was formerly stationed at the old Main street station, the first piece of motor apparatus purchased by the city, is to be replaced by the new pumper. Chief Stanton is expectant of a large gathering of interested fire fighters from out of town to witness the test.

Clarence C. Howard in Town.

Clarence C. Howard of Springfield, Mass., is in town for a few days visiting with his cousin, Miss Charlotte Barbour of Lincion court. Mr. Howard is on his way to Atlantic City where he will attend the gathering of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, who are to be the guests of Crescent Temple.

NEW LONDON POLICEMEN MAY STUMP ACCUSER TO PRODUCE PROOF

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, Sept. 10—Gilbert Lehner of the Crocker houseapartments, Mrs. Dennis Hefferman, Pequot ave., Herbert Senior, Westerly, Miss Pauline Friedman, Winthrop street, Mrs. James Gilmartin, Colman street, Fred Rogers, Waterford, Mrs. Henry Muller, Stonington, Samuel Eaton, schooner Tembate, Joseph Perry, Stonington, Mrs. Samuel Wilson and infant son, Niantic, Miss Mary Allender, Morgan street, Miss Mamie Marino, Shaw street, Samuel Riner, Main street and Johua Silva of Stonington, patients at Lawrence hospital, were able to return to their respective homes today.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Kenerson of Canaan, where Mr. Kenerson is employed motored to New London today to permit Mr. and Mrs. Kenerson to cast their votes at the city election.

James Bennett of Hartford, injured a week ago when the automobile in which he was riding with Dr. Wilford Robinson of New Britain and Frederich Burke of Hartford crashed against a tar tank on the John Rogers road in Waterford, was discharged at Lawrence hospital today and returned to Hartford. The other men are making progress toward recovery. Mr. Burke, who is grand chancellor of Hartford Knights of Columbus, sustained a fractured skull.

Luther Vallentine, 45, of Richards street, died Saturday night at St. Raphael's hospital, New Haven, after treatment for several weeks for a condition of the stomach believed to have been caused by being gassed while serving in the world war. He is survived by a sister. At one time Mr. Vallentine was watchman at the plant of the New London Ship & Engine company.

Margaret B. Frazier, 38, wife of Frederick Frazier, 15 Tenth street, died suddenly at her home Sunday from asthma. She was about the house as usual Sunday when she suffered a recurrance of the disease and died a short time after. Mrs. Frazier besides her husband, is survived by six children, Lawrence, Frederick, Robert and Norman Frazier and Misses Millicent and Winifred Frazier and by a sister, Mrs. John McLaughlin, of New London.

It is probable that the New London police department will make a demand upon the Anti-Saloon League or the First Baptist church, of which Rev. Chester H. Howe, pastor, for a substantiation of the charges set forth against certain members of the department, at a meeting in the church last Thursday night when it was represented to the several hundred citizens present that crime was allowed to exist in New London because of the laxity of the department, the crimes referred to being illegal liquor selling and gambling. It was also alleged that a police officer in uniform has been known to obtain liquor in a certain saloon and that another had been observed to take money from a saloon keeper, presumably as a measure of protection against arrest. The members of the force want the church people to come forth and reveal any information they possess that will prove any of the police officers derelect, in duty, or having procured liquor or accepted money, whether as 'hush money' or otherwise. To compel the church people to produce their information some of the oldest members of the department are insistent. It is believed that the demand will be recognized by the church people or the Anti-Saloon League, for, it is contended by the police officers, if the opponents of the saloon and the people desiring the elimination of crime from the city had the evidence they claim to be possessed of, wholesale prosecutions and a call to the police officers would have resulted long ago.

Charles Bloomquist of Montville was in Waterford Sunday. When he came back he drove through Huntington street and at the corner of Stoney Hill met a car parked at the side of the road, right under an electric light, almost. Still Bloomquist did not see the parked car and ran his machine into it. The damage was not great, but Bloomquist had to pay a fine of $25 for recklessdriving, when presented in the police court this morning.

Joe and Francis Gargano, residing on the border of Waterford in the Phillips street section, had a wild time Sunday. Joe's wife asked for his arrest and he was locked up for the night. Then Francis walloped Mrs. Joe over the head with a stick that opened a bad wound in her face, near the eye. He, too, was arrested. In court today Mrs. Gargano was not so anxious to prosecute the men nor did she want them penalized. She wanted them to understand that they could not do as the had done, and if they would agree to that all would be forgiven. They agreed, mighty glad to get the chance to do so. They were fined $25 and sentenced to jail each but the execution of the sentence was suspended and the men were placed on probation.

Peter Lambrick was found so drunk Sunday that he couldn't get a leg under himself. Officer Hill pulled him into the patrol wagon and Peter spent the night in a cell. This morning he was fined $5.

Carter Hutchison, arrested for trespassing on a New Haven road train, admitted that he tried to beat his way from Providence to New York and he had succeded in getting from Fall River to Providence. He said he had been landed at Fall River and did not have a cent so he wanted to get to New York to ship on a vessel that he might earn a living. He was told to walk and to start at once.

Harold P. Small, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Small of Willetta avenue, and Miss Elizabeth Gordon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Gordon of 995 Prospect avenue, Hartford, were married at the home of the bride's parents Saturday afternoon by Rev. Edwin W. Bigelow, assisted by Rev. Willis H. Butler.

Miss Katherine Reed of New Haven is the guest of Miss Lavinia Hull of Williams street.

The fire department was called out at 5 o'clock this afternoon for a small blaze at the house 73 Hempstead street, occupied by Mrs. Louisa Parkhurst, Mrs. Henrietta Bush and Mrs. Ida M. Anderson. Children at play around the front veranda of the house caused decayed timbers to be ignited when they started a small fire among rubbish. An alarm was sent in from Box 35. On the arrival of the department the fire was extinguished with chemicals. The damage was slight.

An automobile owned by John Siderits, 10 New street, was stolen from his garage on Ledyard street and the owner is of the impression that the car was taken by a youthful relative who has run away from home. The car was placed in the garage during the afternoon and at 5.30 o'clock it was missing.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hislop are visiting their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hamilton, of Dover, N. J.

Mrs. Julia Sheehan is visiting her daughter, Mrs. James Sheehan, of Lancaster, O.

Rev. Philip M. Kerridge, rector of St. James' Episcopal church, returned home Saturday after spending a fortnight in New Jersey and New York.

As a result of the order of Captain of Police Charles A. Pinney instructing officers to keep a watchful eye on all places where the officers were of the belief that liquor was being dispensed, and to make frequent visits to the interior of the places, tonight officers were taken from their regular beats and located at the entrances of State and Bank street places where it has been reported that liquor was sold.

Mrs. Catherine Hickey of State street and Miss Jane Hendry of Bank street have returned from Syracuse, N. Y., where they visited for a week.

Another case of typhoid fever was reported today when Katherine Rothcart, aged 18, a student nurse, was stricken and is now under treatment in the Mitchell ward of Lawrence hospital. Miss Rothcart is a resident at 108 Riverview avenue.

The public schools opened for the fall term today and the attendance was fully as large as was anticipated, particularly at the Harbor school.

The Civic league extended an invitation to the city council last evening to attend a complimentary banquet to be given James E. Barlow tomorrow evening at the Hotel Mohican. Mr. Barlow has been city manager here and has tendered his resignation, which becomes effective Saturday next. The council, on motion of Councilor Gragan, accepted the invitation.

Full Details of Case Given by Mrs. Cook

"Since taking Tanlac I eat anything I want, even candy, and nothing hurts me," said Mrs. George H. Cook, residing at 280 Earle St., New Bedford, Mass.

"Two years ago I had a severe spell of illness, and from then until I got Tanlac I was badly run down, extremely nervous and in an awful fix due to indigestion. My stomach just seemed to give out completely, every minute I was in pain or distress from sourness and gas, and this kept up even after I went on a strict diet. I couldn't sleep and mornings I felt as if I had no energy at all.

"Soon after I got Tanlac I began to sleep, and that indigestion pain and distress disappeared. Now I'm as well and strong as ever and I always keep some Tanlac in the house."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.

POETRY

A LOST CHORD.

Seated one day at the organ,
I was weary and ill at ease,
And my fingers wandered idly
Over the noisy keys.

I do not know what I was playing,
Or what I was dreaming then;
But I struck one chord of music,
Like the sound of a great amen.

It flooded the crimson twilight,
Like the close of an angel's psalm,
And it lay on my fevered spirit
With a touch of infinite calm.

It quieted pain and sorrow,
Like love overcoming strife,
It seemed the harmonious echo
From our discordant life.

It linked all perplexed meanings
Into one perfect peace,
And trembled away into silence,
As if it were loth to cease.

I have sought, but I seek it vainly,
That one lost chord divine,
Which came from the soul of the organ,
And entered into mine.

It may be that death's bright angel
Will speak in that chord again—
It may be that only in heaven
I shall hear that grand amen.

—Adelaide Anne Proctor, in Indianapolis News.

THE SCHOOL PATH

Across September's dusty-drifting haze
Below the hill I hear an old bell call;
The schoolhouse, long deserted, by the road
Holds loving arms to welcome one and all.

A mother's lonesome moment has begun,
For down the school path goes my little son.

Five years ago this little son was born.
Was born, five years ago, a mother, too!
Small wonder there's a tear-catch in our throats
When babies grew to boys, as babies do!

I watch him through the stile—small trudging one—
As down the school path goes my little son.

A sunny stillness fills the empty house,
I straighten out the rooms, pick up a toy;
Dear, sturdy lad, so eager for the new,
Yet how the mother misses her small boy!

The first flight from the home-nest has begun
As down the school path goes my little son!

—Agnes Choate Wonson, in Boston Globe.

JUGOSLAVIA TO DISREGARD THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Foreign Minister Ninchitch Declares His Government Has No Intention of Submitting to the League Its Differences With Italy Over the Fiume Question—Greece is Alarmed Over the Crisis Resulting From the Fiume Controversy.

Geneva, Sept. 11 (By the A. P.)—The Jugoslavian foreign minister, M. Ninchitch, declared in a statement today that his government had no intention of submitting to the league of nations its differences with Italy over the Fiume question.

GREECE ALARMED OVER THE FIUME CONTROVERSY

Athens, Sept. 11 (By the A. P.)—The crisis between Italy and Serbia over the Fiume question is causing grave anxiety here where it is looked upon as a possible menace to immediate adjustment of the Greco-Italian situation. It is feared that in the event of hostilities, Italy will find some pretext to continue the occupation of the Island of Corfu, the evacuation of which seems to be the uppermost factor in Greek circles.

Advices from Belgrade say the populace of the Jugo-Slavian capital is in a state of high excitement, and that the government will follow step by step every military move taken by Italy.

The Albanians have closed their Greek frontier, according to published reports, and are arming all men of military age in the eastern part of the country.

EIGHT SUSPECTS ARRESTED BY THE GREEK GOVERNMENT

London, Sept. 11.—The Greek government has arrested eight persons suspected of the murder of the members of the Italian boundary commission in Janina, according to a Rome despatch to the Central News. The arrest of Colonel Botzaris, Greek member of the Greco-Albanian boundary commission, is said to be imminent.

LETTER BY HARDING ON THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS

New York, Sept. 11.—A letter written by President Harding was made public tonight by John A. Stewart, head of the Sulgrave Institution, who said he wanted to show that the late president had been opposed to the Wilson league of nations and had held that the league was one thing and friendly association of nations was quite different.

"President Harding was irrevocably against the league of nations as at present constituted and said so," Mr. Stewart said.

The letter written on April 19, 1923, to Mr. Stewart follows:

"I have before me your letter of April 16. I appreciate the thoughtfulness of your suggestion and I readily agree that there is great merit in it if the enterprise is entered upon at the opportune time. I do not think the present moment to be a fortunate one in which to intensify agitation. We must first succeed in quickly divorcing the international court from the league of nations proposition. I thought I did that when I addressed my request to congress, but it appears that a good many extremists have so persistently urged that this is the beginning of a fellowship in the league, that the whole situation has been greatly embarrassed.

"I am hoping in the very near future to make a further public statement which will tend to clarify the atmosphere. The first time we are having a personal interview I will be glad to discuss the matter with you in greater detail."

DRASTIC MOVE AGAINST RECKLESS AUTO DRIVING

Hartford, Sept. 11.—Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel, announced today that, "on account of the tremendous increase in the number of reckless driving cases reported to the motor vehicle department, the license of every operator convicted of reckless driving will be suspended forthwith."

In accordance with the practice of the department in suspension cases, no license so suspended will be returned until the commissioner or his deputy has been satisfied by a hearing or by proof otherwise presented that extenuating circumstance in the case warrant such action.

This is the most drastic move yet made by the department in the fight to check motor vehicle accidents. Heretofore, the licenses of reckless operators have been suspended only after a second or third offense.

Determined to use all the means at his disposal to reduce the traffic hazard, Commissioner Stoeckel has suspended more licenses this year than in any corresponding period in the department's history. Up to September 1, 2,603 had been suspended this year, which is over four times the number suspended in the same period last year. Of this number, 428 were suspended in August.

TESTIMONY IN MACON IN FLOGGING CASE

Macon, Ga., Sept. 11.—Admission of his connection with the Ku Klux Klan was made late today by J. P. Durkee, organizer for the order in Mason, testifying in the trial of Dr. C. A. Yarbrough, charged with rioting last year. Durkee was arrested on a rioting charge in connection with the case.

H. R. Perryman, a Ku Klux Klan detective, testified his business in Macon was investigation of whippings. He came here three weeks ago. Dr. Yarbrough told him he knew nothing about the whippings. The second time he saw Dr. Yarbrough was on August 30, last, when the dentist came to his room. He said Dr. Yarbrough asked, what headway had been made and that he (Perryman) told him "it looks pretty bad for some of the boys."

"He then asked me if it wasn't possible for me to find some reasonable excuse to drop the investigation and leave town. I told him I couldn't do that."

Mills told how, on the night of the whipping, he was taken to a point on the Columbus Road, forced to lie on his face and was flogged while two men held him.

NEGRO RESIDENTS, IN FEAR, LEAVE SOUTH BEND, IND.

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 11—Between 1000 and 1500 negroes are reported to have left the city in the last 24 hours, following the receipt of a threatening letter by a well-known member of the negro community here. Although no violence followed the receipt of the letter many of the negro residents it is said, left for fear that their safety is in danger.

Police placed little credence in the letter, which was received by the proprietor of a local soft drink place, and said they were inclined to believe it the work of a crank.

Considerable excitement reigned in the negro section of the city tonight and Chief of Police Lane, ordered the sale of fire arms stopped, after reports were made that many negroes were trying to buy weapons.

WOULD SHIFT WOOL CENTER FROM BOSTON TO CHICAGO

Chicago, Sept. 11.—Eastern capital is needed in the middle west, said L. M. Corey of Oklahoma, member of the federal farm loan board in charge of intermediate credit, in an address here today before the wool conference called by the National Wool Warehouse and Storage company. Leaders hope through the intermediate credit system provided by the agricultural credits act of 1923 that wool growers' pools may be financed to such an extent that their business will shift the center of the wool trade from Boston to Chicago. For this reason they considered Mr. Corey's remark about western needs as to particular significance.

Gray Silver, Washington representative of the American farm bureau federation, discussed the need of cooperative marketing adequately financed. Following the addresses, the conference went into committee session.

It developed that some of the elements represented at the conference of bankers, wool growers and co-operative associations with directors of the National Wool Warehouse and Storage company would like to see the company, a stock company originally organized by wool growers, but recently financed by Chicago capital, and with bankers represented on the directorate, organized on the co-operative, non-stock membership basis.

Mr. Corey quoted an easterner with whom he said he had engaged in debate at New York as contending that farm credits legislation was enabling agricultural interests of the middle west to attract capital from the industry and commerce of the east, where he said it should remain.

HENRY DAYTON HAS BEEN COMMUTING OVER 39 YEARS

New York, Sept. 11.—Henry Dayton, dean of the insurance business, on his eighty-ninth birthday today claimed the commuting championship of the world. He has been commuting from Greenwich, Conn., to his office on William Street, New York, for more than thirty-eight years.

The distance from station to station is twenty-eight and a half miles. Fifty-seven miles a day, five days a week for thirty-eight years of thirty two weeks each, counts up to 563,160 railroad miles.

Then there is a distance of three miles on the subway from station to office and back each day, which adds 59,280 miles. Mr. Dayton's home is a mile from the Greenwich station, and the John street subway station is three blocks from his office; add 19,760 and 2,964 respectively.

An adding machine brought into service indicated that Mr. Dayton has commuted 645,164 miles, or a distance equal to twenty-one and four-fifths times around the world.

PROCEEDINGS OF NATIONAL CONVENTION OF THE W. C. T. U.

Columbus, O., Sept. 11.—Ohio's two United States senators, S. D. Fess and Frank B. Willis, in addresses tonight before the national convention of the W. C. T. U., in session here, declared that the eighteenth amendment and its enforcement provisions is an organic law and will never be repealed.

Both Mr. Fess and Mr. Willis said that strict enforcement of the eighteenth amendment is necessary if prohibition is to be successful.

The convention today passed a large number of resolutions endorsing the eighteenth amendment, a world court, law enforcement, campaigns against habit-forming drugs, campaigns against liquor in the Philippine Islands, and world prohibition. The convention also protested the boycott by France, Spain and Portugal against Norway, Finland and Iceland "to weaken or render inoperative their prohibition laws," and asked the United States to "protest to these alcohol-producing countries against such unjust and unsightseous proceedings."

MAYOR JOHN F. HYLAN HAD A COMFORTABLE DAY

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Sept. 11.—Mayor John F. Hylan of New York city, ill at his summer home here with pleuro-pneumonia, had a comfortable day but was troubled with gas pains tonight, according to the report of Dr. George F. Comstock, attending physician. The physician said that the condition had been somewhat relieved and that he looked forward to a good night for the patient.

TENANTS IN PANIC WHEN WATER MAIN BURST

New York, Sept. 11.—Tenants of a fashionable six-story apartment on Riverside Drive near 156th street, were thrown into panic tonight when the sidewalk and pavement in front of the building caved in with a roar that was heard for blocks. Undermining of the pavement by water from a broken main caused the cave-in. The tenants fled down fire escapes. No one was injured.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

No Revolt at Moscow.

Berlin, Sept. 11.—The soviet embassy here denies the reports of a revolt at Moscow and the assassination of [illegible]sky, the war minister. [illegible]ications.

FATALITIES IN TRAIN WRECK AT READVILLE, MASS

Boston, Sept. 11.—Two men were killed, several persons received injuries which may prove fatal, and more than a score were seriously injured today when a New York, New Haven and Hartford train failed to take a switch near the Readville station and was derailed.

The engineer, Stephen T. Gotham, and the fireman, Andrew Anderson, both of Fall River, were fatally injured when they were pinned beneath the overturned engine, which after careening madly along the roadbed, plunged down a ten-foot embankment on its side.

The most seriously injured were:

Robert Chase, Canton, fractured skull and shoulder and multiple injuries.

Mrs. Anna B. Miller, Canton, fractured ankles and severe bruises and contusions.

Most of the injured were from Canton, Fall River and Stoughton. The train left Fall River at 8.05, standard time, and was running express from Canton Junction to Boston. It was said to have been traveling at forty miles an hour when derailed.

The accident happened when the train attempted to take a switch to a side track from the express rails, which were being repaired at that point. The engine was badly smashed when it went over the embankment and the cab was filled with coal, trapping the engineer and fireman. Four of the five cars left the rails, but only one was overturned. The car behind the engine, a combination baggage and smoker, was upset and badly smashed, but most of the occupants escaped death miraculously.

Fire broke out soon after the crash and the Hyde Park fire department was called and, after extinguishing the blaze, assisted in the rescue work. All available ambulances and physicians were rushed to the scene and a number of passengers received emergency treatment in the offices of neighboring factories. Others more seriously hurt were rushed to hospitals in ambulances and commandeered automobiles.

When the engine left the tracks the engineer and fireman did not have a chance for their lives. Had they jumped to the right, they would have been buried by the engine, and had they jumped to the left, they would have been struck by the car which tore off its side as it passed the engine and later fell over.

A TOTAL OF $5,108,300 HAS BEEN PLEDGED FOR JAPAN

Washington, Sept. 11—The five million dollars originally asked of the American people for Japanese earthquake sufferers was exceeded by more than a hundred thousand dollars today as contributions continued to pour in from every section of the country, but Red Cross officials sent forth the word that continued support of the public was necessary.

A total of $5,108,300 had been pledged when the books were closed for the day. The executive committee of the Red Cross announced, however, that late advices on the extent of the catastrophe made it clear that the sum originally asked would be inadequate, and the campaign for funds would be continued.

Three of the country's divisions to which the work of collecting money was allotted exceeded their quotas on the first $5,000,000. They were the Washington, Central and New England divisions. The Washington region reported $3,014,000 against a quota of $2,900,000; the Central gathered $801,000 with a quota of $800,000, and New England showed returns of $400,000 against $350,000 asked.

Other contributions by divisions were:

Southern $96,000; Southwestern, $300,000; Pacific, $295,800; Insular and Foreign $201,500.

Of the amounts subscribed $2,768,500 has been utilized, of which $2,401,000 was expended for food, clothing, medicines and building materials. The remaining $1,367,500 represents donations of actual money for use in Japan and the Philippine Islands for the purchase of supplies. Of the latter sum, $1,000,000 was set aside today in response to the appeal of Ambassador Woods at Tokio, to be placed at the disposal of the Japanese emergency relief bureau.

GLASS HAIR THE VOGUE THIS YEAR FOR WOMEN

New York, Sept. 11—Glass hair and tangerine ears will be in vogue this year, it was announced today at the annual convention of hairdressers. "Tangerine" refers to the color, not the shape.

As to the hair, it was described by Madame Louise of Chicago, chairman of the style show of the hairdressers convention which opened today, as "a shower of colored glass which cannot be distinguished from hair, and which can be made to match or harmonize with the wearer's gown." An advantage of the glass hair is that it will not bend out of shape, Madame Louise said.

Bobbed hair will still be all right for sports wear, but in the evening a "transformation" will be absolutely necessary. Bobbed hair with evening dress?—Madame Louise merely raised her shoulders slightly and turned up the palms of her hands, fingers extended.

Other popular styles of hair for various occasions will be Japanese Pagoda, and "Dutch." The pagoda may be built up to any number of stories, and shows the ears, which have been "tinctured" with tangerine. Sixteenth century and Roman also will be in vogue, but eighteenth century, never.

"As you know," said Madame Louise, "women had to hide their switches under the mattress in the eighteenth century."

PUSHING CAMPAIGN TO MAKE MIDDLETOWN DRY

Middletown, Sept. 11.—Continuing the campaign begun last night to make this city dry, the local police tonight arrested 14 men and six women on suspicion of having violated the liquor laws. All were released in bond of $500 each for appearance in city court tomorrow morning. The raids were made on warrants issued after evidence had been obtained by state police.

Last night eight persons were arrested.

It was said that evidence has been obtained against 20 additional places and that further arrests will be made.

France Doubts the Sincerity of Germany

Accepts With Reserve German Statement of Cessation of Passive Resistance in the Ruhr.

Paris, Sept. 11.—(By The A. P.)—The optimism in financial circles arising from the conversations which the French ambassador has had with the German chancellor, manifested by a sharp rise in francs today is shared only slightly in official circles, where a settlement with Germany is thought to be still some distance off. It was pointed out by one official, in more or less constant touch with Premier Poincare, that whenever the Germans come to the conclusion that it is necessary to resume negotiations their tactics are to draw out French opinion if they can, before disclosing their own state of mind.

The French, therefore, accept the indications of the capitulation of Germany on reparations, with a cessation of passive resistance in the Ruhr, with great reserve. The foreign office thinks the time is approaching when Ruhr resistance will break down, regardless of what the Berlin government may do, but is not yet convinced that Chancellor Stresemann is ready to enter into negotiations for such a settlement as will satisfy France.

In any case, it is staid that M. Poincare will not be drawn out by an vague offers to negotiate, but will wait until "resistance ceases; then, if a clear and unmistakable proposal is presented, he will consider it in a conciliatory spirit. He instructed the French ambassador at Berlin by wire today to say, if the occasion offered, that no negotiations were possible while obstruction is going on in the Ruhr. The ambassador made this clear to the German chancellor yesterday, and the French government is awaiting the decision of Berlin on that point.

GERMAN GOV'T CONVERSING WITH "ALL THE POWERS"

Berlin, Sept. 11.—(By The A. P.)—A semi-official communique issued late this afternoon admits that the government is carrying on personal conversations with "all the powers," and that Chancellor Stresemann and the French ambassador, M. De Margerie have also personally exchanged thoughts" on the present situation.

That such informal and non-committal pourparlers are wholly in the nature of a reconnoitering movement is further asserted in the inspired bulletin, although a section of the press believes that they have sufficiently crystallized into something tangible to warrant the French envoy despatching an official of his staff to Paris for the purpose of apprising Premier Poincare with the nature of his own discussions with the chancellor. This emissary is expected back in Berlin tomorrow.

It was stated officially that formal notes had not been exihanged between the German and French governments. The official statement adds that the fundamentals of Germany's position on the Ruhr conflict have been clearly set forth in the chancellor's recent speeches, and that if it requires further elucidation this will be forthcoming tomorrow when the chancellor addresses the German editors at a public reception. The nature of the reply expected from Paris, it is believed, will determine the character of the chancellor's utterances.

For the present the German government's chief concern appears to center on the determination to put the Ruhr basin back on a productive basis, realizing that the whole complex range of problems growing out of the occupation and the future adjustment of reparations will involve long and tedious negotiations in which the industrialists are expected to play an important part.

REPARATIONS STATEMENT FROM GERMANY TODAY

London, Sept. 11. — Chancellor Stresemann will announce on Wednesday, according to a Berlin despatch to the Central News, that thirty per cent. of the new shares of the German industrial undertakings will be issued for reparations.

HENRY FORD ACQUIRES HISTORIC WAYSIDE INN

Providence, R. I., Sept. 11.—The historic Wayside inn, at South Sudbudy, Mass., and other property in Sudbury, Framingham, and Marlboro, comprising about 700 acres which was recently acquired by Dutee W. Flint, of this city, has been transferred to Henry Ford, and Clara J. Ford, Mr. Flint announced today. The consideration was $175,000. Title to the property was recorded in Cambridge, Mass., today.

The inn will continue to be operated.

When Mr. Flint purchased the property, July 11, the name of Mr. Ford was linked with the transaction and Mr. Flint stated that while he had acquired the property he expected that the Detroit manufacturer would eventually take a substantial interest therein. According to today's announcement, however, the entire property has been conveyed to Mr. Ford.

FOUR COUSINS CONTESTING WILL OF AUSTIN FLETCHER

New York, Sept. 11.—Alleging undue influence four cousins of Austin B. Fletcher, lawyer, today filed a protest in surrogate's court against probate of his will leaving $1,550,000 fortune to Tufts college, Medford, Mass. The contestants, Charles A. Fletcher, Loren L. Fletcher, Mary A. Blaisdell and Clara Williams, all of Mendon, Mass., were disinherited.

The estate was divided among Helen E. Ada M., and Catherine Follett, sisters-in-law of Sheldonville, Mass., and numerous institutions, the residue going to Tufts.

TRAIN WENT THROUGH A BURNING BRIDGE

Muskogee, Okla., Sept. 11.—The mail car and the "Jim Crow" coach of a St. Louis-San Francisco passenger train crashed through a burning bridge near McBride, Okla., north of Muskogee, late today. No one was hurt, according to reports to the divisional offices of the road here. The mail car and the coach reserved for negroes were destroyed by fire, however, the mail was saved; it was reported.

Successful Flight of Naval Dirigible Z R-1

Made Cruise Up the Hudson River to Yonkers and Return Down the Length of Manhattan.

Lakehurst, N. J., Sept. 11.—Home from her venturesome voyage today that carried her fully six hundred miles above the Eastern Sea coast with New York, Philadelphia and a dozen other cities visited en route, the giant United States naval dirigible ZR-1 tonight lay in her great hangar at the naval air station here with every stay and wire in her huge structure ship-shape.

It was a tired but happy crew of 32 officers and men that tumbled from the airship as she came to rest in her hangar shortly after 7 o'clock tonight. For eleven and one-half hours they had maneuvered the giant ship on her stately voyage, her first all-day cruise, piloting her above thickly populated cities where thousands of spectators waited to catch a glimpse of her silvery sides flashing in the sunlight.

Tonight the following brief message from Commander McCrary was sent to the secretary of the navy telling of her exploit:

"ZR-1 completed a most successful flight today of eleven and one-half hours' duration. New York and Philadelphia include, all smaller cities en route were visited and citizens given a good view of ship. Details of trial will be forwarded by letter."

"MCRARY."

Throughout the entire trip not a mishap occurred, although the ship was subjected to most severe tests, her rudder and elevator especially being tested. With all six engines running, though not at full speed, the ZR-1 made sixty miles an hour at times, and at one period of the flight rose to an altitude of 7000 feet, the highest she has yet done.

"It was a most satisfactory flight," said Commander Weyerbacker, in charge of her construction, after the trip. "We will probably not make another flight until Sunday. The crew is pretty well fagged out and there are minor adjustments still to be made on the ship."

On leaving Lakehurst, the "Leviathan of the air" headed toward Sandy Hook reaching it at 11.32 and a short time later she loomed over the Statue of Liberty, with five accompanying airplanes buzzing about her. By noon she had reached the lower end of Manhattan and New York caught its first glimpse of her. After a half hour voyage over the island, the ZR-1 flew over Brooklyn and then headed over the harbor, through the narrows and into a light haze over New Jersey.

At 1.05 she had reached New Brunswick and forty minutes later she was reported at Trenton. Philadelphia was reached shortly after two o'clock and after half an hour trip above the city the ZR-1 started on her home station by way of Mooretown. She reached Lakehurst at 4 o'clock and after several hours of trial flying finally was stowed away for the night.

FARQUHAR ESTATE LEFT TO BRITISH ROYAL FAMILY

London, Sept. 11.—Earl Farquhar, who died recently, left the bulk of his pounds sterling 400,000 estate to members of the British royal family. Half the estate will go to Princess Arthur of Connaught, whose father, the Duke of Fife, lent Farquhar a helping hand in the days of his youth.

Lord Carnegie, heir of the Earl of Southesk, will receive pounds sterling 50,000 provided he marries Princess Maud, daughter of the Princess Royal, whose engagement already has been announced. Otherwise Princess Maud will be given the money. To Prince George, youngest son of King George, is bequethed pounds sterling, 2806.

To King George will go two sugar casters and anything else he may select from the residence of Earl Farquhar. Queen Mary is bequethed everything Earl Farquhar owned at White Lodge, Richmond Park, the home of the duke and duchess of York. To the queen also is bequethed a Louis XVI commode.

COST OF BITUMINOUS TO OPERATOR $1.20 TO $2.80

Washington, Sept. 11.—The cost of a ton of bituminous coal to a mine operator ranges between $1.20 and $2.80 the coal commission reported to President Coolidge today, submitting the latest installment of its report on the industry in compliance with instructions from congress. The cost study was based upon statistics from 266 mines located in four states and covered operations in 1918, which was selected because conditions throughout that year were considered approximately uniform.

Examining in detail the various factors which made for difference in cost of coal delivered at the mine mouth, the commission listed steadiness of operations and certainty of car supply as important.

REPRESENTATIVE MADDEN SUFFERS HEART ATTACK

Washington, Sept. 11.—Representative Martin B. Madden of Chicago, chairman of the house committee on appropriations, and one of the republican leaders in congress is seriously ill at his home here from a heart attack.

Apparently in robust health, Mr. Madden was stricken without warning yesterday while riding to his office in an automobile. He was hurried to his home, where physicians who were summoned, found him in a serious condition. At a consultation this afternoon, no change for the worse was noted and the doctors said they expected the climax of his illness to be reached before tomorrow morning.

Mr. Madden, who is 68 years old, is one of the oldest members of the house in point of continuous service.

EXCITEMENT WHEN PICK STRUCK ELECTRIC FEED WIRE

New York, Sept. 11.—Fifth avenue between Fifty-fifth and Fifty-ninth streets, was thrown into consternation today when a workman in a repair gang struck an electric feed wire with his pick. There was a high spurt of flame, a rush of smoke from manhole covers, and power and lights were cut off in nearby buildings. Shoppers, fearing bandits when the lights went out, rushed to elevators that weren't running. Mannequins came running from the modiste shops with shoppers and sales ladies behind them.

60,000 BODIES CREMATED IN TOKIO UP TO MIDNIGHT SEPT. 8

Number of Bodies Still Unrecovered is Probably Very Great—Casualties in Yokohama Are Estimated at 110,000—Figures Received in Washington From the Japanese Minister of Foreign Affairs—100 Foreign Residents Were Killed in Yokohama, 20 of Whom Were Americans.

Washington, Sept. 11.—The bodies of sixty-thousand dead had been cremated by the authorities in Tokio up to midnight of Sept. 8, the Japanese minister of foreign affairs, said in a telegram received here today at the Japanese embassy. The number of bodies still unrecovered is probably very great, it was added. The casualties in Yokohama were estimated at 110,000 or one-quarter of the entire population and many more dead were said to be unaccounted for in outlying districts.

An official investigation, it was said, shows that in Yokohama of 3,000 foreign residents 100 were killed including 50 British and 20 Americans.

The foreign minister declared to be untrue reports that the capitol was to be removed from Tokio, although he said many of the industrial, commercial and publishing houses plan to remove temporarily to the Osaka and Kobe districts.

"Following the first shock on the first of September," the minister stated in his dispatch, "1,139 separate shocks were recorded up to 8 a. m. on the sixth of September.

"This region suffering the extreme earthquake shock extends 100 miles from north to south and 180 miles east to west, or from Suzukawa on the Tokiado line to Korfu, Yenkyo Hachioji, Warabi, Tsuchiura and to the Peninsula of Boso, and also on the Izu peninsula. This region covers seven prefectures—Tokio, Kanagawa, Saitama, Chiba, Gum-ma, Yamanashi, Shizuoka, and includes the five cities of Tokio, Yokohama, Yokusuka, Kofu and Takasaki and thirty-three other counties.

"The population of this whole affected area is six million, and the property damage, which is, of course, immense, is not yet determined or estimated.

"Most of the earth ramparts surrounding the imperial detached palace at Nikko were damaged but the emperor and empress are safe.

"After the first shock the prince regent went from the main palace in Tokio, where he was attending to the usual business, to the Akasaka palace, and lived in a tent in the garden from that time until the afternoon of the sixth, when he again went back to his usual quarters in the Akasaka palace.

"An official investigation by the ministry for foreign affairs shows that in Yokohama, of 3,000 foreign residents, 100 were killed, including 50 British and 20 Americans. Of the survivors, only nine remain ashore, most of the others having gone to Kobe aboard the Empress of Australia, (sailed the 8th), and the Andro Lebon (sailed the 10th) some others remaining on board the steamers Amboise and Empress of Canada. Including the staffs of foreign embassies, legations and consulates, which are directing the work for the relief of their nationals. The government is cooperating in the matter of communications and transportation.

"Up to midnight of the eighth, the authorities in Tokio had burned the bodies of 60,000 dead. The number still unfound of those drowned, buried under debris, or burned in the general conflagration, is probably very great.

"Up to the eighth in Tokio, first aid had been administered in the emergency hospital stations to upwards of 500,000 injured and sick.

"Casualties in Yokohama are now estimated at 110,000, or one-quarter of the entire population.

"Casualties in Chiba and Kanagawa region are great, but the investigation is not yet complete.

"On the 8th the bankers conferred at the Bank of Japan on the re-establishment of financial activity, and decided that the Bank of Japan will give assistance to all banks which reopen at once.

"Railway and other communications are rapidly being restored.

"Supplies of general commodities are increasing and the authorities of the ministry of agriculture and commerce state that there will be no shortage of rice for two months and a half in Tokio and Yokohama."

DESTRUCTION OF YOKOHAMA WAS ALMOST COMPLETE

New York, Sept. 11.—The destruction of Yokohama is so complete that the government is contemplating abandoning the site of the city entirely and rebuilding Tokio on a scale large enough to absorb the population and industries of Yokohama, according to a radiogram received today by the Japanese Times.

The government's appropriation for reconstruction, which it is expected will be between fifty and eighty billion yen, will be administered by a newly created department of reconstruction, the message said.

Fifty thousand bales of raw silk and a quantity of habutaye, a material used in the manufacture of silk, were destroyed in Yokohama, another message said.

A federal relief bureau, of which Premier Yamamoto is president, and Viscount Goto vice president, was formed, and under its direction $6,000 temporary structures for housing refugees were built by Sept. 10, the message said.

HEARING IN ALBANY ON THE ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 11.—The Anti-Saloon league of New York was attacked as a political organization and defended asan educative incorporation before the appellate division of the supreme court here today in deferred arguments on the appeal of the league from the decision of Supreme Court Justice Ellis J. Staley holding the league amenable to requirements for political organizations.

Colonel Ransom H. Gillett, counsel for the association against the prohibition amendment, in an oral argument for the petitioners, declared that the league took an active and aggressive part in the 1922 election campaigns for state officers, congress and legislature; that it is a "political-religious combination of persons seeking to control the process of government without assuming public responsibility on accountability for its acts" and having participated in and spent money in connection with the election campaigns it is amenable to the provisions of the corrupt practices act.

Senator Brackett, for the league, submitted a brief which contended that the league is an incorporated body with objects and purposes "not political but educative and educative only." The league supports no party, the brief said, but educates the people as to the career and standing of candidates for public office.

AMBASSADORS' COUNCIL POSTPONED ITS MEETING

Paris, Sept. 11 (By the A. P.)—At the request of Baron Avezsano, Italian ambassador, the ambassadors' council postponed its meeting this afternoon until tomorrow. Baron Avezsano said that he had not yet received instructions from Rome regarding the evacuation of Corfu.

Some nervousness has developed here over the efforts to settle the Corfu occupation before the measures adopted for the satisfaction of Italy's demands are inaugurated. The feeling in French circles appears to be that Italy ought to be taken at her word and withdraw from the Greek islands as soon as the terms of the ambassadors' proposals are compiled with.

ARRESTED IN WATERBURY ON CHARGE OF BURGLARY

Waterbury, Sept. 11.—Edgar A. Young, 23, of Brooklyn, N. Y., wanted in Bridgeport, Conn., on a charge of highway robbery, was arrested here tonight by Lieutenant Chris Harmon of the detective bureau. Young and two other youths, it is alleged, entered a restaurant on Broad street, Bridgeport, about a month ago, held up the cashier and escaped with $51 in cash. He will be turned over to the Bridgeport police tomorrow morning.

OPENING OF GENERAL UNITAIAN CONFERENCE

New Haven, Sept. 11.—A reception tonight concluded the activities of the opening day of the general Unitarian conference, meeting here this week for the 30th biennial session.

The program tomorrow will consist of general conference in the morning and afternoon and a public meeting in the evening.

WRECKED DESTROYERS IN DANGER OF BREAKING UP

Santa Barbara, Cal., Sept. 11.—The destroyers which went aground near here Saturday night are reported to be in imminent danger of breaking up and causing the loss of all their equipment and machinery. The surf where the seven vessels, the Delphy, Young, Woodbury, Chauncey, Parker, Fuller and Nicholas, struck has been unusually heavy for the past twenty-four hours.

So far only three bodies have been recovered and the list of missing and dead stands at twenty-two. One of the bodies found in the surf yesterday has been identified by tattoo marks as that of C. Van Shank of White River, S. D., a fireman on the Young. The other body recovered yesterday had not been identified. Both of these men apparently were drowned in their bunks and later washed into the sea.

The plan to cut through the hull of the Young, which overturned, to find the bodies of missing members of her crew, has been postponed and possibly will be abandoned. It now is believed that few if any bodies are in the vessel. Survivors from the Young declare that they believe all of the crew reached the desk in time to jump overboard before she turned over.

NARROW ESCAPES WHEN PLANE FELL INTO RIVER

Moundsville, W. Va., Sept. 11.—Brigadier General William Mitchell, assistant chief of the United States air srevice, had a narrow escape from death this afternoon when the plane he and Private J. C. Woodruff were flying to McCook field at Dayton, O., fell into the Ohio river. Neither was injured.

General Mitchell experienced engine trouble when several miles from the Moundsville flying field and attempted to return but was unable to negotiate the distance. When directly above the Ohio river, the plane fell, diving into the water. It was wrecked.

As the plane neared the water General Mitchell and Woodruff jumped and were several feet away when it dived into the river. Both swam ashore. General Mitchell took off a short time later in another machine for Selfridge field, Mount Clemens, Mich., giving up the trip to Dayton.

HARWINTON MAN STUNG TO DEATH BY A HORNET

Torrington, Sept. 11.—Charles S. Schelwitch, 50, was stung to death by a hornet while at work today on his farm in Harwinton. Schelwitch's body was found in a pasture, some distance from where he had been chopping wood. The mark of the hornet's sting was on the back of one of the man's ears.

Schelwitch is survived by his wife and seven children.

NATIONAL GREEK LINE PAID FINE OF $200,000

New York, Sept. 11.—The National Greek line today paid a fine of $200,000 levied against the liner Byron, which was alleged to have crossed the imaginary line into Quarantine just before midnight Aug. 30, thereby bringing immigrants in the country in advance of the opening of the September quota. The ship was granted clearance after payment, and sailed for Piraeus.

Nineteen bench warrants were issued Tuesday during the session of the superior court for the arrest of violators of the liquor law. The warrants were made out by State's Attorney Charles E. Searls and were turned over to County Detective William E. Jackson and Deputy Sheriff Charles E. Ayer, who set out on a general roundup of the violators. By 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon the following from this city had been arrested and brought to the court: Joseph Kannell, 25 Bank street, charged with selling liquor Sept. 5; Raymond Desrosier, 117 Main street, charged with selling liquor Sept. 5; Mrs. Birdie Ostrich, 33 Jackson street, charged with sale of liquor Sept. 6; Mrs. Molly Krug, 19 Valley street extension, on dates of Aug. 6 and 8; Solomon Isaacs, proprietor of the Hotel Johnson, Main street, charged with selling Sept. 5, and Henry Potvin of this city, charged with selling Sept. 5. The arrested parties were taken into the jury room, when their cases were discussed by County Prosecutor Charles L. Torrey, State's Attorney Searls advised all to secure counsel. Bonds were fixed and furnished as follows: Mrs. Mollie Krug, bonds of $1,000, furnished by her husband, Abraham Krug; Joseph Kannell, bonds of $2,500, furnished by Max Scheinman; Mrs. Birdie Ostrich, bonds of $2,000, furnished by Hyman Israel; Solomon Isaacs bonds of $1,000, furnished by Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton, and Raymond Desrosier, bonds of $2,500, furnished by his father, Camille Desrosier. Henry Potvin failed to secure a bondsman and was later taken to Brooklyn jail to await trial.

About 3 o'clock in the afternoon Deputy Sheriff Charles E. Ayer arrived from Putnam with five more violators of the liquor law from that town. They were John Zachariadis, alias George Zachariadis; James Barnes, William Killian, Samuel Smith and Charles Miron. All were charged with selling liquor. All made arrangements to furnish bonds of $1,000.

Shortly after 4 o'clock County Detective William E. Jackson drove to the town building with six more violators of the liquor law from Putnam, making a total of 11 arrests in that place. The men were Louis Miller, Homer Millard, Alexis Beaudreault, George Bricault, Alfonzo DiCarlo and Julius LaPlamme. Charges of selling were preferred against them and bonds of $1,000 were fixed. All stated that they would secure bondsmen in Putnam and they were returned to that place in custody of Deputy Sheriff Ayer and County Detective Jackson. The cases of the alliged violators will come up at Thursday's session of the superior court which opens at 10 a. m. (standard time).

At the morning session of the criminal term of the superior court Eugene Levesque changed his plea to guilty on the charge of forgery and attempt to obtain value under false pretenses. Levesque was given a three months' jail sentence.

Arthur Fournier and Henry Breault (alias George Brown), charged with the theft of an automobile in Putnam some weeks ago, changed their pleas from not guilty to guilty. A sentence of six months in jail was imposed on Fournier. In the case of Breault it was shown that he had broken his parole, so he was sentenced to one year in jail. Court was adjourned at 4.15 o'clock.

The $1,000 quota which Willimantic is asked to raise as part of the Japanese relief fund is now within sight of the committee in charge and it is thought will be acquired within a short time. In addition to the three banking institutions of the city, the proprietors of several stores have offered to receive contributions. Sums will probably be raised at the several manufacturing plants in the city and town. The people of Willimantic have always shown a true spirit of sympathy and did not fail in this case. At the town building President Frank P. Fenton of the local Red Cross raised about $20 in five minutes, the amount being headed with a check for $25 from a prominent local police court official.

Joseph Riel of Boston and Miss Nellie Connaughton, daughter of Mrs. Mary Connaughton of 82 Prospect street, were married at 7 o'clock Tuesday by Rev. O. S. Beaumister at St. Joseph's church. The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. William H. Connaughton of Hartford. The bride was attired in a handsome suit of blue duvetyn with a gray hat and she carried sweet peas. The matron of honor wore a blue tricotine suit with a black hat and had a corsage bouquet of sweet peas.

Breakfast was served at the home of the bride's mother with only members of the two families present. Mr. and Mrs. Riel left by automobile for their honeymoon and upon their return will reside on Milk street. The bride received numerous gifts. Mr. Riel is a trainman in the employ of the New Haven railroad. The bride has been employed in the inspecting department of the American Thread company.

A republican caucus was held in Andover Monday night and the candidates nominated were: Selectmen, Ralph W. Bass, Maxwell Hutchinson; assessor, Ralph W. Bass; tax collector, Willis E. Fuller; board of relief, E. B. Hyde; constables, Charles L. Wright, Vera A. Stanley, John Hutchinson, Frank L. Hamilton; grand jurors, E. B. Hyde, G. B. Bartlett, Louis B. Whitcomb, Gertrude M. White; town clerk and treasurer, F. A. Sackett; agent of town deposit fund, F. A. Sackett; auditor, Raymond B. Halstead; charity commissioner, Ruth W. Benton; registrar of voters, Edwin A. Standish; school committee, Lewis W. Phelps; finance board, Raymond G. Halstead; library director, Helen C. Wright.

Upon invitation of Allen B. Lincoln 41 members of a life insurance company motored to his summer home in Westford Saturday for their fall outing. Various games, hikes and an excellent luncheon provided entertainment during the day.

A minority session of Willimantic Rotary club was held Tuesday noon, as 14 of the members are attending the fall conclave in Rutland, Vt. Vice President Harry W. Standish presided. Guests were Attorney Howard Bradford of the Putnam club and "Mac" MacGowan of the Cambridge, Mass., club. For the benefit of those present Henry Congdon waded through the song I Want a Girl. A newly organized quartet, Harry W. Blanchette, Ellison S. Smith, Henry Congdon and Raymond A. Parker, sang a number of popular selections. The visiting guests spoke briefly, after which the meeting was adjourned with the singing of one stanza of The Star Spangled Banner.

The following members are in attendance at the fall conclave: James P. Bath, Herbert W. Huber, Frank H. Foss, Fred D. Jordan, Charles W. Hill, Valentine L. Murphy, James P. Mustard, Rev. Harry S. McCready, John F. Ahern, John C. Tracy, Louis A. Kingsbury, Charles Alpaugh, Prof. Richard E. Dodge and Dr. Michael D. Riordan.

Mrs. Emile St. George Breault, 23, died Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of her parents, 70 Ives street, after a short illness. She was born in Lowell, Mass., in 1900, a daughter of Pierre and Ermina Charrette St. George. She leaves her husband, a daughter, Albina, two brothers, George and Armand St. George of this city, and four sisters, Misses Alexina and Jeannette St. George, Mrs. William Bouin and Mrs. Roderick Lariviere, all of this city. Mrs. Breault was a devout member of St. Mary's church.

Hannah W., widow of Edward Tillinghast, 2nd, a former resident of this city, died Monday in West New York. The funeral is to be held at the home of her daughter, Mrs. H. G. Bush, of Arlington, N. J., and burial will take place in Rosedale cemetery, Orange, N. J.

County Detective William E. Jackson and Coroner A. G. Bill of Danielson have taken up the investigation of the shooting affair in the Natchaug district in Chaplin Sunday evening, when Daniel Cunningham was shot through the head. Coroner Bill called at St. Joseph's hospital Tuesday afternoon to interview Mr. Cunningham, but found the latter in a semi-comatose condition and unable to make any statement. Mr. Cunningham was shot through the right eyeball and underwent an operation Monday evening. An effort was being made Tuesday to locate Mrs. Cunningham, who had left her home Monday.

The office of the Willimantic welfare bureau is to be changed to another location soon. The vote was taken at a meeting of the directors Monday evening. The new location was not given out but it is thought it will be on Meadow street. President M. E. Lincoln presided at the meeting.

Clifton Dawson, son of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Dawson, is at the Connecticut Agricultural college for football practice prior to the opening of the college, where he is to be a student this year.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Arnold have as guests Mr. and Mrs. Miles Avorn, who motored from Ellington Tuesday. Mrs. Ansel Arnold will return with them for a week's stay in Ellington.

Over 150 Hebrews from Willimantic and surrounding towns gathered at the synagogue on Bank street Tuesday to observe Rosh Hashonah, the Jewish New Year. A service was held in the morning. Rabbi Max Levine officiated and was assisted by Rabbi Nathan Blatt of Norwich. The feast continues today (Wednesday). Practically all stores of Jewish proprietors are closed, to reopen Thursday morning.

STONINGTON

The Jewish New Year Tuesday and Wednesday, is being kept by the Jews at Stonington and Mystic, and their places of business are closed for the two days.

With the closing of the shore resorts, the traffic is light, to what it has been during the summer months; most of the heavy trucking and travel on the roads now is by night by commercial cars and trucks. Campers have broken camp, and they prefer to travel by night. There are a large number of cottagers at Lord's Point, as September has many attractions for them.

Mr. and Mrs. Griffin, and son, William, and Mrs. Sweet, who have been spending the season at their cottage at Wamphassuc Point, will reopen their colonial home on Elm street the 15th, for the winter.

In one haul in the Jenks, Captain Ed P. Clarke brought in from Block Island, 84 pounds of mackerel and Captain E. F. Chesebro, in his boat, Lucy, captured 160 pounds of the same fish. Both hauls were quickly disposed of in local markets.

At the monthly meeting of the board of warden and burgesses, the nominations of Charles D. Main for fire chief and Charles McCourt of the borough for assistant chief, were confirmed.

The board is to sit as a board of relief next week.

Monday evening Pequot council, No. 442, R. A., had an official visit from Arthur W. Skinner, district deputy grand regent, and a member of Volunteer council, of Milford, who made an address.

Sunday being Mrs. William C. Robinson's birthday, a party was held at her home on Water street, by a number of her friends who surprised her.

Dr. Clarence D. Usher preached at the Congregational church at Talcottville, Conn., Sunday, and Rev. George A. Spalding preached at Lebanon Congregational church.

Mr. and Mrs. Brewster Bliss and Edith James, of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., motored to Stonington Sunday and upon their returning home, Mrs. Edwin James and Miss Alma Bliss, who have been spending a week have returned home with them to Mt. Vernon.

MOOSUP

WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

A Trying Period through which Every Woman Must Pass

Practical Suggestions Given by the Women Whose Letters Follow

Phila., Pa.—"When I was going through the Change of Life I was weak, nervous, dizzy and had headaches. I was troubled in this way for two years and was hardly able to do my work. My friends advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am very sorry that I did not take it sooner. But I have got good results from it and am now able to do my housework most of the time. I recommend your medicine to those who have similar troubles. I do not like publicity, but if it will help other women I will be glad for you to use my letter."—Mrs. FANNIE ROSENTHAL, 632 N. Holly Street, Phila., Pa.

Detroit, Michigan—"During the Change of Life I had a lot of stomach trouble and was bothered a great deal with hot flashes. Sometimes I was not able to do any work at all. I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in your little books and took it with very good results. I keep house and am able now to do all my own work. I recommend your medicine and am willing for you to publish this testimonial."—Mrs. J. S. LIVERNOIS, 2051 Junction Avenue, Detroit, Mich.

The critical time of a woman's life usually comes between the years of 45 and 50, and is often beset with annoying symptoms such as nervousness, irritability, melancholia. Heat flashes or waves of heat appear to pass over the body, cause the face to be very red and often bring on headache, dizziness and a sense of suffocation.

Another annoying symptom which comes at this time is an inability to recall names, dates or other small facts. This is liable to make a woman lose confidence in herself. She becomes nervous, avoids meeting strangers and dreads to go out alone.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is especially adapted to help women at this time. It exercises a restorative influence, tones and strengthens the system, and assists nature in the long weeks and months covering this period. Let it help carry you through this time of life. It is a splendid medicine for the middle-aged woman. It is prepared from medicinal roots and herbs and contains no harmful drugs or narcotics.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women" will be sent you free upon request. Write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Massachusetts. This book contains valuable information.

V-63
EXPECT GREAT THINGS
in the NEW CADILLAC

Even the superb quality which you have long associated with the name Cadillac is no adequate measure of the merits of the New V-63.

The simple truth is that Cadillac has advanced its own standards and achieved, in this car, heights of quality which are strictly new.

Your attention is directed, particularly, to these three elements:—

The New Cadillac V-Type 90°, 8-cylinder engine—harmonized and balanced by entirely new principles of design to a degree of smoothness unapproached in automotive manufacture.

New Body Styles—destined by their graceful, symmetrical design, distinctive finish and exquisite appointments, to be the center of admiration in any company.

Cadillac 4 Wheel Brakes—a safety factor developed with the care and thoroughness characteristic of Cadillac engineering.

New delights await you also in enhanced dependability, ease of control, riding restfulness and, indeed, in every phase of car performance.

It is entirely logical that Cadillac, pioneer-leader of eight-cylinder manufacture in America, should now raise multi-cylinder practice to an even higher pitch of excellence.

This is exactly what has happened in the New V-63, and Cadillac urges you to approach this fine car with great expectations.

DANIELSON

Judge W. Fanner Woodward appeared in Justice C. E. Montgomery's court at Oneco, Tuesday, as the counsel for Harold Shippee of the town of Sterling in a case in which the state charged Shippee with non-support of his wife, Bridget A. Shippee, of Jewett City, and the couple's minor children. Attorney Thomas Shields of Norwich prosecuted for the state. In defense of his client Judge Woodward stated to the court that Mr. Shippee was willing to take his wife and children into his home and support them. It appeared, however, that Mrs. Shippee was not asking for support for herself, so the case was finally nolled upon payment of costs and Mr. Shippee's agreement to pay $6 each week for the support of his children for a period of one year, and give bonds to carry out the agreement.

After visiting here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Darbie, Rev. William H. Darbie of Seaford, Del., and his son, J. H. M. Darbie, left, Tuesday evening for Annandale, N. Y., where the son is to matriculate at St. Stephen's seminary, to begin his studies for the Episcopal ministry. Rev. Mr. Darbie is a graduate of St. Stephen's. He is a brother of Miss Ellen F. Darbie and Attorney E. L. Darbie, both of Danielson.

Joseph Gaspard Landry, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Napoleon Landry of Connecticut Mills village, died Tuesday morning in Putnam, where he was taken seriously ill and underwent a surgical operation about a week ago. The youth was a native of Canada, but had been a resident here for some time. The body was brought to the home of his parents in charge of Undertaker L. E. Kennedy.

Dancing Friday evening at the Danielson inn with music by the Danielson inn orchestra. You are invited.—adv.

In view of the fact that the figures are practically ready for publication, it may not be regarded as a breach of confidence to give publicity to the fact that the town of Killingly closed its last fiscal year with an unexpended balance of about $30,000 on hand, something unprecedented in the financial affairs of the town, at least in the present generation. This extraordinary financial condition is due largely to the fact that manufacturing concerns of the town—the Goodyear Mills and the Connecticut Mills—that appealed several years ago from assessments made against their properties by the board of assessors—some time since withdrew their appeals to the superior court and paid the accumulated tax assessments against them, swelling the town treasury to the point where a fiscal year was rounded out with approximately $30,000 in unexpended money on hand.

This impressive balance brings with it a problem that the electors will have to settle as the majority decides when they meet in the annual town business meeting on the first Monday in October. They may elect to keep it on hand as a sum out of which to pay current bills or direct that it shall be used in retiring outstanding notes of the town. Which course shall be pursued is one left entirely in the hands of the voters. If they decide to use it to pay current expenses, Killingly likely can get along during the present fiscal year with a tax rate of 14 or 15 mills. If they vote to use the sum or the greater part of it in paying money that Killingly owes and is meeting interest charges on each year, a tax rate of 19 or 20 mills will be required.

While, as has been pointed out, the voters have it in their power to do as they like in deciding the question successful business men and men acquainted with good financing are advising almost as a unit that at least $25,000 of this balance be applied to reduction of the town debt, and that having been done, as low a tax rate as possible authorized. These men point out that if Killingly uses up the balance on hand in paying current bills and takes a low tax rate this year, the rate will again jump to 19 or 20 mills next year, and the town's debt likely will be as large as it is at the present time, with a heavy attendant interest account. In following the low tax rate course this fall, relief will be for this year only, while a permanent advantage can be gained by lowering the town's debt and cutting down the heavy interest account through a long period of years.

The annual report of the town issued in 1922, showed the indebtedness of the town as $176,469.49. Out of the balance now on hand, if such a course is desired, the town could apply enough to reduce the debt to a flat $160,000, the lowest figure touched since 1906. The peak of the town's debt was reached in 1917, when it touched $218,291.68. Good work in debt reduction has since been accomplished, and if it is carried a bit further, sound-minded business men point out, Killingly will be in splendid financial condition in the very near future. As individuals pay their just debts, so, too, are towns expected to do likewise, an argument that will incline many to use the big balance now on hand for retiring outstanding notes.

This plan may not meet the viewpoint of the majority, however, and the town meeting two weeks from Monday will have the final say on the matter.

Boxing fans will be a unit in their interest in the announcement that the boxing season will open here late in the month, when Promoter Frank Barber will stage a series of fast bouts in the town hall. There has been a lull in boxing since late in the spring, so the appetite of the fans for more samples of one of their favorite sports is keen. Mr. Barber said Tuesday afternoon that the bouts will provide 32 rounds of boxing, with a star bout of 12 rounds and a semi-final of eight rounds. He will be in Providence today concluding negotiations for the star bout, which will bring two fast men together.

One interested in sports and re-stocking operations offers the suggestion that wild rice be distributed in coves along the Quinebaug river and other streams in this vicinity now in order that it may grow and provide fine feeding grounds for wild duck another year. Wild rice is one of their favorite foods and it can be grown by distributing it over the shallow waters of coves and inlets and in other such places.

Call Harry Warren for long or short motor trips. Brand new 1924 Model 7-passenger Buick sedan, with every motoring comfort. Reasonable rates; careful driving.—adv.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl F. Wood are spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Wood of Academy street before going to Providence, where they will make their home. Mr. Wood will begin his duties September 26 as a member of the faculty of Brown university, of which he is a graduate.

Hundreds of parishioners who at-tended the masses at St. James' church Sunday were acquainted by Rev. John Roux, M. S., the pastor, with the fact that the parish faces the necessity of erecting a new school building to meet the educational needs of the parish, which has grown by leaps and bounds during the past score years.

The present frame school building, three stories in height, erected in 1887, has served its purpose well, but there is need for larger quarters and with this in view Sunday's announcements by the pastor has awakened parish to the new obligation it must face in providing a modern school building to meet the future educational requirements of a community numbering several thousand souls.

The complete list of candidates nominated by the republican caucus for town offices to be filled at the annual town election follows: Assessor, Fred L. Miller; board of relief, E. C. Lawrence; selectmen, John A. Gilbert, Napoleon P. Gingras; town clerk, town treasurer and agent of the town deposit fund, Frank T. Preston; auditor, Elmer C. Wood; collector of taxes, George A. Williams; constables, John McFarland, George LaBelle, Jesse B. Child, L. S. Barstow; registrars, D. Fred Kenworthy, Frank L. Bennett, James E. Smith; member of the town school committee, Agnes H. Paine.

Very few persons will go to New York from this vicinity to be present at the Dempsey-Firpo bout Friday evening, but large numbers will sit around telephones and radio sets to get returns from the bout.

Corn cutting now is engaging the attention of farmers, fearful of early frosts that seemingly were forecasted by the cool weather of Tuesday morning.

A large vote is predicted for the annual town election two weeks from Monday. Politicians look for this because of the fact that there are three tickets in the field this year and live interest in all the candidates.

The body of Walter Caswell, who died at Melrose, is to be brought to Danielson for burial in Westfield cemetery.

The matter of requiring builders to obtain building permits before actually starting construction work is one of the matters that will receive attention from borough officials.

PUTNAM

Attorney Irving H. Miron's decisive win for the nomination for tax collector at the republican caucus, was the outstanding subject of political comment in Putnam during Tuesday. In one of the largest republican caucuses held in Putnam in years he won out by a vote of 240 to 176, defeating Attorney Erneat C. Morse, who, as a republican incumbent, has held the town tax collectorship here for several years. Attorney Miron is a newcomer locally in the political field, although for several years past he has been at Washington, D. C., as bill clerk in the United States senate. It is understood he will resign that position.

For the past ten days Attorney Miron has been engaged in active campaign for the nomination he has received and in interesting the voters was largely responsible for bringing out such a large caucus attendance.

Attorney Miron is a native of Putnam and a graduate of the Millbury, Mass., High school. During the war, while he was a law student, he served as chief clerk of the selective service board through which men were brought into the service of the United States for the world war in this district. Having been admitted to the bar, he became a member of the law firm of Torrey and Geissler, but went to Washington later to take a clerkship in the United States senate.

Having won the nomination, Attorney Miron will now make an aggressive drive for election.

Selectmen Clarence E. Pierce and Luther M. Keith have again been nominated by the republicans to succeed themselves, as has David Flagg, candidate for re-election as town clerk, treasurer and agent of the town deposit fund.

Under smiling skies, exhibitors who hope to win blue ribbons and other honors at Woodstock fair were busy on entry day, arranging their exhibits at the fair grounds in South Woodstock, where for more than half a century such displays of the farm have been made during the late summer or early fall.

There was promise, as exhibits began to pour in, that there will be nothing lacking this year that has contributed in the past to making the Woodstock fair a very interesting agricultural show—one of the old-fashioned type that has refused to lose its caste and degenerate into a carnival, as has been the rule in many New England fair centers. Woodstock fair remains primarily an agricultural show, with splendid displays of vegetables and fruit, dairy products, poultry, cattle, horses, sheep and many other things from county farms. It has its special attractions intended for up-to-date entertainment and diversion, but the products of the farm still hold first place in making a show that each year attracts thousands from miles around.

Many of those who will have concessions on the midway had their tents in place late Tuesday. Special plans for handling the traffic have been worked out by fair officials.

Hebrews of this city, the number including some of Putnam's well known business men, either attended services here Tuesday or were in other cities for the observance of Rosh Hoshanah, the Jewish New Year. For the Reformed Hebrews the observance ended at sunset Tuesday, but for the Orthodox members of the faith the observance will continue until sunset this evening. The New Year, according to the Hebraic reckoning, is 5684. The holiday period will continue for a period of ten days up to the Day of Atonement, one of the most important of the Jewish holidays.

A sledge hammer blow was dealt Putnam Tuesday by the forces of the law that are engaged in the much advertised crusade to rid the state of Connecticut of illegal liquor selling. Armed with a dozen bench warrants, Deputy Sheriff Charles E. Ayer of the town of Killingly came to this city shortly after the noon hour and proceeded to serve them on those for whom they were issued and notify them that their immediate departure for Willimantic was required to present themselves in the superior court, there to make answer to the charges filed against them.

While the proceeding was not unlooked for, it came as a very general surprise, though in line with what is being done throughout the state at present. The issuing of bench warrants and the elimination of minor courts in prosecutions of people charged with violation of the liquor laws was a novelty for the present generation, especially in view of the fact that the manoeuver was carried out on a wholesale plan.

There was much excitement and scurrying about for bondsmen, as those served with warrants made ready to journey to Willimantic and make answer to the charges against them. The excitement was not confined to those who figured as principals in the affair, but to the public generally, wherever news of the action penetrated.

Following the serving of the war-rants it was stated that several of those involved in this city are charged with actual sales of intoxicants, and that the evidence, through what is popularly known as spotter methods, was obtained during the late part of the month of August.

The sensation that the action taken created in this city is not likely to abate for some time. It was such a crash as has not been experienced here since the advent of prohibition and is indicative of the power behind the movement to stop liquor selling in Connecticut. In some quarters the action was hailed with delight; in others, depending on one's attitude toward prohibition, it was received with sullen resignation. The public here is quite positively divided on its attitude toward the entire subject of enforcement and Tuesday's picture of the public was one for interesting study of the reaction of the public toward the entire proceeding, which no sensible person will question was in line with the obligation of the authorities to enforce existing law.

There was no raiding in connection with the entire operation. The bench warrants simply were served and those who received them ordered to proceed to Willimantic at once. Further details of the procedure in the cases will be found this morning in the news from Willimantic in this paper. It so happens that Willimantic experienced about the same kind of a settling down as was given Putnam, and on the same day.

Captain William Jarvis of the Put-nam police was at Willimantic Tuesday to appear in the Brcault-Fournier case as a witness.

Mr. and Mrs. Gideon LaMaitre and Roderick Miller are in Canada on a vacation trip, having motored through New England and across the border.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stoumbelis of Medford were visitors here Tuesday. Mr. Stoumbelis formerly was a member with his brothers of the Progress Confectionery store here.

The vicinity will be represented on Friday night at the Dempsey-Firpo bout in New York. The fight fans from this territory will make the trip in a motor car.

The contracting firm that is to build the Putnam Savings bank building is now engaged in seeking bids for minor contracts in connection with the work, which will proceed through the winter, the building to be completed by April 1.

A representative of the Fred T. Ley company in charge of their work on the new National bank building here said Tuesday that he expected the work will be completed and the structure ready for the bank to occupy the first of the coming week. When the bank will move into its new quarters was not stated Tuesday.

Out on Killingly avenue, rapid pro-gress is being made with the state highway rebuilding work. Metal drains have been put in almost to the Killingly line, excavations being made the full width of the present highway in carrying out this work. A steam shovel is cutting through a field where S curves are to be removed and another steam shovel is at work near Grove street cemetery, where the old macadam roadway is being torn out. Three main highways out of Putnam—the one to Danielson, the one to Pomfret and the one to Providence via Chepachet—are under repair and rebuilding operations.

MYSTIC

A play which Mrs. William Penfield directed at Columbus hall two nights the last of the week, proved a decided success. The proceeds were for the Relief corps here.

The public schools of the town opened Monday, with a large number enrolled. The Mystic Academy principal is Miss Burnett. Miss Eleanor Fish is to teach here this year.

The engagement has been announced of Miss Irene Rennie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson Rennie, of New London, to Ralph Haas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Haas of Mystic. Mr. Haas is in the grocery business here.

Mrs. Benjamin Rendett and daughter are spending the holidays in New York. The stores of the Jewish merchants are closed during the holidays.

Miss Elizabeth Cheney and Chester F. Coffey, who were married at the Baptist parsonage Sept. 1, will reside in the village.

Rossie E. Oviatt, of West Mystic, was injured Monday when struck by an automobile driven by Eugene W. Jones, of Groton. He was knocked down and the front wheels of the Jones machine passed over his right leg. He was rendered unconscious and sustained cuts on both forearms. Mr. Jones picked him up and hurried him to Dr. A. H. Meyer where the injuries were attended to. Mr. Jones then took the injured man to his home. Mr. Oviatt was working on the house of H. L. Williams on the New London road. He stepped across the street for a moment and had just started back when Mr. Jones came down the street going toward Mystic. The left front fender struck Mr. Oviatt knocking him down and the front wheel passed over him before the machine could be stopped.

WESTERLY

"Have them hot! Have them cold! The little hotel, the big dog," said the quick lunch man, just inside the gate at the Kingston fair grounds on Tuesday morning. The Peacedale band played a stirring march in the stand where the judges are stationed for the horse racing and the Forty-ninth Annual Kingston Fair given by Washington County Agricultural Society at West Kingston, R. I., Sept. 11, 12, 13, and 14 was opened.

At an early hour exhibitors, concessionists and officials as well as visitors thronged through the gates and almost everybody was too busy to talk much. New buildings have been added to the fair ground equipment, the chief of which is the new poultry exhibition building at the right of the drive from the main gate, the building being 160 feet long and 30 feet wide and replaces the old exhibition tent.

The poultry exhibit this year is in charge of Superintendent Alexander W. Lewis of Ashaway and the result is most creditable to the manager. All the poultry awards had not been made Tuesday night, but it was planned to have them completed by Wednesday.

Some of the other fair grounds buildings have received new coats of paint, the most noteworthy being Hazard hall.

An added feature at the fair this season is bicycle racing, in charge of George E. Harvey of Wakefield. The entries were not numerous, but interesting races will result. On a track made slippery by the sprinkling cart, the first bicycle races were started at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning and are to be run every morning during the fair week. Evidently the horse racing men did not take kindly to the bicycle innovation for the cycle riders had to look out for the sulky drivers. The wet track was the cause of one rider coming a cropper.

Tuesday evening in Dixon Street Armory the weekly drills of the 549th Co., R. I. C. A. C., were resumed for the winter.

Benjamin H. Tourtellotte of Franklin, Mass., is the guest of Frank Friend of Pawcatuck.

Mrs. H. J. Kelsey of Amherst, Mass., returned home Tuesday after being the guest of relatives in Westerly.

Mrs. J. L. Peacock having returned from Northfield, has been the guest of her sister, Miss Carrie F. Arnold of Westerly.

George Racine, age 20, height 5 feet 7 1-2 inches, weight 130 pounds, with light brown hair of Woonsocke, is wanted by the Rhode Island state authorities, having escaped from the state institution. He walks with a stoop, wears a khaki suit and white shoes with black trimmings, as reported when last seen.

Game Warden Elmer Briggs of Westerly accidently shot himself in his right foot on Tuesday morning. The mishap occurred when his 38 calibre revolver slipped from the holster which he had in his hand and was discharged as it struck the ground. The bullet splintered the ankle bone, the wound bleeding badly. Dr. M. H. Scanlon gave the necessary medical attention previous to Mr. Briggs being removed from his home on the Post road, where the accident occurred, to Rhode Island hospital, Providence in the Westerly Sanitary Corps ambulance.

Miss Mary Burdick of Westerly was in New London Tuesday.

Mrs. B. F. Barnes of Norwich is the guest of Judge and Mrs. Robert B. Archibald at Juniper lane cottage.

A special conclave of Narragansett Commandery, No. 27, K. T., is to be held this (Wednesday) evening at their asylum, for the work of the Temple degree.

JEWETT CITY

Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Bliss are taking a vacation visit their son, Donald C. Bliss of New Bedford. During Mr. Bliss' absence Andrew L. Jensen, for several years an experienced, butter-maker in another part of the state, is attending to the daily manufacture of the products.

The name of Clovis Casavant should have appeared on the list of nominations at the republican caucus. He will run for collector of taxes.

Robert J. Guy is taking an enforced vacation for a couple of days, having severed an artery when his hand came in contact with a jagged piece of glass.

The first meeting of Faith Chapter, No. 82, O. E. S., since the summer recess, is to be held Thursday evening. In response to an urgent appeal for old cotton and linen for the O. E. S. hospital at the Masonic home members have been asked to bring all contributions to the meeting this week as well as to successive meetings so that shipments may be made whenever there is a sufficient quantity on hand.

The Baptist Misson Circle met in the vestry Tuesday afternoon, in the absence of the president, Mrs. S. F. Brown presided. Mrs. E. M. Swift prepared the programme, the subject being the Philippines. It was discussed in the manner of a class with questions and answers. This included location, climate, resources, dialects, government, medical and mission schools and other interesting facts. Mrs. E. E. Sisley sang Saving Grace and Mrs. Mary Brewster read a kindergarten story.

Alex McNicol has been appointed by the local Red Cross chapter chairman of a committee to conduct the drive for Japanese relief. His committee will be Arthur M. Brown, W. J. Robertson, Jr., and Chester Dudkowski. Money has already been subscribed and may be left at the Jewett City Trust Co. with Mr. Dudkowski. The committee will formulate its plans at once. Miss Bertha Lewis has charge in Voluntown.

The following pupils are to be awarded certificates for having had perfect attendance for the school year of 1922-1923. These certificates are signed by Governor Templeton, Commissioner of Education A. B. Meredith, State Agent A. W. Buchanan and by the teacher.

Bethel school—Anna Dorothy Richardson.

Glasgo school—Irene Kokosza, Irene Szymkawicz, Joseph Baron.

River Grammar school—Elizabeth Kiko, Eugene Malek, Wilfred Dug, William Stebbins, Anthony Moduszewski, Mary Kosol, Joseph Walas, Paul Ambot, William Dziedzic, Sylvia Bryant, Helen Baldyga, Helen Kolbuss, Annie Monicki, Rose Marinello, Priscilla Sullivan, Fred Kosel, Antoinella Marinello, Theodore Henneault, Emile Lefevre, Laure Rainville, Edward Roys, Natalie Malek, Agnes Givenski, Stanley Baldyga, Clarence Sweet, Stephen Shork, Peter Kusek, John Ambot, Louisa Kolodzey, Joseph Pratek, Lucy Perini, John Walsh, Cecelia Zavistanki, John Nowakoski, Helen Polumski, Mary Solenski, Russell Carpenter, Josephine Kargul, Helen Casper, Stanley Lutz, Ovila Gaudreau, Walter Nowakowski, Joseph Chimchowani, Frank Malek, Helen Minia, Joseph Malek, Dorothy Lefevre, Katherine Koss, Angeline Dimicco, Stanley Givenski, Frederick Eichelberg, Charles Jasktewics, Stanley Klick, Grace Grelak.

Announcements have been received here that the 1923 Worcester public school annual exhibit of home industries, gardening, cooking, sewing and handicraft, is to be held in Mechanics hall, Friday, Sept. 14th, from 7.30 to 9 p. m., and Saturday, Sept. 15th, from 10 a. m. to p. m., in competition for the David Hale Fanning prizes. The prize money, six hundred dollars, has been given to be used for the permanent decoration of the school buildings or rooms and each purchase is to be inscribed, "Fanning Prize, 1923."

PLAINFIELD

Mr. and Mrs. Hermon B. Chapman left for an automobile trip to Windom, Minnesota, to visit Mrs. Chapman's sister, Mrs. Edith French. They are accompanied on the trip by Mrs. Chapman's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Shepherd of New London, N. H. A post card was received from Mr. and Mrs. Chapman, mailed the 7th, at Amsterdam, N. Y., the party having made 190 miles that day.

Miss Louise Jerome has returned after a short visit with her aunt, Mrs Louis Jerome of Providence.

The Sterling Jazz Boys, a newly formed orchestra, played before a crowded house at the dance given last Friday evening in Potvin's hall, Sterling.

Friday evening, the following automobile party called on John Ingles and family: Mrs. A. B. Lovejoy of Hoguiam, Washington, Mrs. Daniel O. Leary and Mrs. William Martin and son, Howard, of Norwich.

Good hard wood for sale. P. J. Melady, Jewett City. Tel. 117.—adv.

Miss Ruth A. Hall is at home after a visit with friends in Attleboro, Mass.

The Community house opened for the fall activities last week and an interesting programme will soon be in full swing. The attendance is already large and gives promise of unusual interest the coming season. Miss Nelsie E. Hartwell is in charge of all the activities.

Mrs. J. L. Chapman has returned from Windham, where she has been visiting friends.

Mrs. Hannah Tover of Westerly is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Winfred Gardner.

There was a good representation of Plainfield people at the two hundredth anniversary of Newent church Saturday and Sunday. Many of the people improved the opportunity to visit the Pilgrim dahlia gardens. In connection with the anniversary was held the six church conference.

HANOVER

There is to be a preparatory lecture at the Congregational church Thursday evening at 7.30 o'clock (d. s. t.).

Norwich Market Growers' Association

This week should mark the height of the tomato supply. Ripe fruit for canning or other purposes should be secured now.

Green Peppers are in good supply, and like tomatoes should be used while still in prime condition, untouched by frost, which may occur at any time.

All the seasonable vegetables are available, Green Corn, Beans, Cabbage, Beets, new crop, Carrots, Cucumbers, Squash, etc.

The fall crop of spinach is now on the market, and remember that as a healthful and health-giving vegetable, it can't be beat.

AIDING WATER TRANSPORTATION.

Providence is elated over the fact that dredges have arrived to start deepening of the channel to the city, and well it may, for the benefit of greater water facilities which has been denied to users of the channel to that city has been adequate for only part of the distance. From the ocean to Sassafras point there is now a channel of 30 feet depths. From there to India point, where the municipal pier is located, the channel is shallower but with the removal of a million square yards of sand Providence is going to be able to get and welcome much water transportation that is now denied.

The situation at Providence has been much the same as it is at Norwich. We have access to the sea but the channel in the river is adequate for only part of the distance. Vessels that might otherwise come here often discharge their cargoes elsewhere and those that do reach the city on a regular schedule are from time to time handicapped by grounding in a too shallow and too narrow channel.

Norwich doesn't seek and doesn't expect a 30-foot channel. It doesn't anticipate that it is about to get water transportation similar to Providence. It does believe, however, that those restrictions which prevail at the present time in the conduct of business because of the fact that the channel in the Thames is adequate for only part of the distance to this city, and the handicap that exists to a proper development of water transportation are such that it has reason to expect their elimination quite the same as is being done for Providence.

There is no doubt as to the need of the improvement in the waters below Providence, but relatively speaking as to the size of the city, the amount of river traffic and the amount that will be required Norwich is justified in its demands to the same extent that Providence is, and while it will not get results as soon the matter is of such importance to this vicinity that there ought to be no unreasonable delay.

THE TWO DOLLAR BILLS.

With the government preparing designs for new paper money and not including therein a design for a $2 bill there is further evidence of the intentions to eliminate that denomination in paper currency. It is a change that has been under discussion. There are those who oppose it, those who do not care and those who are anxious to have it done.

In favor of it is the argument that people are superstitious about a $2 bill, that it is easily changed to make a $20 bill, that it is mistaken for a $1 bill and that while it can hardly be said that there are those who throw such bills away there are those who think they must nick the $2 bill somewhere in order to ward off the evil influence.

If there is no better reason for discontinuing the $2 bill than any which has been mentioned or heard there seems to be very little ground for any such action. Perhaps the most foolish is that concerning the superstition. No one knows what there is about a $2 bill that brings bad luck to the one possessing it. Rather is there a basis for a hard luck attitude through the failure to get one or a handful of them. That there are designs of the $2 bill that are easily confused with the ones is recognized. Many have been handed out for ones and not a few have been received for ones because of the failure to note what was being done, but a change in design would easily overcome that and there is no reason why a $2 bill should be raised to a larger denomination any more easily than any other.

With postage stamps there has been a decided increase in the denominations within the last decade or so in order to better accommodate. Those who urge the continuance of the $2 bill are doing so on much the same ground, for the twos lessen by half the number of ones that might otherwise be carried or required in making change. If convenience in the matter of currency denominations gives away to superstition we are getting to a fine state of things.

SCRAPPING THE SHIPS.

Bids have been asked by the navy department for certain of those warships which must go to the scrap heap according to the terms of the naval agreement. In putting them up for bid it is not the intention of the government to let them go to the highest bidder for such use as the purchaser may select. The bids are being asked with the full understanding that the vessels must be scrapped and that such scrapping must be completed within a period of 18 months.

Whatever of value there is to the government on the ships has been removed. Whatever remains can be used only for junk. It would have been within the rights of the navy department to have taken these vessels out into deep water in midocean and sunk them. That would have disposed of them quickly. It could also have used more of them for targets for airplane bombers or as targets for the gunners of other ships, but that would have meant the sending to the bottom of a great amount of metal that may as well be employed for other purposes after being reworked as to use the equivalent in raw material. In fact some of the parts of the ships are much more valuable than raw material since reworking it does not call for certain of the processes that otherwise would be required.

The aim of the department therefore is to get what it can for the ships from those who will tear them to pieces and utilize the material. It has even been advocated that the government employ its navyyard men to do that work, and it may be that such will be done if the bids do not come up to the figures expected. Such work, even though the expense of breaking up the vessels would balance what could be gained from the material, would be preferable to sinking the ships and getting no return on the huge sums put into them.

Whatever the bids are, or whatever the department finally accepts for the ships to be scrapped, there is no reason to anticipate that they will come anywhere near the cost of the material put into the ships when they were constructed, even though that was a score of years ago.

THE REPUBLICAN TOWN TICKET

Not only was it a harmonious caucus of the republicans but good judgment was displayed in the choice of candidates for the coming town election. Town government is highly important and calls for men that will give conscientious attention. In the past years Norwich has especially favored by having Mr. K. Bailey as its first selectman. His attention to duties, a knowledge of and concern for the interests of the city, the recognition of [illegible] was to the community as a whole and not to one section or class, economical and upright in the policies of economy and in such town affairs as come under his direction have been admirable. Selectman Bailey has conducted the town affairs with [illegible] as much as if they were a private enterprise.

Norwich has reason to regret that Mr. Bailey does not come forward to the continuation of his services in this office.

There is good reason nevertheless to believe that the man who has been nominated to take his place, if elected will be entirely successful in his administration will be a credit of the town as well as himself. The experience of William H. Murphy in directing city affairs can be counted to good account in connection with the town business as it has with the long experience of Charles P. Bushnell on that board.

For assessors John B. Ott and Fred G. Prothero have rendered faithful public service in that or similar capacity, while for board of relief men of experience and ability have been selected in J. C. Fitzpatrick and Francis Beique.

The renomination of Town Clerk Holbrook and Tax Collector Robinson insures their election to offices which they have filled with entire satisfaction, which likewise applies to Registrars Guy and Downes.

THE VALUE OF OUR SHIPS.

Noble has been the response of this country to the appeal for relief of the Japanese. From every section of the country there has been an outpouring of dollars, an eagerness to help and in every way has this government responded to the demands of the situation.

Our sympathy and our dollars would have done little had there been no facilities for immediately moving supplies to the shores of that country. From the first disclosures concerning the disaster efforts have been bent to make use of such facilities as we possessed to overcome the distress. Not only have we sent our warships to be put at the service of that country but we have loaded and despatched merchant marine vessels with cargoes of food and other necessities.

It is to be sincerely hoped that the enormity of the disaster has resulted in an excusable exaggeration of the loss. Whatever the final figure at which it is fixed it will be large enough. We have reason to be pleased that we could be of service in such a time of need and we can thoroughly appreciate the advantage of having a merchant marine that can be quickly brought into use to deal with an emergency of such a character.

Great as is the benefit of such merchant ships for the purpose of developing trade in all quarters of the globe, yet it is impossible to overlook the fact that there are great advantages attached to the possession of such transportation facilities when the use of such is badly wanted. We knew what it was in time of war and we know what it is in time of peace. We must not underrate the value of our ships.

BRAVE AS LIONS

It was the night that the lights in Weathervale went out. For over an hour the little town was in darkness, inky black because of the thunder shower that caused all the trouble. And during that hour everything in the little burg was bewitched—or at least, so it seemed to the two young school ma'ams who had just come to board with the Burgesses.

There was an entertainment at the town hall that evening, and Mr. and Mrs. Burgess had urged their two new boarders to go there with them.

"You'll be lonesome here alone, with everything new and strange," Mrs. Burgess had said. "And I shouldn't wonder if we had a shower—it looks like one."

"We'd rather stay here—if you don't mind," Ann Macey assured her.

They were curled down comfortably in the sitting room when the storm broke. An awful flash of lightning, a quick crashing of thunder and then—darkness.

The two girls clung closely together during the pandemonium that followed. Then the noise of the storm gradually diminished, the flashes grew dimmer and more distant, the darkness more appalling.

A faint giggle finally came from Dorine.

"Brave as lions, aren't we?" she said, shakily.

"The lightning must have put the lights out of commission," Ann returned, starting as a blind slammed.

"Let's hope they come right on. I can't say I enjoy this exactly."

"Probably there are lamps and matches somewhere in this house," Ann suggested.

"Oh, we never could feel around and find them!" Dorine shivered. "Let's look out of the window, if we can locate it."

Stumbling over strange pieces of furniture, they finally reached the front window. The outlook was not a bit encouraging—a sheet of darkness, unrelieved by street lights or illumination of any kind, except one faint glimmer far down the street.

"Everyone must have gone to the hall, or else no one has any lamps or candles," Dorine remarked in a low voice. "What was that, Ann? A noise?"

It was Ann's turn to giggle, but the sound was faint and doubtful.

"Brave as lions," she muttered.

Do mice's only response was a suppressed sniff. There was silence a moment.

"There are houses all around here," Ann said finally. "It's stopped raining and the shower's over enough so it isn't quite so dark. Maybe if we started out we could find a place with a light. Anything's better than sitting here, it seems to me. This window is low. Let's slide right out here."

A moment later the two girls were outside, moving carefully until they felt the narrow sidewalk beneath their feet. Hopefully they started in the direction of the tiny light.

"What's that?" Ann stooped quickly.

"What's the matter?" Dorine asked.

"I hit my foot against something," Ann replied. "Feel. It's a box with something that shakes inside."

"Feather, it feels like."

"It's heavy, Dorine, it feels like my Aunt Judith's jewel-box—the same shape and size."

"It can't be. She's miles from here. Come on, let's hurry to that light. Then you can see what it is."

The inky darkness was past and houses as they went along toward the they could see the dim outlines of tiny beacon which seemed the only light in town.

Suddenly the two stopped short, clinging close together.

Not far away they could plainly hear a pounding, a scraping, then a low exclamation. At the nearest house they could discern a dim figure fumbling at the window.

"A burglar!" Dorine whispered excitedly. "Trying to get in."

"Oh, the window's gone up," Ann returned. "He's get down his case of tools and is climbing. Dorine, we must stop him somehow!"

It all happened quickly. There was no time for planning ways and means. Just as the man had attained a balanced position, half inside the house and half outside, the girls each caught a swinging ankle and held it in a grip that made the intruder helpless in their hands.

"Help! help! A burglar!" they called in unison.

Suddenly from the direction of the hall came the tramp of many homeward bound feet which hastened as the girls' cries were heard. Soon strong hands pinioned the interloper.

"Bring him into the house," came the commanding voice of Mrs. Wellington, the owner. "I'll have a candle lighted in a moment. He probably was after my jewel case, not knowing I always take it with me."

A queer sound escaped the prisoner as he was led up the steps, the two girls following and a dozen or more neighbors bringing up the rear.

They stood in the darkness of the sitting-room until Mrs. Wellington came in with the light which she held close in front of the prisoner.

"Elwood!" she exclaimed in astonishment. "Where did you come from?"

"Hello, Aunt Anna." The young man looked about him amusedly. "You weren't here when I came from the station, so I tried getting in the window as I used to. Then two giants caught hold of me and—"

He got no further, for he had suddenly recognized the "giants" just as they had realized that this was no stranger, even, but the chum of Dorine's brother, at whose graduation they had become pretty well acquainted.

But Mrs. Wellington was interested elsewhere.

"Where did you get that?" she said severely, pointing to the bulging pocket of Annie's blouse, where the package she had picked up was protruding conspicuously.

Explanations followed, the crowd dispersed until only the two girls and Mr. and Mrs. Burgess were left. When they finally started home Elwood accompanied them, he and Doris dropping behind the others.

At the Burgess' gate they still lingered.

"I'd be a burglar by profession," he said, "if I could get caught that way often. It surely did surprise me to find in what a strange way fate had brought us together again, I tell you, Dorine," and his voice took on the manly, straightforward tone she has admired in him before, "it's going to mean a whole lot to me to have a chance to get better acquainted. Don't you feel so, too!"

Dorine did not reply, but stood very quiet and thoughtful.

Then suddenly the magic power returned to the wires and the street light just over them glowed with its old-time brilliancy.

And the young man, standing there with uncovered head, read the answer in his question in her eyes.—Boston Post.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Interest in the annual meeting of the British Association which assembles at Liverpool today centers in the opening address of the president, Sir Ernest Rutherford, who is announced to speak on the "Electrical Structure of matter." Sir Ernest has made a number of the most remarkable discoveries of modern physical science, and may well be expected to contribute something unusual. For many years he has been Langworthy professor and director of the physical laboratories at the University of Manchester. Today he is one of the best known physicists in the world, holding degrees from upwards of a dozen universities in Europe and America, and having received medals and decorations from numerous scientific societies and higher institutions of learning. Sir Ernest has devoted much attention in recent years to radio activity and has written a number of books on the phenomena of radio active substances and their radiations.

Stories That Recall Others

The Dried Prune.

Recently a five year old and his brother were invited out of the city to the wedding of a cousin. As the train rattled along the mother endeavored to explain to John all about the wedding.

"There's always a bride an a bridegroom. And Cousin Rose will be the bride," she continued. "And Eddie will be the bridegroom."

John puckered up his little face and drew closer to his mother, while above the train roar he shouted: "Mother, who did you say was going to be the dried prune?"

Keeping Them Guessing.

A teacher asked a little boy his name, before he had time to answer another little boy said: "His name is John A——." Another exclaimed: "Nope. It's John B——."

Still another piped up. "It isn't either. He's John X——."

"Sh," said the teacher, and then quiet reigned, she asked the little boy to tell his name.

He replied, "John X——."

Immediately this exclamation came from a little boy in the back of the room: "Gosh! Is she married again?"

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

HAPPY VALLEY

With summer resorts galore in the forefront of every conversation one remains unmentioned,—"Happy Valley."

"This is India's most remarkable warm weather retreat, otherwise known as Kashmir," says a bulletin of the National Geographic Society, "though it is heard from far less than the summer capital, Simla, and other summerstations which may be reached in customary western fashion, by rail.

"Kashmir is not on the southern slope of the Himalayas. It lies among those towering mountains, actually behind a portion of them.

"However it is a peculiar geological condition, not the steepness of ascent, that makes Kashmir inaccessible by rail.

"The highway into the celebrated Vale traverses a loose and conglomerate formation, and nearly every rain tumbles isolated boulders and great stone masses into the road. The life toll is heavy on this evanescent roadway, and squads of laborers usually are busy opening passages afresh. The difficulties of maintaining a clear railway track over such an area so far have nonplused engineers.

"Visitors now must make a 200-mile journey through the outer Himalayas over the 'trick highway' after leaving the railrod station at Rowalpindi. When they arrive the ardors of getting there are forgotten in the panorama of a great level valley, its floor a mile above the sea, with profuse vegetation and fruits of the temperate zone, rimmed around with a majestic, wall of towering, snow-mantled mountains.

"The major surprise of this altitudinous valley is Srinagar, a Venice of the East. Through the Vale winds the Jhelum River, fed by icy Himalayan springs, occasionally forming beautiful lakes. The 'main street' of Srinagar is the river and facing the river are the palace of the Maharaja, government buildings, and dwellings. On the river itself and the numerous canals that intersect it live 15,000 people in boats.

"If one would spend some time in Srinagar he rents a houseboat. His dwelling comes equipped with oarsmen. But he must also engage a kitchen boat, manned by cooks. With such provision the visitor may live comfortably and lazily, moving his abode as whim dictates, with his meals in the making in his wake.

"Away from its waterways Srinagar is slum-like, with narrow, dirty and odorous streets. Many of its people are unkempt and beggars abound.

"Despite their own appearance the very name of the Valley has become a synonym for person adornment. The most famous of numerous artistic products were the cashmere shawls so highly prized by smartly dressed women of the Western World two or three generations ago. One favorite type, the 'ring' shawl, though not transparent, is so fine-woven that it may be drawn through a finger ring.

"Production of shawls in Kashmir fell off sharply during the last 25 years and is practically nil today. The Franco-Prussian War sealed their doom, and the India famine of 1877-79 wrought havoc among the weavers.

"The shawls were not made from the wool of sheep, nor do all the animals which supply the raw material live in Kashmir. In everyday parlance the word cashmere is applied to material made from the finest grade of wool of Merino sheep raised in Spain. The material of the cashmere shawls was the fine, short underwool of the shawl-goat which lives, for the most part, in the mountain regions of Tibet."

HOW TO FORGET TROUBLES

TROUBLES knock up your system like Jack Dempsey knocks down his opponent.

Troubles deal blows both in the head and stomach—and they hurt the stomach more than they do the head!

Troubles give the stomach indigestion, slow up the liver—and then follow constipation and biliousness.

The way to get rid of troubles is to invigorate digestion, stimulate liver and bowels and tone up the entire system. The best way to do this—has been for the past 80 years—is to take Beecham's Pills.

Then you will feel so good that "troubles" become merely problems, to be solved readily by the clear, keen brain of health.

WEDDING.

Pollanck—Richards.

A pretty wedding occurred at 9 o'clock Monday morning at St. Mary's church, Baltic, when Miss Blanche Richards became the bride of Robert Pollanck of Stafford Springs, the ceremony being performed by Rev. W. T. O'Brien, pastor of the church. Mrs. Emma Donohue, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor, and George Pollanck, the bridegroom's brother, was best man.

The bride was charmingly gowned in white canton crepe with a veil caught with orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses and lilies of the valley. Her only ornament was a string of pearls, the gift of the groom. The bridesmaid was dressed in blue canton crepe, with picture hat to match. The bridegroom's gift to the best man was a scarf pin set with rubies and diamonds. The bride received many pretty and useful gifts including cut glass, linen, chinaware and silverware.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of Mrs. John C. Stevens and the couple were assisted in receiving by Mrs. Mary Richards, mother of the bride, and Mr. Pollanck, father of the bridegroom. A wedding breakfast also was served at the Stevens' home in charge of Mrs. Marie Douville.

Among the guests present at the wedding were the Misses Leté Ordway and Frances Milner, of Providence, R. I.; Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Way, of Crompton, R. I.; Aldo Bernado and Mr. Astrovsky of Stafford Springs; Mrs. Emma Donohue, Mr. and Mrs. Mayheur and George Pollanck, of Stafford Springs; Mr. and Metto of Rockville; the Misses Delia and Lillian Kittredge and Rose Donnelly of Lawrence, Mass., Mr. and Mrs. John C. Stevens, C. E. Stevens, and Mrs. Marie Douville and Mr. and Frank Adams of Baltic.

Following a wedding trip to Albany and Niagara Falls, Mr. and Mrs. Pollanck will reside at No. 10 Railroad street, Baltic.

WATCHED FIVE MEN DRINKING BY PEEPING OVER WINDOW SHADE

Sergeant Samuel Hick of the New London police force and Federal Prohibition Agent Joseph S. Fitzpatrick testified Tuesday in the superior court here how they watched over a window shade and saw a party of five men drinking in the saloon of Michael Machrino, who is on trial on the charge of violation of the liquor law. In the Machrino place at 30-32 Potter street, New London, it is charged that he made sales and kept a place that had the reputation of selling liquor.

Trial of the Machrino case started about noon Tuesday with State Attorney Hadlai A. Hull, assisted by D. J. Cronin, in conducting the case for the state, and Attorney G. C. Morgan as counsel for Machrino.

After the jury had been selected, Sergeant Samuel Hick of the New London police force was the first witness called by the state. He said that about an hour after midnight on Aug. 9 he was sitting in his automobile in Potter street, when he noticed a machine in front of Machrino's place. With him were Officer Frank J. Filopena and Federal Officers Fitzpatrick and Avery. They drove over behind the other car and got out. By standing on the window sill they could look over the top of the window shade into the Machrino place, which was lighted. He and Agent Fitzpatrick were the ones who stood on the window sill, he said, and he saw Machrino behind the bar with four men in front of it, one of them being William Smith. While he watched, the men drank from glasses they were holding. Then the witness said he got down and knocked on the door and was let in by Smith. The witness said he grabbed Machrino and pinned his arms down so that he was not able to throw away with any force a quart bottle of liquor that was there. Machrino did manage, however, to give it a toss toward the end of the room but it rolled along the floor and was picked up by one of the other officers.

A quart bottle marked Scotch whiskey, with liquor in it, an empty pint bottle labeled Okolona whiskey, a broken bottle of the same brand, a soda water bottle with liquor in it, and a small whiskey glass were produced as exhibits in the case. Sergeant Hick identified them as what had been seized at the Machrino place.

Joseph S. Fitzpatrick, a federal prohibition officer of New London, testified to being with Sergt. Hick and Officer Filopena at 1.10 a. m. on Aug. 10 and looking through a window into the Machrino saloon where Machrino was behind the bar and four men, including Smith, in front of it. Four glasses were on the bar and Machrino was holding a glass. As Fitzpatrick watched he said Machrino made a motion with his glass and all tossed off their drinks. The witness said he saw Smith pass a half pint bottle to Machrino who put it down under the bar. The witness said he continued to watch through the window while Sergt. Hick knocked on the door and he saw Smith come to the door and take down the bar. When Smith saw who it was and Sergeant Hick came in, Machrino broke the bottle. They searched the place.

Officer Frank J. Filopena testified that they saw an automobile belonging to a man named Danesi parked in front of the Potter street place. They drove up behind it and got out. Then Officer Filopena said he boosted up Sergt. Hick and Officer Fitzpatrick so that they could look through the upper part of the window. When Filopena went in with the other officers, he said he seized a glass of liquor that was on the bar and he found a bottle behind the bar and Mr. Avery found a quart bottle with a whiskey label on it on the floor. Sergeant Hick took the names of those in the place and Smith told him he was the owner.

Both these witnesses said the Machrino place had the reputation of selling liquor.

On cross examination Officer Filopena said he and Sergt. Hick had gone into the Machrino place every night for a month before the arrest but had found nothing but an empty bottle that smelled of liquor.

Harry W. Avery, federal prohibition officer, testified to hearing Machrino breaking a bottle on the edge of the sink as they got into the place and seeing Machrino throw a quart bottle across the room. Avery said this bottle didn't break and he picked it up. This was the same bottle that was in court as an exhibit. There was a strong smell of liquor after the bottle had been broken by Machrino.

Officer George A. Perkins of the New London police force, who has been on the Potter street beat for about five years, testified that a number of people had told him of the bad reputation of the Machrino place. On cross examination Attorney Morgan tried to find out the names of people who had spoken of the reputation of the place, but Officer Perkins said they were Polish or Russian people whose names he didn't know.

At this point the state rested and after a recess Attorney Morgan began the case for the defense.

Charles William Smith was the first witness called. He said he had been a taxi driver up to a year ago. Since December 1922 he had leased the premises in question, keeping near-beer, soda water, cigars and cigarettes. On the afternoon of Aug. 9 he attended horse races at Norwich with Michael Machrino. Upon their return to the Potter street place and Danesi, a man named Troland and another man came in. The witness said that the quart bottle which was one of the state's exhibits, was obtained by Machrino at the races at Norwich. Machrino poured the liquor out when they drank. There was no money paid out for the drinks. When the officers came in the place had been locked up for the night, Smith said. He denied that there was any liquor sold or kept for sale at the time and he denied that he took a bottle from his pocket and handed it to Machrino.

On cross examination, Smith denied that he ever told Sergt. Hick that he and Machrino were running the place together. He denied that two low raps was the signal to be let into the place.

Trial of the case will be resumed when court comes in this (Wednesday) morning at 9 o'clock, standard time.

NORWICH BOYS' CANOE FOUND AT GOSHEN POINT

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, Sept. 11—That William Wilson, aged 14, son of Mrs. Edith Wilson of No. 36 Thirteenth street, Norwich, and Robert Montgomery, aged 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Montgomery of No. 29 Colt street, also of Norwich, whose disappearance from Crescent Beach was reported late yesterday afternoon following the youths failing to return from a canoe trip, have been drowned in Long Island Sound there is not the slightest doubt for this forenoon the capsized canoe in which the lads started out for a day's pleasure, was found floating off Goshen Point, about five miles from the mouth of the Thames river. No trace of the bodies was found.

Following the abandonment of all efforts last night to find trace of the canoe or the bodies, searchers started out this morning to renew their endeavors to obtain tidings of the missing craft and the boys. While one of the parties was reaching close to the shore and but a short distance from the Harkness estate the overturned canoe with fish lines in it, was sighted, being readily recognized as that which the boys started out in. A further search of the shore and the vicinity where the canoe was found was continued throughout the day, but the search did not reveal the bodies. A watch is being maintained at Ocean Beach and by the United States Coast Guard patrol at Fishers' Island, but it is probable that when the bodies are recovered they will be found far from the point where the canoe was recovered as the tide is exceptionally strong there and has probably carried the bodies far from where the apparent double drowning occurred.

Both boys were good swimmers.

Rewards Offered.

A reward of $100 for the finding of the boys dead or alive, has been offered by Joseph P. Crutsenden, one of the large property owners at Crescent Beach, the families of each boy have offered $100 reward and the Bevan family of East Hampton, summer residents at the beach, have offered $100.

The place where young Montgomery's canoe was found is just about where the canoe of S. Winship Case of this city and Harold Borup, famous at one time in Arctic explorations, was found after they were drowned in April 1912.

Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery and family arrived at their home late Tuesday afternoon.

NORWICH SCHOOLS CROWDED BY SEPTEMBER REGISTRATION

Badly congested conditions in several of the Norwich schools, which have been met by transfers from one district to another, were reported to the town school board by Superintendent F. J. Graham at its regular meeting Tuesday night. Already the registration this year, which is 3,910, is 170 more than it was a year ago at this time, and it will reach 200 more within a short time.

The new Elizabeth street school, which includes the old Mt. Pleasant street school building, now has the most schools, having 717. All the rooms but three are in use in the new school house. The following is the school registration for the opening of the year:

| | |
|---|---|
| Broadway | 465 |
| Elizabeth street | 717 |
| Greeneville | 560 |
| Broad street | 186 |
| Town street | 200 |
| West Town street | 130 |
| Taftville | 200 |
| Bosworth avenue | 93 |
| Long Society | 46 |
| Hobart avenue | 137 |
| Bridge | 190 |
| Pearl street | 106 |
| High street | 157 |
| Falls | 192 |
| West Thames street | 136 |
| Laurel Hill | 143 |
| Occum | 128 |
| East Great Plain | 52 |
| Yantic | 72 |
| Grand total | 3910 |

It has been found necessary to transfer the sixth grade at Yantic to the West Town St. school, to transfer the sixth grade at the Bridge school to Broadway and Hobart avenue. Some Broadway school pupils will be transferred to Broad street in order to make room at Broadway, and it is planned to transfer some pupils from the Falls to Broad street.

Especially in the Town street school is there congestion and some pupils from the seventh and eighth grades will be transferred to West Town street. In order to make room for the first grade at Town street it may be necessary to use the kindergarten room, which will mean the abolishment of the kindergarten there.

Some work on the budget was done at the meeting and it was stated that the prospects are that the amount asked for through taxation will be no greater than it was last year.

CLOTHING NEEDED FOR BURNED OUT FAMILY

Commandant Samuel V. Furman and his daughter yesterday visited the Miller family who lost their home and belongings on Dunham street last week, and took a number of things and is providing table utensils, but found that the articles most needed are clothing. There are four children, two boys and two girls, clothing suited for twelve year boy and seven year boy, girls five and three, shoes, stockings and underwear. The boy of twelve cannot go to school for want of a suit of clothes. The family was very grateful for the supplies given, but do not need any more beds or springs, but carpets or rugs would be acceptable; also women's and men's clothing needed. Any one desiring to help in this worthy case can send the same to the Salvation Army Hall, 10 Cliff street City.

CLUBS OF JUVENILES WILL HAVE REPRESENTATIVES

The boys' and girls' clubs of eastern Connecticut will be well represented at Camp Vail at the Eastern States exposition at Springfield Sept. 16 to 22, inclusive. A number of the club members will have exhibits at the camp.

Every member taking part in a demonstration shall receive a medal from the Eastern States exposition in recognition of his or her contribution to the success of the Camp Vail program. In the judging contests ribbons will be awarded on an honor basis. Any member making a score of 90 to 100 shall receive a first honor ribbon; any member making a score of 80 to 89 shall receive a second honor ribbon; scores less than 80 and not less than 65 shall receive a third honor ribbon, as determined by the judges.

STATE PRISON SENTENCE FOR DESPICABLE ACT

Harry E. French, 36, a sailor from the submarine S-50, was given a sentence of from one to two years in state prison in the superior court here late Tuesday afternoon for indecent assault upon a 7 year old Catherine Shea at New London on Aug. 27. French had previously pleaded not guilty to the charge of rape, but was allowed to plead to the lighter charge Tuesday. He pleaded guilty and State Attorney Hull at once moved for sentence.

Public Defender Charles L. Stewart, who acted for French, made a plea for leniency for him on the ground of his excellent record in the navy and that several drinks of some strong liquor, furnished to French by a man who gave him a ride in an automobile, was largely to blame for what had happened. French has a wife and daughter in New York.

State Attorney Hull vigorously opposed probation for the man. Judge Brown passed the sentence without remark except to remind French that the maximum penalty was ten years in state prison and that the maximum penalty under the first accusation was thirty years in prison and a fine of $1,000.

GAVE MUSICAL PROGRAM AT BACKUS HOSPITAL

Rev. Harlow Graham, pastor of Trinity Methodist church, was in charge of the musical hour at Backus hospital Sunday afternoon. The following delightful program was given by Miss Lucile Guile, pianist, and her brother, George Guile, violinist: March, The Battle Song of Liberty, Yellen; A Southern Dream Waltz, Lincoln; The Connecticut March; Maxsann; Mississippi Cradle Waltz, Yellen; violin solo, Adoration, Borowski, Master Guile; Leave Me With a Smile, Koehler; piano solo, Souvenir of the West, Roberts, Miss Guile; O Sole Mio, Di Capua; Souvenir, Drdla; The Parade of the Wooden Soldiers, Jessel; Sound of the Bugle March, Ellis.

Miss May Guile, also a violinist, and the third member of the Guile trio, was unable to participate in the program, because of a recent surgical operation.

ABSOLUTE NOLLE IN MRS. GAMMON'S CASE

An absolute nolle was entered in the superior court here Tuesday morning before Judge Allyn L. Brown in the case of May Odde Gammons of New London on the charge of assault and battery upon her daughter, Constance Gammons, 19 years old.

Public Defender Charles L. Stewart acted for Mrs. Gammons and after conferences with the state attorney this disposition of the case was made when State Attorney Hull made the recommendation to the court. Miss Constance Gammons is now under treatment for a serious nervous condition in a retreat in Hartford, brought on, it is understood, by her severe experiences in a shipwreck on a trip to Porto Rico to see her father.

CONTINO "NOT GUILTY" ON MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE

Joseph Contino of New London, on trial in the superior court here for manslaughter in causing the death of Tony Longo through injuries in an automobile accident in New London on May 20, was found not guilty by a jury Tuesday morning.

Judge Allyn L. Brown charged the jury when court came in Tuesday morning, speaking for about 45 minutes.

The jury returned its verdict after being out 70 minutes.

WEAK AND RUN-DOWN

After Serious Operation WINCARNIS Restores Her Strength

"Not long ago my daughter was obliged to undergo a serious operation which left her in a dreadfully weak and run-down condition. She had no appetite and was as white as a sheet. She really looked as if she had no blood left in her. She was also very nervous.

The doctor had given her some medicine to build her up but she did not seem able to get her strength back. In fact, her improvement was so slow that it had me mighty worried.

I heard about Wincarnis and got her a bottle. It worked wonders. She began to improve right from the start. It was simply wonderful how quickly she regained her strength and put on weight, and how the color came back to her cheeks."

HUNTER FURNISHES SENSATION WHEN HE BEATS LACOSTE IN NATIONALS

Germantown Cricket Club, Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 11—Francis T. Hunter, former Cornell tennis captain and finalist in the world's championship tournament at Wimbledon this year, won the sensational match of the second round play in the national lawn tennis singles championship on the courts of the Germantwon Cricket club this afternoon.

Trailing behind Rene Lacoste, the French schoolboy, in the first set, Hunter, by a sensational rally pulled out a victory in a five set match. The scores were 1-6, 6-2, 6-3, 1-6 and 6-3.

Hunter's victory, with its elimination of the French star, reduced the field of foreigners who will enter the third round tomorrow to four players. Of the twelve Americans who came through their matches today and continue in the tournament, all four members of the Davis cup team are included.

William T. Tilden, 2nd., national singles champion, romped to a victory in straight sets over Cedric Major, of New York; W. M. Johnston, world's champion, removed Jose Alonso, of Spain, from the tournament; Vincent Richards, of Yonkers, N. Y., won from Harvey Snodgrass, of Los Angeles and R. Norris Williams, of Philadelphia, advanced through default of Claude M. Butler, Mexican champion.

The four foreigners who won their matches today were B. I. C. Norton, the South African; Manuel Alonso, the dashing Spaniard, Jacques Brugnon, French Davis cup player, and F. R. Leighton Crawford, of England.

A warm, sunny and windless day made conditions ideal for players and spectators. Approximately seven thousand persons saw the sixteen matches played through in less than four hours. Only two going to five sets and several of them being finished in less than one hour.

Four of the matches were packed with sensations. In addition to the startling victory of Hunter, the triumph of Vincent Richards over Snodgrass, who had defeated him a month ago at Newport; the ease with which Tilden despatched his rival major in 40 minutes of play, following him only two games, and the ruthless manner in which Manuel Alonso put out Ian D. McInnes, youthful Davis cup player from Australia, stood out as features of the day.

Hunter owed his victory over Lacoste to his resourcefulness, physical condition and his courage in persisting in playing a net game in the face of his defeat in the fourth set. In the opening set Lacoste, starting fast, and cutting the ball down to Hunter's backhand with his own free swinging backhand stroke, tallied frequent aces and won easily, 6 to 1.

Manuel Alonso's victory was sensational. Pitted against a Davis cup player from Australia, young McInnes, the Spaniard had all his shots working ruthlessly and put his antagonist down with only two games. Alonso's marvellous soft drop shots found McInnes deep in the court. When the Australian tried to come to mid-court Alonso slashed past him for many placements.

Tilden's triumph was the work of a master of the game. Though opposed by a player far below his calibre, and playing a leisurely game in the back court, the tall champion showed marvellous command of his deep forehand shots.

William M. Johnston, America's second ranking player, was a slow starter against Jose Alonso of Spain, but after the first set the Californian drove with great precision and erred but seldom.

B. I. C. Norton, champion of South Africa, won as he pleased from Philip Neer, California collegian in three straight sets. Norton did not allow his opponent a game in the first set and then eased his play to save himself for later matches.

Wells Recovering From Bout

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 11—Billy Wells, welterweight champion, boxer of England, injured in last night's fight with Jimmy Jones, Youngstown, Ohio, was recovering today from a bruised back and a cut on the head, received when he and Jones fell out of the ring. He will leave tonight for Chicago. Jones who injured his leg, left today for Youngstown, where he fights Wednesday night.

WILLIAMS GETS TWO HOMERS AS PHILLIES WIN

Philadelphia, Sept. 11—"Cy" Williams of the Phillies hit two balls over the right field wall today for his 36th and 37th homers of the season aiding his teammates to an 11 to 3 victory over Brooklyn. He now leads Babe Ruth by two home runs.

Mitchell held the visitors safe until the ninth when, with two on base, Neis hit a home run saving his team from a shut out.

Metz made his big league debut at short for the Phillies and played a good game. Score:

PITTSBURGH GETS FIRMER HOLD ON SECOND PLACE

Cincinnati, Sept. 11— Pittsburgh strengthened its hold on second place by winning the final game of the series from Cincinnati today 4 to 3. Benton pitched well but his support in the early innings was ragged, errors accounting for three of the Pirates runs. Morrison held the locals to five hits two of which were triples by Duncan and Burns, which accounted for the three runs made off him it was Morrison's twenty-second victory of the season. Score:

ADVANCE SALE FOR CHAMPIONSHIP INDICATES NEW RECORD ATTENDANCE

New York, Sept. 11—New York has become the fight fan's mecca. The advance arrival today of boxing followers from various parts of the country, as well as from overseas, pointed to the gathering of one of the most cosmopolitan fight crowds in history when Jack Dempsey enters the ring at the Polo Grounds next Friday night to defend his heavyweight crown against the assault of Luis Angel Firpo.

It was indicated that from 16,000 to 30,000 spectators from beyond the limits of the metropolis will view the title struggle.

Preparations for handling the throng and arrangement of other details went forward rapidly today. More than 500 uniformed police, besides hundreds of plainclothesmen, will handle the crowd and special regulations were promulgated for the handling of traffic.

Weather predictions for the night of the fight were favorable but Rickard said that in event of postponement because of rain, the battle would be staged Saturday night.

Increased wagering on the outcome of the fight today was reported in sporting circles. One of the largest single bets reported was one of $2,000 to $2,000 that Dempsey would win by a knockout, the odds being at 7 to 5. Several wagers that Dempsey would win were made at odds of 2 1-2 to 1, a basis that has prevailed for several days. In addition, a few were reported at odds of 3 to 1 that Dempsey would win by a knockout in the first round.

If Luis Angel Firpo succeeds in dethroning Jack Dempsey as heavyweight king Friday night, his sensational rise to the top will eclipse the record of Jim Jeffries, to whom the Argentine mauler has been likened by many fistic experts.

Jeffries was just 22 years old when he set out to conquer the pugilistic world with his fists in 1897. Two years later he knocked out Bob Fitzsimmons for the champion in a gruelling eleven round encounter at Coney Island.

Firpo had achieved something of a reputation as a knocker-out in South America but it was not until early in 1922 that, raw and crude, he came to the United States in quest of laurels. Thus, from obscurity he has leaped in a year and a half to pugilistic fame and a chance to be crowned champion of them all.

DEMPSEY PRACTICALLY FINISHED WITH TRAINING

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Sept. 11—(By the A. P.)—Trained to a state of physical perfection, Jack Dempsey today virtually reached the end of his five weeks' training grind for the defense of his title against Luis Angel Firpo at the Polo Grounds, Friday night. The champion will wind up his conditioning tomorrow, exercising just enough to loosen up his muscles, but will not do any boxing.

Dempsey finished his boxing program this afternoon, with a four-round workout against a trio of sparring partners. Experts said at no stage of his training had he worked so impressively. He was lightning fast on his feet, tireless in his savage attack and his punches were timed perfectly. He set restraint aside while boxing two rounds with Jack Burke, the Pittsburgh light heavyweight, unleashing his punches with such fury that Burke, bleeding and groggy, was on the verge of collapse.

George West, British middleweight, and Alex Trambitis, middleweight of Portland, Oregon, were the champion's other sparring partners for a round apiece. They too, left the ring legweary and with bleeding mouths. The champion, in his boxing, appeared to be the Tigerish Dempsey of old. His teeth gleamed through a snarling scowl, his eyes flashed savagely, and he crowded into his sparring partners without regard for their ability to stand up under his terrific drives.

FIRPO DECLARED READY FOR HIS BIG BATTLE

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 11—(By the A. P.)—His mental and physical condition mirrored in his fire-sparkling eyes, Luis Firpo tonight was declared ready for his world's title match with Jack Dempsey in New York Friday and was placed "under wraps" until the sound of the battle bell.

As the day of the fight draws near Firpo's little band of faithful followers are growing more confident of victory. Already they have planned a banquet to celebration, employed an orchestra whose instruments are attuned to the "get in your bones" music of the Argentine and issued invitations. Already they have planned to take Firpo "the champion" away from the curious crowds. A trip to Canada is contemplated.

"Luis" they say, "will win inside of six rounds."

He sits in an easy chair in the parlor of his cottage home, taking keen interest in everything that is said about everything but fights. He will not talk "shop". He seems to take the attitude that the engagement with Dempsey will be like going to the landlord and trying to get the rent reduced, a tough job, but not impossible with the proper sort of argument.

Dan Washington, the trainer, pronounces Firpo in perfect condition. There were some knots in his muscles a week ago, especially in the left arm, but these have been whisked away under Dan's kneading fingers. There is no sign of the cut over the eye inflicted by Bill Brennan when he fought and was defeated by Firpo some months ago. His stomach seems like a piece of boiler plate and his legs are compared to those of Joe Stecher, the wrestler of "scissors" fame.

Firpo took all of his sparring mates on for one round apiece this afternoon. Frank Koebele speeded through the first round with the Argentine always on tp f him: John Lester Johnson tried to hit Firpo in the second round; Young Bob Fitzsimmons went a round at close quarters and Joe McCann swapped punches with the challenger in the final round. Firpo's blows always were held in leash.

TAURIDA WINS $10,000 STAKE AT SYRACUSE

Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 11—Taurida, Alonzo McDonald's fleet little bay mare, won the 2:03 empire state $10,000 trotting stake here this afternoon, the grand circuit feature, from a speedy field of six trotters beating out Clyde the Great and Favonian, the favorites.

Taurida, which was second to Tommy Murphy's Pearl Benboe at Hartford in the $10,000 Charter Oak stake last week, showed a wonderful burst of speed on the stretch in both the second and third heats. Favonian took the first heat after a brush with Tommy Murphy's Clyde the Great, Taurida placing third in this heat.

Taurida trotted the fastest competitive mile of her career in the second heat when she was clocked in 2:04 1-2.

The field was packed tight from pole to pole in every heat the Judges conferring at some length before a decision on first place was awarded in the second heat. In this heat, Murphy drove Clyde the Great down on the inside of the field until her head was crowding Taurida for the wire.

The Senator, with Lon McDonald up, won the three-year old trot with ease. Anna Bradford's girl, undefeated this season, was the class of the three year old pacing field.

Frisco June won the 2:04 pace in straight heats from Peter Blawah. Miss Eleanora Nell took the 2:18 pace, the final event on the day's program after placing third in the first heat. Just prior to the start of the Empire State trotting stake, Fayette National, ran away and crashed into the fence, upsetting McKay and breaking the sulky into fragments. Police in an attempt to stop the gelding crashed into Tommy Murphy, piloting Clyde the Great, upsetting the sulky and dumping Murphy to the track. Clyde the Great was captured after a short run when he was forced into the fence by a trooper. His flank was scraped and Murphy's shoulder was injured, but the pair went to the stables for repairs and reappeared to race in the $10,000 event.

NORFOLK TEAM SUSPENDED FROM ORGANIZED BASEBALL

Rock Island, Ill., Sept. 11—The suspension of the Norfolk, Virginia, baseball clubs from all rights and privileges under the national association of professional baseball clubs, as announced here by President M. H. Sexton, of the association will be considered by the national board of arbitration in Chicago, December 4, when the defendant club will be given the opportunity to show why the penalty should not be made permanent.

The suspension of the club was ordered by President Sexton as a penalty upon the fans of the Virginia league city who are alleged to have attacked an umpire on August 31. This is the first instance of baseball authority attempting to punish alleged unworthy patrons of the game.

COAL HEAVERS TAKE 10-INNING BATTLE FROM HILLIES

Worcester, Mass., Sept. 11—Worcester defeated Pittsfield today in a ten-inning game 4 to 3. Sterling Stryker pitched effectively throughout. Cholewa was effective until the closing innings. Roser put his team in the lead in the ninth by a home run over the right field fence. Conway tied the score in the same inning with a homer over the same fence. Stryker's single, two bunts and a hit by Conway scored winning run in the tenth. Score by innings:

DODGERS RELEASE TWO AND RECALL FOUR OTHERS

New York, Sept. 11—The Brooklyn National league club today announced the release of two players and the recall of four others who were placed out on options this year.

Those released are Catcher Bernard Hungling and Pitcher Clarence B. Brown, both of whom are sent unconditionally to the Des Moines club of the Western league. Those recalled are: Outfielder Turner Barber, from Atlanta; Infielder Walter Keely, from Greenville, S. C.; Infielder William Mullen, from Bridgeport, Conn.; and Infielder Ray Schmandt, from Houston, Texas; Mullen will report next week, but the others will not report until next spring at training camp.

INJURIES TO ZEV NOT CONSIDERED SERIOUS

New York, Sept. 11—Zev, three-year old champion regarded as America's likely choice in the international race October 20 with the English derby winner, Papyrus, will suffer no serious ill effects from the injury to a foot in the Lawrence Realization last Saturday, according to reliable reports today. The Rancocas stable's star, it was said, has shown no trace of lameness since "casting a frog" near the finish of that race.

Zev's next important stake engagement is in the Kentucky special at Latonia, October 6, and it was said Trainer Sam Hildreth expects to have the horse in form for that event.

Voluntown Beats Plainfield

Voluntown baseball team won from Plainfield Sunday afternoon by a score of 10 to 7 in an exciting game in which hits and errors figured prominently. Voluntown held the visitors scoreless until the fifth when a few passes and several errors accounted for four runs. From then on the game was close. The score:

LEONARD-DUNDEE FIGHT SLATED FOR SEPT. 28TH

New York, Sept. 11—The battle of the two champions is on again. Benny Leonard, lightweight king of the world and Johnny Dundee, wearer of the featherweight crown, will meet in the Yankee stadium, September 28.

Dundee appeared before the New York state athletic commission today and reversed his stand of a week ago when the bout was ordered postponed. The fight was to have taken place last Wednesday.

The postponement took place when Matchmaker Jimmy Johnston stated that Dundee was out of condition and that in justice to the public he should be given time to get in shape.

Dundee bitterly resented the statement that he was not in condition, and stated he was ready to fight Leonard then and would not meet him on any future date.

FIFTY-FIVE TURN OUT FOR FOOTBALL AT COLUMBIA

New York, Sept. 11—Fifty-five men turned out on Baker field today at Columbia university for the first day of pre-season football practice. Walter Koppisch, captain and star half back; Bill Johnson, an end, and Frank Brodil, captain of the crew, were the only members of last year's varsity to put in an appearance. Others are expected later.

Coach Haughton divided the squad, which is largely made up of last year's freshman and second squads, into line and back divisions and put them through their paces, with a result which he said was very encouraging. Of his five assistants four are Harvard men, and the squad is to be trained on the famous Haughton system, long used at Harvard.

Another Colgate Star Out

Hamilton, N. Y., Sept. 11—The losses of veteran players to the Colgate University football squad were augmented by two today. Jim Welsh, star guard of three seasons, pulled a tendon in practice. It is expected he will be out of the game at least half of the season, Trainer Rourke said.

Joe Bray, tackle, sustained a wrenched knee and will be out of the game indefinitely.

Tigers Beat Meadowbrook

Philadelphia, Sept. 11—The Tigers of India defeated the Meadowbrook Polo team, 9 goals to 7, in the international tournament at the Philadelphia Country club today.

BALTIC

Members of the Baltic Men's league connected with the M. E. church played their return game of bowls on their own green, which was in good condition, and proved a little too fast for the Plainfield bowlers, Saturday, Sept. 8th. Some very good games were played and an enjoyable time was spent by all. The Baltic team reversed the victory to their own account by 44 points, the individual scores being:

Baltic—Bailey 15, Stafford 15, L. Firth 13, Whitehead 15, Hallas 15, Barlowe 15, Hilton 15, Crawshawe 15, Ashworth 15, Marland 15, Hannon 10, W. Firth 12, Johnson 4, Taylor 0, Alguiste 15, Barnes 6, Wilcock 15, Fournier 15, Heap 13; total 241.

Plainfield—Collins 9, Kay 9, Rhodes 13, Watson 4, Kershaw 11, Baldwin 7, Eastham 8, Walker 12, Tetlow 7, S. Johnson 6, Oates 15, Beckitt 15, Headen 15, Lees 15, Hirst 8, Peterson 13, Higginbottom 6, Kershaw 7, H. Johnson 13; total 197.

Refreshments were served during the games. After these were over three rousing cheers were given for the losers by the winners. It is hoped that the interest in these two teams will continue to increase and so be the means of spreading it to other communities. Both of these clubs intend making improvements on their greens for the coming season.

The early Egyptians divided the day and night each into 12 hours, a custom adopted by the Jews and Greeks. The 12-hour division probably was connected in some way with the ancient duodecimal system of numbering.

WILLIAM E. JACKSON RESIGNS AS NEW LONDON COUNTY INVESTIGATOR

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, Sept. 11.—William E. Jackson, county investigator in New London and Windham counties and recognized as one of the most competent detectives in New England, is to end his connection with the office of States Attorney Hadlai A. Hull here the latter part of this month, it became known today when it was announced that Mr. Jackson had tendered his resignation and would finish his duties about the 24th inst. Mr. Jackson's successor will be William Lewis, until a few weeks ago a special agent in the employ of the Central Vermont railroad, who has already received his appointment and will take up his new duties as soon as Mr. Jackson's resignation becomes effective. Mr. Jackson will devote his entire investigating in the future to Windham county where he has worked under States Attorney Charles E. Searles for several years.

Mr. Jackson, prior to being investigator for both counties, was a state police officer and was assigned to many important cases in New London county. He resigned from the state police department at the outbreak of the world war, and was appointed investigator for States Attorney Hull and a few months afterwards received the appointment of investigator also for States Attorney Searles.

The body of James Flynn, son of Mrs. Mary Flynn of 28 Brewer street, whose death occurred in a New York hospital two weeks ago following his receiving fatal injuries in a street fight, has arrived in New London for burial in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery. At the time of Mr. Flynn's death his relatives were not known to the New York authorities, although he was known to have kin in Connecticut. It was revealed that his home was in New London a week after the man had been buried, but arrangements were quickly made for the disinterment of the body and its transfer to the New London cemetery.

The funeral of Margaret B., wife of Frederick Frazier, was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church where a mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Alexander Wollschlaeger. The bearers were Timothy Sullivan, Daniel Cunningham, William Getters, Michael White, George Jennings and Edward McLaughlin. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Hugh McPartland, 3rd, 17, son of Hugh McPartland, Jr., of Bank street, was taken into custody this morning by Detective Sergeant Charles Hammon, charged with taking an automobile without permission of the owner, John Siderits of 10 New street.

The car was taken from the Siderits garage on Ledyard street yesterday afternoon by McPartland, who went for a long ride with friends. During the joyride the car collided with a tree and was badly damaged. The machine was recently purchased by Siderits. McPartland arrived back home during the early morning hours and placed the car in the garage. This morning when Siderits went to the garage, his gaze fell upon the machine minus its top, one set of mudguards and running board and the body badly disfigured where the car had come in contact with a tree. After McPartland had been arrested he confessed his guilt. He was not prosecuted in the police court this morning, but tomorrow he will probably be committed to a boys' home.

New London is to have another company of militia, for a company of infantry is being formed and plans are under way for obtaining the quota at an early date. Allen B. Lundin will be captain and Robert A. Keefe first lieutenant of the company, which will be known as Headquarters Co. 25, Infantry Brigade. At present there is a company of artillery in New London, but there has not been an infantry company located here in many years.

An automobile owned by Albert F. Mix of Bellevue place, employed by the Merritt-Chapman-Scott wrecking Company, knocked down Miss Weona Brusseau, 18, of 83 Willetta Avenue on the latter thoroughfare late yesterday afternoon. The girl was attended by a physician, but her injuries were not serious.

John J. Maloney, 68, residing at 28 Stony Hill, died this afternoon at his home, where he had been in ill health three months. Mr. Maloney, who was a marine engineer is survived by his widow and five children, Mrs. Mary Hurley, Mrs. Raymond Chatt, Mrs. Harold P. Johnston and Miss Catherine Maloney, also John Maloney, a telegraph operator in the employ of the New Haven railroad at New London. A brother, who is a resident of Lawrence, Mass., and one grandchild also survive. Mr. Maloney was employed on the sound steamers of the New England Steamship Company thirteen years and sixteen years on the steamers of the H. C. Rowe company of New Haven. He gave up active labors about five years ago. He was a member of New London local, Marine Engineers, No. 62, and New England Workmen, of Providence. He wrote verses of considerable merit and frequently contributed his work to New London newspapers.

Funeral services for Luther Valentine of Richards street, whose death occurred Sunday at a New Haven hospital, were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at 43 Shapley street. Rev. Joseph A. Elder, pastor of the Huntington Street Baptist church, officiated. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Mrs. Eta V. Mossbroker, wife of Charles Mossbroker of Waterford, died last night at her home, following a lingering illness.

The funeral of Charles E. Jeffery, a resident at the Golden Spur and formerly residing in New London, was held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the residence of his brother-in-law, Thomas H. McCarthy, 1 Farnsworth street. Rev. Myron D. Center, pastor of the Methodist church, officiated. The bearers were members of the Knights of Pythias. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Charity Commissioner Marenda Prentis has resumed her duties at the municipal building after a vacation of two weeks, spent in South Athol, Mass., Watertown and Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Murphy have returned after visiting in Hoboken, Jersey City and New York.

Miss Edith Smith, private secretary to Benjamin L. Armstrong, has returned, having visited her parents in Hartford.

Miss Catherine Linehan, employed by the internal revenue department at Washington, has concluded a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Linehan.

Mrs. Charlotte Foss and daughters, Misses Charlotte C. and Helen Foss, and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lundin, have returned from a motor trip to Cape Cod.

Mrs. Eva R. Dickson of No. 101 Truman street has returned, having visited her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. J. Courtland Dickson of New York.

The funeral of Hannah A. Cleary, widow of William A. Tooker, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at 15 Masonic street. Services were conducted by Rev. Philip M. Kerridge, rector of St. James Episcopal church. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Mrs. Paul Winslow and infant son of Waterford, Andrew Antoniak, of East Lyme, Mrs. Alfred Garrett and infant daughter, Cottage street, and Mrs. Charlotte Nelson of West Pleasant street, patients at Lawrence hospital, were discharged today.

The annual meeting of the trustees of the Methodist church was held last evening in the church parlors. Stephen A. Prentis was chairman and Fred J. Smith was clerk. The meeting elected the following trustees: For three years, Alton T. Miner, Samuel E. Bittner and Charles F. Bradshaw; two years, John P. Kennedy, Walter A. Calvert and Charles L. Ockford; one year Stephen A. Prentis, Harry R. Tisdale and Thomas W. Phillips.

Because of the result of the annual city election Monday when two of the three candidates for the office of councilor, William C. Fox and Lucius E. Whiton, were elected, but one councilor will be elected to office at the second election, on the 24th inst. The candidates will be Henry S. Dorsey and Waldo E. Clarke for these candidates obtained the highest votes other than those cast for Messrs. Fox and Whiton. In the case of the office of school visitor three candidates were nominated and there were that number of offices to be filled, but because of E. Victor Goldsmith not receiving a majority of the votes cast, he will be a candidate at the election two weeks hence. Frederick W. Edgerton and Dr. Joseph M. Ganey were the other candidates and they were elected. Mrs. Annie C. S. Feuner, a former member of the city council, having received four votes for school visitor, her name having been written in on the ballots, she will be the opponent of Mr. Goldsmith, for the charter provides that at the second election that there will be twice as many candidates as there are offices to fill and that the candidates shall be those who obtained the highest vote other than the candidates elected.

The Civil League tendered City Manager James E. Barlow a banquet this evening at the Hotel Mohican, as his resignation will become effective next Saturday. The banquet was informal and several speeches were made by city officials, members of the league and Mr. Barlow.

Roland J. Brantner has been called to Rockford, Wis., because of the serious illness of his mother.

Continued improvement is manifested in the condition of Philip E. Douglass, instructor at Bulkeley High school, who has been ill at the home of his mother, Mrs. Annabel Douglass of Jay street, by lethargic encepalitis—sleeping sickness.

Police Captain Pinney last evening had officers stationed in front of several places in the business center of the city. All night, till the places closed the officers were at the doors or near enough to see who entered and who came out, and if the officers thought the conditions warranted they went into the places and looked about. Today the orders were made more stringent and the officers were directed to go into the places and to stay there till relieved. Some of the proprietors resent this sort of method of cleaning up the liquor situation, alleging that their business is interfered with by the presence of the policemen.

David Soltz, who recently bought the Dimon house on Montauk avenue, is putting a new roof on the building and is doing other repair work.

WESTMINSTER

The foggy morning, which kept some from starting, cleared into an ideal day for Westminster's Old Home patriotic day, and the latter part of the forenoon found many in her church. In the devotional service Mrs. Davies read the scripture from a very large leather covered Bible, considerably older than the 163 year old church, it having been owned by its first pastor, Rev. Mr. Staples, who received it as an heirloom from his father. A touching prayer by one of Westminster's sons, William Barstow, of Plainfield, followed; the hymns All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name and Nearer, My God, to Thee, having been sung in the service. The pastor, Rev. T. Edward Davies, gave the welcome, this being followed by the speech of Lincoln at Gettysburg, given by Elmer Stahlberg, and a reading, Our Flag, Henry L. Redfield of New York author, by Earl MacLeod. It had been hoped that N. Searle Light, state director of rural education, would give the address. Being engaged elsewhere, Mr. Light sent as substitute Supt. L. C. Staples of Ellington, who gave a remarkably good address on Some Lessons from the American Revolution that was followed with close attention. This address had been preceded by the salutes to the national and to the Christian flags by children present. Miss Nellie Colburn read an original poem entitled The Little White Church which was much appreciated by all.

The last number of the morning's program consisted of reminiscences of the 60 years' residence here, given by A. C. Greene of Danielson, a vigorous man 95 years young, and was an especially interesting account, chiefly concerned with the history of Westminster church edifice. After the hymn Faith of Our Fathers Living Still and the Mizpah benediction, the audience left the church for lunch and a social time on the church green, in numerous cases renewing friendships after many years of separation.

Leslie B. Murray of Danielson, who was to cater for those desiring to purchase lunches, was very late in arriving, due to the breakdown of his automobile en route and having to find a horse and cart. He received the commendation of all for bravely continuing to Westminster, the day proving a heavy loss to him.

The afternoon exercises were at the cemetery and were also well attended. The small platform was between two trees, one draped with bunting, which also extended back of the platform, the other tree bearing a large United States flag. The 26 Revolutionary soldiers' graves each bore a flag in its marker. Albert Pellett was chairman of the afternoon. The program consisted of an address, by George Hale Nutting of Boston, a trustee of the National Sons of the American Revolution and a former president of the Massachusetts society. Mr. Nutting spoke briefly of several other S. A. R. pilgrimages to points of great interest, and then presented the 26 markers in the Westminster cemetery to the Ecclesiastical society and town of Canterbury, all present standing at salute while he read the names.

A. C. Greene, who collected the cemetery fund while residing here, followed in a brief speech of acceptance, promising on behalf of the Ecclesiastical society to care for the markers and to supply flags for Memorial day when needed.

Mrs. Henry Dorrance in a fascinating manner described the identification of the graves, reminding her audience of the many other graves of veterans in 12 public and several private "yards" of Westminster and the whole town (one with bronze marker in the Spicer private cemetery close at hand); also adding many most interesting items of history concerning Westminster's important part in the Revolution. It is hoped Mrs. Dorrance's paper may appear in print for the benefit of others not present and interested in this history.

Mrs. Lillian Frink, a town representative in the last general assembly, gave a short patriotic talk, telling especially of an aged veteran she had met in Hartford.

Patriotic songs rendered by Arthur Edmond on his large phonograph between the addresses added much to the enjoyment of the program, which concluded with an Historic Ode to the Men Who Made and Kept Us Free by Mrs. T. Edward Davies, followed by all present standing and uniting in the national salute.

A registry was kept in the vestibule of the church, where guests entered names and addresses. The records show an attendance of 191 from 33 town and cities and four states, seven places in Massachusetts being among them. All present seemed to thoroughly enjoy the day.

To the regret of all, State Librarian George S. Godard, who expected to be present and to give an address in the afternoon, was unable to do so. A letter received by the chairman of the committee states, under date of Sept. 4, "I cannot tell you just how I felt last evening, after working all Labor day, when the library was closed, to prepare what I should like to give on an occasion like yours, to discover the date for the occasion was Sept. 3. I had some way misunderstood it was Sept. 4th. Had I been advised, I would have sent something ahead, as I knew Labor day the only time I could get for preparation. Should you desire, I will have my address sent you, for some future occasion."

Glenwood

Makes Cooking Easy

"I never knew I was such a good cook"

AND I'll have to give most of the credit to our new Glenwood range, it certainly has made a difference in my cooking. I'm spending less time in the kitchen, too."

"It's a relief to have a range that doesn't need to be coaxed to cook."

* * * *

A Glenwood comes as near to making cooking a pleasure as any range can. It does make cooking easy, which is really more important.

The Model "C" Glenwood is illustrated here.

Its big square oven bakes food exactly right—top, bottom and clear through. The balanced baking damper and the Glenwood Patent Indicator take care of that—you can't make a mistake.

Like every Glenwood, the Model "C" is built for a lifetime of service. It will give you a new idea of how easy it is to be a good cook.

TWO SPECIAL VALUES FOR WEDNESDAY IN THE APPAREL SHOP

CLEANING UP A SMALL LOT OF

VOILE DRESSES

$2.00

A house dress of fair quality could not be bought for this price, but rather than carry this small lot over until another season, we have cut the prices to this ridiculous figure. It is a price which will insure their removal.

Even though the weather will not permit their use on the street, you will find many occasions when one of them may be worn. Figured, dotted and solid color voiles will be found, but the sizes are mostly small, and we advise an early choice.

Tub Silks—Printed Crepes

Values to $19.95

$3.95

To clear our racks of the remainder of printed crepe and tub silk dresses (there are not many in the lot), they will be offered Today for $3.95.

The dresses, for the most part, are suitable for misses or small women, with a few of the larger sizes only. As these dresses sell as high as $19.95 during the height of the season there is no doubt that they will be disposed of early in the day.

IN THE BOYS' SHOP

Another Lot of Boys' Gabardine Raincoats

Very heavily rubberized. A smart belted model after the military fashion, with two side patch pockets. All are olive drab in color, and of a type which will please the boy. The coats are actually worth $5.00 .....

MARKET WAS FIRM.

New York, Sept. 11.—Stock prices displayed a firm tone in today's market but principal activity centered in a few shares subject to special influences. Speculators for the advance continued to use the favorable foreign news as an excuse for bidding up their favorites, but there seemed to be a disposition on the part of many traders and the outside public to await more definite developments.

Foreign exchanges made the best response to cable dispatches that conversations looking to a settlement of the reparations question were in progress between German and French officials. Demand sterling, which was heavy last week in the expectation that the Japanese disaster would result in heavy British insurance company losses and unusually large drafts on London, advanced one cent to $4.54 7-8. French francs jumped 12 points to 5.79 cents and Belgian francs moved up 13 1-2 points to 4.79 cents. German marks sold around 1 1-2 cents a million.

Sugar shares were active and strong on higher commodity prices. American Beet Sugar Preferred advanced 3 points; South Porto Rican, 1 3-4, and Cuba Cane Preferred and Punta Alegre about a point each. Strength of the tobacco issues was attributed to reports of a merger between British and American companies.

Transactions in Coaden Oil comprised nearly one-tenth of the day's business, the stock closing 3 1-4 points higher at 32 7-8. Buying of this issue was attributed in some quarters to the maintenance of the dividend, previously reported in danger, and in others to the resumption of negotiations for a merger with the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana.

Strength of New York Central, which closed nearly 2 points higher at 103 3-4, was based on reports of large current earnings. Most of the southern rails continued strong on the more favorable economic outlook in the south in connection with the recent spirited advance in cotton prices. Davison Chemical, whose erratic fluctuations have been a feature of recent markets, advanced 4 1-2 points, some of the buying representing short covering. U. S. Alcohol was strong in response to an increase in the price of commercial alcohol.

Postum Cereal, which was strong yesterday, dropped back 2 1-2 points today. American Cotton Oil issues lost ground in reflection of the proposed reorganization on plan published today.

Call money held steady at 5 per cent all day. Time money was unchanged, 5 1-2 per cent being quoted for all maturities. Out-of-town banks are the principal buyers of Commercial Paper, the ruling rate for prime names being somewhat firmer at 5 1-2 per cent, although some 5 1-4 per cent paper is still in the market.

BOND MARKET.

New York, Sept. 11.—The bond market displayed a firm tone in today's dealings, with moderate advances in practically all classes of securities.

Chief interest again centered in the foreign group. Hopeful news from abroad, both as to the Italian-Greek situation and the Ruhr problem brought considerable buying into the market, advances of a point or more being recorded by Bordeaux 6s, Lyons 6s, Paris, Lyons & Mediterranean 6s, and Belgian 7 1-2s. United States government bonds held steady. Reports to New York banks indicated the new offering of treasury certificates would be oversubscribed.

Railroad mortgages were irregular, Lehigh Valley 6s moving up a point while New York, Westchester & Boston 4 1-2s, Chicago Great Western 4s and Minneapolis & St. Louis refunding 4s each declined a point or more. Other changes were fractional with gilt edged mortgages holding firm.

A better tone was noted in industrial liens. Advances of a point or more were registered by North American Edison 6s, Humble Oil 6 1-2s, Colorado Industrial 5s and American Telephone & Telegraph Convertible 4s.

Liberty Bonds.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, Sept. 11.—Wheat ignored tradition today and declined in price. According to a popular belief, this was a regular calendar date for the beginning of a bear campaign. Besides, Canadian hedging sales were said to be enlarging. The market closed unsettled, 1-4c@3-8c. to 3-4c. net lower. December 1.05 3-8 to 1.05 1-2, and May 1.10 3-4 to 1.10 -8. Corn finished at a range varying from 5-8c. decline to 1-8c@1-4c. advance, oats 1-8c down, and provisions at 10c lower, to 5c gain.

Predisposed to be bearish today because backed by experience in former years, wheat traders showed from the outset a quite general tendency to lean to the bear side of the market. The fact that the government crop report showed a larger yield of domestic spring wheat than had recently been looked for counted as an additional influence on values, but aside from the calendar the chief incentive to sell came from indications that the Canadian crop movement would rapidly increase unless weather conditions became very unfavorable. In this connection gossip was current that considerable Canadian wheat would be imported into this country at a profit, and be delivered on Minneapolis December contracts, duty-paid.

Something of a right-about-face in the wheat market here took place during the late trading, however, and part of the price declines which had been witnessed earlier were offset. Shorts found offerings surprisingly light toward the end of the day, and rallies were encouraged by reports that about 1,000,000 bushels had been bought to go to Europe, mostly Canadian wheat for deferred shipment.

Corn and oats averaged lower in sympathy with wheat. The bearish aspect of the government report as to corn was also given attention.

Provisions lacked support, despite higher quotations on hogs.

CURB MARKET.

New York, Sept. 11.—Stock prices were firm in today's more active curb market. Gains while general throughout the list were only moderate.

Renewed talk of a merger of British and American Tobacco interests influenced buying of British American Tobacco Coupons which moved up fractionally to 24 3-4, a new high for the year. Glen Alden Coal and Reading Coal rights also were in demand, each advancing fractionally. Durant Motors gained nearly a point. Gillette Safety Razor fell off a point.

Oil shares, with few exceptions, moved to higher ground in rather active trading. Standard Oils of Indiana and New York improved fractionally while Kansas dropped fractionally. Prairie Oil & Gas gained 2 1-2 points, Cities Service 1 1-2, and Imperial Oil of Canada 1.

Mining shares displayed a firm tone but net changes were relatively unimportant.

MONEY.

New York, Sept. 11.—Call money firmer; high 5; low 5; ruling rate 5; closing bid 4; offered at 5 1-4; last loan 5; call loans against acceptances 4 1-2.

COTTON.

New York, Sept. 11.—Cotton-spot quiet; middling 29.45.

METAL MARKET.

New York, Sept. 11.—Copper firmer; electrolytic, spot and nearby 13 7-8; futures 13 7-8@14. Tin firm; spot and nearly 42.37; futures 42.12. Iron steady; prices unchanged. Lead steady; spot 6.75@7.00. Zinc steady; East St. Louis spot and nearby delivery 6.55. Antimony, spot 7.45@7.55.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

The Giant's Castle.

"Now you wait a few minutes," said the giant who kept the bridge to Lollypop Town, as I mentioned in the last story. "As soon as the sun goes down, my son will come to take my place, and then we'll all go to my house for supper."

As soon as the good-natured pig had driven his team of dogs under a shady chestnut tree, the little bear and the monkey jumped out to play on the grass and Little Jack Rabbit sat down to talk to the giant. And while everyone was busy, the driver pig gave each dog a bone.

Well, by and by, the giant's son arrived and after giving him the key to the bridge gate, the giant said:

"Follow me to my castle," and off he started, but goodness me, he took such great big long strides that the dogs had to run as fast as they could to keep up with him.

On reaching the house, the giant took from his pocket an immense key and opened the gate leading into the garden.

Now, the giant had a very wicked wife who hated animals, and as soon as she saw Little Jack Rabbit and his friends she made plans to harm them, but, of course, she didn't say anything about that to her giant husband. Oh, my no! She never told him anything.

When the dog team was made comfortable in the great stables, Little Jack Rabbit, the little bear, the monkey and the big driver went to meet Mrs. Giant, who treated them in a very friendly way, although all the time she was saying to herself: "I'll make a fine roast of the pig and delicious bear steaks of the bear. The monkey's skin will make me a nice fur jacket. As for the little rabbit, well—I'll think over what I'll do with him." Then she strode down to the kitchen to see the chef, which is French for cook, you know.

After the giant had taken them all over the house he led them upstairs to comb their hair and wash their paws. But, just as soon as he had gone down to the hall, a little poll parrot began to sing in a low voice:

"Be careful of the giant's wife,
She's always stirring up some strife.
She makes believe she's fond of you
And then some kind of harm she'll do.
So, please be careful of your life
And look out for the giant's wife."

Goodness me! When Little Jack Rabbit and his friends heard that, they looked at each other in terror.

"Let's leave at once," whispered the pig.

"Let's tell the giant," said the little bear.

"Let's climb out of the window," suggested the monkey.

"Leave everything to me," cried the bunny boy pointing to his little magic gold ring and his flaming magic feather.

Just then the giantess called out in a loud voice:

"Come down for supper."

And in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

DODGE BROTHERS TOURING CAR

The comfort and beauty of this new touring car are instantly apparent.

Long underslung springs, deeper seats and greater body length have resulted in an unusual degree of riding ease.

The body is exceptionally trim and graceful. Swung low to the road, with long, straight hood-and-cowl effect and tasteful appointments, the car reveals new value and sound workmanship in every detail.

The engine—which remains essentially the same—needs no eulogy. It has proved its power and economy to nearly a million owners.

The Price is $830 f. o. b. Detroit
$965 Delivered.

A Little Talk On Courtesy

By THE VETERAN MOTORIST

EVERY motorist who prides himself on being a better-than-average driver knows how important the matter of courtesy is. A whole flock of seemingly little things distinguish really good drivers from only average or fair ones.

Consideration for pedestrians, especially those on the sidewalk, is one of those little things. How often you see a driver go breezing up close to the curb full speed right through a puddle of water. He could have avoided it. But no, he has that darned, "don't care" habit, and a woman has a new dress or expensive cleaning job to pay for. I don't get sore very often. But that particular kind of thoughtlessness always gives me a sharp pain under the collar.

It doesn't cost a red cent to be courteous, and it pays big in the self-respect you get out of it—always.

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Norwich, within and for the District of Norwich, on the 11th day of September, A. D. 1923.

Present—NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.

Estate of Arthur G. Jenkins, late of Norwich, in said District, deceased.

Sadie E. Jenkins of Norwich, Conn., appeared in Court and filed a petition praying, for the reasons therein set forth, that an instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased be admitted to probate.

Whereupon, It Is Ordered, That said petition be heard and determined at the Probate Court Room in the City of Norwich, in said District, on the 18th day of September, A. D. 1923, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, and that notice of the pendency of said petition, and of said hearing thereon, be given by the publication of this order one time in some newspaper having a circulation in said District, at least two days prior to the date of said hearing, and that return be made to this Court.

NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.

VETERAN TUBS COMPETING AT KINGSTON FAIR

The last day of Little Rhody's "big fair," at Kingston next Friday will be made a banner one through the feature attraction of the grand firemen's muster. Ten of New England's most famed venteran tubs have already sent in their entries, and it is expected that at least five more will send in their applications before the list closes tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. All hand engine organizations are invited to attend.

A total of $1,000, divided into 14 prizes, is offered by the committee, as follows: First, $250; second, $175; third, $135; fourth, $100; fifth, $75; sixth, $60; seventh, $50; eighth, $40; ninth, $30; tenth, $20; eleventh, $15; and twelfth, $10. A special prize of $25 will be awarded to the end stroke engine playing the longest stream, and another of the same amount to the organization with engine coming the longest distance by rail or water route.

The muster will be held regardless of weather and the committee assures the entrants that the parade, which will form on the playing grounds at 10.45 o'clock, will start positively at 11 o'clock for a march once around the half-mile race track at the fair grounds. It is stipulated that all the contestants must parade with engine and horses will be provided where necessary. The playout will commence at 12.30 o'clock and prizes will be paid immediately following the judges' decision.

The following tubs have already sent in their entries: Protector, Brockton, Mass.; Enterprise, Campello; Defiance, Riverside; Washington, No. 1, Wickford; Volunteer, East Greenwich; Protection, No. 1, Brookville, Mass.; Star, No. 1, Westerly; Nonantum, Providence; Hancock, Brockton, Mass.; and Aberdeen, Wakefield.

Strand, Thursday, Friday, Saturday.

The B. F. Keith vaudeville scheduled for the Strand the last half of this week is as follows:

Ross, Mayne & Co. offer a comedy novelty. Ted and Corrine Breton appear in "The Liars' Convention." Jack McGowan is an excellent comedian and Buchanan & Brower close the bill with a comedy skit.

The too drastic reform idea gets a body blow in "The Town Scandal," a Universal attraction starring Gladys Walton, which will be shown at the Strand theatre Thursday. The picture was adapted to the screen by Hugh Hoffman from the Cosmopolitan story, "The Chicken That Came Home to Roost," by Frederick Arnold Kummer, and has all of the flavor of the original. The picture was directed by King Baggot.

It is all about a pretty girl from a small town who gets a job in the chorus of a Broadway musical revue. She is promoted to the queen position of the chorus and is the hit of the show. In New York the business heads of the old home town lavished candy and flowers on the pretty little girl who danced so daintily. But they shied when she came back home during the summer vacation and asked for a position.

The matrons of the Purity League gave the chorus girl "the razz" just on general principles. She was a chorus girl, so she must be bad. And that was that. But when the matrons learned that their husbands had more than a business interest up in the city they swamped the local "general" store with orders for rolling pins.

△ News Weekly will also be seen.

Electric Lights On the Farm.

And what tremendous hardships the world would suffer, if this modern force were lost to us! Such a suggestion is silly, of course, for the world is not going to do without electricity. In the natural progress of events, we are going to use more and more of this magic "White Coal," someone has been pleased to call it, and people and whole communities are going to be blessed and benefited accordingly.

One of the great important developments of the past half-dozen years has come with the introduction of electricity onto the farms of this country. Before that time, while cities were going ahead, using electricity in their industries and in their homes, farm homes were struggling along without its magic influence. With the invention and improvement of the individual farm electric plant, however, thousands and thousands of farm homes have come to know the advantage of electric lights and electric power, of running water and the other conveniences that stamp a home as modern.

The Delco-Light company, pioneers in the farm electric industry, who operate the largest factory in the world for the manufacture of these plants have just announced a new plan, which is bound to be of vital importance to every farmer and his family who have been longing and planning to have electricity in their own home.

This plan provides, it was explained, for the installation, complete of an electric plant and battery, wiring of the home for ten lights, ten complete drop lights installed, with bulbs in place and a special electric socket for connecting up motors and other electric appliances.

Bradley Theatre, Putnam.

Tomorrow night will be a real Irish night at the Bradley theatre, Putnam, for then Walter Scanlan will make his bow in his new play, "The Blarney Stone." The sale of seats has been a large one and this promises to be the largest audience that the popular Irish acter-singer has ever played before in this city. There are several large theatre parties coming from out of town, admirers of Mr. Scanlan from Norwich, Danielson and other places.

"The Blarney Stone" is a brand new production, every piece of scenery and every costume having just come from the hands of the makers. It has been the policy of Mr. Gatto to provide his star with a new play and a new production every season. The public likes new plays as it likes to read new books, hence the policy of Mr. Scanlan's manager.

For those who enjoy delicious Irish wit, good, wholesome sentiment, and interesting story and haunting Irish melodies, "The Blarney Stone" will be a treat. Mr. Scanlan's singing is too well known here to need comment and when it is stated that he has a good half dozen songs in which to display that magnificent tenor voice of his, enough has been said to guarantee a performance that will be well worth seeing. Among the songs to be sung by the popular star are "A Bit o' Pink and White," "Kitty," "The Minstrel's Prayer," "When I Kissed the Blarney Stone," "A Shamrock Flirtation," and "The Top o' the Mornin'."

In addition to providing a wealth of beautiful scenic effects for the embellishment of the play, Manager George M. Gatto has brought together a company of fine artists for the support of the star and among the players are Helen Smith, Margaret McCarthur, Emerin Campbell, Jack McClellan, Pat Raffety, Ivan Christy, Jack Kearney, Larry Wood and Matt McNally.

THE WEATHER.

Winds.

North of Sandy Hook and Sandy Hook to Hatteras. Light variable and weather fair Wednesday.

Conditions.

The air pressure was quite uniformerly distributed over the United States Tuesday night but with centers of relatively high pressure over New England. The weather has become warmer in the lower lake region and considerably cooler over the upper Mississippi valley.

Temperatures are now below the normal over the northern, and approximately normal over the southern states, east of the Rocky Mountains.

There have been scattered showers within the last 24 hours in the South Atlantic states and in the region of the Great Lakes.

In New England and New York, the weather will be fair Wednesday except that it will be unsettled with possibly showers along the northern border and cloudy and unsettled with a continuation of moderate temperature throughout Thursday. In the Middle Atlantic states the weather will be partly cloudy Wednesday and unsettled Wednesday night and Thursday, with moderate temperature. In the South Atlantic and East Gulf states the weather will be generally fair Wednesday and Thursday, except that showers are probable in the Floria Peninsula.

Forecast.

For southern New England: Fair Wednesday; Thursday cloudy; moderate temperature.

Observations in Norwich.

NORWICH EMPLOYMENT BUREAU FOUND PLACES FOR 147

A total of 3104 situations secured against a total of 3935 applications for employment and 3636 employers' requests for workers, is shown in the report of the Free Employment bureau of the State Bureau of Labor for the month of August, issued Tuesday.

Situations supplied male applicants for employment, in percentage ran slightly under the July figures: 1735 or 74.3 per cent. of 2334 applying being placed as against 75.4 per cent. in the month preceding. Of 1601 women applying, 1369 or 85.5 per cent. were assigned to situations as against 84.2 per cent. during July.

New Haven led in number of applications, with 1089, with situations supplied, 980 and also in the number of positions offered by employers which totalled 1105. Waterbury came second with 213 applications, but fourth in number of situations provided, having but 586. Hartford applications for employment totalled 867; 716 jobs provided and 867 situations were offered by employers.

Bridgeport applicants for employment totalled 840; 674 were placed and 716 situations offered. Aplicants in Norwich numbered 227; 147 were placed and 200 applications for help by employers were recorded.

In Waterbury only did the number of women seeking situatons exceed the number of male applicants. 573 women applied as against 339 men. Employers in Waterbury offered 748 situations.

LONG SEPARATED BROTHERS MEET IN BINGHAMPTON

(Special to the Bulletin)

Binghampton, N. Y., Sept. 11.—Three brothers, Frank L. Humes of No. 43 Walnut street, Elias M. Humes of the Y. M. C. A., both of this city, and Charles H. Humes of Plainfield, Conn., met for the first time in many years at the home of Frank Humes here last Thursday. Elias and Charles had not seen each other for 58 years and Frank and his brother from Connecticut had not visited for the past 17 years. With only a few hundred miles which separate Binghampton and Plainfield, friends of the family say it is unusual that the brothers have not seen each other for such a long time. The visit of the brother and his family from Plainfield was a complete surprise to Elias Humes.

Boyhood days of before the Civil War were discussed by the long-separated brothers. Charles Humes is 79 years old. He and a brother, Emory, who is dead, fought together in the Civil War. The latter brother would be 81 years old were he alive today.

The Humes family home was in Thompson, Conn., Frank and Elias said in relating of the facts of the meeting of the three brotheers. They said when their mother died, one by one they left home to take up occupations in other cities. Elias came to Binghampton to be followed by his brother, Frank. Charles took up his residence in Norwich, Conn. and later in Plainfield, Conn.

Pawtucket, R. I. was the last meeting place of Elias and Charles. That was in 1865 at the close of the Civil War. Frank visited his brother Charles 17 years ago, and although they have communicated by mail, he has not seen him since. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Humes, their daughter, Mrs. Phillips, and their grandson and two grand-daughters were in the party which motored to Binghampton.

ART STUDENTS BEGIN SEASON OF MEETINGS

The Norwich Art Students Association held its first fall meeting on Monday evening in the Slater hall annex.

The business meeting was opened by the President, Mrs. W. Tyler Browne, and was devoted to the usual business procedure. Eight new members were admitted, and the resignation of one old member was regretfully accepted.

An agreeable and varied program had been provided for the rest of the evening.

The first number was a dance by one of the pupils of Mrs. Edward Andrews, entitled "The Herald of Peace." The dancer, Miss Emily Ridwell, was graceful and spirituelle in her performance and was heartily applauded.

This was followed by a melodious flute solo, by Miss Lois Caswell of Willimantic, accompanied by Mrs. Caswell.

Mrs. Charles T. Bard then sang "Joy of the Morning," composed by Harriet Ware, accompanied by Frederick W. Lester. An encore was demanded to which Mrs. Bard responded with a charming little song entitled, "Jerusahy".

Two more of Mrs. Andrew's pupils then delighted their audience. Little Miss Dolly Edmonds was charming in "A Waltz Caprice," which was followed by a Japanese National Dance, "Saibara," a gracefully demure performance by Miss Ruth Brown.

Another flute solo by Miss Caswell was received with enthusiasm. Mrs. Bard then sang delightfully the song "Until You Came," and to the great pleasure of her audience she gave as an encore, "The Banjo Song," by Sidney Homer.

This was followed by a dance "The Vintage" by Miss Lois Latimer, which was beautifully executed and costumed, a fitting ending to a delightful program.

The refreshment table was cheerfully autumnal with its decoration of yellow flowers, and was the nucleus for the half hour of sociability which concluded the evening.

GERMANY REALIZES THE FUTILITY OF PASSIVE RESISTANCE IN THE RUHR

Chancellor Stresemann Announces That Germany is Ready to Give Real Guarantees in Order to Secure the Freedom of the Ruhr—Declares the Ruhr Dispute Cannot be Solved by a Continuance of Passive Resistance, Nor Settled by Military Force.

Berlin, Sept. 12.—(By The A. P.)—Tacitly admitting that the Ruhr fight had been lost and that there could be no prospect of the internal reconstitution of Germany until the foreign conflict had been adjusted, Chancellor Stresemann tonight remarked to a gathering of editors: "Candor is preferable to illusion, and Germany desires to speak out plainly."

Informal contact with the occupying powers had revealed the gravity of the existing differences, which, he said, primamily involved the question of German sovereignty and the restoration to Germany of complete administrative freedom in the Ruhr.

The chancellor's speech did not contain a direct reference to readiness on the part of Germany to call off passive resistance unconditionally, but presented a more precise formulation of the nature of the productive guarantees which Germany was prepafed to pledge for the security of the reparation creditors. These would comprise the hypothecation of private holdings in industry, commerce, finance and agriculture in such a manner as to insure their immediate fluidity as active loanable collateral.

Such security, said the chanellor, would in every way be superior to the pledges prescribed in the Versailles treaty, which only enumerate government properties, none of which possesses productiveness equalling that of private holdings which Germany proposes to hypothecate for the benefit of reparations.

Unless France is bent on annexation, Germany's pledges, he continued, were of such a nature as to meet the conditions under which France once prepared to evacuate the irruptd areas. He believed that the positive guarantees offered by Germany would impress Britain and Italy with her desire to achieve a solution of the problem and would suggest to Belgium their usability as a means of overcoming the deadlock and opening the way to European reconstruction.

Addressing a gathering of newspaper editors, the chancellor, after reviewing the economic position, turned to foreign questions. He said that openness was better than illusions, and therefore he wished openly to say that without a solution of the foreign political dispute the financial situation could not be setled and the collapse of the mark could not be restrained.

A solution of the Ruhr dispute could not be achieved solely by continuance of passive resistance; nor could the question be settled by a policy of force.

Even Chancellor Cuno, said Herr Stresemann, had never contended that negotiations could only be undertaken after the evacuation of the Ruhr. The object of passive resistance was only to free the Ruhr territory, and no government would be doing a great service if it could shorten the Ruhr dispute as far as possible. Feelers hitherto put out, however, showed the difficulties which existed.

"For us," continued the chancellor, "the question of the sovereinty of the Rhineland and regaining the freedom of the Ruhr terriory is decisive. For it we are ready to give real guarantees M. Poincare in a recent speech said he preferred the positive securities which France had in hand to the finest theoretical rights. He did not intend to exchange pledges for general guarantees and emphasized further that the guarantees suggested belonged to the mortgages which the treaty of Versailles gives to the allies on the entir possession of the Reich.

"This conception of the French premier," said the chancellor, "I must describe as erroneous. According to the Versailles treaty the property of the Reich and individual states is a pledge for Germany's obligations. What I suggested referred to the direct enlistment of private property and thus goes beyond the treaty. This enlistment is also a realizable pledge, while the securities of the Versailles treaty are at present not so. If mortgages in favor of the Reich were entered into on property of a state and on private property of economic organizations as a pledge to the extent of a percentage of this property, then these mortgages could be transferred to a trusteeship as a real negotiable asset.

"In the administration of this trusteeship the reparations creditors would actively participate. The proceeds accruing from these mortgages would be paid to the trustees, who would then be in a position to issue bonds. Thus France would come into immediate possession of large sums of money, and the interest on these payments would be guaranteed.

"Surely such an accomplishment is not merely a piece of theory or a general guarantee, but constitutes something real and free of all vagueness. Such guarantees will give France cash and will meet the conditions under which France was willing to evacuate the Ruhr.

"Before these guarantees can be obtained Germany must be permitted the right to administer the Ruhr and recover her sovereignty in the Rhineland. These guarantees are capable of solving the question of passive resistance, provided we are given assurance that on the basis of such an understanding the Ruhr will be evacuated and the Rhineland will be accorded its former rights.

"If we are given assurance that everyone whose home is in the Rhineland or the Ruhr will be restored to his home, there is no reason why this once prosperous and productive area should not regain its former seat for work. I trust such a settlement will be possible.

"France, through her premier, has repeatedly declared that she does not contemplate annexation and does not intend to remain in the Ruhr. Great Britain certainly concurs in this attitude. Belgium would undouttedly welcome the restoration of normal economic conditions, and we are convinced that Italy shares the same views. The question for us is whether the German economic organism will be able to carry the burden expected of it. We know in what difficult times we live, but can state with satisfaction that the present government has been assured by the leading representatives of industry and finance that they would take their share of the obligations in connection with the scheme of guarantees proposed by Germany, which will render payments possible."

NEW ENGLAND EXCEEDS JAPANESE RELIEF QUOTA

Boston, Sept. 12.—The New England division of the Red Cross announced tonight that the Japanese relief fund has been increased to $424,405. The quota for the territory was set at $350,000. Massachusetts had exceeded its quota of $255,000 by $78,000. Rhode Island had raised $47,000 against the $40,000 assigned and Vesmont whose quota was $10,000 had contributed $11,652.

Maine had raised $17,415 toward its $30,000 allotment and New Hampshire had raised $10,560 of the $12,060 quota assigned it.

The campaign for the fund is being continued, officers announced stating that the original mark of $5,000,000 for the nation set for relief work would be insufficient to support essential relief work.

Fund Now Totals $5,633,100

Washington, Sept. 12.—Japan's dire need of clothing and building material to protect the multitude of earthquake sufferers was recognized today by the American Red Cross which authorized the quick shipment of hundreds of thousands of pieces of underwear and outer clothing, as well as large quantities of corrugated iron sheltering. Urgent requests came from the stricken area that the advent of cold weather made immediate action imperative.

An indication that the Japanese government is fearful that freezing weather will take a heavy toll from the half nourished population was found in a message received at the Japanese Embassy here. It said that in addition to the shelter and clothing, heating apparatus of all types was needed, and gasoline was asked for.

The relief fund being collected in the United States for the sufferers grew steadily today, with $2,663,106 entered on the books at nightfall. This sum is exclusive of the $122,500 cash gift made early last week by the American Red Cross.

PAROLED PRISONERS OFFERED GOOD POSITION

Hartford, Sept. 12.—Paroled from the state prison after having served about two and a half years of a minimum sentence of three years for embezzlement of $150,099 from the Hartford Trust company, Raymond J. Porter has been offered a position by the Aetna Casualty and Surety company, it was learned tonight.

Unusual interest attached to the news because of the fact that the company which has given Porter his chance to make good is the one which had to make up $100,000 of the bank's loss on account of his misdeed. The bank was insured to that extent by the Aetna Casualty and Surety company of which Morgan B. Brainerd, one of the prison directors who voted Porter's parole, is president. It is understood that Mr. Brainerd took a sympathetic interest in Porter who is scarcely 28 years old.

BATTLESHIP AND FREIGHTER IN A HEAD-ON COLLISION

Los Angeles, Calif., Sept. 12.—The battleship Texas bound for Los Angeles Harbor from San Francisco and the freighter Steel Seafarer of the Isthmian Line, met in a head-on collision in a heavy fog this morning 14 miles north of Point Arguello, "The grave yard of ships," but no serious damage was suffered by either vessel and each proceeded under its own power. The accident occurred in waters where the liner Cuba and seven United States destroyers were wrecked last Saturday.

The Steel Seafarer from Baltimore for San Francisco by way of Los Angeles, suffered a hole in her number 2 hold above the water line. The Texas scraped her paint.

SEEKING PHYSICIAN IN SUITCASE MYSTERY

Cambridge, Mass., Sept. 12.—District Attorney Arthur K. Reading, of Middlesex county issued a statement tonight that he is endeavoring to find Dr. Wm. Matthew Robb, a physician with offices in the Back Bay district of Boston, for the purpose of questioning him "regarding the circumstances surrounding the disappearance of two suitcases similar to those found in the Merrimac river September 1 and 2," containing the headless and dismembered body of a woman.

Four detectives have been searching for the physician for several days, the district attorney said.

BOSTON WOULD USE ARMY BASE FOR PORT DEVELOPMENT

Boston, Sept. 12.—The United States shipping board was requested to postpone for a month its proposed sale of the army base in South Boston to private interests in a telegram sent today by Mayor Curley to Edward P. Farley, chairman of the board. The mayor stated that he and Howard Coonley, president of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, would submit within thirty days a proposal for the taking over of the army base by the city in connection with the development of the port of Boston.

GOVERNOR OF OKLAHOMA OFFERS TERMS TO THE K. K. K.

Tulsa, Okla., Sept. 12 (By the A. P.).—Charging that Tulsa county's three jury commissioners, sheriff and the police commissioner of Tulsa are dominated by the Ku Klux Klan, Governor J. C. Walton today demanded the resignation of the jury commissioners and asked a committee of citizens to call upon the sheriff and police commissioner to retire, in presenting the terms upon which he will revoke his declaration of martial law here.

The governor came here today to make a personal survey of military rule and presented his terms at a conference with a delegation of representative business men. After the meeting a committee was formed to negotiate further with the governor.

Declaring that Tulsa's courts, jury commission and other officials are "in the hands of a secret organization," Governor Walton stated at the conference:

"We have reached the point where the issue is the survival of invisible government or the permanency of our own visible government. I am going to clean that situation up if I have to stand out alone and let them shoot at me."

Proof of the governor's charges was asked by Judge L. M. Poe in behalf of the courts, who declared he was reluctant to believe they were true, with his knowledge of the integrity of the bench. When conclusive evidence is presented, he said, he felt the people would agree to the changes asked by the governor.

More Charges of Flogging.

Shawnee, Okla., Sept. 12 (By the A. P.).—Flogging charges, involving the Ku Klux Klan, were filed here late today by County Attorney Claud Hendon against C. M. Reber, former major of the Oklahoma National guard, and Malcolm Couch, formerly chief of the Shawnee fire department.

DROWNED WHEN AUTO PLUNGED INTO RESERVOIR

Weston, Mass., Sept. 12.—The body of E. M. Horan, of the Back Bay district of Boston, was recovered tonight from a reservoir of the Metropolitan Water System here after the discovery of an automobile in 24 feet of water had impelled the authorities to drag the reservoir. Horan was reported to be an agent for religious books.

A reservoir patrolman traced the outline of the car in the clear water. Police summoned to raise it found the machine standing nose down. It had apparently gone into the water at full speed as the engine was on high. The lights had been burning, and the doors of the car were closed. On the bank of the reservoir were found a man's hat, a necktie and a watch.

The course of the automobile as traced by the authorities indicated that it had left the highway at a point about 200 feet from the water and crossed a bayfield, presumably continuing over the embankment into the reservoir. Horan's body was found about 20 feet from the place where the automibile had gone down. The body was without hat or coat, but a pair of tortoise shell glasses was still in place.

WIFE SLAIN, HUSBAND SERIOUSLY WOUNDED

Altus, Okla., Sept. 12.—Mrs. Frank Eloy, was slain and her husband was perhaps fatally wounded by an unidentified assailant who shot them late last night in their home at Cluster near here. Eloy is between 75 and 80 years old and his wife was said to have been about the same age.

Neighbors heard shots in their home shortly before midnight.

A mentally-irresponsible person, said by officers to have made threats against the aged couple is under surveillance.

"Tommy" Lipton And His Smile

Sir Thomas, world-known sportsman and tea merchant, who recently arrived in the United States to supervise his yachting plans in the hope of once again trying to win the America's Cup. Sir Thomas said: "I have lifted more cups over in Europe than any other man, but I'd give them all to win the America's."

Sale of Ships by the U. S. Shipping Board

Seven Combination Freight and Passenger Vessels Turned Over to the Dollar Line.

Washington, Sept. 12.—Completion of two important ship sale negotiations were announced today by the shipping board. Seven combination freight and passenger ships were turned over to the Dollar line, San Francisco, for operation in a round-the-world-service through the Panama canal, and two cargo steamers were sold to the Grace line, for use in the west coast to South American trade. Continuation of both services for five years is guaranteed under the sales contract.

The new Dollar service is declared to be unique in shipping history. Starting at San Francisco, its ships will touch at Japan, China, the Philippines, Java, Straits settlements, Singapore, India, Suez, Egypt, Mediterranean ports, thence to New York and through the canal to the home port. There are no other ships now in continuous service around the world under one flag, according to officials of the board, who predicted the new service would be of great value to American commerce.

The operators will have the full support of the board, the announcement said, in their effort to develop this new activity.

The five ships purchased by the Dollar line are of the "5-C-2 type," each of 10,533 gross and 6,195 net tons. The initial equipment is to be supplemented later, under the agreement, by other fast freighters.

TWO AUTO ACCIDENTS NEAR YALESVILLE LAST NIGHT

Meriden, Sept. 12.—One woman was injured seriously and eleven others suffered numerous cuts and bruises of a minor nature in two automobiles accidents which happened within a half hour and at points about one thousand feet apart early this evening on the state highway in Yalesville, near here.

Mrs. Alice Campbell, 65 years old, of Westfield, N. J., a passenger in the first car to crash, sustained probably fatal injuries. An ambulance which had conveyed the seven members of her party to the Meriden hospital was returning to Wallingford when it came upon the second accident and returned to the institution with five more patients.

Both accidents resulted from the attempts of the drivers to avoid collisions with other vehicles. In the first instance the motor left the road and overturned, pinning Mrs. Campbell underneath. The second auto driven by Charles Capobianco, of 28 Franklin street, Hartford, turned to the left as another came from a side road and crashed into a machine coming toward it.

GAMBLED $5,000 AFTER OBTAINING IT BY FORGERY

Boston, Sept. 12.—Moy Yuen, otherwise known as Philip T. Moy, in charge of the foreign credit department of the Citizens' National bank, was arrested tonight on complaint of the bank charged with forgery and uttering forgery. According to the police he admitted that he had lost in gambling $5,000 obtained from the bank today within 15 minutes of receiving it.

A teller at the bank said that just before the closing hour Moy presented for discount a note purporting to be signed and endorsed by two Chinese merchants who had an account there. The money was paid over and later it was learned that Moy was not authorized to present such a document.

Moy is a graduate o the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

23 SAILORS WERE LOST IN WRECK OF DESTROYERS

San Diego, Calif., Sept. 12.—Muster of the survivors of the destroyers in the wreck at Point Honda last Saturday night in which seven United States destroyers crashed on the rocks as completed by the destroyer repair base here this morning, after which the official list of dead and missing was placed at 23 sailors. Although all officers are believed to have been saved, it was stated that this fact would not be definitely known until a muster is held of the officers.

Muster of the enlisted men showed that 547 men of the wrecked destroyers are accounted for. The official list gives 19 men dead or missing from the Young and four from the Delphy. No change from the list as already printed was made at the destroyer base.

Review of Prohibition Since its Inception

Statistics Submitted to President Coolidge by Attorney General Daugherty—Covers 41 Months.

Washington, Sept. 12.—Conviction of Judges, attorneys, federal and state officials and millionaires among the host found guilty of violating the prohibition laws was retailed in a report submitted to President Coolidge today by Attorney General Daugherty.

Synopsis of the report, made public with the assent of the president, reviewed the federal judiciary's work in administering the prohibition law in the first forty one months of its operation. It showed that since the statute went into affect January 16, 1920, more than 90,000 cases had been terminated in United States courts with 72,489 convictions and fines aggregating $12,367,660. There has been a constant yearly increase in prohibition prosecutions, the report showed, while jail sentences for the past 23 months have totalled more than 3,000 years.

Attorney General Daugherty's report also disclosed that more than a year ago he sent a special series of instructions to district attorneys on prohibition enforement, demanding a more relentless campaign against bootleggers and other prohibition violators, especially "cliques," "rings" and so-called "leaders" in all large cities.

In eighty per cent. of federal court cases, the report said, the defendants were found guilty.

The attorney general told the president he was of the impression that the government's enforcement officials, radiating from Washington, were coping with the liquor problem in a highly satisfactory manner.

Prohibition cases have been brought in the federal courts at an average of 73.4 per day since the law went into effect, the attorney general said, but this rate was exceeded during the last year, the average being 111 a day. During the first five months of this year 1,497 more cases were disposed of than during the entire 1931 fiscal year.

Mr. Daugherty reported that the "padlock" provision of the prohibition law had been one of its most of many buildings where liquor was sold, upon judgments that they were "nuisances." Increased of jail sentences also has been a deterring influence, Mr. Daugherty told the president.

DECISION TODAY ON USE OF THE ARMY AND NAVY

Washington, Sept. 12.—The opinion of the department of justice as to the legality of the use of the army and navy in the enforcement of the prohibition law was completed today and Attorney General Daugherty said it would be handed to President Coolidge tomorrow. At the same time it will be made public, he added.

This opinion was asked for some months ago by the late President Harding after the establishment of "Rum Row" off the coasts of New York and New Jersey. Use of naval craft, in addition to coast guard cutters and the "prohibition navy" in breaking up whiskey smuggling was suggested by officers having to do with the enforcement of the Volstead act.

CHANGE VOTED BY GENERAL UNITARIAN CONFERENCE

New Haven, Sept. 12.—The century-old congregational polity of the Unitarian church of this country is on the threshold of a change to a centralized one by action of the general Unitarian conference this afternoon in adopting without dissent the recommendation of the commission on polity that the conference merge into the American Unitarian association.

The change will be completed fi, at Boston next May, the annual meeting of the association amends its by-laws to incorporate into itself what has been described as the valuable features of the conference. One change in the association would be the gradual elimination of the voting power of life members so that eventually the body will be a delegate one with individual votes. On this the commission in its report had said:

"No matter how generous, devoted and wise the body of life members may be, it is not democratic for a part to legislate for the whole."

RELIEF WORK IN TOKIO NOW WELL IN HAND

Washington, Sept. 12.—Ambassador Woods in an undated radio message apparently sent from Tokio several days ago reported to the state department today that the relief situation in the Japanese capital was "now thoroughly in hand." Five American destroyers, the ambassador said, had arrived at Yokohama from Darien.

"All Americans surviving Yokohama on ships and in safety," the message said. "This embassy has evacuated 140 Americans, tourists, and 21 British tourists from Tokio today on American destroyers. Relief ships being loaded in Tsingtao and Manila. Arrival of fleet removes danger of hunger among Americans."

Another long list of Americans "definitely known to be safe" was forwarded to the state department by Consul Dickover at Kobe. It contained no Connecticut names.

"JAZZ" DIVERTS PURPOSE OF THE PRINCE OF WALES

Quebec, Sept. 12.—The strains of American "jazz" music upset the plans of Baron Renfrew, better known as the Prince of Wales, tonight. He had planned to pass a quiet evening in his suite at the Chateau Frontenac after his arrival on the Empress of France today, and a round of golf this afternoon. He returned from a shopping tour, sat by an open window gazing down at the St. Lawrence, when—syncopated melodies floated through the air.

Baron Renfrew became again the Prince of Wales who visited Canada three years ago. He announced his intention of attending the dance in the hotel and Quebec's youngest set soon was on hand. Many of the girls who danced with the prince tonight were his partners when he was here in 1919. He remembered them all.

JAPAN MEETS PAYMENT OF INTEREST ON LOAN

London, Sept. 12.—The first coupons on a Japanese loan to fall due since the earthquake were those payable today on the pounds sterling 21,000,000 five per cent issue of 1907. The coupons were duly met.

DISCUSSION OVER COVENANT OF THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Lord Robert Cecil Contends That, in the Greco-Italian Affair, the League by Its Collaboration With the Ambassadors' Council, Had Not Avoided Its Duty—Hjalmar Branting of Sweden Maintains That the Covenant Has Shown Itself Fragile in Practice—Canada Has Offered an Amendment to Article X—Italians Are Loath to Evacuate Corfu.

Geneva, Sept. 12 (By the A. P.)—A lively discussion over the covenant of the league of nations, which Hjalmar Branting, of Sweden, charged, had shown itself to be fragile in practice, gave the Geneva deliberations again a dramatic tone today. The sub-commission was considering the proposed pact for mutual assistance, which was provisionally arranged at Paris as a compromise of the British and French conceptions of the project, when M. Branting arose and said the treaty appeared to be all guarantees, and no disarmament, and more coercive than conciliatory.

After all, he declared, the covenant of the league had in practice proved ineffective. He questioned whether it was wise to adopt the more stringent measures provided in the new treaty when they could not enforce things already existent.

This allusion to the Greco-Italian crisis brought Lord Robert Cecil to his feet with the vigorous assertion that there was no question that the league had lived up to its duties. He argued that the league could not be conciliatory and coercive at the same time and that there was no justification for any charge that the league had failed. Lord Robert tried to make clear that, in the Greco-Italian affair, the league by its collaboration with the ambassadors' council had not avoided its duty.

Information received at Geneva that Premier Mussolini might not withdraw his troops from Corfu until the assassins of the members of the Italian boundary commission were convicted and executed, is regarded as increasing the chances that the assembly will soon insist upon a discussion of the league's competency.

Lord Robert Cecil closed his speech this afternoon with the remark that the small nations must be ready to make sacrifices.

M. Lange, of Norway, retorted that the small nations must have guarantees from the big powers, whose foreign policy could be based, notably on living up to the articles of the covenant, which required that all treaties should be published and registered, and by agreeing to compulsory jurisdiction for the court of international justice.

Jonkheer Loudon, of Holland, also insisted upon the compulsory jurisdiction of the court as essential to the success of new international agreements.

The commission adopted the preamble and first article of the proposed guarantee pact.

Canada's amendment to Article X of the covenant, which the Canadian spokesman said had the effect of both clarifying and strengthening the article, was referred today to a sub-committee for a study of this famous article, which formed an important subject of debate in the United States senate.

ITALIANS ARE LOATH TO EVACUATE CORFU

Paris, Sept. 12 (By the A. P.)—Arrangement of details for a settlement of the Italo-Greek conflict is proving laborious. The council of ambassadors, with Sheldon Whitehouse, counsellor of the American embassy, representing the United States as observer, held two sittings today, but without arriving at a final agreement.

The instructions of Premier Mussolini of Italy, received in reply to the report of yesterday's proceedings of the council sent to him by Baron Avezzano, the Italian ambassador, apparently were unsatisfactory to all the ambassadors. It is understood on the best authority that the British member of the council is insisting on the evacuation of Corfu as soon as the mode of settlement of the dispute is agreed upon by the council in all its details and accepted by the directly interested parties, while Signor Mussolini wants to hold the islands until the investigation into the killing of the Italian members of the Greco-Albanian boundary commission is completed and all acts of reparation fully carried out.

The members of the council of ambassadors after the afternoon session today admitted that thorns had been encountered in preparing a settlement but were quite sure that the details all would be worked out satisfactorily. Baron Avezzano tonight sent Premier Mussolini a full report of today's proceedings, with the text of the instructions which are to be given the committee inquiring into the murder of the Italians. It is hoped that Mussolini's reply will arrive in Paris so that the council can meet tomorrow afternoon and finish with the details preliminary to the investigation into the killings as well as with the question of the evacuation of Corfu.

CEREMONY OF REPARATION FOR ASSASSINATED ITALIANS

Toranto, Italy, Sept. 12.—The battleship Dante Alighieri, commanded by Captain Cervellera, has arrived here under orders to join the squadron which on September 19 will be in Piraeus for the ceremony of reparation on the part of Greece for the killing of the Italian members of the boundary commission near Janina.

It has been decided that the bodies of the commissioners will be landed here, and a great demonstration of mourning is being arranged.

SMALL FISHING TOWN DESTROYED BY TIDAL WAVE

Mexicala, Lower Calif., Sept. 12.—Wireless messages received here today report the destruction by a tidal wave of San Jose De Cabo, a small fishing town on the west coast of lower California, ijust above Capo San Lucas. The number of lives lost is not known.

Most of the 500 inhabitants of the town are believed to have escaped to higher ground when the tidal wave swept over the place yesterday, according to radio advices sent out by a steamer which cleared Cape Lucas shortly before the catastrophe.

Steamers carrying merchandise to Guaymas, which had cleared the Cape in time to escape destruction or damage in the wave, have been ordered to return to San Jose De Cabo for relief work, the messages stated. One of the vessels, it was said, carried 300 laborers for the cotton fields near here.

SELECTING JURY FOR WARD MURDER TRIAL

White Plains, N. Y., Sept. 12.—The jury box was half filled on the first day of the trial of Walter S. Ward, wealthy baker's son, charged with having murdered Clarence E. Peters of Haverhill, Mass., an ex-marine, who was found shot to death near the Kensico reservoir sixteen months ago.

Ward, with his brother Ralph, was in court. At first the defendant gazed steadily at the floor, but later he looked up and smiled.

A stir was caused when Allan R. Campbell, of defense counsel, attempted to introduce a copy of a New York newspaper carrying a cut of the electric chair in connection with the Ward case. The state objected and Supreme Court Justice Wagner sustained the objection.

REPRESENTATIVE MADDEN CONSIDERABLY IMPROVED

Madden of Chicago, Chairman of the House Appropriations committee, who is seriously ill at his home here from a heart attack, was said by his physician tonight to have had a very favorable day. He rested comfortably and the doctors pronounced his heart acting considerably improved.

If Mr. Madden holds the ground he has gained, for the next 24 hours, the physicians said, he will be out of danger.

CARGO OF WELSH COAL HAS ARRIVED AT BOSTON

Boston, Sept. 12.—The British steamer Remier arrived here today with a cargo of about 4,500 tons of Welsh anthracite consigned to a Boston coal firm and ordered when suspension of operations in the Pennsylvania fields threatened a fuel shortage in this country. The cargo was the first overseas coal brought here for some time.

The cost of the coal delivered in Boston was said to be $15.44 a ton, or about the same as that of Pennsylvania anthracite.

SOLDIERS DREW ALE FROM CANADA FOR OFFICERS

Schenectady, N. Y., Sept. 12.—Soldiers from Plattsburgh barracks testified in federal court here today when arraigned on charges connected with the transportation of liquor, that they had on several occasions drawn ale from Canada for officers of the post and that "every one at the post goes to Canada when they are thirsty."

John A. Donder and William G. Bomer, soldiers, arrested with James A. Bushy, of Plattsburgh, after federal agents had chased them in an automobile and halted them by puncturing the tires of their car with revolver bullets, made the statements. Donder took the blame for transporting the 720 bottles of Canadian ale found in the car, saying he was transporting it for a New York man and that he was to receive $150. Donder said he was only a passenger.

Questoned by the district attorney as to his presence in Canada and charges that he previously had been involved in liquor deals, Donder declared that "everyone at the post goes to Canada when they are thirsty—it's a general habit." He had seen officers from the post at places where he obtained liquor, Donder added, and had even drawn ale for officers of the post.

CHARGED WITH TRADING AGAINST CUSTOMERS' ORDERS

New York, Sept. 12.—Indictments charging that they traded against customers' orders were returned in general sessions court today against Burrill Ruskay, Eugene Greenhut, George Proctor and Joseph Shelby, of the stock brokerasge firm of S. S. Ruskay which failed in 1922 for $5,000,000.

Ruskay surrendered at once. The others were expected to be arrested tomorrow. Assistant District Attorney Geraty said he would ask that abil be set at $25,000 each.

Five indictments were returned against each defendant, based on an investigation begun shortly after the firm failed with but $200,000 assets and charging that the firm sold customers' stock to offset new orders.

S. S. Ruskay, head of the firm, and father of the man indicted, died following the crash. He had been a member of the New York Consolidated Stock exchange for nearly fifty years.

INDICTED FOR KILLING HIS WIFE WITH AN AXE

Springfield, Mass., Sept. 12.—The grand jury today reported an indictment for first degree murder against Joseph Zygarowski of Chicopee for killing his wifeli Salomnia, with an axe in their home July 7. At the time of the woman's death the husband had but recently been released from the state insane hospital.

Archie Dore, of Eastonville, was fined in the Coventry town court when found guilty on two of three charges preferred against him, for violation of the automobile law. A hearing was held before Justice of the Peace William B. Hawkins at the town hall, in South Coventry, Tuesday afternoon. Grand Juror Robert G. Brooks read the charges. The charge of evasion of responsibility was nolled and Dore pleaded guilty to the other two charges, that of reckless driving and failure to report an accident. He drew a fine of $25 and costs on the first charge and $15 and costs on the second, a total assessment of $56.19. The court trial followed an automobile accident on Main street, in South Coventry, shortly after midnight Sunday morning, August 26, when Dore's automobile struck and badly injured Oscar Johnson, of Ripley Hill. Dore took Johnson to his home and told his wife that he found the man lying in the road, without making mention of having injured him. The state police were notified of the affair and a few days later Dore went to Mrs. Johnson and admitted that her husband had been struck by his automobile.

It was revealed that Johnson was in an intoxicated condition when struck by the automobile, through the investigation conducted by State Policeman Harris Hulburt and Grand Juror Brooks. Johnson sustained a fractured skull and since his admittance to St. Joheph's hospital his mind has been blank.

Dore was severely reprimanded for failure to report the accident and for not using more precaution, since he could see that the man was drunk as he approached him at the rate of twelve miles an hour. A statement was read from Ruth Noble who accompanied Dore at the time, to the effect that the man was staggering and just as Dore drove past, Johnson fell and was struck by the machine. Mrs. Noble wrote a statement that Johnson was at her home about 5 o'clock in the afternoon of the same day, and that he was intoxicated.

Owing to the dangerous conditio. of Johnson at the hospital, the $2,500 bond still holds in Dore's case awaiting the result of the man's injuries.

Henry Eaton of Chaplin, drove a large fishhook into his right palm on Wednesday afternoon while fishing in the vicinity of Chaplin. He was taken to this city by E. C. Burdick of Chaplin and received medical attention at the office of Dr. A. Girouard.

Gilbert P. Flynn was elected grand knight of San Jose council, No. 14, Knights of Columbus, at the bimonthly meeting. Other officers elected were: Deputy grand knight, Patrick Connors; chancellor, Anthony McKenna; recording secretary, Leroy Hallahan; financial secretary, John P. McQuillan; treasurer, John J. Farrell; advocate, James F. Twomey; warden, Clarence Moriarty; inside guard, Frederick A. Coriarty; outside guard, James S. Donohue; trustee for three years, Thomas O'Brien; and trustee to fill the unexpired term of Thomas Murray, J. Stanley Healy. Under the good of the order, Lecturer Arthur P. Bergeron on behalf of the council, presented William F. Lennon an emblem ring as an expression of the esteem in which he is held by the members for his tireless efforts to advance the interests of the council. Mr. Lennon thanked the members for their handsome gift. Other speakers were District Deputy P. Frank Cunningham and Rev. William J. Dunn of Warrenville, and the newly elected officers. At the business meeting it was voted to give $25 to the American Red Cross for the Japanese relief fund.

Edgar Johnson of North Coventry thinks that the height of hard luck is to step into a mess of trouble at the beginning of a trip. Johnson was just getting under way in his automobile with two women passengers, and was descending a steep hill in South Coventry village, opposite the home of Town Clerk Louis W. Daniels, when the steering gear let go and the machine rolled over an embankment and over on its back. The top of the car was demolished but the occupants escaped injury. As hard luck would have it, State Policeman Hulburt and Grand Juror Brooks happened to be near and while conducting an investigation they found that Johnson did not have his registration with him. Johnson said that he had forgotten it in the pocket of another coat, but he was taken before Justice of the Peace Hawkins. Johnson was found guilty and a fine of one dollar and costs, amounting to $11.40 was imposed.

Daniel Cunningham of Chaplin, shot himself with suicidal intent, it was learned Wednesday, by County Detective William E. Jackson of Willimantic and Coroner Arthur G. Bill of Danielson who began an investigation Tuesday afternoon. The mystery which surrounded the shooting of Mr. Cunningham Sunday evening at his home in the Natchaug district of Chaplin, led the officials to probe the case. The facts were given by Mrs. Cunningham who said that later 5 o'clock Sunday, her husband got up out of bed and sat on the edge, then fired a .22 calibre revolver at his head the bullet entering the right eyeball. Other inmates of the house, her daughter, Corinne, aged 14, and two other persons, were attracted by the shot. Mrs. Cunningham said that her husband had been suffering from despondent spells at various times. His condition was improved at the hospital, Wednesday afternoon.

The funeral of Mrs. Emile Breault was held Wednesday from her home, 70 Ives street at 8.30 o'clock. In a solemn requiem high mass at St. Mary's church at nine o'clock, Rev. H. C. Belec was celebrant; Rev. Adelard Jalbert of Baltic, deacon and Rev. E. A. Mathieu, sub-deacon. The choir was directed by Mrs. Joseph F. Gaudreau the organist. There were beautiful floral pieces. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery where Father Belec assisted by Fathers Jalbert and Mathieu, conducted committal services. The bearers were, William Bonin, Leopold Bonin, Edgar Durand, Charles St. George, George St. George and Roderick Lariviere. The Hurteau-Bosse Corp was in charge of the arrangements.

James, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Turansky of Valley street died late Tuesday night at St. Joseph's Hospital. The parents have two other sons, Theodore and Emil and two daughters, Annie and Teresa. The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon at three o'clock, with burial in the Russian Orthodox cemetery on the North Windham Road.

Bernard Regan, 47, died Wednesday morning at three o'clock at the home of his sister, Mrs. John Vernon, of Hope Avenue, Worcester, Mass., after a lingering illness. He leaves two sisters, Mrs. John Vernon and Mrs. Charles Sullivan of Worcester and a brother, John F. Regan of this city. He was born in Brooklyn, a son of Michael and Mary Burns Regan and formerly resided in Willimantic and served in the Spannish War, with Company E, Third Connecticut Volunteers.

Laurent Gallop, of East Hartford, was arrested by Motorcycle Officer Grant Bombria for speeding in his automobile on Windham Road and will be given a hearing this (Thursday) morning in the police court.

All persons found qualified whose names appear on the "list of to be made" as filed by the registrars of voters, Thomas A. Shea and A. Lyn Weatherhead, will be admitted to the elector's oath Saturday, September 15th, when the selectmen and clerk of the town of Windham will meet in the office of the selectmen.

Captain (Dr.) W. P. S. Keating and Lester Blish were selected as delegates and Albert J. Piche and Walter McNickle as alternates, at a meeting of James J. Shea Post, No. 19, American Legion, to attend the fifth annual state convention of the Legion, which will be held in New Britain today (Thursday) Friday and Saturday.

At a well attended meeting of the Sorority of the Methodist church the program was as follows: Reading, Mrs. Charles Beebe; jokes, Mrs. Fred Daboll; two pleasing songs, Mrs. George Shedd and piano solo, Mrs. John Wood. Mrs. A. S. Muirhead was in charge of several amusing games as was also Mrs. E. Byrd Freeman. Mrs. Arthur Arnold won first prize in one of the games and Mrs. Williams was given the consolation award.

Henry Bergeron, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bergeron of Pearl street was slightly injured recently on Spring street when knocked down by an automobile driven by a local man. The boy was able to attend school the following morning.

The police are to put a stop to the dangerous habit of boys who ride bicycles at a high speed over crosswalks on the streets, especially at night without sounding warning signals or having proper lights on the vehicles. The practice was the cause of an accident Tuesday evening when Thomas F. Connelly of Oak street was run down on the Maple Avenue crosswalk. Mr. Connelly received a deep gash over the left eye and contusions about the arms and body. Several stitches were required to close his wounds.

Welcome tidings have come to the employes of the Windham Silk Manufacturing Company that their weekly working schedule will contain an additional day, beginning this week. The plant, along with practically every other manufacturing concern in the city, recently went on a three-day-a-week schedule. Notices have now been posted that the mill will operate four days a week.

A friendly attendance contest has been inaugurated by the Baptist and Methodist churches, the competition to start this (Thursday) evening and to continue three months. The contest will be decided on points. The Methodists will meet in their own church and the Baptists in the Y. M. C. A. building. Joint services will be held once a month and the progress of the contest will be announced at these meetings.

Empty Jamaica ginger bottles adorned the sidewalk in front of the H. K. & W. A. Washburn Silk Company plant on the south side of Valley street, Wednesday morning about 7 o'clock. Pedestrians were forced to detour around the bottles until they were removed to a nearby ash pile. An official of the company said that he would attempt to learn the identity of the person who placed the bottles on the walk, and that prosecution will follow if he is successful.

A large delegation of candidates from San Jose Assembly, No. 14, Knights of Columbus, with St. Joseph's Boy Scouts' band will go to New London October 14 to take the fourth degree. Faithful Navigator Patrick Connors will be in charge.

Robert Snow of West Hartford was charged in the police court Wednesday morning with violation of the automobile laws, by speeding on lower Main street, this city, Friday evening of last week. Deputy Judge Curtis Dean granted him a continuance of the case until September 25.

Mrs. Phyllis McShea has disposed of her residence and 40 acres of land on the Pleasant Valley road to George W. Snyder of New Jersey.

The choice of three trustees to the board will place this Thursday evening in the vestry of the Methodist church. The board is composed of nine members, three retiring each year. The retiring members of the board are, Delos Conant, Dwight W. Ide and E. Byrd Freeman.

Announcement has been made that a saleshoard is to be inaugurated in St. Mary's parish for the benefit of the parochial school. Mr. McDowell of New York will have charge of the work.

Miss Corinne Burgess is attending Norwich Commercial School.

Norbert Girard, son of Dr. and Mrs. C. H. Girard, left this week for Niagara University.

Miss Celia Israel, a teacher in Plainfield is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hyman Israel.

The family of James W. Hillhouse have closed their summer cottage at Pleasure Beach, except for week-ends and are at their home here.

Mrs. Harold S. Maine attended a party given by Mrs. Chester Cole at the home of her mother, Mrs. Charles R. Utley in Windham, Tuesday.

JEWETT CITY

Early Wednesday morning, on the Park section of East Main street, George Whipple was driving down with his usualy quiet and orderly horse. A shackle bolt dropped, striking the animal on the hind leg. Before the driver knew that the curtain was up, the act was in full operation. Collision with a pole and a tree, liberated the frightened horse, threw Mr. Whipple to the street and overturned the wagon. Outside of a few cuts that Whipple says, "won't amount to much," there was little damage. A badly wrecked wagon resulted.

Grand Masters' day is to be celebrated at Wallingford, Saturday, September 22. It is probable that a fine delegation from Mt. Vernon, No. 75, will attend. Many from here often go, but this year is specially notable as Arthur M. Brown, Most Worshipful Grand Master of Connecticut, is a Jewett City man, and an honored member of the home lodge. G. A. Barber, a life-long resident of this place and one of the oldest of Mt. Vernon's membership is a resident at the home in Wallingford.

Considering the coming great event, Pachaug Grange #5, a jitney service to and from the grounds will probably be established with a fine rake-off for the man who does it.

Wednesday morning at sunrise the mercury had dropped to 44 degrees. Local weather sharps say that a heavy, low lying fog, saved damage by frost.

Long lines of swallows are seen on the telegraph wires in this section. They will be away for the Gulf in a few days.

Borough fishermen who are always on the alert to note any circumstance concerning local angling, are wondering about the bass conditions. Black bass appeared in Tadpole pond three years ago as if by a miracle. Right off the reel it was a common thing all last summer, and the preceding bass season to catch bass weighing from 3 to 5 pounds. No skill was necessary. No one knew whence they came. The pond is old and never for 40 years and more yielded anything but pickerel and bull heads. Bass fishermen there today find things back to first principles. Not a bass strike, but still plenty of the eternal hornpout. A local man, who was in Minnesota for some years, says it reminds him of the passing of the passenger pigeon. He has seen the sun obscured with their flight, for days at a time. Countless millions were slain each year. When in flight the roar of their wings, he says, was deafening for days in succession. Now not a single pair survive. Three years ago no little inquiry and research was made by local members of the Ashland Fish and Game Protective association, to determine if possible, if any connection in the of a w terway existed between Tadpole and the adjacent ponds that were known to contain black bass.

The dam at the old Burleson mill at the foot of the lower pond prevents the passage of bass from Aspinook, and there is no known connection with Ashland pond. So whence they came and went is a mystery that is out of the ordinary.

MYSTIC

Wednesday evening, degree work was exemplified at the meeting of Stonington lodge, No. 56, I. O. O. F. The new degree teams have been organized and new drills have to be practiced. The initiatory degree was conferred upon a class. Past Noble Grand Charles H. Sweet was in charge. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting by the entertainment committee. There was a large attendance.

Mrs. Clara J. Carr, 66, who died at her home on Lincoln avenue Tuesday night had been ill a long time. She was born Feb. 1, 1857, in New London, the daughter of Capt. George and Kathryn Russell Holly. She leaves her husband, Stephen H. Carr, of Mystic, two brothers, Capt. Geo. Holly, of Port Jefferson, N. Y., Charles Holly, of Mystic, and a sister, Ida B. Holly, of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Funeral services for Mrs. Calista Doughty were held Wednesday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock at local undertaking parlors. Rev. J. G. Osborne, pastor of the Union Baptist church conducted the services. Burial was in Elm Grove cemetery, Mystic.

At the annual election of trustees of the Methodist church, James W. Jackson was chosen to fill the vacancy caused by the death of George E. Grinnell, and George W. Keigwin, and John F. Noyes, were re-elected for a term of thre years.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tingley, of Norwich, have been guests of friends here this week.

Percy Morgan and son, Evans Morgan, have gone to Andover, Mass., where Evans Morgan will attend school this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Warner Dawley of Providence and Theodore Bachlaud of Jewett City have returned to their home after a visit with Mrs. Clark Morin.

A large number of summer guests at both Lord's Point and Groton Long Point have returned to their homes, and the shore resorts at these places begin to look deserted. Two or three families who have building interests to look after are to remain through this month.

A large number went from here on Wednesday to Kingston to attend the fair.

A large delegation attended the annual convention at Poquonoc Wednesday. Miss Dorothea Hewitt, Miss Elisabeth Browning, Miss Lois Brown, Miss Constance Delagrange, Miss Laura Brown, Evelyn Hoxie and Dr. and Mrs. Henry Thompson were present from the local church.

BLACK HILL

Rev. Marion H. Jones of Providence has been visiting her former parishioners in this vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett E. Brown and Mrs. H. Beecher Brown and family attended the reunion Thursday of Plainfield academy, of which Everett E. Brown was acting president this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Halsey Clark of Prospect and Mrs. Marion Phipps Woodward of Waterbury spent Friday with Miss Sarah M. Averill and Miss Anna P. Smith.

Mr. Welcher was in Norwich Friday.

Patrick Loughran of Central Village has been busy with mason work for Miss A. P. Smith and H. B. Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Brown were in Worcester recently.

Black Hill was represented by several families at the services at Canterbury church Sunday. Rev. Sherrod Soule of the Home Missionary society of Hartford delivered a most inspiring sermon. The choir was assisted by Mr. Rietsell, who gave three exquisite solos on the 'cello, accompanied by Miss Hawes. Mr. Rietsell is an accomplished musician who is spending the summer in Canterbury and very kindly assisting in the services.

Miss Miriam Cornell and her aunt, Mrs. Cornell, of Rhode Island, were recent callers at Woodlands.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Evans of Newton and Boston were recent visitors at Mrs. Evans' old home.

Roger Chipman Brown of New Haven spent the week end with his parents.

Miss Ruth Moore, who has been spending her vacation with her parents returned to her school last week.

Amos Cornell has been doing teaming for Miss Anna P. Smith.

It used to be that arms grew weary and backs ached cruelly over the washboard—

But now—straight from the soaking water into the rinse water

YESTERDAY~ rubbing till you ached
TODAY~ soaking takes the place of rubbing

All that old back-breaking work is gone forever~you do not have to wear yourself out over your washboard any longer

Sheets, towels and aprons. Rompers, shirts and play clothes

How hard it used to be to manage them with bar soap. What a downright mean job it was to rub the soap on all the soiled places and then rub the heavy wet clothes on the washboard.

And yet you would not spare yourself this back-breaking work, for the love of clean linen lies very close to every American woman's heart.

Today how easy it is to get all these pieces clean and white.

This new kind of soap soaks dirt out

Just let soaking take the place of rubbing. The cleansing Rinso suds work gently through every fold and fibre. They loosen the dirt without weakening a single thread.

Even neck bands and cuff edges, hems and knees of play clothes—those especially grimy places—have their dirt easily and safely loosened. Only a light rubbing with a little dry Rinso is necessary.

You do not have to change your washday habits when you use Rinso. Just use it in place of bar soap whether for soaking, boiling or in washing machines.

Just dissolve—use enough—soak

Rinso dissolves instantly and completely in boiling water. Make a good, thick solution of it in a saucepan. Pour this solution into your tub and add lukewarm water until tub is half full. Then put in your clothes. Be sure that the suds stand up even after the clothes are in. If they do not, add more of the Rinso solution until they do.

Let the clothes soak an hour—over night if you wish. (Colored clothes, of course, not longer than half an hour.) Then rinse out. You will find that your clothes are whiter—more fragrant than ever.

Follow the advice of the big washing machine manufacturers—use Rinso in your machine. Sixteen leaders in their field recommend Rinso for best results.

The largest soap makers in the world, the makers of Lux, make Rinso. It is just as safe and easy for the family wash as Lux is for fine things.

Get Rinso today at any grocery or department store. There are two sizes, the regular size and the big new package. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

This new kind of soap takes the place of bar soap and makes hard rubbing unnecessary

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

Turned Giantess Into A Statue.

Now, let me think, in the story before this, the giant's wife was calling Little Jack Rabbit and his friends, the pig and the little bear and the monkey to supper, wasn't she?

"Come, come! drink your milk."

Well, you can easily imagine that they didn't feel very hungry after the poll parrot had told them how wicked the giant's wife was, as I mentioned in the last story.

"Come on," said Little Jack Rabbit, bravely leading the way to the big dining room where the giant was sitting at one end of the table and his wife at the other. The bunny boy sat at her right hand and the pig next. The little bear and monkey sat somewhere in between. I don't remember where.

"You must all drink a little wine before you eat. It will give you a good appetite," said the giantess.

"No, thank you Mrs. Giant," answered bunny boy.

At this the giantess looked very cross for she had put some sleeping powder in the wine, you see. Pretty soon, she said, with a wink to the butler: "Bring a glass of milk for each of them."

"Ha, ha! My fine lady giant!" thought Little Jack Rabbit, "You don't catch me drinking milk," but he couldn't warn his little friends not to drink any for the giant's wife never took her eyes off him.

Dear me! In a few minutes, after drinking the milk, the little bear and the monkey fell fast asleep and the pig winked and blinked until he, too, went fast asleep.

"My, Oh my! What ill mannered friends you have," sneered the giant's wife, turning to Little Jack Rabbit. "Nor are your manners what they should be. You ask me for milk and then refuse to drink it."

Wouldn't you suppose the big natured giant would have asked his wife not to be so disagreeable. But he didn't care, for although he was a giant he was afraid of his wife.

"Come, come," said the giantess, "drink your milk." But instead the bunny boy stood up on his feet and shouted:

"Umpty, dumpty, diddledy O,
There's something in the milk I know."

Goodness me! At that, the face of the giantess got as red as a peony in my grandmother's garden.

"What do you mean?" screamed the wicked giantess, picking up a big knife.

As she leaned over towards him the bunny boy touched her at once with his magic drawing feather and at once she turned into a statue.

"Ah," sighed "the giant, she will never nag me again," and filling his big pipe with tobacco, he lighted it with a big torch and smoked away without a word. Then, sighing again, he put his feet up on a chair and blew smoke rings into the air as big as hoops.

And next time I'll tell you what happened after that.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Among the great numbers who were at Woodstock fair Wednesday was Clayton Wright, formerly a resident of Sterling and, in his earlier years, of the town of Pomfret, adjoining age-old Woodstock.

Mr. Wright recalled Wednesday that as a boy, nearly a half century ago, he, with his father, used to attend Woodstock fair when it was held on the common, and when there were no admission charges, except to enter the exhibition building.

Mr. Wright, now resident in Elmville, recalls that as a boy he attended the fair with his father for the special purpose of exhibiting a white Chester hog, raised on their home place. The hog in those days weighed about 1150 pounds, but later grew big and finally weighed in at about 1400.

At the Woodstock fair the hog was placed upon exhibition in a separate enclosure and an admission price of ten cents was charged, and in a single day as much as $80 was realized by the Wrights from those who came in to see such a hog as seldom has been developed on a New England farm. Such success was achieved at Woodstock that the hog later was shown at the Brooklyn fair and still later taken to Narragansett park at Providence and other southern New England fairs in Rhode Island and Massachusetts and everywhere proved an attraction of great merit.

There were no such hogs at the Woodstock fair Wednesday as Mr. Wright recalled out of the days of his youth, and from this it may be gathered that this section of southern New England had its own special attractions, agriculturally, in those days and that not all the big things have occurred in the last ten years, as many of the younger generation are prone to believe.

Also of interest pertaining to the Woodstock fair was the fact that Everell James of the Green Hollow road was winner of several blue ribbons, Wednesday, through his exhibit of fine Ayshire cattle. He was given first prmium on four-year-old bull and also firsts on one year, two year and three-year-old heifers and on a heifer calf.

Mr. James' exhibit attracted much attention throughout the day, especially from those who are intereated in fine cattle and what is being done in this section of New England to restore the territory to the high place that it occupied in things pertaining to the farm many years ago.

Wednesday's announcement in this column that the town of Killingly has a balance of about $30,000 in its treasury came as a very agreeable surprise to large numbers of Killingly people. Especially did they seem to be interered in the fact that they are going to be called upon at the annual town meeting to decide whether they will use up this money to pay bills accumulating during the present fiscal year or whether it will be applied to reducing the outstanding indebtedness of the town—by retiring notes on which interest is being paid.

In Danielson the majority sentiment appeared to be in favor of using the great proportion of the money in reducing the outstanding debt, but possibly this opinion was not entirely representative of the town and the final decision will have to await the annual town meeting on October 1.

Just how much severity should be applied to our Rhode Island neighbors and owners of motor cars who like to come into this state frequently to trade, in enforcing the law requiring them to take out Connecticut motor vehicle registrations, seems to be a much mooted question. Consider, for instance, the case of any one of a number of people who live just over the Rhode Island border and only a few miles out and who like to come to Danielson for trading purposes or on a pleasure trip. Are they to be held strictly to the letter of the law, or are they to be allowed, such leeway as one neighbor might allow another in going about his personal affairs while doing good to the whole territory in general? It may be said that this question has not been raised until recently and that heretofore official forces have been exceedingly reasonable in the enforcement of a law that restricts cars from a neighboring state to 15 days stay in Connecticut in any one month. With cars that are coming into Connecticut to transact business at a profit there can be no question of the desirability of requiring them to take out Connecticut registrations, but where people who live possibly a mile over the border in Rhode Island and like to trade in Danielson there seems little excuse for hectoring them over their frequent visitations into this state. Little complaint relative to this entire matter has been heard outside of the towns adjoining Plainfield or Sterling, where there seems, at least by some individuals, to hamper trade and traffic by insisting on a strict interpretation of all the regulations in force.

It was stated Wednesday that borough officials will no longer countenance the practice of starting upon the erection of buildings and later seeking permits from the warden and ccurt of burgesses to complete the structure, but that strict enforcement of the permit law will be on. It appears to have been a general practice in the borough to ignore the permit regulation until such time as builders saw fit to take the matter up with borough officials, and by that time in many cases the structure was completed. Indications were Wednesday that this attitude no longer will be tolerated.

As a matter of courtesy to the borough officials and respect for such regulations as the borough has laid down relative to building, those who contemplate erecting any structures will do well to ask for their permits in advance. Otherwise, some difficulties may be encountered.

Danielson was the one large community in Windham county that escaped being served with bench warrants this week. Without boasting, it may be said that since the advent of prohibition, Danielson has been as free as any community of its size in Connecticut from illicit dealing in honest-to-goodness liquors. As a matter of fact, the borough has been exceptionally in this respect. There is no intention here to intimate that there has not been violations of the liquor laws, but such violations as have occurred has been relative to sale of prohibition intoxicants—moonshine, home brews, Jamaica ginger and other such concoctions, as shown by the record of cases in the town court. It is not recalled that anyone in Danielson has been prosecuted for selling what, at least, is supposed to be pre-Voistead liquor. So Danielson for the time being is free from the special infamy that attaches to cleaning up the state, as now undertaken by a campaign that is extending into every county of the state.

Scores of Danielson people were at Woodstock Wednesday to attend the big day at the fair. The majority from this town made the trip in motor cars and had a delightful day inspecting the exhibits and visiting with friends they happened to encounter.

Three miles of cement roadway beginning about a mile north of Attawaugan and extending to Grove street in Putnam possibly will be completed before real cold weather sets in. The work is now underway. This road building project is a forecast that within a few years the entire distance between Danielson and Putnam, two communities between which there is a great amount of traffic, may be traversed over all concrete roads.

Territory hereabouts will pay little heed this year to the change from daylight saving to standard time. Windham county people have recovered from their adventure into the alleged daylight saving proposition and this year have ignored it and clung to standard time, although nearby Rhode Island and Massachusetts have adopted it generally. However, the fact that adjoining communities were figuring time on the new basis has been more or less of a nuisance at times, and has required local people to figure more or less actively to get their schedules straight when going on a visit across state borders.

There will be dancing Friday evening at the Danielson inn. You are invited. Music by the Danielson Inn orchestra.—adv.

PUTNAM

Listed Wednesday as missing was George Bricault, one of the men ordered into the superior court at Willimantic Tuesday to answer to a charge of violating the liquor laws. Bricault is now charged with violating his word of honor, a real offense among men, in failing to return when allowed to go from the presence of an officer in charge of him to obtain a bondsman. It so happens that Bricault is a much wanted man to answer in court to charges that he has violated the liquor laws. He was out under bonds in a case in the Putnam city court when he was served Tuesday with a bench warrant ordering him into the superior court to answer to further alleged violations of the law. He has conducted a poolroom resort here and has been more or less in the public eye for the past two years as the result of his appearances in court.

The following interesting despatch under a Southbridge dateline appeared in a Boston paper Wednesday and is relative to a young man who claims Grosvenordale as his birthplace;

What kind of an oath did J. Adolph Trahan take five years ago when he was elected mayor of Blind River, Ont.?

On this information, according to hundreds of French-speaking citizens living in the Globe Village section of Southbridge, depends whether Trahan can seriously be considered as a candidate for postmaster.

In Uncle Sam's official records Globe Village is designated a sub-station and its boss a superintendent, but inasmuch as Globe Village considers him its postmaster, it is naturally anxious to know whether Trahan, if selected, will be a subject of King George working for Uncle Sam.

Trahan exhibits a birth certificate showing he was born in Grosvenordale, Conn. When only 4 years old his family moved to Canada. Growing up in the little city of Blind River, Ont., Trahan apparently won the confidence of his fellow men there enough so that he was elected mayor, serving a two-year term.

Globe Village wants to know what kind of an oath of office Trahan took when he took the reins of office in Blind River? Did he swear allegiance to King George? If so, was it the same as renouncing his allegiance to Uncle Sam and the citizenship his Connecticut birth gave him?

Last May Trahan bought out the little store in Globe Village owned by Miss Carrie Smith. The principal asset of this store is the fact that it is a sub-station of Southbridge postoffice. Naturally enough, Trahan now wishes to be Miss Smith's successor as postmaster. He says when he crossed the Canadian border and told his story to American immigration officials, including the fact that he had been mayor of a Canadian city and was born in Connecticut, they told him they believed he was an American citizen.

Evening school work will begin at the State Trade school this year with enrollment night Sept. 28th, in the Trade School office, when applications will be received and assignments made to the various departments.

Applicants are to get application blanks in advance so as to save time in registering. These may be secured at Burt's store, Dupre's store or the Trade School office.

Last year the school enrolled well over 150 in its evening classes. Instruction will be given in the following subjects: Machine shop practice, carpentry; steel square application, framing, cabinet making, weaving and loom fixing, cloth analysis and designing, yarn calculations, elementary and advanced electrical work, mechanical drafting, architectural drafting, shop mathematics, sewing, dressmaking, millinery, cooking.

Classes in machine shop practice, elementary and advanced electrical work, cloth analysis and designing, yarn calculations, weaving and loom fixing, will be held Monday and Thursday nights from 7.30 to 9.30.

Classes in architectural and mechanical drafting, shop mathematics, carpentry, including framing and steel square application, will be held Tuesday and Friday evenings from 7.30 to 9.30.

In the home economics departments sewing and millinery on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday evenings. Cooking, meal planning and serving Monday and Thursday evenings.

The small fee charged in the trades department is not an instruction fee but is intended to cover material costs and insure regular attendance.

Joseph H. Burke has left after a period of three years' training at the school to take a position with the Royal Typewriter company, Hartford. Mr. Burke is a veteran of the World war who has been training at the school in the employment objective of building estimator.

Hosts followed a time-honored custom Wednesday in attending Woodstock fair. Wednesday was the big day, a fact made so not only by the advertising of the fact but also because the public familiar with the fair is prepared each year to gather from all corners of Windham and adjoining counties and enjoy an old-time agricultural show, together with the modern innovations that go to make such affairs a success.

Shortly after 9 o'clock the crowd began to pour through the gates and the incoming tide continued to flow until well along in the afternoon, when several thousand were on the grounds.

This year the fair is much the same as it has been for the past decade. Wednesday there was a good cattle show and exhibitions of plowing by oxen and horses and other time-honored features. The exhibit of poultry also was of interest.

Out on the midway, the concessions were of interest to a great many people and they were busy all day. State police officers inspected these concessions and kept careful tabs on them throughout the day to see that no provision of the state laws were violated, for Woodstock fair prides itself on being an exhibition that lives from year to year without resort to any device that may be regarded as questionable.

In the exhibition hall this year the outstanding display was the fruit, for which Woodstock is famous. There was an abundance of apples and other fruit, and an especially fine display was by the Windham County Fruit Growers' association, their exhibit being arranged in conjunction with the Windham County Farmers' association.

Flowers were shown in profusion and there were fine exhibits of dairy products and needlework and of representations of various other activities of those who continue to live in agricultural districts and by their labors to feed the nation.

To add to the pleasure of the day there was a band concert and horse races during the afternoon. The track was in good condition and there was sufficient entries to make the racing worth while.

Today brings the close of the fair, which in large measure is an Old Home day event for people for miles around.

Today (Thursday) those of this city who were brought into the superior court at Willimantic Tuesday on bench warrants to answer to charges of violation of the liquor laws will return to the court to face disposition of their cases. It was indicated here Wednesday that there was a disposition among those who are accused to enter pleas of not guilty and stand trial. The majority of the accused have furnished the necessary bond for their appearance when wanted and have engaged counsel to defend them. The cases promise much of interest before disposed of, and the outcome of the adventure is awaited with very general public interest.

WESTERLY

The eleventh Thursday evening band concert by the Westerly band in the series of summer concerts will be given this (Thursday) evening in Wilcox park at 8 o'clock. The twelfth and final concert will be given on a Sunday afternoon at an early date. The concerts during the summer have been largely attended and music presented by the Westerly band, Charles O. Gavitt, leader, has been greatly enjoyed. The program for Thursday's concert follows:

A special meeting of Westerly Town council was held Wednesday forenoon at 11.30 when the voting list for the financial town meeting was canvassed. President Clifford Campbell reported arrnagements completed for the town to take title to land owned by the Washington Trust Co., which will permit the continuance of Margin and Clark streets. The lighting committee of the council last Saturday night went over the lights of the white way system with a view to adding more lamps for the purpose of filling in the dark spots, and their report will be ready in a short time.

Henry Ryon of North Cambridge, Mass., who has been in the employ of the Greek-American Fruit Co., during the summer, left Westerly Wednesday night for New York City.

The automobile party of which "Hodge" Metivier is the correspondent, and which is now on a trip with Quebec, the objective, was heard from Wednesday, Albany, N. Y., was the last place of address.

Carroll Jagger of Cape May, Va., in the employ of the Pennsylvania railroad, is the guest of his mother, Mrs. Foster Jagger, in Westerly.

At Kingston Fair, Wednesday was Grange Day, when the program followed this order:

8.30 a. m.—Automobile show.
9.00 a. m.—Bicycle race.
10.00 a. m.—Judging grange floats.
10.30 a. m.—Parade of grande floats around track.
10.30 a. m.—Entertainment by B. F. Keith Vaudeville Exchange in front of grand stand.
11.30 a. m.—Musical exercises and speaking in Hazard Hall immediately after the parade.
12.00 m.—Judging town teams.
21.30 p. m.—Musical selections in automobile tent.
1.00 p. m.—Races. Mile heats, best 3 in 5, called alternately. 2.25 trot, purse $400; 2.20 pace, purse $400; 2.30 trot, colts 3 years or under, purse $400. Best 2 in 3.
2.30 p. m.—Awarding of special prizes, given by the R. I. Hospital Trust Co., for best exhibit of farm products.
3.00 p. m.—Prizes awarded for best exhibit of Boys' and Girls' Clubs.

10.45 a. m.—All premium horses and cattle will be placed in line.
11.00 a. m.—Grand cavalcade of premium horses and cattle around the track.
12.30 a. m.—Concert in Automobile Tent.
12 m.—Address of the day in Hazard Hall by Dr. George E. Vincent, famous Educator and Speaker.
12.45 p. m.—The society will entertain at dinner in the large eating tent, the governor and his staff, members of the legislature and other guests.
1.00 p. m.—Vaudeville in front of grand stand.
1.00 p. m.—The following races will be called alternately, best 3 in 5. 2.14 pace, purse $500; 2.17 trot, purse $500; 2.14 trot, purse $500.
6.00 p. m.—Gates closed.

So interesting did the grange parade become that the Wednesday morning vaudeville program in front of the grandstand was left out and full time was given the grangers. The morning bicycle races were first run off and in the half-mile match race between Main of Westerly and Einstein of Wakefield, the latter was the winner, his time being 1 min. 27 sec. The Miss and Out race was finished, Main, first; Harvey, second and Strout, third. A most pleasing picture was presented by a parade of the various granges and their floats and the task of the five judges to pick the winners was difficult. Vice President Earl C. Whaley announced the winners as follows: First, West Kingston No. 10; second, Quidnesset No. 44; third, Narragansett No. 1; fourth, Richmond No. 6; fifth, Exeter No. 12. The other granges represented were Hope Valley No. 7, Ashaway No. 50, Perryville No. 14 and Slocum No. 26. In Hazard hall an entertaining program was given, a selection by the Perryville Fife and Drum corps, song, Little Boy Blue, by Mrs. Harvey Baker of Buffalo; brief address by Burton K. Harris, state grange lecturer, with the main address by Burton T. Mowry, Massachusetts state lecturer.

Following the exercises in the hall there took place the judging of town teams in the center of the race track oval. In the 3000 and 2400 lbs. draft horses, the competition was between teams of J. R. Girard of Canonchet.

The races which followed the team contests were delayed by one of the entries not appearing on the track until a time after the scheduled starting hour.

To take care of the larger crowd that usually attends Kingston fair on Governor's day, an extra accommodation train will be run this (Thursday) morning, which leaves (d. s. t.) New London 8.30, Mystic 8.53, Stonington 9.01 and Westerly 9.11 and makes the return trip after the races.

Friday at the fair will be Fireman's day. In the muster the parade forms 10.45 and the "tube" are paraded once around the track. Drawings for positions, held at the fire station in Wickford Tuesday night resulted as follows: First, Hancock, Brooklyn, Mass.; second, Enterprise, Camaello, Mass.; third, Washington, Wickford, R. I.; fourth, Aberdeen, Wakefield, R. I.; fifth, Protection, Brookville, Mass.; sixth, Defiance, Riverside, R. I.; seventh, Westerly; eighth, Volunteer, East Greenwich, R. I.; ninth, Protector, Brockton, Mass.; tenth, Nonantum, Providence.

STONINGTON

The annual financial town meeting of Stonington comes Monday evening in Borough hall. The selectmen, assisted by Miss Winifred Casey, assistant town clerk, have prepared the annual financial statement for printing and it will soon be ready for distribution. The town school report has been printed and will be distributed at once.

The board of registration of the town will meet Saturday, Sept. 15, in the morning at Mystic and in the afternoon and evening in the borough to pass on the qualifications of those whose names appear on the lists to be made.

The Garden club members of Stonington, through the courtesy of the General Federation of Women's clubs had a lecture with stereopticon views Wednesday evening in Community house, which was greatly enjoyed by a large number. The lecture was on "The Way to a Good Small Garden."

PENALIZING THE RECKLESS.

Aimed at the reduction of reckless auto driving Commissioner Stoeckel of the motor vehicles department serves timely notice upon such drivers when he announces that "the license of every driver convicted of reckless driving will be suspended forthwith."

The reason for this is clear enough. There is a steady increase in the number of auto drivers and the number will be larger before it is less. With the increase in cars and drivers there is greater use of the highways and the one reckless driver today endangers many more than he did a few years ago. The reckless driver is in a class that needs discouragement rather than encouragement, and if it isn't possible to impress that upon the drivers in any other way they will indulge in such conduct with a full realization of the fact that they will be deprived of their license if convicted.

Paying a fine and being informed that pleas of guilty to reckless driving or conviction will not cause the loss of a license will not hold good henceforth. Too much advantage is taken of it. The policy has not brought sufficient respect for the law and the rights of others. Too many instances of reckless driving have been disclosed. With the suspensions for eight months of this year four times what they were for the same period last year it becomes plain that there is good and sufficient reason for the notice which the motor vehicles commissioner has served upon auto drivers.

Being deprived of the right to drive a machine will weigh more heavily on some than on others. Such a large number as 2862 with suspended licenses calls for much vigilance on the part of the department to see that the suspensions are not violated, but the need of protecting the law-abiding users of the highways is of the greatest importance, and whatever measures are necessary to reduce the number of reckless drivers are fully justified. The warning should induce many to keep out and cause others to get out of the reckless classification.

WHAT WILL PENNSYLVANIA DO?

Recently there was a gathering of governors or their representatives concerning the question of handling fuel in case of a coal strike. The aim was to bring about the cooperation between states that is necessary in order to get the best results in the movement of substitute fuels.

That conference seemed to get nowhere in particular, but it may have been because of the strong conviction that prevailed that the coal strike would be averted. The coal strike came and is still with us but the agreement that has been reached insures fuel so that there will be no shortage. Thus the result of that conference of governors makes little difference.

In connection with the matter of preventing the public from being saddled with an increase in the cost of anthracite after mining is resumed, Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania has written to a larger number of governors for a conference that will deal with this situation. Just what will be done cannot be anticipated. The governor has not revealed his programme. Whatever effort can be made to prevent the consumer from paying any more is laudable, but while there is knowledge of the huge profits made by those who gambled in coal and steps are being taken to see what can be done about a reduction in the rates for hauling coal, isn't it likely that the governors, if they get a chance, will be anxious to find out if Pennsylvania proposes to do anything about removing that tax from anthracite that has now been in operation a year or more?

This levy aroused much opposition. Its collection was fought on the grounds of unconstitutionality, but it was held by the courts to be legal. Pennsylvania is getting millions from the coal consumers for no other reason than that they use coal and must pay the tax. Instead of the Keystone state insisting upon increasing the burden of the consumer there is an excellent opportunity now to step in and do a little sacrificing on its own part, along with the others. Can Governor Pinchot get Pennsylvania to see the reasonableness of it?

SMUGGLED IMMIGRANTS.

There are those in this country who have gotten in without complying with the immigration laws. They may be bragging about it or not, but the fact remains nevertheless that if confronted with the question as to whether they had passed the tests of the immigration officials they would have to admit, if they were honest about it, that they had not. And if they have failed to take the examination and have been smuggled in, the presumption is good that there was a reason for it, and there is good ground for believing that they would have failed to come up to requirements.

As it is now there is little chance of bringing such people to account. Except in a few instances being in the country is regarded as pretty good evidence that they have a right to be here, but when it is known that there are those who are engaged in the business of smuggling aliens into the country it is not too soon to consider measures for preventing such activities as well as punishing those guilty.

Secretary Davis of the department of labor would deal with this situation by requiring that all persons admitted to the country be given a registration or identification card, possibly with finger prints, telling when and where he landed. That would mean that the recently admitted alien could be checked up. He would have to be careful to see that his card was not lost and that he had it with him most of the time, but it would be a protection for the fellow who had passed muster and a bar against the smuggled foreigner without our gates.

Such a step may be regarded as red tape and subjecting the newcomer to a lot of trouble and responsibility, but it is only another of those things that develop as the result of the studied and determined efforts of others to circumvent the law for which new regulations are made necessary to cover those who respect as well as those who are disposed to break the law. Knowledge that they are likely to get caught would under such circumstances bring about a greater respect for the immigration restrictions. Certainly we want none of the undesirables.

A BELATED ADMISSION.

It's a big admission for the German chancellor when he declares that the policy of passive resistance in the Ruhr is a failure. It comes after that policy has been put into operation, however, and given a most thorough test. It has meant not only a big financial sacrifice to Germany but it has raised havoc in that most important industrial section. Germany might well have seen it at the start and avoided the harmful effects and the necessity of admitting failure. It was convinced, however, that it could defeat the object of France and cause it to show the white feather.

Tested from all angles, passive resistance has failed and Germany is the last to realize it. Perhaps it is well that it is weakened financial because of it, for otherwise it would not be in a mood to back up.

It seems to have been one of those lessons which had to be taught, regardless of the powerful one that had preceded it. Now if Germany is ready, as claimed, to make guarantees that will be worth something, and is actually sincere as it makes them, there promises to be an end to the Ruhr situation, a development that will be quite as pleasing to the rest of Europe as it will be to the two countries actually involved.

Elation will not be displayed very freely, however, until the proposition is fully presented, the agreement made and doubly secured. The need of a settlement of the Ruhr situation has long existed. Much time and money, many lives and much property have been wasted in a futile endeavor. Germany would have done itself more credit had it realized the situation before it forced France to move into the Ruhr.

ANTIQUATED CHARTER JUNKED.

Up in Portland, Me., a one-sided contest was waged this week relative to the city charter. It was not a new movement but one that had been developing for some time. The demand for a new charter failed of success on the previous referendum. This time there were two alternatives presented for getting rid of the old charter. One was for the revision of the existing charter to which there seems to have been a growing opposition, while the other was the plan to inaugurate the council-manager former of city government. The chance to retain the present charter was also open to the voters.

In the contest sentiment seemed to lie between the present charter and the council-manager plan which had been presented and sponsored by 100 of the business men, much the same as was done in New London when that form of government was adopted there. Whether Portland will be any more favorably impressed with the change than New London has been remains to be seen. The opportunity to get rid of some objectionable features of existing charters seems to have been appreciated in both instances. Portland saw the chance to get away from an antiquated charter and made the most of it. It may not be perfect but it probably opens the way for betterments in the city government.

The claim that has been made that the Portland charter change was due to the Ku Klux Klan seems to have been a bit far fetched, for while there may have been Klan indorsement, it was by no means a Klan proposition and there's no way of telling whether approval did anything more than offset the antagonism that its participation in the contest may have caused.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Are the coal consumers joining in the cry 'Never mind the price of coal so long as we get it?"

September nights are turning attention to the condition of the overcoats in case of early need.

The man on the corner says: Some continue to be reckless because their time to be called hasn't arrived.

It may take courage in some instances but why discard the straw hat during these warm September days?

Can you imagine those 120,000 New York youngsters putting up a howl because there are not sufficient seats for them?

The talk about the increase in the price of anthracite mined under the new agreement is only what can be expected.

Now that Ireland has been admitted to the league of nations it mustn't expect that all of its troubles have disappeared.

Those who are giving to the Japanese relief realize of course that such is deductible from the income tax. That furnishes an added reason for giving and giving generously.

When the governor of Pennsylvania asks the president to have the interstate commerce commission look into freight rates it should not be forgotten that the coal commission turned that job over to it some time ago.

THE TOSS-UP

"I was an employe of Braselton's, at the Gatepost office, when Lucy Braselton came there to work, and I had to listen to a lot of Old Bras's bragging about how he told the stenography school to send him the best steneg they had, and they sent him his own daughter," said the reminiscent bookkeeper.

"A new stenographer in the office, and especially a pretty one like Miss Lucy, always kind of stirred the boys up, and on such occasions there was usually a lot of winking and smirking and face-making going on. This time I turned to exchange winks with Jimmy Blake, but Jimmy wasn't doing any winking that day. He was just staring at Miss Lucy. Jimmy's blinking days ended right there.

"Slim Saunderson didn't happen to be in the office when Miss Lucy first came in, but when he entered and saw her you would have thought it was Christmas morning and he had drawn the prize present.

"And so Miss Lucy hadn't been in the office any time before Slim and Jimmy were putting in about three nights a week out at Old Braselton's house, besides bussing around the office with books and stationery and trying to say things with flowers and candy.

"Old Bras himself didn't seem to care which man his daughter chose. Both were good men making good money and with plenty of chance for advancement. But Miss Lucy didn't seem to be in much of a hurry about picking either one of them. She never showed any partiality at all and never gave either one of them the advantage.

"When Saunderson looked up from the coin he saw Old Bras and Lucy looking awfully sorry for Jimmy, especially Lucy. As a matter of fact, Lucy felt so sorry for Jimmy that she went up to him and put her arms around his neck. Jimmy was already holding out one hand, you see, so he had only to extend the other one to take Lucy in.

"Old Bras, square-shooting old gent, yells: 'What's this?' What's this?' and Saunderson, pointing to the coin, yells: 'I won! I won!'

"And according to the coin he did, no doubt about that. But the higher court reversed the decision. In other words, the woman's heart decided in favor of the loser, which is the way with women like Miss Lucy Braselton." Whenever either one of them tried top put something over on the other one he came near losing his admission ticket right there.

"Jimmy was the first one who tried that. He bought a roadster. But Miss Lucy wouldn't go riding in the roadster at all until one day they hit on a lucky arrangement by which all three could go at once. Miss Lucy sitting on Saunderson's knee. Next day Jimmy sold the roadster and got a seven-passenger car.

"Then Saunderson, the outside man, started in to make a high-power salesman of himself. He brought in a lot of orders which attracted favorable notice in the head office. He got a nice letter and a title and more money and about that time he looked like the goods to the bunch in the office. But not to Miss Lucy. She seemed to favor Jimmy a little more than before and the seven passenger car got to running around with only two in it.

"The situation got on the nerves of the office bunch when it had gone on for three years, and we would ultimately have broken down under the strain if Old Bras himself hadn't taken a hand. He said this dangling of two suitors around indefinitely had to stop; it wasn't fair to either one of them.

"But Miss Lucy simply couldn't choose between them, although both suitors said they were game for a verdict. Then somebody proposed that they toss a coin and let the coin decide. Lucy finally agreed.

"It was fixed that Jimmy and Saunderson should eat dinner at the Braselton home, and that after dinner they would flip a coin on the dining-room table. If it came heads Lucy would marry Saunderson; if it came tails she would marry Jimmy.

"I guess it was a kind of a high tension meal they had there that night. Neither one of 'em looked at Lucy much, and you can't blame 'em.

"Lucy proposed once that the thing be postponed a week more, but all three men said emphatically 'No!' They would have nervous prostration in an other twenty-four hours.

"'All right, then,' said Lucy. 'Let it be a penny. I like the idea of a copper cent choosing my husband for me!'

"'We'll take a penny,' agreed Old Bras. 'Here goes!'

"He held his fist over the table and shot the coin from his thumb like a boy shooting marbles. It was a pretty stout thumb and the coin went nearly to the ceiling, spinning to beat the band as it descended upon the table. As the circle narrowed down everybody could see that the coin was going to settle down heads uppermost.

"Jimmy didn't wait to see the thing settle down flat. He'd seen enough already. He started to leave the room, then stopped to congratulate the winner, for he was a game boy, Jimmy was.

"Old Braz looked at the coin lying there on the table and then took a look around to see how the others were taking the verdict. There was Jimmy standing in the middle of the floor popeyed and holding his hand out to Sanderson.—Exchange.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

General Sir Charles Carmichael Monroe, who just assumed his new duties as Governor and Commander in Chief of Gibraltar, has had a brilliant military career and held many important positions under the British military administration. Born in 1860, he entered the army at the age of 19 and ten years later had attained the rank of captain. He served with distinction in the war in South Africa and in the frontier warfare in India. For five years, from 1907 to 1912, he was in command of an infantry brigade in Dublin. Then he was assigned to the command of a division of the Territorial Force, which post he held at the outbreak of the European war in 1914. He was immediately sent to France in command of the First Army Corps and distinguished himself throughout the long conflict. In recognition of his services high honors were bestowed upon him by France, Belgium and Italy as well as by his home Government.

Just Apply This Paste and the Hairs Will Vanish

(Boudoir Secrets)

The judicious use of a delatone paste insures any woman a clear, hairless skin. To prepare the paste, mix a little of the powdered delatone with some water, then apply to the objectionable hairs for two or three minutes. When the paste is removed, and the skin washed, every trace of hair will have vanished. No pain attends the use of the delatone and it will not mar the most sensitive skin, but to insure results, see that you get real delatone.

GOOD LUCK IN "13"

Today is the 13th, a date accounted unlucky by many people, for reasons difficult to explain. But while the number is associated with ill luck in the minds of many, there are plenty of notable people living today who, so far from being afraid of "13", count it their lucky number. One is the great explorer, Nansen. On his great voyage, he started on March 13th with 13 men. He reached civilization again on Aug. 13th, and was entertained at the thirteenth dinner of the Scottish Geographical Society on the Following February 13th.

Another who likes "13" is Hall Caine. Four of his most successful novels were published on the 13th day of the month, the most successful on a 13th that was also a Friday. His play, "The Bondman," was produced at Drury Lane in London on a 13th. All through 13 has been kind to him.

General John J. Pershing (13 letters in that signature), who was born on the 13th of September, sixty-three years ago today, landed in Europe to represent the United States in the World war on June 13th, 1917.

Other notables who celebrate their birthdays today and have no reason to complain of the luck of "13" are Theodore Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy; Maud Ballington Booth, the famous social worker; Dr. Cyrus Adler, the celebrated Jewish scholar and educator, and Henry F. Ashurst, United States senator from Arizona.

A striking instance of the luck of "13" was provided by the great composer, Richard Wagner. With 13 letters in his name, he was born in 1813 (the figures in which add up to 13), on the 13th of the month. "Tannhauser" was finished on the 13th day of the month and first performed on a 13th.

Wagner died on February 13th, 1883—not an instance of luck, but an odd coincidance—at the ripe age of seventy, leaving 13 completed works behind him.

After all, the unlucky 13 superstition is only more or less modern, for in the old days it was held a fortunate number, especially in the East. Among the Jews 13 cities were dedicated to the priestly tribe of Levi; 13 high priests descended from Aaron; the preparations for the Passover commenced upon the 13th day of the month Nisan, and there were 13 ingredients in the sacred incense.

Henry M. Stanley, the great African explorer, received the Freedom of the City of London on a 13th. The 13th was the wedding day of the Duke of Connaught and Princess Louise Margaret of Prussia. The capture of Magdala and the end of the Abyssinian war occurred on April 13, 1868.

Queen Victoria chose the 13th as the date for taking her first journey by train. The famous Berlin Congress of the European Powers was opened on June 13, 1878, and concluded its deliberations on July 13th following. The Americans won the victory at Chapultepec on September 13th, 1847. The English won the great battle on the Plains of Abraham on September 13th, 1759.

But despite all evidence to the contrary, the superstition concerning "unlucky 13" persists. Railroad and steamship travel is always lighter on the 13th than on any other day of the month. In many hotels and apartment houses the expedient has been adopted of using "12A" as a room number, in deference to guests and tenants who would avoid the "unlucky 13." And in many European cities "13" is deemed so unlucky that none of the houses bear that number.

DOCTORS WANTED TO OPERATE

Mrs. Quillon Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Saved Her from an Operation

Muskegon, Michigan.—"After doctoring for eight or nine years with different physicians without any relief at all, they said at last that medicine would not reach my case and I should have an operation. I had heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and often saw it advertised in different papers where some women had suffered just as I did and got well and strong again by taking the Vegetable Compound. I decided to see what it would do for me, and before I had finished the fourth bottle I was much better, the weakness stopped and the severe pains in my sides left me. I am now much stronger and do my own work and work in the factory besides. I am still taking the Vegetable Compound and give it all the praise."—Mrs. NELLIE QUILLON, 17 Morris St., Muskegon, Mich.

Women should heed such warning symptoms as bearing-down pains and weakness, for they indicate some female trouble, and a persistent and faithful use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will seldom fail to help.

WEDDING.

Sauersoph—Voech.

Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock in St. Patrick's church, Joseph John Sauersoph of New London and Miss Julia Anna Voech of Perry avenue, were united in marriage by Rev. M. H. May, rector of the church. The maid of honor was Miss Anna Voech, sister of the bride, and the bridesmaids were Miss Mary Sauersoph, sister of the groom, and Miss Johanna Schaffausen. The flower girl was Miss Frances Schaffausen. The best man was Stephen Voech, brother of the bride. The ushers were Martin Wheeler and Leonard Suntheimer.

The bride was gowned in white georgette crepe with spanish lace and veil. Her maid of honor was gowned in blue and the bridesmaids wore peach crepe de chine. The bride carried white roses and lilies of the valley and the matron of honor carried pink roses while the bridesmaids carried bouquets of gladioli and dahlias.

Following the ceremony there was a wedding breakfast and reception at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Voech on Perry avenue. There were nearly 200 guests present, some coming from Schenectady, Philadelphia, New York, New London, Newport and other places. The bride received many beautiful gifts. The groom's gift to his bride was a platinum brooch and to the best man and ushers he gave cuff links. The bride's gift to the groom was a K. of C. card case, to the maid of honor a silver mesh bag, to the bridesmaids brooches and to the flower girl a bracelet.

During the evening the bride and groom left for a wedding tour to New York and other places and on their return will make their home in New London. The bride's traveling gown was of black crepe de chine and black satin with black veil and hat to match.

For some time past the bride has been employed as a stenographer in the office of the inspector of machinery, U. S. N., at the plant of the New London Ship and Engine Company. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sauersoph of New London and is employed by the Babcock Printing Press Company in New London.

J. and other places, and there were a number of beautiful floral forms. At 9 o'clock there was a mass of requiem at St. Mary's Memorial church with Rev. William A. Keefe rector, celebrant. Henry J. LaFontaine had charge of the music and at the close of the mass rendered a hymn. Burial took place in St. Mary's cemetery, Father Keefe conducting the committal service.

The bearers were William H. Harrington, George H. Dolan, Andrew Deneff and Charles McGibney. In addition to those previous mentioned as surviving Mr. Landoit are two nieces, Mrs. Katie Connelly and Mrs. Josephine Wasterman in Paterson, a grand nephew, Clement Westerman and a grand niece Madeline Westerman.

KEEPING UP WATCH FOR MONTGOMERY AND WILSON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Sept. 2.—Three days have now elapsed since the disappearance of William Wilson and Robert Montgomery, Norwich youths, who departed from Crescent Beach Monday in a canoe to go fishing and have not been seen since. But the finding of their overturned canoe yesterday morning off Goshen Point, makes it almost positive that the youths have met a watery grave. Searching parties have scoured the waters between Crescent Beach and the mouth of this harbor, but no signs of the bodies or any trace of them has been found and it is highly probable that it will be some time before the bodies are recovered. Besides a watch being maintained along the New London shore and between New London harbor and Fishers Island by river pilots, a United States coast guard at Fishers Island and the military authorities there are exercising a watch so that if the bodies appear in the vicinity of Fishers Island or the mouth of the harbor they will be quickly recovered.

GIVEN RE-APPOINTMENT AS HUMANE SOCIETY AGENTS

The society now operates nine motor vehicles. The membership listal remains about the same and, the total number of contributors compares favorably with that of a year ago.

Death of Mrs. George W. Reed

S. Hussey Reed of Gardner Court, has again been called to his former home in Houlton, Maine, because of a death in the family. His mother, Mrs. George W. Reed, died Wednesday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs Arthur Mellor in Pawtucket, R. I., after several weeks illness from Brights disease. Mr. Reed's father died less than three weeks ago after several months illness from the same cause. The body of Mrs. Reed will be taken to Houlton, Maine, where she had lived, for burial.

BLOW ON HEAD WITH SHOVEL SENDS MAN TO THE HOSPITAL

Struck on the head with a shovel in the hands of Anthony Masalsky of No. 11 Tyler avenue, Andrew Petrosky is in a serious condition at the Backus hospital, and Masalsky is held by the local police in bonds of $2,500 on a charge of assault with intent to kill and murder. Masalsky and Petrosky, both employed at the woolen mill in Thamesville, got into an argument at the mill about noon on Wednesday.

Masalsky becoming enraged, hit Petrosky over the head with a shovel. Dr. Harrison Gray was called to attend the injured man and had him removed to the Backus hospital. Dr. C. C. Gildersleeve, medical examiner, was notified owing to the seriousness of the man's condition. Late Wednesday afternoon an X-ray of the injured man's head was taken at the hospital.

Masalsky gave himself up to the police about 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon when he appeared at the police station. He was held by Chief George Linton and later in the afternoon a charge of assault with intent to kill and murder was lodged against him, bonds being fixed at $2,500.

Early this (Thursday) morning the injured man was resting comfortably at the hospital with a good chance of recovery. His injuries consist of a V-shaped fracture of the skull over the right eye and a cut over the right eye. He also had several teeth loosened.

Masalsky remained locked up at police headquarters over night as he failed to secure a bondsman.

PRESERVING DONORS' NAMES OF MEMORIAL WINDOWS

Now that the old St. Mary's church on North Main street, which was bought by the Shetucket Coal and Lumber Co., is being transformed into a garage by the new owners, Rev. W. A. Keefe is taking means to perpetuate the names of those who gave the memorial windows in the old church. He has had the windows removed intact and will arrange for a suitable memorial or tablet, yet to be decided upon, to be placed in the new St. Mary's Memorial church. This will keep alive the names of those who out of their generosity and hard earnings placed the memorial windows in the old church and did much to foster the Catholic faith in this city.

The old church was opened for public worship March 17, 1845, and later, as the congregations increased, the front section, which in later days became the main entrance, was added. The last mass offered in the old church was the low mass at 9 o'clock celebrated by Rev. Frederick M. Cohalan on Sunday morning, Dec. 10, 1922. The new Memorial church was dedicated at 10.30 the same day by Bishop John J. Nilan and visiting priests, the solemn high mass being offered by Rev. John P. Walsh, a young man raised in the parish. Since then all the parish services have been held in the new church.

The donors of the 18 memorial windows in the old church were as follows, named in order from the epistle to the gospel side of the old altar:

(1) In Memory of Rev. James Birracree
Gift of Grace Lotter.

(2) Gift of Patrick and Hannah Sweeney.

(3) Gift of John and Honora Coyle.
Gift of William and Catherine Buckley.

(4) In Memory of James Dearing.
Gift of William Daly.

(5) Gift of Margaret Burke.

TO UNVEIL PUTNAM TABLET AT DANVERS

Members of the Putnam Association of America from many parts of the United States are going to Danvers, Mass., Friday to participate in an honor to one of the most illustrious of their ancestors—General Israel Putnam. The famous soldier of the Revolution and of the Indian wars, the man who gave the command, "Do not fire until you see the whites of their eyes," to the patriots entrenched at Charlestown, was born in Danvers two hundred years ago. In commemoration of the anniversary the Putnam Association, together with Putnam chapters of the Daughters of the American Revolution in Putnam and in Plainfield, Conn., and the Colonel Daniel Putnam Association of Brooklyn, Conn., has presented a bronze tablet that has been erected on the Emerson homestead at 491 Maple street, Danvers, the birthplace of General Putnam, and which is to be unveiled on Friday.

The ceremony of unveiling will take place at eleven o'clock in the forenoon. The inscription on the tablet mentions Putnam's purchase of Mortlake Manor in Brooklyn, then Pomfret, Conn., comprising 514 acres, and his removal there in 1740 with his wife and son Israel. The inscription closes as follows:

Presented to the Israel Putnam Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution at Danvers, by the Putnam Associates:

The Elizabeth Porter Putnam Chapter, D. A. R., Putnam, Conn.

The Colonel Daniel Putnam Association, Brooklyn, Conn.

CLIFF ST. SHED WAS FOUND IN A BLAZE

Wednesday morning at 10:38 o'clock the fire department responded to a telephone call for a fire in a shed at 34 Cliff street. One line of hose was laid and the fire was quickly extinguished. The shed was a mass of flames when the firemen arrived.

Children playing with matches are said to be responsible for the blaze. The property is owned by Cornelius Leary.

Given Birthday Party

John Eckstein was given a birthday surprise party Tuesday evening at his home 318 Franklin street, by a number of his friends. Ritter's orchestra of seven pieces furnished music for dancing. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Eckstein assisted by Mrs. Nick Conaty. Mr. Eckstein received a number of nice gifts. A social time closed a very pleasant evening.

LORETTA HIGGINS ARRIVING AT NEW YORK FRIDAY

Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Higgins of 223 Broadway will leave today (Thursday) for New York to meet their daughter, Loretta, prima donna of the Opera Comique, Paris, who sailed on Saturday, Sept. 8, from Cherburg, on the Mauretania, due to land in New York Friday. After her arrival she will consult with Walter Damrosch and other celebrities and impressarios. Shortly after, she will return to her girlhood home and greet "lang syne" friends, whom she has not seen since she left over two years ago, a representative of Connecticut, appointed by ex-Governor Lake, to study vocal music in the Conservatory of Music in Fontainebleau, France. She will give her first American concert in Slater hall, Norwich, on the evening of October 9, under the direction of Robert Kellogg of Hartford, and the auspices of the Rotary club of Norwich. Under Mr. Kellogg's management she will appear in concert in many cities of Connecticut this fall. The Hartford concert will take place at Foot Guard hall under the auspices of the Hartford Lions' club.

The advances of Miss Higgins in the concert and operatic field makes a romantic story. Four years ago she was a girl of nineteen, starting the battle of life, without friends of power—of other friends she had a multitude—and with little but a fascinating, lyric voice and a personality which mingled charm and buoyancy. But she had a brave will and a sustained devotion to music as an art and one obstacle after another she overcame. While at Connecticut college she was the college correspondent for The Bulletin and later she was on the staff of the Hartford Courant. Then she obtained her appointment from Governor Lake and went sailing across the Atlantic to the city of her dreams, Paris, and then to Fontainebleau, where she received her diploma with honors. Later she became the protege of Dr. Albert Wolfe, famed throughout the world for his artistic work as director of the Opera Comique in Paris.

The days in Paris were filled with absorbing work in her musical studies but she turned in her spare moments to newspaper work and in this she made a hit. She won by persistency, rare judgment and instant action when an opening came, an interview with Lloyd George. She wrote musical news and views for the Paris edition of the New York Herald and she took news to Paris correspondents of American journals. But her newspaper work, successful as it was, was subordinate to her centered, compelling love for her art. As she grew in training and development she met opportunity to sing on the concert state. She appeared in Paris, Monte Carlo, Brussels, London, Nottingham, Dublin and other European cities.

In due course of time came her supreme chance and again she won, becoming a member of the famed grand opera company of the Opera Comique, Paris. Recent Associated Press despatches from Paris tell of one half year's of study, development, and unrally, triumphant she comes back to the state and home of her girlhood, recognized as an operatic star of the first rank.

Her appearance in Norwich will be for the benefit of the Rotary club's boys' work fund.

GAVE NORWICH ROTARIANS TALK ON EVOLUTION

In a brief talk before the Norwich Rotary club at the regular noonday luncheon on Wednesday at the Wauregan hotel, Charles L. Abbott of St. Paul, Minn., author of "What Comes from What," told the members of the club an interesting story of the evolution of animal and plant life. Mr. Abbott illustrated his talk with comprehensive charts showing the evolution of the animals nad plants. Joseph L. Adams operated the stereopticon.

Mr. Abbott divides flowering plants into two groups, those with separate petals, as the buttercup, and those with united or bell-shaped petals, as the morning glory. The latter have been evolved from the former and are therefore higher in the scale of development. But no fairy came in the night and served up the petals. The morning glory form was produced by failure of the petals to split apart.

From a simple flower with inedible seeds have come, by marvelous transformation (illustrated on the screen), all our principal fruits—apples, pears, plums, cherries, peaches, apricots, blackberries, raspberries and strawberries.

Frogs have come from toads—not toads from frogs—and reptiles from scaly amphibians, lizards, squeezing through narrow passages, lost their legs and eyelids and became snakes, though the boa constrictor still retains his hind legs and uses his claws in climbing trees. Rattlesnakes have been developed from the bushmaster of South America.

Birds came from reptiles about 11,000,000 years ago, the scales changing to feathers, and about the same time other reptiles changed to mammals covered with hairs. But the hairs did not come from the scales. They grew up among the scales, which then disappeared, leaving a hairy body. The armadillo, though covered with hair beneath, still carries on its back the scales of its repitilian ancestors.

Wasps are the ancestors of bees and ants, in the latter case losing their wings and stings. All our insects come from the Palaeodictyoptera, which lived 17,000,000 years ago.

Cats, dogs, seals and whales come from the Creodonts, which liver 5,000,000 years ago.

The remote ancestor of man is the extinct propliopithecus, which lived in trees about 4,000,000 years ago. It came down and lived in caves, and this was the beginning of family life. Mr. Propliopithecus, no longer needing his hands for climbing, became the provider, while Mrs. Propliopithecus, who had not yet learned housekeeping or cooking, cared for the baby. The more she cared for the baby the more she loved it, and the more she loved it the more she cared for it, the result of which was that the baby became more helpless. Instead of developing physical strength it developed intellect and the power of speech and became human. Every baby is living proof our ancestors lived in trees, its first instinct being to grasp something and hold on tight, fearing it will fall.

At the business session of the club Vice President Grosvenor Ely presided in the absence of President Charles A. Saxton, who with other of the club members is attending the fall conclave at Rutland, Vt. Mr. Ely read a letter of greeting from the absent president and also an invitation from the New London club to attend an outing at Red Top on Sept. 25th. New London's program will include a ball game in the afternoon and a shore dinner at 6 o'clock, followed by dancing in the evening. New London's invitation was accepted with alacrity, especially by the members of the baseball team, who are eager to get vengeance for the beating they suffered at Storrs earlier in the summer.

Herbert M. Lerou, president of the Norwich Chamber of Commerce, complimented and thanked the local press for the publicity given the Red Cross relief drive for funds for the Japanese. Mr. Lerou also brought to the attention of the members the fact that 300 feet of the new highway to Colchester is yet uncompleted and urged that both the Rotary club and the Chamber of Commerce take this matter up with the highway commission. Mr. Lerou later in the day was in communication with those in charge of the work and learned that the appropriation for this work had been exhausted but was given the promise that it would be taken up with the state highway commission.

It was with regret that it was learned that E. Howard Baker, Jr., a charter member of the club and always an earnest worker for the club's welfare, was soon to leave the city and that his resignation had been handed to the board of directors. Charles J. Twist was accorded Mr. Baker's classificatoin, Mr. Twist having been a second active member under this classification.

Alfred E. Bliven was the song leader for the day and there were several solos by Louis A. Wheeler and Henry J. LaFontaine. The meeting closed with the singing of The Star Spangled Banner.

PROMISES LARGEST CLASS TO ENTER ACADEMY

The Norwich Free Academy opened its fall term Wednesday with a large attendance and promises that the entering class will be the largest in the history of the Academy. Because of the Hebrew holiday season a number of those who will be pupils did not attend on Wednesday so that complete figures of the entering class could not be given but every indication points to a record breaker.

The four new class rooms that have been gained in the main building by alterations this summer were ready for use, but the addition to the manual training building has not been completed in time. The old part of the manual training building will be in use by next Monday, but it will be some time yet before the addition can be available.

Given Miscellaneous Shower.

On Tuesday evening 35 operators of the Southern New England Telephone exchange tendered Miss Mary D. Shea a miscellaneous shower at the home of Miss Helena A. Leahy of Boswell avenue in honor of her approaching marriage to Francis J. Kelly. Miss Shea was the recipient of many useful and pretty gifts, including silver, cut glass and linen, and after a most enjoyable evening was extended the best wishes for the future.

Black in the Face.

For more than two weeks now the clock in the courthouse tower has been black in the face at night on the Broadway side. Citizens who travel Broadway and want to get an idea of the time as they wend their way homeward at night are hoping that the city fathers will soon restore illumination to this face of the clock.

Officiated at Wedding

Dr. P. J. McCormick of the Catholic University, Washington, D. C., and his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth McCormick of this city, were in Quincy, Mass. on Saturday, when Dr. McCormick was one of the officiating clergymen at the wedding of his cousin, Attorney Chas. R. Young.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

Miss Audrey Gernon left Wednesday to pass several days at Amagansett, L. I.

W. Osgood Morgan and son, of New York, were in town Tuesday, calling on relatives.

Mrs. Timothy B. Blackstone, of Chicago is visiting her sisters, the Misses Norton.

FIGHT FANS ALREADY FLOCKING INTO NEW YORK FOR CHAMPIONSHIP BOUT

New York, Sept. 12—(By the A. P.)—Fans tonight began to scent the "smoke" of battle—that atmosphere peculiarly confined to heavyweight championship fights—with the title struggle between Jack Dempsey, champion, and Luis Angel Firpo, Argentine challenger, but two days off.

The first of the rival gladiators reached New York tonight when Firpo arrived at 8 o'clock from his training camp in Atlantic City. The grim-visaged South American gazed with accustomed taciturnity at a small-sized crowd that greeted him, then was whisked away to an uptown apartment where he will remain in seclusion until the afternoon of the fight.

Dempsey is expected to break camp early tomorrow, arriving here in the afternoon. He will stay at the hotel Belmont tomorrow night. Friday afternoon he will meet his challenger for the first time when they appear before the state athletic commission to weigh in.

Followers of both fighters declared today, at the conclusion of training campaigns, that they were conditioned to perfection. They will enter the ring at the Polo Grounds fit for the greatest contest of their careers.

Tex Rickard tonight predicted a sell-out of tickets. The promoter declared this would mean close to $5,000 would pay approximately $1,330,000 to see the fight. His figures today were well past the $1,100,000 mark.

"This fight would have broken the record gate of $1,600,000 set by the Dempsey-Carpentier match," said Rickard "if similar prices had been charged. The Dempsey-Firpo demand has been much greater than for the battle of the century, but now the top price is $27.50 whereas two years ago in Jersey City it was $50.

Construction of the ringside, temporary bleacher sections and other additions to the Polo grounds will be completed by noon tomorrow, said the promoter. He added that arrangements to handle the vast throng had been completed with the police and fire departments.

Little change was reported today in betting odds.

A notable gathering, including men prominent in society, the financial and theatrical worlds, will view the championship. Diplomats also will be numbered in the throng, for many of the envoys of South American nations, all keenly interested in the career of Firpo, the first Latin to attain such pugilistic prominence, have made reservations.

Among those of note expected to attend are Kermit and Archie Roosevelt; Charles Sabin, Mortimer Schiff and W. A. Harriman, financiers; George M. Cohan, Harry Frazee, David Belasco, William A. Brady, theatrical producers; Clarence Mackay, president of the Postal Telegraph Company; Louis E. Stoddard, Polo star; Foxhall Keene, Babe Ruth, Jim Corbett, former heavyweight champion; Harry Payne Whitney, Harry F. Sinclair, turfman and oil magnate; Frank Munsey, publisher.

Mr. Banton decided there was no law under which he could prosecute ticket speculators who are jacking the price up beyond the legal rate, but stated that complaints received at his office would be referred to the state comptroller, who can revoke the licenses of ticket agents who violate the price fixing ordinance.

One complaint received at the District Attorney's office stated that one broker was quoting tickets in the first seven rows ringside from $100 to $125.

YANKS WIN TWO GAMES FROM CHICAGO

New York, Sept. 12—The New York Yankees defeated Chicago in both games of a double-header here today by scores of 2 to 1 and 5 to 3. The first contest was a pitching duel between Hot and Robertson, won by New York in the seventh inning when Ward tripled and scored on Schang's single. The Yankees took the second game with rallies in the seventh and eighth, Dugan driving in New York's winning runs in the latter inning. Score:

RIXEY OUTPITCHES ALEXANDER AND REDS SHUTOUT CUBS

Chicago, Sept. 12—Eppa Rixey outpitched Grover Alexander in a pitching duel today and Cincinnati shut out Chicago 4 to 0, in the first game of the series.

The locals have played 35 innings without registering a run. Chicago had several opportunities to break into the run column but failed to hit in the pinches, while the visitors made most of their hits counting the scoring, three of the runs being earned off Alexander and one off Nick Dumovich. ## TICKET COUNTERFEITERS ARRESTED IN NEW YORK

New York, Sept. 12—Six men were arrested in a Duane street print shop today and police confiscated $50,000 worth of counterfeit tickets for the Dempsey-Firpo title match Friday night. Some of the tickets, the police said, had been put in circulation and the men were charged with acting in concert in printing and distributing them.

While the arrests were being made an investigation was under way by District Attorney Banton into charges that tickets for the fight having a box office value of $27.50 had been sold for $77.50 and that many other single tickets had been sold at proportionately increased prices.

TROTTING AND RACING RECORDS ARE SHATTERED AT SYRACUSE MEETING

Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 12—Trotters and pacers of the grand circuit led by Peter Manning and Single G., established world's season and local records in epochal performances in today's program at the New York state fair.

Among the new marks one is a world's record for a third heat, in a race, 1:58 3-4, hung up by 13-year-old Single G., in what was called a free for all pace. The only other starter was Sir Roche. Single G, driven by Ed Allen, also made two other records in the same race, pacing the one and two fastest single miles of the year. The times were 1:58 1-2; 2:01 3-4 and 1:58 3-4.

The mark of 1:58 1-2 stands as the great Single G's all time record. On the track 11 years and considered by horsemen as "the greatest horse that ever wore a harness," Single G., has completed a score of miles under two minutes but never quite so fast as today. Incidentally Single G broke his record twice for he stepped the third heat in 1:58 3-4. His former record 1:59 was made first in an exhibition on the North Randall track and later in a race at Atlanta.

Peter Manning, piloted by Tommy Murphy, stepped around the oval in 1:58 1-2, setting a new trotting mark for the 1923 season. The world's champion trotter made this mark early in the afternoon against a stiff cool wind on the backstretch.

A world's record was equalled when Hollyrood Leonard, driven by Murphy, trotted the second heat of the Hotel Syracuse stake in 2:03 3-4. This equals the fastest time ever made by a three year old gelding originally established by Czar Worthy over the same track.

Nedda, Harry Fleming's great mare, loaned to the veteran Pop Geers for an exhibition mile, trotted in 2:01 1-4, setting up the year's fastest time for a trotting mare and breaking the Syracuse track record of 2:03 1-4 in this event.

Several minor Syracuse track records were demolished in the day's attack which saw 17 heats of competitive racing and three exhibitions.

Featuring the day's races was the $5,000 Lieutenant Governor's stake. In this event the favorite Mrs. Yerkes, piloted by Tommy Murphy, won the first heat, but was forced to take second place to Well Worthy in the two remaining whirls. Well Worthy, piloted by Lon McDonald, finished seventh after a poor start in the opening heat, but was out in front on the stretches in both the remaining heats.

Well Worthy travelled the second mile in 2:03 1-4 in the 2:12 class event.

LARGE CROWD WITNESSES GRANGE DAY RACES

(Special to the Bulletin)

Kingston, R. I., Sept. 12—It was nearly a full grandstand that witnessed the Grand day races at the Kingston Fair grounds Wednesday afternoon. Although no track records were broken, one of the mile events was finished in 2.16 1-2. In the three race event carded several horses were withdrawn. A special race for green horses was run off first, the fourth entry, Little Boy, of E. B. Grover, of Norwich was withdrawn. The summary:

HUNTER SPRINGS SURPRISE IN BEATING RICHARDS

Germantown Cricket Club, Philadelphia; Sept. 12—(By the A. P.)—Francis T. Hunter, of New Rochelle, N. Y., provided a crowd of 10,000 persons with a startling upset today in the third round of the lawn tennis singles championship fo the United States at the Germantown Cricket club.

Faced with a handicap of overcoming a lead of two sets to one, the stocky New Yorker, who was finalist in the world's championship tournament at Wimbledon this year, fought his way to a victory in five sets over Vincent Richards, of Yonkers, N. Y., member of America's Davis cup team and third ranking player of the country.

The scores were 3-6, 4-6, 2-6, 6-4, 6-4.

After Hunter had won the opening set, Richards swung into his best form and rolled off the next two sets with a marvelous display of volleying. Hanging grimly to his task, Hunter cut down a lead in the fourth set and through greater stamina and more forceful driving from deep court took the last two sets.

Hunter finished in fine condition for the fourth round despite the fact that yesterday he also had a five set match when he removed from the tournament Rene La Coste, youthful French Davis cup star.

The other three members of America's Davis cup team, advanced to the fourth round. National champion William T. Tilden, 3nd, beat Carl H. Fischer, of Philadelphia, in straight sets; William M. Johnston, of San Francisco, world's champion this year by virtue of his Wimbledon victory early in the summer, beat Howard Kinsey, his fellow townsman, also in straight sets; while R. Norris Williams of Philadelphia, fourth member, accounted for F. R. Leighton Crawford, of England, in three sets.

Two of the remaining foreign entrants came through to the fourth round. Manuel Alonso, the fiery Spaniard, eliminated Jacques Brugnon, the French Davis cup player, but only after a sensational five set contest which rivaled the Hunter-Richards match in the interest and tension.

B. I. C. Norton, South African champion, also remains in the play by virtue of his easy triumph over Leonard Beekman, of New York, in straight sets.

In the other matches Robert Kinsey, the chop-stroke player from San Francisco defeated Stanley W. Pearson, of Philadelphia in three sets and Frank T. Anderson, of New York, did the same to George King, of New York.

HUTCHISON WILL ENTER PROFESSIONAL TOURNEY

New York, Sept. 12—Jock Hutchison, of Chicago, will be among the starters in the Professional Golfers' association championship at the Pelham Country club, September 24 to 29, although the genial Scot did not take part in the sectional qualifying tests. The P. G. A. announced today had made an exception in Hutchison's case and accepted his entry because he was prevented by illness from qualifying.

With Hutchison in the fold, the field of 64 comprises practically all of the country's "pro" cracks, who will seek the title now held by Gene Sarazen, former open champion. Walter Hagen, Joe Kirkwood, Jim Barnes, Fred McLeod, Eddie Loos and Johnny Farrell are among the outstanding stars. One notable absentee is Bobby Cruikshank, runner-up to Bobby Jones in the open championship, who failed to enter the select circle in the Metropolitan qualifying round.

Cyril Walker, of Englewood, N. J., turned in the best 36 hole card in the qualifying tests when he led the Metropolitan with 141, according to the P. G. A. Hagen, qualifying in Ohio, and William Leach, of Philadelphia, each had 142.

WILL DEMPSEY BREAK POLO GROUND JINX

New York, Sept. 12—Jack Dempsey will overthrow a jinx that has beset all world's fistic champions who have fought at the Polo Grounds this season if he succeeds in defending his heavyweight title against the assaults of Luis Angel Firpo Friday night.

Four pugilistic kings have staked their title so far this year at the Giants' ball park and all four have been shorn of their laurels.

Johnny Kilbane was the first to meet defeat. He was knocked from the featherweight throne early in June by Eugene Criqui, of France, who, less than two months later, was in turn deprived of his newly-won laurels by Johnny Dundee.

Jimmy Wilde, game little Britisher, lost the flyweight crown to Pancho Villa the battling Filipino in June. The last champion to fall by the wayside in the big arena was Johnny Wilson, who dropped his middleweight title to Harry Greb a fortnight ago.

LIGHT WORK FINISHES UP FIRPO'S TRAINING

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 12—(By the A. P.)—A light bag punching, rope skipping and shadow boxing workout, lasting less than ten minutes, ended Luis Angel Firpo's training today for the world's championship match with Jack Dempsey in New York Friday night. Immediately after the workout the Argentine and his party boarded a train for New York.

More than 500 persons were in the grandstand to see the South American go through his final exercises. They were disappointed because he did not spar and Luis directed that all admissions be refunded.

Luis Angel seemed in superb battle condition. He declared he was in a fighting mood, and then he dismissed thoughts of the fight.

DEMPSEY GETS HIS HAIR CUT FOR BOUT

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Sept. 12—(By the A. P.)—After a day of nothing more exciting than motoring into Saratoga Springs for a haircut, Jack Dempsey, crawled into bed in his little cottage on the edge of Saratoga Lake tonight, for his last sleep before starting for New York to defend his title against Luis Angel Firpo on Friday night.

The light workout scheduled for the world's heavyweight champion was cancelled at the last minute, to the disappointment of a hundred or more hero-worshippers, who hoped for a last glimpse of Dempsey doing his stuff in the outdoor arena. The only exercise the titleholder took, aside from an hour's walk with Mike Trant, his bodyguard and pal, this morning was sitting in the back of his fawn-colored roadster for the twelve mile drive into town.

PAPYRUS IS BEATEN IN ST. LEGER STAKES

Doncaster, Sept. 12 (By the A. P.)—Papyrus, the Derby winner, was beaten by two lengths by Lord Derby's fleet filly Tranquil in the St. Leger stakes here today, before a crowd of more than 150,000.

Besides this blow to his prestige, Papyrus came away from the race bleeding from injuries about the legs, suffered when he was crowded about a half mile from the start, but neither his reputation nor his flesh was wounded badly enough to prevent him from going to the United States, as scheduled, to race the best American three-year-old. The final agreement providing for his shipment across the Atlantic was signed this morning by Ben Irish, his owner, and C. J. Fitzgerald, agent for Major August Belmont.

HARTFORD SPORTS WRITER MAKE HOLE-IN-ONE

Hartford, Sept. 12—Graham Jones, of the Hartford Golf club, topped a field of seventy in the one day tournament of the Connecticut golf association held on the local golf club course here today. Jones turned in a thirty-six card of 148. C. M. Aldrich, also of the local club was low net with 137. A hole-in-one was made by John M. Greene, sports editor of the Courant, which featured. Greene's shot was made on the 198 yard ninth hole. He used a cleek.

Americans Win From British.

Westbury, N. Y., Sept. 12.—The American army polo team upset expectations today by defeating the British army four, ten goals to seven, in the first of the series of international matches at the Meadowbrook club.

Shelburne Four Wins.

Philadelphia, Sept. 12.—The Shelburne four defeated the British Hurlingham team 15 to 6 in the international polo tourney on the Philadelphia Country club field at Bala today.

HOPKINTON

The September session of the town council and probate court was held at the town hall Tuesday afternoon. Acting as a board of canvassers, the council made up the annual list of voters as required by law. Ethel C. Kenyon was appointed local director of bureau of mothers' aid for dependent children. Antoine Rindell was appointed a constable. Bills were ordered paid to the amount of $775.66, of which $320.26 was for labor on highways and $355 was for services and clerk hire of the board of assessors of taxes.

In the probate court, the first and final account of Charles J. Greene, executor of the will of Sarah A. Kenyon, was allowed and ordered recorded.

The petition of Cora B. Woodmansee, guardian of Jennie L. Stillman, of full age, for authority to sell her ward's interest in certain real estate was continued to Oct. 1st next.

The will of Annie E. Allen was admitted to probate, with George E. Allen executor.

The inventory and appraisal of the estates of Cecelia M. and Alma L. Bailey, minors, was received and ordered recorded.

At the home of the officiating clergyman in Ashaway, Guy W. Brown of Quaker Hill, Conn., and Ruth Robbins Dorme of New London, Conn., were married by Rev. E. P. Mathewson Sept. 1st.

NEW LONDON DRY GOODS STORES WILL CLOSE AT 6 P. M. SATURDAYS

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, Sept. 13—Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Stoeckel has caused the operator's license of William Potter, of 114 Shaw street, recently suspended, to be returned to the owner.

A. Oliver of 146 Main street, complained to the police this afternoon that earlier in the day the driver of an automibile, bearing Connecticut registration, 95-208, backed the automobile against Oliver's motorcycle and damaged the latter vehicle. After smashing the cycle Oliver declared that the driver of the automibile evaded responsibility by driving away. The automobile is registered in the name of Ambrose Cassara, 338 Williams street.

Mrs. Robert Leidlich of Mattituck, L. I., this morning communicated with the New London police, asking them to assist her in a search for her son, Robert W. Jr., 12, who has been missing from home since last Saturday. Mrs. Leidlich stated that the youth might have come to New London by steamer, but she is fearful that the boy may have been drowned.

Ernest Newcomb of Harrison St., a former employe in the freight service of the New Haven railroad, died this morning at the Norwich State Hospital for the Insane at Fort Point. He was committed to the institution about three weeks ago.

Funeral services for Charles P. Sadot, a former resident of New London, whose death occurred at Easthampton, L. I., several days ago, were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at 68 Shapley street. Rev. Walter P. Buck, formerly pastor of the Methodist church, officiated. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Mrs. Stella J., 79, widow of William Bush, of Niantic, died this morning at Lawrence hospital, in which institution Mrs. Bush had been under treatment but a short time for infirmities at ending advanced years. Mrs. Bush is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Samuel Rogers of Niantic. A brother also survives.

Mrs. James Caffrey and infant daughter of Hartford, Miss Ruth Dunbar, Ocean avenue, Miss Mary Perrone, Noank, George Emerson, Huntington street, William Topping, Ocean avenue, Harold and Howard Donely, Broad street, Harry O'Brien, Oneco avenue, Mrs. John McDonald, Broad street, and Mrs. Palmer Reeves patients at Lawrence Memorial Associated hospital, were discharged today.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel M. Prentis are in Canada for several weeks. The trip is by automobile.

Samuel C. Lippman, 51 Deerfield avenue, Hartford, today informed the New London police that while his automobile was parked in front of the residence at 52 Stuart avenue, Ocean Beach on the 4th inst., a suit case containing wearing apparel was stolen.

New London's dry goods dispute so far as it is represented by Merchants on State street, is to be as dark as the proverbial pocket hereafter on Saturday evenings. The stores will close at 6 o'clock. This is the culmination of a movement on the part of a few women to get shorter hours for the clerks, though it is not known that the clerks felt that they were working too many hours to the degree that they complained. The women interested themselves and then the kick was made in earnest. The Hislop company sided with the clerks as soon as the request was made to them and clerks for Hislop & Co. went among the other clerks and secured signatures for the early closing. Last Saturday evening was the first on which a majority of the stores closed. The Bee Hive and Reagan Brothers, among the dry goods dealers, refused to comply, and kept open shop as usual. Today the merchants interested got together and the obstructionists yielded and promised to make their stores dark the coming Saturday, after 6 o'clock.

The early closing was discussed in the newspapers and some hard knocks were given by both proponents and the opponents.

Stanley Goldsmith is credited with having written and published over a fictitious signature a letter opposing the early closing that made the proponents of the scheme 'mad.' They attacked his plan and his arguments and then it developed that the Goldsmith letter did harm that never would have been done had it not appeared. Nestor Dreyfus was credited with being the author of the letter at the start but it was shown that he was not rightly accused and it became generally known that Stanley Goldsmith wrote and published the letter. There has been bad blood since and the movement to close began to take the nature of a boycott. Last Saturday the stores did not do their usual business. At the meeting today it was decided to close that the matter might get a test. The hardware stores have been closed on Bank street but State street houses have kept open for business. Now the Bank street stores in that line of business, declare that unless the State street shops are closed at 6 o'clock the Bank streeters will remain open till the usual closing time. It is a safe guess that the clerks will next move for an increase in wages. They have been working for the smallest compensation that is paid to any class of workers in the city. They realize the fact and they are reputed to be very much dissatisfied. If they organize they believe they can get the desired increase. It is reputed that clerks in some of the stores are receiving no better wages than $2 a week, and that did the girls not live at home where they are favored with a small charge for board and where they have their laundry done without expense to them they could not pay their expenses of board and laundry. The early closing movement is not to stop where it has now come to a halt, but will go on till the wages question is settled. The clerks claim that they have the sympathy of all who work and of many who employ as well, and that they are to seek the advances in wages as their next move.

William H. Harrison of Harrison's Landing, Waterford, returned home this evening, having spent a week in Washington, the guest of his son, Dr. William H. Harrison.

Dr. G. M. Culver of Jersey City, N. J., arrived in New London this evening and will spend a few days the guest of his father, Former City Treasurer. Fitch L. Comstock.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Nellan have returned after spending a week motoring in New England and Canada.

Samuel Epstein, 44 Connecticut avenue, complained to the police this afternoon that Monday night a wagon was taken from his barn, and Tuesday morning he discovered the vehicle a short distance from his home and besides being damaged by collision, it was badly damaged from fire. Motorcycle Officer William Babcock later arrested a youth residing near Epstein, who confessed to taking the wagon. The lad was turned over to Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield for appearance in the juvenile court within a few days.

Harry R. Collins of Washington and Miss Alice May Rouse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Sousa, 47 Eastern avenue, were married this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church, by Rev. Dr. Timothy M. Crowley, the attendants including guests from New York, Philadelphia, Washington, Providence and Stonington. John Burgess, uncle of the bride, was best man and Miss Ethel May Burgess, cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid. Little Pauline Pilbrick was ring bearer and Little Emelia Burgess was flower girl. Cornelius Walker was usher. A breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents following the wedding and this evening Mr. and Mrs. Collins left for a wedding trip. They will reside in Washington.

Miss Kathryn Clark has returned home, after spending several days in Willimantic, to which city she was called by the illness of her aunt, Miss Minnie Barker of Williams street who has been spending a number of weeks at the camp ground. Miss Barker's condition is greatly improved and she will return home within a few days.

Mrs. Joseph Williams of Bank street and her sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Lang of Stamford, are visiting Vermont relatives.

F. W. Shaw, manager in the employ of the Radio Corporation at the state pier, has been transferred to New York and will leave tomorrow.

The state grand lodge, Sons of Italy concluded its three days' convention in New London late yesterday. The election of officers resulted as follows: Grand master, James Costanzo of Stamford; Assistant grand master, Luigi Lersi, Waterbury; grand orator, Michelangelo Russo, Middletown; grand recording secretary, Rosartio Giaimo, New Haven; grand financial secretary, Tommaso Tella, Stamford; grand treasurer, Gennaro Aiola, Meriden; grand trustees, Alexandro Serern, New Haven; Antonio Quaranti, Torrington; Giovanni Turcio, New Haven; Benedetto Drago, Hartford, and Francesco Ruggiero of New Britain.

New York, Sept. 12.—Stock prices turned decidedly heavy in today's market after an initial period of moderate strength. The selling is reported to have originated largely from bear operators, but the ease with which stocks last ground indicated considerable profit taking with the result that the day's sales were the largest of any session in more than two months.

The only apparent reason for the burst of selling was the reports of a curtailment of steel operations contained in the weekly trade reviews. Steel shares dropped 2 to 4 points and this had a depressing effect on the rails, oils, equipments and other standard issues, which also registered substantial losses.

U. S. Steel Common dropped 3 points to 90 1-2, Gulf States Steel was off 3 3-4 at 83 3-8 and Republic was off 2 3-4 at 47 1-8. Cosden was again one of the most active issues on the board, more than 70,000 shares changing hands. The stock closed at 31 5-8, off 2 1-4, on selling attributed to a denial of reports that merger negotiations had been resumed with Standard Oil of Indiana. Weakness of the oils also was attributed in some quarters to reports that some of the larger independents were in need of new financing.

The Iron Age, in its weekly review, states that "the first ten business days of September have passed without improvement in new buying of steel products to the extent that had been expected." It also declares that "apart from the buying of 30,000 to 40,000 kegs of nails for early shipment, little of the inquiry from Japan has resulted in business as yet," adding that "it is believed several months will elapse before the real reconstruction needs of the stricken districts can be definitely known."

Sugar shares offered good resistance to selling pressure in reflection of the higher commodity prices. Early gains in the active issues ran as high as 2 points but these were reduced to fractions before the close.

Some of the outstanding losses in the industrial division were Baldwin, American Can, Corn Products, American Tobacco B, Dupont, Houston Oil, Woolworth, Stewart-Warner Speedometer, National Lead and Central Leather Preferred, off 2 3-4 to nearly 3 points.

The weakest active members of the railroad group were New York Central and Southern Railway, which dropped 2 and 1 3-8 points, respectively, on what was generally described as profit taking.

Call money held at 5 per cent. all day. Some ceiling of loans was reported in anticipation of Sept. 15th income tax payments. Demand for time money was fairly large with 5 1-2 per cent. The ruling rate and long term loans especially scarce. Commercial Paper was unchanged at 5 1-4 to 5 1-2 per cent.

Foreign exchanges were slightly reactionary. Demand sterling held fairly steady around $4.54 3-4 and French francs around 5.78 cents, but Italian lire dropped 7 1-2 points to 4.49 cents and German marks fell below 1 cent a million.

BOND MARKET.

New York, Sept. 12.—After moderate advances by industrial liens in the early trading in bonds today, the entire list turned reactionary and closing prices were somewhat lower than yesterday's final figures. Some of the foreign issues, however, maintained a firm tone, notably Marseilles 6s, and Holland American 6s, each gaining a point or more.

A bond of five points by Cuban 5 1-2s reacted dissolution of the offering syndicate tomorrow, with a part of the bonds still unsold. The bonds dropped to 94 1-2, a new low for the year. Prague 7 1-2s and Rio De Janeiro 8s of 1947 each declined a point.

United States government bonds moved irregularly within a narrow limit.

Declines of a point or more were recorded in the railroad and industrial groups by Seaboard Air Line adjustment 5s, and the Refunding 4s, Northern Pacific Refunding 6s, and St. Paul Refunding 4 1-2s and the 4s of 1925, and Virginia Carolina Chem 6s and 7 1-2s, with warrants.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, Sept. 12—Estimates that the 1923 Canadian crop of wheat is 70,000,000 bushels larger than last year's total led to much selling here today near the end of the board of trade session; largely as a result prices closed heavy, 1-2 to 3-4 cent lower with December 104 3-4 to 104 and May 110 1-8. Corn finished at a range varying from 1-4@3-8c decline to 3-8c advance, oats 1-4c to 3-8c to 1-4c up, and provisions 5 to 25c down.

Except for a brief rally near the middle of the session, wheat had a downward tendency throughout the day. Initial weakness of Winnipeg quotations started the price declines here, with bearish sentiment emphasized by reports that the Canadian crop movement was gaining rapid headway, and that export demand was narrow for this time of year. It was only, however, after receipt of new Canadian crop figures that the advantage went decisively to the bear side of the market.

According to a report credited to the Dominion bureau of statistics, the total yield of wheat in Canada this season is 476,000,000 bushels, the largest amount on record. This would make the combined United States and Canadian crop 1,259,000,000 bushels, an aggregate only 5,000,000 bushels less than last year, and would suggest 500,000,000 bushels surplus for export after allowing for a liberal carryover at the end of the season. Considerable liquidation of wheat holdings here ensued, and although little disposition to sell short was in evidence, the close was at virtually the day's bottom level.

Corn averaged lower with wheat, despite rather widespread frost. Oats were higher owing to scantiness of supply here.

Lower quotations on hogs weakened the provision market.

CURB MARKET.

New York, Sept. 12.—Prices in today's curb market opened firm but turned heavy later in sympathy with the reaction on the big board.

Prairie Oil & Gas climbed 4 points to 176 but dropped back later to 170 for a net loss of 2 points. Net losses of 1 to 2 points also were recorded by Standard Oil of Indiana, Cities Service, Prairie Pipe and South Pennsylvania Oil. Mountain Producers closed slightly higher in reflection of the declaration of an extra dividend of 10 cents a share.

Glen Alden Coal, off 1 1-2, was the weakest active share in the industrial group although Gillette Safety Razor dropped 3 points on a small turnover. Motors held relatively firm Durant showing a slight fractional gain.

Activity in the mining group was confined largely to the penny shares. Cortez Silver dropping 16 points to 75 cents.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Jingle Writers Awarded Prizes.

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 11.—Thousands of people who entered jingles in the contest originated by the Armour Grain company will be interested to learn that the six judges awarded first prize of $250 to L. E. McLeod, Brewer, Me.

The second capital prize of $150 was won by Rev. John W. Dennis, Tully, N. Y.; third prize of $75 by Chester A. Griffith, Franklin, N. H.; fourth prize, $50, Mrs. E. L. Potter, Utica, N. Y.; fifth prize, $25, Mrs. W. F. Dains, Williamston, Mich.

The $10 prizes were awarded to Mrs. John C. Taylor, East Lansing, Mich., Helen M. Spencer, Janesville, Wis., Lawrence J. Cream, New Britain, Conn., James Anderson, Buffalo, N. Y., E. D. Dodson, Council Bluffs, Ia., Henry E. Muchmore, Syracuse, N. Y., F. B. Gregory, Syracuse, N. Y., Miss Marion McMillan, Schenectady, N. Y., Mrs. Florence Murphy, Akron, N. Y., M. A. Hanscom, Portsmouth, N. H.

The response to the contest which was published in more than 100 newspapers was overwhelming, thousands upon thousands of jingles delaying the judges until the selection of prize winners became exceedingly difficult. A total of 165 prizes was awarded.

The jingle which won the first prize is:

"Instead of pills to cure your ills, eat
Mapi-Flake each day;
It re-creates and regulates your health in Nature's way—
Whole wheat for strength and energy, with bran to sweep out waste;
With milk or cream, a perfect food that pleases every taste."

At the Breed.

The American Legion's classic film, The Man Without a Country, now showing at the Breed theatre under the auspices of Robert O. Fletcher Post of The American Legion, has won unanimous praise of the metropolitan press. The following is an editorial from the New York Evening Mail:

"Without the usual fanfare and blare of trumpets, noisy exploitation or any of the usual display which accompanies the introduction of something new in the theatre, a motion picture came to the Town Hall yesterday which is worthy to be classed with the finest film productions that Broadway has seen.

"The picture is the picturization of Edward Everett Hale's immortal The Man Without a Country, starring Arnold Daly, and is being presented at the Town Hall this week under the auspices of the local American Legion for the benefit of ex-service men out of employment.

"The artistry of Arnold Daly, who is starred in the film and plays the title role, is magnificent. And Charles E. Graham and Duncan McRae, playing the roles of Aaron Burr and Alexander Hamilton, respectively, are not far behind the star. Sidney Bracey as Capt. Gautier, P. R. Swanson as Thomas Jefferson, Anna Lehr as Agnes Churchill, and Mary Kennison Carr, as Mrs. Hamilton, are all good.

"Go to see The Man Without a Country. It is one of the extremely few pictures that you cannot afford to miss, whether you are a motion picture fan or not."

At the Strand.

A complete change of programme will be at the Strand for the last half of this week, starting today. The Keith vaudeville acts billed are as follows:

Rose & Magnee appear in a comedy novelty offering; Ted & Corinne Breton offer The Liars Convention; Jack McGowan "a man of very few words" is to hand sport; Buchanan & Brower close the bill with a snappy novelty.

A capacity load isn't the only thing that can throw a pain into a stage man. A chorus girl can do it—just as easily.

In Murphysburg there was a clique of citizens that assumed the responsibility of heating the devil in that particular locality, to wit: a Purity League. Not subtle were the methods of progress of the league. No sir! They trod heavily on everything from Sunday baseball to ice cream "soda" drinking.

In the chorus of a Broadway musical comedy show was a pretty little girl from Murphysburg. On the stage she was a riot. In Murphysburg she was a panic. In New York the humorous of the women who rules the Purity League in Murphysburg showered attentions upon the little chorus girl. In the home town they saw her not. The crown of rolling pins is always to be dreaded.

Gladys Walton, Universal star, in The Town Scandal, Universal screen version of Frederick Arnold Kummer's The Chicken That Comes Home to Roost, comes to the Strand theatre today.

Short subjects consist of a News Weekly.

Walter Scanlan at Lyceum Theatre.

Manager George M. Gatts announces the engagement of his silver voiced star, Walter Scanlan, at the Lyceum theatre, New London on Saturday, matinee and night, Sept. 15. It is the policy of Mr. Gatts to present his clever star every season in a new play to enhance the interest of the theatregoers in Mr. Scanlan's performance. This season the play will be The Blarney Stone, from the pen of Edward Rose, who has furnished this young star with plays for several years past. As in former seasons the scenic and costume embellishments of the piece are entirely new and specially made for this play. The delightful tenor voice of Mr. Scanlan will be heard in a number of new songs, all of which have the characteristic lilt and melodic charm of the Emerald Isle.

Sale of Real Estate.

The property on the Yantic-Willimantic highway, formerly the parsonage of Grace Episcopal church, has been sold by Real Estate Broker John A. Moran to Duncan F. MacArthur, who is to occupy the premises. Besides the residence the property has an eight-car garage and barn.

At Universalist Church.

"Ferry Beach Night" will be observed at the Universalist church next Monday evening, Sept. 17. The ten young women who attended the summer institute there will make reports of the meetings held.

The public is invited at 7.45 o'clock.

"Mother, Why Don't You Take Nuxated Iron?"

And Be Strong and Well and Have Nice Rosy Cheeks Instead of Being Nervous and Irritable All the Time and Looking So Haggard and Old?—The Doctor Gave Some to Susie Smith's Mother and She Was Worse Off Than You Are and Now She Looks Just Fine.

Nuxated Iron Will Increase the Strength and Endurance of Weak, Nervous, Careworn, Haggard-Looking Women in Two Weeks' Time in Many Instances.

"There can be no healthy, beautiful, rosy cheeked women without plenty of iron in their blood," said a prominent New York physician and medical author recently. "I have strongly emphasized the fact that doctors should prescribe more of the iron for their nervous, rundown, weak, haggard-looking women patients. Pallor means anaemia. The skin of the anaemic woman is pale, the flesh flabby. The muscles lack tone, brain fags and the memory fails, and often they become weak, nervous, irritable, despondent and melancholy. When the iron goes from the blood of women the roses go from their cheeks. They become weak, irritable, and nervous because food for the nerves can only be supplied through the blood and when the blood is thin and anaemic the nerves are improperly nourished. The nervous mother or housekeeper is highly irritable, forgets where she puts things, and often cannot remember what she started to do. At night she often has a "good cry" and excuses it by saying it is a relief for her nerves, when it means a high state of nerve force exhaustion. Often her nervousness and irritability are a strain on her children and may help to wreck their delicate nervous systems."

Medical science and chemistry has proven that NERVE FORCE IS A DISTINCT SUBSTANCE SIMILAR TO YOUR BLOOD. It is the most important fluid in your body. It gives life to your nerves and force to your brain. If you cannot think right, if your memory fails, if you are irritable and easily upset, trifling things annoy you, look into your nerve force. When your nerve force becomes weakened, all the vital organs of your body lose their normal strength and vigor, and as a result all kinds of alarming symptoms may appear. From the pains across the back one woman thinks she has kidney trouble, another may think her spine is injured because of the tender spots which may occur thereon. The dull, heavy pain in the lower part of the head or the back of the neck leads another to think she is going to have paresis. Sleeplessness and nervous irritability, heart palpitation and indigestion are very common symptoms. When you lack nerve force, there is only one thing that is going to help you, and that is more nerve force. IN SUCH CASES IT IS WORSE THAN FOOLISH TO WASTE YOUR TIME TAKING MERE STIMULATING MEDICINES OR NARCOTIC DRUGS. Your starving nerves must have nerve food or something to supply increased nerve force, the same as a starving man must have bread to make new flesh and muscle. For centuries science searched for a nerve force food. At last a celebrated French physician brought to the attention of the Paris Academy of Medicine a remarkable product which contained the principal chemical constituents of active living nerve force, in a form which most closely resembles that in the brain and nerve cells of man. This wonderful product was later combined with organic iron and other valuable ingredients under the name of "Nuxated Iron," so that today true artificial nerve force ready to be transformed into active living nerve force, the moment it enters the body, may now easily be had, simply by taking two tablets of Nuxated Iron three times a day, with or after your meals. ORGANIC IRON CONTAINED IN NUXATED IRON IS LIKE THE IRON IN YOUR BLOOD, and like the iron in spinach, carrots, lentils and apples. It not only quickly enriches the blood, but it also stimulates the blood to manufacture a greatly increased supply of new nerve force, so that Nuxated Iron not only feeds artificial nerve force directly to the nerve and brain cells, but it indirectly increases the production of nerve force through the medium of the blood.

MANUFACTURERS' NOTE—Over 4,000,000 people are using Nuxated Iron annually. If you are weak, nervous or run down, get a bottle of Nuxated Iron today, and if within two weeks you do not feel that it has increased your nerve force and made you feel better and stronger in every way, your money will be refunded. Look for the word "Nuxated" on every package. Sold by all druggists.

Harness "Old King Sol" To Your Beauty Chariot

Vacation time! Outdoor life plays havoc with your complexion. The harsh sun burns your skin; brings freckles out, too. Motoring and sports, tennis, golf, and other strenuous outdoor exercise are attended by more or less dust absorption and windburn, either of which is bound to affect your skin.

The latest and most successful beauty aid yet found is the Chin-Tonic method of cleansing your skin. It is successful, due no doubt to the fact that this new method not only cleanses your skin antiseptically, but nourishes it just as the best of creams do.

That is why you are asked to use both cakes of soap at each washing—the Chinic to deep-pore cleanse your skin—the Tonic to nourish it; to soften and tone it; and to protect it from "Old King Sol." Every time you wash you give yourself a perfect little beauty treatment, better than which no beauty specialist can give you, and something no other soap can supply.

Physicians declare the Venida Chin-Tonic Twin Soaps to be the most hygienic beauty aids yet discovered! Beauty specialists concede their merits and discriminating women who have used them will tell you how easy it is to keep and improve your complexion, and how inexpensive.

Ask for Venida Chin-Tonic Twin Soaps at your druggist or department store, or wherever Venida Hair Nets are sold. If you are not conveniently supplied, send us twenty-five cents in stamps and your retailer's name and we will supply you direct. We guarantee that you will like these soaps, or your money will be refunded without question.

LIVESTOCK SALE
FRIDAY, SEPT. 14, 1923,
at 10 o'clock a. m., sharp, rain or shine
60 — HEAD OF CATTLE — 60
—AT—
Public Auction
I will hold my seventh annual fall livestock sale on the above date, consisting of an extra choice lot of fancy new milch cows and forward springers of good size and excellent flesh, several high grade springing heifers of good size and finish, 3 young bulls, and a few calves. This stock comprises all of the leading and desirable breeds of the day, such as Ayrshires, Holsteins, Guernseys and Jerseys. (I will also sell 5 good team horses.)
CONSIGNED PROPERTY
The following property is consigned by one of my neighbors who has just sold his farm: One pair of work horses, 1 two-horse team wagon, 1 pair of nearly new team harnesses, 1 pair of new collars, 1 lot of harrows, plows, cultivators and other useful small tools, and miscellaneous articles. 2 large brood sows now heavy with pig and will farrow by date of sale, 1 boar hog, and 7 of the nicest 12 weeks' old Berkshire pigs in the county (thoroughbred but unregistered).
One nearly new Ford touring car, carefully used and driven by a lady not over 500 miles.
The terms of this sale will be announced when the curtain goes up, at which time I would advise every man in New England looking for new milch cows to be present. This will be a live wire sale, and, as has been the custom in the past, the highest bidder will be the buyer. No reservations, no restrictions.
My farm was formerly known as the Herman R. Chapman place, located just north of Plainfield St., Conn., on the state road leading to Danielson, Conn., in other words, the New London to Worcester trunk road.
E. FITCH JOHNSON, Owner.

POETRY

CITY BOARDERS IN TERMSETS

When city boarders come to town
It made us kinder blue;
They paid three dollars for their board,
Or leastways, promised to;
They smoked cigars instead of pipes
And called our goslings "chicks,"
And said "By Crimus!" and "By Cripes!"
Instead of "Fiddlesticks!"

They'd hire your hawss the very day
You'd set to cultivate,
And drive ten miles and hetch two shay
And then run outer bait;
They'd play croquet with jest one hand
Till evening's shades appeared,
And with the other stroke a strand
Of Massachusetts beard.

If any boy had hemlock plank
To pile beside the road,
Some city Miss was sure to pass,
Some Cleo de Merode.
If there was grimstone cranks to turn
Till every wart fell warm,
Some glorious gal would come a-stern
And watch his churning form.
Another thing: them city chaps
Would sorter string you on
To lend your birds'-egg box, and next
Your blue-jay egg was gone;
And when in social hours they basked,
And featured party joy,
The only farmer boy 'twas asked
Would be the preacher's boy.

And yet, they averaged 'bout the same
As other folks, I guess;
One boarder got to be a judge
In Hull or Holderness;
One college chap who made a rule
To give us each July,
Turned out to be a pigeon stool
And last a German spy.

But church was where they showed up best—
Old Colonel Pettigrew,
His second wife and all her folks,
'Most always filled a pew;
They'd set there, jest as smart as traps
And fine as silk-and-wool;
The preacher never slammed no slaps
When that there pew was full.
—Daniel L. Cady, in Burlington Daily News.

STARS OVER WINNEMUCCA.

I saw the Dipper low in the midnight sky
Over Winnemucca—the seven stars;
A whispering wind through the cotton-woods stole by Wistfully, languidly,
To faint and die
Over wastes to the south that by day
the sunlight scars
Into mauves and deep vermillions and cinnabars.

And my mind and my heart sped away from that desert place
Back to another night, and by Love was there;
To the seven stars she lifted the sweet
of her face,
And the starlight shone in the meshes
of her hair;
I knew it was all a dream—but the dream how fair!
—Clinton Scollard, in New York Herald

Mae—You will when you marry, dear.—Kansas City Star.

"So you sold your car?"

"Yes; cost too much for repairs."

"Heavy garage bill, eh?"

"No; never got out of order. But I had to pay for repairing the people it ran over."—Boston Transcript.

"He has a great faculty for putting the cart before the horse."

"Oh, I wouldn't say that; say he has a habit of trying to make the wheels run the motor."—Automobile Magazine.

LARGE AUDIENCES FOR AMERICAN LEGION PICTURE

Three large audiences witnessed the moving picture, The Man Without a Country, at the Breed theatre Wednesday afternoon and evening. The picture which is being shown under the auspices of Fletcher post, No. 4, American Legion, proved a big drawing card. It is adapted from the story of the same name and depicts in a very interesting way a number of historical events during the administration of Alexander Hamilton, the duel of Burr and Nolan for treason and between Hamilton and Burr, the trial Nolan's subsequent banishment from the country which lasted fifty years.

Commander John A. Cunningham, William A. Anderson, Clifford C. Oat, and Frederick Geer assisted at the box office and at the door during the evening. The picture will be repeated today for the benefit of the many who were unable to attend the shows Wednesday.

Rotarians Entertained

President Charles Saxton of the Norwich Rotary club and President J. P. Mustard of the Willimantic club were among the speakers at a luncheon at Holyoke when the club of that city entertained Rotarians who were on their way to the annual conclave at Rutland, Vt. this week.

VERDICT OF GUILTY BRINGS FINE AND JAIL SENTENCE FOR MACHRINO

Michael Machrino of New London, whose trial on the charge of violation of the liquor law was begun in the superior court here Tuesday before Judge Allyn L. Brown and a jury, was found guilty Wednesday morning of keeping a place which had the reputation of selling liquor. This was the second count in the complaint against him. On the first count, which alleged sale of liquor on Aug. 9 at 32-34 Potter street, the jury returned a verdict of not guilty.

Judge Brown made the sentence a fine of $200 and costs and 30 days in jail. As soon as the verdict had been pronounced Machrino was placed in the steel pen in the court room and at the noon recess he was taken to jail.

The jury was out about twenty minutes after hearing the charge by Judge Brown, which followed the arguments by Attorney G. C. Morgan for the accused and by Attorney D. J. Cronin and State Attorney Hadlai A. Hull for the state.

Machrino went on the stand in his own defense before the evidence in the case closed and admitted that men were drinking in his place, but said that the liquor had been obtained at the horse races at Norwich and that he had received no money for it. He denied that he owned the place in Potter street.

William Smith on Trial.

In the afternoon session of court, William Smith, who had been a defense witness in the Machrino case, was put on trial on two counts alleging selling and keeping with intent to sell at the Potter street place and keeping a bar from July 1 to August 31 with the reputation of dispensing liquor. He was found in the place by the officers at the same time as Machrino was and the evidence went over much of the same ground as in the Machrino case. The witnesses called by the state attorney were Sergeant Samuel Hick and Officer Frank Filopena of the New London police force. After their direct testimony and cross examination court adjourned to the next morning at 9 o'clock, standard time, when the trial will be continued.

A quart bottle labelled Scotch whiskey, a broken bottle labeled Okolona whiskey, a whole empty bottle of the same brand, a soda bottle containing what is said to be a ginger-ale highball, are exhibits in the case.

Sentence for Farino.

During the afternoon Joseph Farino, proprietor of the Ninigret house at Crescent beach, was put to plea and pleaded guilty on the charge of keeping liquor with intent to sell. He had previously been charged with transporting liquor.

Upon his plea of guilty, Judge Brown sentenced Farino to pay a fine of $150 and costs with a 30 days' jail sentence. Farino was taken to jail after court adjourned for the day.

NORWICH CONTRIBUTIONS NOW $2,711.32 FOR JAPANESE

Contributions continue to come to the Norwich Chapter, Red Cross, for the Japanese relief fund, which Wednesday night had gone here to a total of $2,711.32, each day sending it farther ahead of the Norwich quota of $2,000.

Additional contributors have been the following: Edith Moran, Carpenter Mfg. Co., Norwich Belt Manufacturing Co., Herbert L. Yerrington, Broadway school, Atlantic Carton Corporation, William Crowe, Mabel S. Webb, the Lebanon auxiliary, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Wyman, Mrs. H. C. Lane, Elisabeth A. Lane, Miss A. C. Tierney, M. B. Prentice, O. L. Johnson, William H. McGuinness, the Lebanon Baptist church, Mary G. Osgood, Martha L. Osgood, Mr. and Mrs. Allyn L. Brown, Charles W. Taggart, Rev. M. H. May.

Officers of the local chapter do not want Norwich people to stop with merely exceeding the quota by several hundred dollars but hope there will be many more contributions to be received yet. They should be sent to F. W. Lester, treasurer, 43 Broadway.

BAPTISTS ARE TO HOLD STATE SET-UP MEETING

The Womans' Guild of Saint James' church gave a successful whist at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Nirdal on Thursday evening.

Miss May C. Oakford returned Sunday afternoon from Thomaston, where she spent the week end with her uncle F. A. Canfield. Her sister who accompanied her will remain for several days.

The Saint James' Sunday School had an enjoyable picnic on the rectory lawn Saturday afternoon. Bountiful refreshments were served by a committee of the Womans' Guild and the amusements for the children were under the direction of Miss Gertrude Main.

CHIEF LINTON INVITED TO CALIFORNIA BEAR HUNT

Chief of Police George Linton Wednesday received a letter from Chief Bernard McShane of Sacramento, California, stating that in commemoration of the gold discovery in California in 1849 a unique feature will be staged in Sacramento on October 27th consisting of an old time bear hunt and bear meat barbeque.

Among other notes in Chief McShane's letter it says,—"As much of the early day romance of California was centered around Sacramento where John Sutter built his world famous Fort, our citizens a year ago under the auspices of the Sacramento and re-produced for one week in a most realistic manner the historic days of '49.

"In a monstrous pageant, 10,000 Sacramento men and 10,000 Sacramento women marched all dressed in true '49 garb, the millionaire walked beside the miller, the men all wearing beards as 'In the Days of Old, the Days of Gold, the Days of '49.' For three months previous to the parade our citizens allowed their whiskers to grow, the members of the Sacramento police department setting the pace and I am enclosing you group photo of the charter members of our Police Department 'Whiskerino' club.

"The word 'Whiskerino' is typical of the unshaved hero of '49 who determined to leave for our heritage a paradise on earth, begrudged himself time or zeal for shaving. It embraces romance, danger, adventure, unbroken trails, prairie schooners, the imprint of pioneer footsteps by such men as John Sutter, James Marshall, John Bidwell; the daring deeds of Fremont and Carson; the written homages of men like Mark Twain and Bret Harte."

The letter goes on to state that the old time bear hunt scheduled for October, when wild cherries with honey and red berries give California bear meat its known delicious flavor, is attracting some of the greatest sportsmen in the country and a lively time is anticipated. California brown bear, weighing as high as 900 pounds is said to still be quite numerous in the forests of California and that several millionaire sports have volunteered to supply bear meat to feed 10,000 Whiskerino Club members.

Chief McShane also says that during the great assembly a year ago a number of crooks from other states mingled with the 100,000 festive visitors and he asks for advance information and data on pickpockets, bunco men and burglars likely to take advantage to this years' celebration in Sacramento.

NORWICH IS TO TRY TRAFFIC BEACON LIGHTS

Ten of the new traffic beacon lights, such as are used in the large and progressive cities will soon be placed at congested points in this city. The American Gas Accumulator company has authorized by the board of police commissioners to demonstrate the new beacon lights in Norwich.

The beacon lights will be installed by a representative of the company on a purely trial basis. Should they prove unsatisfactory it is probable that the city will purchase several of the new traffic signals. The beacon lights will take the place of the old style silent policeman which is lighted at night by a small red lantern. It has been found that the upkeep of the silent policemen costs the city $100 a month while the upkeep of the beacon lights is practically nothing.

The beacon lights are in fact miniature unattended lighthouses, similar in operation to the lighthouses in New York harbor and elsewhere. They also resemble the aviation routing beacons placed every three miles from the Chicago to Cheyenne, along the night route of the U. S. air mail service.

New London already has installed eighteen of the new traffic lights and they are proving indispensible in that city. All of the larger cities in New England and many cities throughout the country are using the beacon lights.

REV. D. F. SULLIVAN GOES TO STAFFORD FROM COLCHESTER

The Bulletin's Colchester correspondent writes:

Rev. Daniel F. Sullivan, curate at St. Andrew's church, gave a farewell sermon Sunday as he has been transferred by Bishop Nilan to Stratford. He came from St. Patrick's church, Norwich, to Colchester about two years ago. Many friends wish him the best of success in his new field of labor.

As assistant to Rev. Philip J. Mooney, pastor of St. Andrew's, also of St. John's church, Fitchville, the Bishop has named Rev. Charles Cavanaugh, of Hartford, who was ordained in June and has been stationed at the church at Crescent Beach during the summer. Father Cavanaugh will report for duty at Colchester at the week end.

TWO PLEAD NOT GUILTY TO LIQUOR VIOLATONS

Urgel LA Pre of Thames street and Daniel Ziezunk of Cove street, both pleaded not guilty to violations of the liquor law when they were presented in the superior court before Judge Allyn L. Brown here Tuesday afternoon. Each man elected to be tried by jury. R. M. Douglass is counsel for each of the accused, who are out on bonds.

Will Continue Coal Survey in State.

Although the coal strike is settled the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce has announced that it will continue its coal survey of the state of Connecticut in so far as it relates to the amount of coal consumed annually by the people and industries of this state.

These figures when compiled will be used as a basis upon which to determine coal shortage in the future years in the event of a coal strike.

COVERED 3,870 MILES, BOSTON TO SAN DIEGO

A Massachusetts automobile that was flying San Diego and La Mesa banners attracted attention on the streets of this city Wednesday and its occupants, a man and his wife from Worcester, with their five-year-old daughter, disclosed that they had collected these souvenirs in a trip from Boston to San Diego.

It was a trip of 3,870 miles, in which their worst experience was to be stuck in the mud in Colorado for 18 hours, finding Colorado and Kansas the worst places for mud in their entire travel. On the way out to the Pacific coast they went by way of Buffalo, Chicago, Iowa City, Kansas and Colorado. In Colorado they took the Sante Fe trail, which took them within 75 miles of El Paso, Texas, where they turned west on the Borderland trail. This took them across Arizona into Riverside and Los Angeles, Cal., from where they proceeded down the Pacific coast to San Diego.

NORWICH TOWN

Vergason avenue, was a busy thoroughfare all day Wednesday, when automobiles filled with people, also many pedestrians were going to and from the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Weaver. The objective was a Social Corner picnic, in response to a general invitation sent out by Mrs. Weaver (Auntie No. 1) through the Corner page in the Norwich Morning Bulletin, and several clubs and friends were hospitably entertained. The weather being ideal for an out-of-door gathering, the 150 or more assembled enjoyed the comforts of a large lawn and shade trees, with the background of a variety of choice garden flowers during the dinner hour.

Dr. Charles H. Lamb led in the singing of the Doxology, Rev. Harlow Graham, pastor of Trinity Methodist church, saying grace. Rev. and Mrs. Graham and their little daughter Mary, were among the guests of the Corner.

The luncheon menu comprised baked beans, cold meat, salads, pickles, chow-chow, a variety of sandwiches, choice cakes, cookies, doughnuts, cheese, apple pie, fruit and coffee.

The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Adelbert Rudd and Mrs. Fred Irons. The waitresses were Mrs. William White, Mrs. Fred Race, Mrs. Leon Ladd, Mrs. William Thatcher, Mrs. William Green, Mrs. Frank Lathrop, Mrs. William H. Whiteman, Mrs. Richard Carter, Mrs. Chandler and Miss Charlotte Fowler. The towns represented were: Hockanum, South Manchester, Plainfield, South Coventry, Willimantic, Scotland, Lebanon, Bozrah and Franklin also Winchester, Mass. From the last named place was one of the original members of the Corner, Mrs. Alma Shales who, with her brother, Ernest E. Lincoln, motored up from their cottage at Pleasure beach, where they have been passing several weeks. Mr. Lincoln returned August 1, from nearly two years' travel abroad, having visited France, Switzerland, Italy and many other places, of which he talked entertainingly while in company with friends and acquaintances. At the suggestion of the hostess, the entire company bowed in reverence for one moment, for one of the Cornerites, Mrs. Charles Spaulding, who died Tuesday morning.

The hostess announced that there were two members who also were celebrating their birthday on this date—Mrs. L. R. Olin of Willimantic and Mrs. De Grenier.

To the pleasure of all, Mrs. Carrie Park of Leffingwell recited in a pleasing manner, That Little Bug Will Get You, which won hearty applause. This was followed by a brief address by Mrs. E. Porter Rogers of Norwich, who in behalf of the Cornerites and friends presented Mrs. Weaver a gift of nearly $10 in recognition of the appreciation felt by those who have enjoyed her cordial hospitality for the past ten years. The courtesy of Mr. Weaver in transferring the guests who came by trolley, to and from his home by automobile, was greatly appreciated.

A company of school children chaperoned by Miss Florence Bennett, the principal of West Town street school, were served dinner first.

COUGHS DISTURB SCHOOL WORK

School teachers should give the same advice to children who have coughs as did this Florida teacher. "I recommended Foley's Honey and Tar to the children in my school who had the 'flu' and good results came whenever it was used," writes Mrs. L. Armstrong, Okeechobee, Florida. Foley's Honey and Tar contains no opiates. Ingredients printed on the wrapper. Quickly relieves colds, coughs and croup. Tip Lee & Osgood Co.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE GETS COAL COMMISSION REPORT

Thirty-Seven Specific Recommendations Are Made For the Equitable Interest of Each Party—Suggestion Made That the Operators Perfect an Organization as Effective as That of the Miners—Report Declares That Incorporation of the Unions Would Not Have the Effect of "Binding the Union to Its Contract"—Commission Does Not Believe in Nationalization of the Mines.

Washington, Sept. 13.—Operation of the national coal industry so as to insure a dependable supply of fuel to the public, adequate wages to the miners and reasonable return to the operators is possible, the coal commission declared in a report submitted today to President Coolidge. Thirty seven specific recommendations were made with a view of establishing the equitable interest of each party.

Alleged derelictions by both miners and operators were condemned by the commission, one recommendation being that the two groups join in the study of wages and means of stabilizing the industry to prevent unemployment and unoved production. The suggestion also was made that the operators perfect an organization among themselves as effective as that of the miners, "both as a defensive and a cooperative measure.'

Incorporation of the unions would not have the effect of "binding the union to its contracts," the commission declared, adding that apparently "neither side desires that wage contracts shall be specific enough to be binding through judicial enforcement." It recommended special compulsory investigation as soon as failure to renew an agreement appeared imminent, and inclusion in every wage contract of a clause providing for automatic renewal except respecting such provisions as may be announced ninety days prior to expiration of the old contract.

Other outstanding recommendations in the report were:

That each side place "some check upon the provocative and truculent publicity" which tends to undermine good relations.

Establishment in each district and nationally of joint commission of operators and miners to make studies of the principal jobs and of existing rate differentials, to "develop an adequate basis for the needed revision of the rate structure."

Continuation by the government of its study into the industry generally and into specific phases, such as unemployment and inequalities in rate structure, and "continous, compulsory collection and publicity of rates and rate changes in non-union fields."

"Establishment throughtout non-union fields of check-weighmen selected and paid by the men."

Discontinuance throughtout the industry of "sub-contracting."

Abolition of convict-leasing to operators.

Abolition of all "discounting of scrip."

"Serious study of both sides" of the problem of undue limitation of output and of causes leading thereto."

Disputes in union fields concerning discharges to be settled promptly with "adequate checks" enforced in non-union fields against unreasonableness in exercise of power of discharge.

Recognition of the union's right to encourage new members "through the example of service to its members and by peaceful and honest persuasion of every sort," with recognition of a similar right by operators "by good works and honest persuasion" to maintain a non-union status.

"We condemn violence, thuggery and gun work, whether practiced by the union to enforce complete unionization, or by the operators to prevent. We recommend that such destructive labor policies as use of sides of deputy sheriffs as paid company guards, house leases which prevent free access and visit, and individual contracts, be abolished.'

The commission "recognized the irritating effects of the check-off to the operators" and its "dangerous effect upon the union," but declared its belief that the "unsettling effects of casting out this practice might more than overbalance the gains."

"We do not feel," the report said, "that the check-off is vital enough over to justify a suspension of operations."

A coal mining umpire was recommended for each district as indispensable to the growth of good relations, and the organization of effective district and national bodies by the operators, the report said, should lead to the creation of the office of "national labor commissioner," to function as do the labor commissioners in the districts.

More training for mine officials for dealing with labor under a union agreement was recommended and a policy in each company of centralized responsibility was commended. Closer contact and greater educational services between national, district and local union officers and men was needed, the report said.

"We believe," it continued, "that the union will need to depend more on facts and less on force if it is, in the future, to advance the interests of its members as successfully as it has in the past. We, therefore, suggest the importance within the union of continuous facilities for research."

"We do not advocate nationalization as a means of meeting the national strike of other parts of the labor relations," the commission said.

The commission said it did not believe prohibitory measures were the best approach to a remedy for the evils of the general strike," adding that employ and employer must work together if peace and efficiency should obtain.

"Until measures for holding both sides to their responsibility have been exhausted," said the report " it will be extremely unwise for the public to embark on coercive measures of regulation of labor relations."

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE CONGRATULATES PINCHOT

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 13.—A message of congratulation from President Coolidge to Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania upon the settlement of the anthracite coal controversy here last week was made public at the executive offices here tonight. With it was a brief statement by the governor explaining that the telegram was given out upon receipt of word from the president's secretary, C. Bascom Slemp, that Mr. Coolidge expected Mr. Pinchot to make it public.

President Coolidge's message was dated at the White House Sept. 7, the day before the anthracite operators' representatives and miners' union officials, in conference here, agreed finally upon the terms of settlement. The message said:

"Please accept my heartiest congratulations on the settlement of the coal controversy. It was a very difficult situation in which I invited your co-operation. Your management of it is a distinct public service. I cannot commend it too highly. Certainly there ought to be some method devised for a settlement of disputes of this kind in accordance with principles of justice and fairness to all parties concerned. The constantly recurring danger of lack of an adequate fuel supply is of itself a grave criticism of a great industry and an intolerable condition for the public to endure."

Although the message was received last Friday, Mr. Pinchot had declined to make it public until receipt of assurance from the White House that there was no objection to its issuance here.

TO START INQUIRY INTO THE PRICE OF COAL

Bridgeport, Sept. 13.—An inquiry into coal prices throughout the state will be started soon by the Connecticut chamber of commerce at the request of Governor Charles A. Templeton it was revealed by President Stanley H. Bullard here tonight.

Bullard declared that directors at a meeting in Hartford today voted to comply with the governor's suggestion that the chamber's emergency coal commission investigate the prices charged the consumer for coal and try to find the responsibility for any excessive price. Governor Templeton's request was in the form of a letter sent to Secretary George B. Chandler and was accompanied by a copy of a letter received by him from Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania who states he is "causing a careful investigations to be made in Pennsylvania of the means or methods of any and every kind which could be used to prevent gouging of the consumers."

President Bullard reported to the directors that a survey of coal supply in Connecticut which governor requested the Chamber to make about two weeks ago was progressing.

THEFT OF $40,000 WORTH U. S. TREASURY CERTIFICATES

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 13.—Theft of $40,000 worth of United States treasury certificates from his desk was reported to the police this afternoon by Edward F. Moore, vice president of the Indiana National bank.

Mr. Moore told detectives that the certificates were taken from his desk while he had been called to another part of the bank to answer a telephone call which was apparently part of a preconceived plan of the robbers. His stenographer, Mr. Moore told the officers, saw a stranger step for a moment at his desk while he was answering the call. The stranger had left when he returned and the certificates were missing.

The banks police officer had also been summoned on a mysterious call about the time of the robbery, Mr. Moore said.

LAWRENCE POLICE CHIEF INDICTED FOR ASSAULA

Lawrence, Mass., Sept. 13.—Chief of Police John E. Hayes, of Beverly, was indicted by the grand jury today for an assault with a dangerous weapon. He is accused of having shot Miss Evelyn Spinney and John H. Winston, both of Lynn, when he attempted to stop their automobile in Beverly on June 10.

Prominent In New York Politics

Mrs. Henry Moskowits, who has been spoken of as "the Colonel House of the Smith Administration." Mrs. Moskowitz's political activities have made her known in every section of the State. She has been, and still is, a potent factor in social uplift work. Before her marriage to Dr. Henry Moskowitz, in 1914, she was Mrs. Charles H. Israels, wife of a successful architect, much interested in social service. Since the "Smith for President" boom her name has assumed additional national importance.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

Mark Practically Valueless.

Berne, Sept. 13.—The German mark has fallen to 1,000,000 for the Swiss sou (about one cent). Consequently the Basle stock exchange has decided to strike the paper mark off its official list as being practically valueless.

JUDGE TO INTERVIEW INMATE OF SANATO[illegible]

South Norwalk, Conn., Sept. [illegible] Whether Walter Lewisohn, copper magnate, of New York, is to remain in a sanatorium at Greenwich to which he was voluntarily committed on May 29th last or is to be freed will be determined by Judge John J. Walsh, of the Fairfield county common pleas court after a personal interview with Lewisohn as the outcome of habeas corpus proceedings before him this afternoon.

The application for a writ was filed on August 21 and the hearing on the order had been several times postponed. It was taken up before Judge Walsh this afternoon and counsel represented Lewisohn; in support of the application, and the immediate family, who opposed it. It appeared that Lewisohn, himself, did not care whether he was released or remained in the sanatorium. Counsel for Mrs. Lewisohn stated that Lewisohn desired to stay where he was. Counsel for the application said that it had been brought by Lewisohn but in view of the turn of affairs "the respondent had told them one thing and had told his family another" and they were undecided what course to take. Judge Walsh said that he could not tell from what counsel said whether Lewisohn wanted to stay or leave, and to determine for himself he would drive to Greenwich and call upon Lewisohn. Court was recessed and Judge Walsh went to Greenwich in his own machine.

OPPOSE TRUNK LINE CONTROL OF NEW ENGLAND RAILROADS

Bridgeport, Sept. 13.—Directors of the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce are opposed to any further control of New England railroads by trunk lines leading to the westward but are in favor of extensive consolidations that will not sacrifice the principle of competition. This conclusion is made in a statement of principles announced by President Stanley H. Bullard here tonight, following a meeting at Hartford today. the directors voted to send a committee to Boston to put before the interstate commerce commission at its hearing to be held September 24, the following statement of principles:

That further control of New England railroads by trunk lines leading to the westward is inimical to the interests of the section and that that strategic position of New England can be best maintained by preserving its railroads independence whereby, in the language of the joint New England railroad committee may "hold its own knife and fork and feed itself a balanced ration of standard rails differential rates and water rates."

FIRE AT ADVENTIST CAMP GROUNDS IN PLAINVILLE

New Britain, Conn., Sept. 12.—The main assembly hall and six cottages at the Adventist camp grounds in Plainville, near here, were destroyed by fire early this morning. It is believed the fire was caused by a bolt of lightning.

Fire departments from Southhampton and Plainville fought the flames and telephoned to this city for help. Fire Chief William J Noble and Engine Company Number 1 responded and laid a line of hose to the nearest hydrant, 2,600 feet away. Although the Plainville and Southampton firemen were making a heroic effort to stem the tide of flames the work was ineffective until the engine company from this city arrived with a powerful pump, as the natural water pressure from the mains was low.

A heavy downpour of rain which followed the thunderstorm helped to keep the fire from spreading to adjoining cottages.

GREENWICH MAN DROWNED IN THE HUDSON RIVER

Greenwich, Conn., Sept. 13.—Walter Keugel, 32, of Greenwich, was drowned this morning in the Hudson river at Hudson, N. Y., according to word received by relatives here. It was said Keugel was in a new motorboat with his wife and small daughter, when he fell into the water. Keugel was at Hudson on his vacation.

He was an expert swimmer. He had been in the automobile business here with his brother, Sheldon Keugel. The body will be brought to Greenwich.

VILLA'S ASSASSIN GIVEN TWENTY YEAR SENTENCE

Mexico City, Sept. 13.—(By The A. P.)—Jesus Salas, the confessed leader of the band which ambushed and killed Francisco Villa and four of his companions in the outskirts of Parral last July, has been sentenced to 20 years imprisonment. Salas was put on trial at Parral, and he repeated his confession of the killing of Villa. He refused to reveal the names of his accomplices, and was taken immediately to the Chihuahua state penitentiary.

Salas was a member of the house of representatives from Durango.

MAN AND WIFE KILLED AT GRADE CROSSING

Charlestown, N. H., Sept. 12.—Joseph E. LePage of Brockton, Mass., and his wife, formerly Mrs. Addie Curtis of that city, were instantly killed today when their automobile was struck at Searles crossing near here by the southbound White Mountains express on the Boston and Maine railroad.

According to the train crew the automobile had almost cleared the crossing but a rear wheel was caught by the locomotive. The train was brought to a stop before the rear cars had passed the crossing.

LONGSHOREMEN IN NEW ORLEANS GO ON STRIKE

New Orleans, La., Sept. 13.—Longshoremen went on strike here today. Both the white and negro workers were idle. Officials of the union said they wanted a wage of eighty cents an hour instead of the sixty-five cents now in force.

FROST BADLY DAMAGED THE WISCONSIN TOBACCO CROP

Lacrosse, Wis., Sept. 13.—The tobacco crop was badly damaged by a heavy frost in western Wisconsin this morning, according to reports received here. Practically one-fourth of the crop remained to be cut. The thermometer dropped to 33.8.

Revolution in Spain Has Created a Crisis

[illegible] Led by Primo Rivera, the Captain General of Barcelona.

Madrid, Sept. 13.—(By The A. P.)—Spain is in revolution. A military coup d'etat, originating in Barcelona, has spread rapidly through various districts and provinces of the country and has aroused the deepest concern of the government.

At the head of the movement is the captain general of Barcelona, Primo Rivera, a man of strong influence and powerful associations. Behind him are the officers of the army, who have been chafing for many months under the ignominy of the Moroccan campaign, and with the officers are the rank and file.

King Alfonso is believed to be at San Sebastian. There are various reports as to his probable action in the crisis, and he may even now be on his way to Madrid to take up consideration of the threatening situation with Premier Alhucemas.

After protracted meetings of the cabinet a message was sent to General Primo Rivera requesting him to abandon the movement for patriotic reasons, but he absolutely refused to do so. The foreign minister, Santiago Alba, who is believed to be particularly obnoxious to the revolting elements, has resigned from the ministry, as well as the minister of labor, Felix Arminan.

The under secretary of war, General Bermudez Castro, informed the correspondents this afternoon that he minister of war had a long conversation over the telephone with the captain general of Barcelona, who informed the minister that he had rebelled against some members of the present government. The captain general paid tribute to Premier Alhucemas and the minister of the interior, the Duke of Almodovar.

Counter directory reports are very prevalent here. Although the under secretary of war told the newspapermen that King Alfonso had left San Sebastian by automobile for Madrid, there was an authoritative report much later that the king was still sojourning there and he would not come to the capital until tomorrow.

Another report current was that the government had sent warships to Barcelona but this was denied by the minister of marine. El Sol announces that the Bilbao garrison has joined in the movement and seized all communications.

Complete quiet reins here. Few military are seen in the streets and the police force as usual guarding the public buildings. Most of the troops in Madrid are confined to their quarters, and only some small groups are to be found discussing the reports of the revolt. Apparently the Bourse was not affected and there was no drop in government securities, which were in demand today, but with few sales.

Captain General Primo Rivera explains that his object is to relieve the country of the immoral policies of the present government, and declares that the troops in Madrid and throughout Spain hope for a decision by the king removing the ministry, which is prejudicial to the nation.

Conditions are tranquil in various parts of Spain, although disturbed in some of the provinces, which are cut off from communications.

MADRID GARRISON WILL ABIDE BY KING'S DECISION

Barcelona, Sept. 13 (By the A. P.).—Captain General Primo Rivera this evening made public a telegram received by him from Madrid, signed by the captain general there and General Vacalcanti, Frederic Berenguer, Duban and Suro, saying:

"The generals of the Madrid garrison, headed by the captain general, inspired by pure patriotism, adhere to the Barcelona movement and will maintain the same attitude until the arrival of the king, who will decide."

The city and district of Barcelona are quiet. The only evidences of military activity are the occupation of the telegraph and telephone offices, the seizure of the provincial government offices and the declaration of martial law.

The military authorities affirm that the movement has gained ground in the garrisons of Catalonia, Newcastle and Aragon. The decision of the garrisons in other regions is not yet known.

In a proclamation to the troops Captain General Primo Rivera declares he had rather die than bequeath to his sons the livery of slaves. In a statement to the press, Primo Rivera says he has not been inspired by Premier Mussolini of Italy but by the historic figure of the great General Prim, who deposed Queen Isabella and became premier and minister of war and aided in setting up the provisional government in 1868.

"The program of the government," said Primo Rivera's statement, "comprises reforms in Catalonia, rearrangement of the administrativev divisions in Spain and a reduction in the number of functionaries."

CHAGRINED BY FAILURE TO GET A PINK-HEADED DUCK

New York, Sept. 13.—The first thing Alfred H. Vernay, of the Vernay Faunthorpe Indian expedition, announced upon his arrival today was that he had failed to get a pink-headed duck. He announced it sadly, and with evident chagrin.

During his six months of hunting in the jungles of India for rare specimens for the collection of the American Museum of Natural History Mr. Vernay obtained leopards, bison, Russell's vipers, swamp deer, chinkara, all manner of skins, skeletons and reptiles, but these left him cold. What he wanted was a pink-headed duck and he failed to get it. His trip was ruined.

With fifty-eight elephants he flushed the swamps of northeastern India for weeks. The heavy animals tore through the undergrowth like tractors, raising wild life of every variety, except that sought.

MAY UNDERTAKE FLIGHT TO THE NORTH POLE

Washington, Sept. 13.—The first part of the program of the navy dirigible ZR-1 having been carried out successfully, Rear Admiral Moffett, chief of the bureau of naval aeronautics said tonight that the more extended flights soon would be undertaken and that if practicable a flight to the North Pole would be attempted, perhaps by next spring.

The navy, he said, last fall, had promised thisflight.

Italy Has Agreed To Evacuate Corfu

Before the End of the Present Month—Agreement Reached With Ambassadors.

Paris, Sept. 13.—(By The A. P.)—The danger to the peace of Europe from the Italian occupation of Corfu ended tonight, when, after another difficult session, the ambassadors' council came to a full agreement. Italy finally consented to evacuate Corfu before the end of September. It is understood they are to leave the island by September 27.

It is also understood the council agreed that if on the date of evacuation the inter-allied commission of inquiry reports that Greece has not done all possible to discover and punish the assassins of the Italian members of the Greco-Albanian boundary mission the 50,000,000 lire deposited by the Greek government shall be pand over to the Italian government as reparations.

Up to almost the last moment the Italians insisted that the powers ought to take Premier Mussolini's word as to the evacuation, and leave it to him to fix the exact date after the reparation measures had been carried out.

The British ambassador insisted quite as strongly that public opinion throughout the world ought to be reassured by a definite arrangement that would put an end to the talk that Italy intended to remain in Corfu indefinitely. He asked that the Italian premier choose a fixed date which would be early enough to set all speculation at rest.

The allies aasbred the Italian ambassador that the greatest diligence would be exercised in pursuing the inquiry into the assassination of General Tellini and the other members of the Italian boundary commission and pleaded with him to urge Rome to fix a precise date for the evacuation of Greek territory. The afternoon session was postponed until six o'clock and then again until 6.30 o'clock, in order to give time for the ambassadors to communicate with their governments.

Two more hours were occupied by the ambassadors at the evening session before they could come to an agreement, but eventually it was announced that Italy had agreed to evacuate. An official communique issued soon afterwards said:

"The ambassadors' council has adopted a solution which it considers such as will put an end to the situation created by the assassination of the Italian delegation. The solution will be immediately transmitted to Athens and also communicated to the league council and will be made public tomorrow at noon."

The members of the commission of inquiry will leave tomorrow to take up their work with instructions to pursue their investigations with the greatest energy.

DONATIONS FOR JAPAN REACH TOTAL OF $6,284,000

Washington, Sept. 13.—The American Red Cross Relief fund for Japanese earthquake and fire sufferers tonight exceeded by a million and a quarter dollars the original $5,000,000 asked for. The total reported up to six p. m. was $6,285,000, with donations coming in steadily.

Of the six divisions to which the work of collecting funds was allotted, four have exceeded their quotas and the others are making ground rapidly, it was announced at Red Cross headquarters. A check for $600,000 was received today from the New York county chapter, bringing the cash received at headquarters up to $3,670,000. A check for $25,000 from the Knights of Columbus was received by Chairman John Barton Payne.

In a letter made public by the Red Cross, General Pershing, who at one time served as military attache in Japan, called upon every one in the United States who could do so to contribute something to the fund, declaring the best the country could do would bring but a small measure of amelioration of the terrible conditions.

The subscriptions to the fund to date, by divisions, follow:

Washington, $3,644,000; New England $434,000; Southern, $151,300; Central, $1,000,000; South Western, $350,000; Pacific, $503,800; Insular and Foreign, $201,500.

MARLAND OIL PASSES QUARTERLY DIVIDEND

New York, Sept. 13.—Directors of the Marland Oil company today voted to pass the regular quarterly dividend. The action was taken, according to the directors, as a precautionary measure "because of the present demoralized state of the oil industry," and 'despite the strong financial position of the company."

A financial report of July 31, 1923, submitted at the directors' meeting showed current assets of $19,200,000 and current liabilities of $9,300,000. The previous quarterly dividend was $1.

DR. L. C. TYLER, AGED 70, WEDS MISS SUE RUFFIN, AGED 35

Richmond, Va., Sept. 13.—Dr. Lyon Gardiner Tyler, aged 70, son of John Tyler, tenth president of the United States, was married here late yesterday to Miss Sue Ruffin, of Richmond. Dr. Tyler is president emeritus of the College of William and Mary at Williamsburg, Va.

Miss Ruffin, who is 35 years of age, is a daughter of John Ruffin, and a great granddaughter of Edmund Ruffin, who fired the first gun at Fort Sumter in the Civil war.

EMPLOYE ELECTROCUTED IN COAL YARD IN NEW HAVEN

New Haven, Sept. 13.—Michael Kelleher, 47, of this city, was electrocuted this afternoon in the yard of a coal company wher she was employed when one of his hands came in contact with a switch which sets in operation an electrically operated bucket conveyer. A fellow worker shut off the current, but his action was too late to prevent Kelleher's death.

SIX PERSONS INJURED WHEN CAR RAN INTO WAGON

New York, Sept. 13.—Six persons were injured this afternoon and all trolley service on the Brooklyn bridge was temporarily suspended when a Manhattan-bound trolley car ran into the Brooklyn end of the bridge. The injured were removed to hospitals and 25 persons were treated by ambulance surgeons for shock.

USE OF NAVY ILLEGAL FOR PROHIBITION ENFORCEMENT

Attorney General Daugherty Rules There is No National Emergency Calling for the Employment of Warships to Make the Dry Laws Effective—Navy Could be Used as an Enforcement Agency Only by Special Authorization From Congress—Formal Opinion Delivered to President Coolidge.

Washington, Sept. 13.—The navy cannot legally be used in enforcing prohibition, Attorney General Daugherty ruled today. In addition, he decided, there is no national emergency in the situation calling for the employment of warships to make the dry laws effective.

Delivering to President Coolidge the formal opinion, asked last spring by late President Harding, the Attorney-General held that the naval establishment could be used as an enforcement agency only by special authorization from Congress, or in an emergency which made civil processes impotent.

Two questions were submitted originally by President Harding—whether the executive had power to use the naval forces in enforcing prohibition in the absence of an emergency and, if this was unlawful, whether an emergency existed authorising their use. Both questions were answered in the negative by Mr. Daugherty who cited laws and supreme court decisions as precedents.

"I am of the opinion," he said, "that you have no authority to use the naval forces in enforcement of the national prohibition act when no emergency exists."

Declaring there was no emergency justifying a call upon the navy, the opinion said:

"There can be no emergency authorizing the President to call out the naval forces to enforce the civil and criminal laws until the courts and the civil departments of the government are no longer able to enforce them.

"While there have been numerous violations of the national prohibition act both on land and within our territorial waters, there have been no unlawful obstructions of the functions of the courts or restraint of their processes, or of the coast guard, the division customs, the prohibition unit, nor of the marshals and their deputies of the department of justice all the departments of the government are functioning and making a steady advance against lawless elements.

In general, the prohibition act is being enforced. There are stubborn exceptions in congested localities in some of which local support has not been rendered. There are places where public opinion is unfriendly and the enforcement of this law is difficult. But I cannot believe that such isolated cases constitute a national emergency within the meaning of the act of Congress.

"I am, therefore of the opinion that there are no unlawful obstructions, combinations, or assemblages or persons, or rebellion against the authority of the government of the United States in the enforcement of the prohibition statutes, such as render it impracticable to continue to enforce these laws by the ordinary course of executive and judicial proceedings."

Congress has made no appropriations available for prohibition enforcement work by the navy, Mr. Daugherty ruled, adding that only in one instance, in suppression of slave traffic, had the military forces ever been called upon in time of profound peace to aid in making effective criminal statutes. Some laws exist, the opinion said, authorizing the president to use the navy under certain circumstances, such as execution of court processes when federal officers have been obstructed, quarantine laws, neutrality proclamations and other measures.

"However, none of these special statutes," said the opinion, "confer the authority for the use of the naval vessels to enforce ordinary civil and criminal statutes such as the national prohibition act and the revenue laws."

The opinion was regarded as applicable to the army as well as the navy, precluding also the use of military forces in assisting prohibition enforcement, although it dealt specifically with the navy.

Secretary Denby and other officials who have been opposed to diversion of their forces to prohibition work were sustained by the attorney general.

Prohibition Commissioner Haynes declined to comment, but prohibition headquarters officials were quoted as taking the view that the ruling would not change the enforcement situation.

WRANGLING OVER SELECTION OF JURY FOR WARD TRIAL.

White Plains, N. Y., Sept. 13.—Mrs. Walter S. Ward today stepped into the limelight while opposing counsel were wrangling over the jury which was to try her husband on a charge of having murdered Clarence F. Peters.

Mrs. Ward was absent yesterday at the opening of the trial, but today she seated herself at her husband's side, chatting with him through the dreary process of selecting talesmen, only seven of whom had been tentatively accepted when court was adjourned until tomorrow.

During the noon recess a subpoena was served on Mrs. Ward, who created a stir after the first investigation which followed the slaying of Peters, ex-marine, when she declared she could clear up the case with "a few sensational statements." At that time newspapers were filled with rumors concerning the nature of the blackmail plot which Ward, wealthy baker's son, had claimed led him to keep a tryst with Peters and other blackmailers and at which Ward claimed to have shot Peters in self-defense.

But Mrs. Ward for some time has been reported out of the state, and it was rumored that she and George S. Ward, her father-in-law, were dodging process servers. Her appearance in court today, therefore came as a distinct surprise.

Ralph D. Ward, Walter's brother told reporters that the subpoena served on Mrs. Ward directed her to appear next Monday before the extraordinary grand jury ordered empanelled by Governor Smith which had indicted her husband and which today continued in session on the floor beneath that on which the trial was in progress.

Isaac N. Mills, chief defense counsel, said this also was his understanding of the subpoena. Attorney General Sherman declined to discuss it.

Opposing counsel, with the jury box half-filled yesterday, today fought for hours over talesman, both sides challenging again and again. The only individual tentatively O.K.'d was John R. Sweeney, 71-year old real estate operator, of White Plains. He was accepted after a conference in which Mrs. Ward and her husband joined with defense counsel.

It was indicated this afternoon that Supreme Court Justice Wagner might have to order tomorrow another panel empanelled.

NAVY-CURTISS PLANE GOES 244.15 MILES AN HOUR

Mineola, N. Y., Sept. 13.—A navy-Curtiss racer, piloted by Lieutenant Harold J. Brown, U. S. N., of Providence, R. I., today established a new world's speed record by traveling 244.15 miles an hour, or more than four miles a minute, over a one-kilometer course at Mitchel field.

This record, the average speed of four flights, two with the wind and two against, smashed the mark of 238 miles an hour set last Monday by Lieutenant Sanderson, U. S. N., in a Wright-Fighter biplane. On one of the trips before the wind the racer, which will be piloted by Lieutenant Brow in the Pulitzer race in St. Louis, attained a speed of 256 miles an hour.

TWO WOMEN HIKED FROM MIAMI TO NIAGARA FALLS

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Sept. 13.—Mrs. Amanda Chapman, 59 years old, of Miami, Fla., arrived in this city today after a hike of 1,463 miles from Miami and 428 miles from Montreal.

She was accompanied by her daughter, Irene R. Chapman, 25 years old. They plan to walk to Chicago, their old home, and thence to Los Angeles. They left Miami on June 1.

G. W. WICKERSHAM UPHOLDS THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS

New Haven, Sept. 13.—No other comprehensive plan to avert war is before the world today than that builded upon the covenant of the league of nations, George W. Wickersham, attorney-general in the cabinet of President Taft, told the public meeting of the general Unitarian conference, in Battell chapel of Yale college tonight. He said the first test of the league of nations is tentatively accepted when court was adjourned until tomorrow.

Mr. Wickersham was one of several speakers on "International relations" and his own text was The Test of the League. He laid the groundwork for his analysis of the league's action by sketching the causes which led to the World war and drawing an analogy between the assassinations in Serbia and the recent killing of Italian members of the international commission appointed by the council of ambassadors to fix the boundary line between Greece and Albania.

He quoted from William Penn that "governments, like clocks, go from the motion men give them and as governments are made and moved by them, so by men they are ruined, too." He said the league of nations was no exception t othe rule.

DECREASE OF 422 PAUPERS IN STATE IN FISCAL YEAR

Hartford, Sept. 13.—A decrease of 422 state paupers within the past fiscal year has been reported to State Treasurer G. Harold Gilpatric by Raymond F. Gates, head of the department of state agencies and institutions. For the support of such public charges the state paid an aggregate of $113,473.59, to seventy towns, which, notwithstanding the reduced number of paupers at the end of the year, was an increase of approximately $5,000.

The state was providing for 1,891 paupers at the beginning of the year and the number was gradually reduced to 1,469 on July 1, deportations being responsible for 198 of the decrease. Improvement in the general industrial situation, making employment available to many who depended on the state for their living is the previous year, was chiefly responsible for the removal of the others from the pauper list. It was the first year since the department of state agencies and institutions was established in 1919 that a reduction in the number of state paupers was effected. Next to Bridgeport, Hartford received more funds from the state for the support of paupers than any other municipality in Connecticut.

GOVERNOR PROCLAIMS OCT. 8 AS FIRE PREVENTION DAY

Hartford, Sept. 13.—Governor Templeton today issued the following proclamation: "Fire is one of our greatest blessings when controlled. When uncontrolled, it is one of the most destructive of elements.

"Carelessness is responsible for almost all destructive fires. A match thoughtlessly dropped, a smouldering cigarette, a pile of rubbish, a few greasy rags, have been the cause of widespread suffering among innocent people. Loss of home, loss of employment, loss of life can be the consequence of a moment's negligence.

"So serious has this menace become that the general assembly has required that a day be set aside in the interests of protection against fire. Accordingly I designate Tuesday, Oct. 9th, as Fire Preventing Day and recommend that an earnest effort be made on Monday, in our schools, our places of employment and our homes, to spread a realization of the nature of the danger and its seriousness to us all, and of the ease with which it can be prevented by the exercise of ordinary care."

Henry Potvin of Willimantic, one of the seventeen violators of the liquor law on whom bench warrants were served last Tuesday in this city and Putnam, was sentenced to 12 days in jail and fined $100 and costs, in the superior court Thursday. A large number interested in the several cases attended the session, the spectators including Rev. A. Stanley Muirhead of the Methodist church, Rev. F. C. Williams, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church, and delegations from the W. C. T. U., Willimantic Woman's club and the D. A. R. Court was opened at 10.45 o'clock and recess was taken until 12 o'clock to allow time for the attorneys to hold conferences with their clients.

Practically all of the alleged violators intend to fight the charges against them. Raymond Desrosier is represented by Attorneys William A. King and T. J. Kelley; Joseph Kannell by Attorney King; Mrs. Birdie Ostrich by Attorneys King and Kelley; Mrs. Molly Krug by Attorney Kelley; Solomon Isaacs by Attorneys King and Elbert L. Darbie of Danielson. Henry Potvin was represented by Attorney Harry S. Gaucher. Of the Putnam violators, James Barnes, Jan Zachariadis, Charles Miron, Louis Miller, Omer Milliard, Alexis Beaudreault, Alfonzo DiCarlo and Julius La Fiamme are represented by Attorney C. L. Torrey and William Killian and Samuel Smith by Attorneys Torrey and Darbie.

While court was in recess Hyman Israel, who furnished the bonds of $2,500 for the release of Mrs. Birdie Ostrich, last Tuesday, for her appearance in court Thursday, came to the court room and withdrew the bond. Mrs. Ostrich was then placed in the custody of Sheriff Charles A. Gates to await another bondsman.

The case against Henry Potvin was the only one of the seventeen cases disposed of. A plea of nolo contendre was entered by his attorney. A fine of $100 and costs, amounting to $139.63 was imposed by Judge Jennings, also a twelve day jail sentence, the term being reduced because Potvin has already served three days in jail while awaiting trial. It was said that Potvin thought that as he could not secure a bondsman and must necessarily spend his time in jail while awaiting trial, it was best for him to throw himself on the mercy of the court. The fine was paid.

A number of the violators privately stated their intention of having their cases tried by jury.

Hyman Rosenberg was finally secured as a bondsman for Mrs. Ostrich and, after the $2,500 bond had been furnished court reopened and immediately adjourned until Monday morning at 10 o'clock when several of the cases will probably come to trial. Clerk of the Court E. M. Warner was commanded by Judge Jennings to summons the jury to be present in court Monday morning.

Contraband liquor accumulated at police headquarters during the past few weeks was poured into the sewers, Thursday morning. The moonshine was that recently seized at the homes of David Messier, Mrs. Birdie Ostrich and the store of Joseph Kannell. Alderman William E. Jackson, chairman of the police committee, and Chief of Police Allan McArthur supervised the work of destruction. J. Deloraine Conant of the local prohibition enforcement committee and Mrs. Nellie A. Gager of the local W. C. T. U. were present and took a hand in destroying bottles and containers.

Chief McArthur, Lieutenant Frank McLean and Federal Prohibition Enforcement Officer Stanton L. Briggs carted the liquor from the chief's office and the bottles were sent crashing on the concrete flooring of the cell room. An axe was used on jugs and metal containers. For several hours during the forenoon the town building seemed more like a distillery than the home of town and city offices as the aroma of liquor pervaded the lower floor and for a time reached the second floor.

The new Willimantic directories for 1923-1924 are being circulated. They include Windham and Coventry. The directory is the same size as the last ones issued in 1921 and has an orange colored cover. The book contains 270 pages, about a dozen more than those previously issued and the sheets are of thinner paper. Something new is seen in the case of married men, their wives' first names being carried after the man's surname in parenthesis. The books carry the names of citizens, street guide, street directory, names of officers of city and town government, societies, corporations and other valuable local information.

Upon returning to their home on Valley street after a theatre party, Mr. and Mrs. Zephiun Coutu were surprised to find about thirty relatives and friends awaiting them, to assist them to celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary. The house had been handsomely decorated and the dining room was filled with gifts, including mahogany, cut glass, linen and silver. An elaborate luncheon was served. Guests came from Norwich, Hartford, Perry, N. Y., and Willimantic.

Miss Ada B. Anderson, formerly of Willimantic, became the bride of Charles H. Chesebrough at his home in Leominster, Mass., Sept. 3. The bride wore pearl gray silk and carried white asters. Her traveling suit was of dark blue duvetyn. The house was decorated with laurel, asters and chrysanthemums and the ceremony was performed under an arch of flowers. The double ring service was used. Supper was served for the members of the two families and intimate friends. Guests came from Lunenberg, Leominster, Fitchburg, New Brunswick and Willimantic. After a brief honeymoon trip Mr. and Mrs. Chesbrough will reside at 189 Hall street, Leominster, Mass.

Chapter chairmen of the American Red Cross have been requested to immediately forward to headquarters all collections which have been made in the Japanese relief drive, as the organization has incurred large obligations in making immediate purchases of materials and supplies. It is not believed that $5,000,000 will be sufficient to furnish needed relief, due to the magnitude of the disaster. Contributions in Willimantic have been coming in well but the local Red Cross officers are emphasizing the need of contributing immediately. There is no doubt about the raising of $1,000 in Willimantic but the sum is needed at once and contributions are asked for at the earliest possible moment.

Mrs. Josephine Mangano Kemo, 49, died late Wednesday night at the home of her brother, Maurice Mangano of 966 Main street, following a long illness. She was born in Italy, March 19, 1874, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrea Sinatra Mangano. She is survived by a brother, Maurice Mangano and a sister, Marianna Luizzua, of this city.

A. C. Tyler Auxiliary, No. 14, held a very successful dance Wednesday evening at Al-Pierre Tabarin. Classical dancing was interpreted by Janet Carpenter and Lois Latimer of Norwich, during the intermission. Mrs. Ella Lynch was chairman of the dance committee.

Agent Don H. Curtis made the announcement Thursday that the manufacturing department of the local mills of the American Thread company are to operate on a four-day-a-week schedule, beginning this week.

Officers of the junior class of the Windham High school have been elected as follows: President, Philip E. Dodge; vice president, Alice Yeomans; secretary, Avis Thompson; treasurer, John Jackson; and members of the athletic council, Watson Burton and Alma Liberty. Miss Cecelia Morin was chosen faculty advisor. Sums of $25 were voted to Lyceum and the athletic council.

State Policeman Harris Hulburt, of Stafford Springs barracks, was in the patrolmen's room of the town building Thursday to meet applicants for motor vehicle drivers' licenses.

The case of Laurence Gallop, of East Hartford, charged with reckless driving, which was to have been heard in the police court Thursday morning was continued to Saturday morning.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

Jack Rescued His Friends.

Now, I hope you remember what happened in the last story. How the wicked giantess had dropped sleeping powders into the milk, which put the little bear, the monkey and the pig to sleep. After which she had tried to kill Little Jack Rabbit with her big knife and she would have had he not touched her with his magic feather, turning her into a statue.

Well, there she sat at the head of the table, a great stone figure with the big knife raised in her hand. Opposite sat the giant smoking his great pipe, his feet up on a chair. He said never a word. Perhaps he was afraid Little Jack Rabbit might observe him into a stone image or maybe it was the first time in his life that he really felt at home in his house, for a little bird whose nest was just under his window told me that his wife ruled him with a rod of iron and made his life miserable ever since he had slipped on her finger a gold wedding ring as big as a bracelet.

As soon as the bunny boy felt certain the giantess was turned into stone, he went over and touched the little bear with his magic feather. But, oh dear me, the little bear didn't wake up at all. He just kept on sleeping as peacefully as you please. And when Little Jack Rabbit touched the little monkey and the pig they didn't wake up either. You see, the magic feather had only the power to turn people into stone or wood and sometimes into ashes. But it couldn't bring them out of a spell.

"Goodness," thought the little bunny, "what shall I do?"

All of a sudden, the poll parrot who had warned him of the wicked giantess in two or three stories ago, flew into the dining room and perched on the head of the stone giantess:

You must find a gold star flower
In the fairies' shady dell.
With it touch your friends who slumber,
And they'll waken from the spell."

she chattered.

"Show me the way," cried Little Jack Rabbit.

"Follow me," she answered, tiptoeing past the big giant who had fallen asleep by this time.

By and by, not so very far, she and the bunny came to a fairy dell and after looking here and there and everywhere, Little Jack Rabbit suddenly spied the gold star flower. Carefully holding it in his paw, he started back for the house. But [illegible] and the giant.

Just as he entered the garden he met the giant at the great fountain. The giant paid no attention to him but sat down to watch the little gold fish swimming about.

Quickly hopping into the house, Little Jack Rabbit touched his friends with the gold star flower and immediately they awoke from their sleep. And next time I'll tell you what they did after that.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Thursday morning the funeral of Gaspard Landry was held from the home of his parents at Connecticut village with services at St. James' church at 9 o'clock, Rev. John Roux, M. S., being celebrant of the high mass of requiem. Burial was in Holy Cross cemetery. The bearers were Elmear Laprade, Joseph Landry, Joseph Charbonneau, Philip Charbonneau, Philip Landry and Charles Landry. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Tomorrow (Saturday) at Wildwood park members of the Employes' association of the Southern New England Telephone company in divisions in this corner of the state are to have an outing and a big shore dinner. A series of events is planned to keep the afternoon lively and interesting. "King" George Jacques of East Killingly is to prepare the bake, an assurance that it will be of the highest order. The event is expected to bring together a large number of the telephone company's employes and such guests as they invite.

Next week brings the annual Brooklyn fair, an event that stands out as about the greatest each year in the life of the neighboring town. The grounds are now practically ready for the exhibition. A fine showing of fruit and vegetables is looked for, as well as the usual interesting cattle show. The fair officials have many applications for concessions from those who supply such clean entertainment as the fair allows. Construction of a fine system of state roads in this territory has been one of the major factors in attracting an ever-increasing attendance at this fair, during the past few years.

There is interest here in the fact that the Fuller Genealogical society is to hold its reunion in Danielson tomorrow (Saturday). Of particular interest also is the fact that Captain Clifford A. Fuller of Los Angeles is here for the event. Captain Fuller, 85 years of age, is a veteran of the Civil war and recently has been at Milwaukee to attend the annual reunion of the G. A. R., completing his transcontinental trip by a visit here and hereabouts. He is staying at the Attawaugan hotel this week and those who have met him have found him an intensely interesting man and one of great activity and alertness for one of his advanced years. He is a fruit grower and one of the pioneers in that line and is said to have been the shipper of the first carload of raising and oranges that ever came east from California.

Saturday a formal meeting of the Fuller society will be held in G. A. R. hall in the morning, followed by a lunch at the Attawaugan hotel. During the afternoon those attending the reunion will go to Foster for the unveiling of a memorial tablet at the Fuller homestead in Foster, a few miles east of here. About 50 are expected here for the reunion.

Following are the newly elected officers of Rose of Lima council, No. 52, K. of C.: Grand Knight, Peter Gagnon; deputy grand knight, James Melville; chancellor, James Moran; financial secretary, Henry Lambert; recording secretary, Thomas Mailhot; treasurer, Oscar Bernier; warden, Thomas O'Neil; outside guard, Frank Verit; inside guard, Daniel O'Connell; trustee for three years, Bernard Casey; advocate, Louis A. Woizard.

Action taken at the superior court in Willimantic Thursday in imposing a jail sentence on one man who pleaded guilty to a violation of the liquor law, was taken here as impressing the fact that such violators are apt to face in the superior court jail terms as well as fines in cases developing hereafter. The matter was one of widespread interest and attention. A number of other such cases await disposal during the coming week.

Letters coming through from members of the service battery in camp at Camp Eustis, Va., are coming through and tell of the activities of the local boys engaged in an annual tour of field service. Most of them make mention of the heat they are experiencing in the south and of the additional burden it places upon them in carrying out their daily round of duties, which are more or less strenuous. The boys have another full week of camp life ahead, before starting on their return journey to the north.

Those who are interested in fistic matters and who will want to hear promptly of the progress and outcome of the Dempsey-Firpo match in New York tonight may do so by keeping in touch with the radio service and other means of rapid communication that has been arranged for their benefit. The Danielson Radio club will get returns, as will many radio operators in the territory working independently. The telephone service also will be available in getting quick returns from the slamfest.

Election of a fine, modern school building for St. James' parish is forecasted by the plans of Rev. John Roux, M. S., the pastor, in raising funds through a period of months. The present building is hardly adequate for the growing needs of the parish, now centered in a bustling county city. The three-story frame structure was erected in 1857, and has served its purpose admirably, but it must soon be replaced by a modern building which probably will be of brick and of the most approved style of structure devoted to school purposes. The cost can only be approximated, but it will entail the expenditure of many thousands of dollars. The obligation will be cheerfully assumed by the parish, which has been free of debt for several years, having paid off all mortgages during the period of the war. No definite announcement has been made as to when work on the new building will be undertaken.

A squad of twenty candidates is in training for places on Killingly High school's football team, which it is expected will develop into a powerful machine during the playing season that will open at the end of the present month and continue through a number of weeks of the fall period. Much fine material remains from last year's team, which made a very good showing, and especially in view of the fact that no football had been played at Killingly High school for a score of years prior to 1922. The Norwich Free Academy team likely will furnish the opposition to Killingly in the opening game of the season on September 29.

A minor accident in which a truck and a light touring car figured occurred Thursday morning near the foot of Spalding hill in South Killingly. No one was injured and the machines were not seriously damaged.

Miss Edith Fuller has been elected president of the Treble Clef club, and Henry Flagg musical director.

Dr. Hugh B. Campbell of Norwich will be here Tuesday to conduct a clinic at the health station in the town hall building.

The selectmen and town clerk will meet Saturday morning to examine the qualifications of applicants for admission as electors in the town of Killingly.

A Thursday night dance at Wildwood park was well patronized, as have been the majority of the late-season gatherings there.

Warden and Mrs. W. A. Burrows have returned from their summer's stay at their cottage at Oakland beach, where they have spent 30 seasons and are among the best known of the cottagers at the resort.

PUTNAM

Wool salesmen to the number of nearly 100 will come to this city today (Friday) and with their guests, representing eastern Connecticut Manufacturing concerns, will entertain at the Putnam Country club. Golf will be one of the principal diversions of the day and an entire series of affairs for the links have been arranged, with fine prizes for the winners in each contest. It is said the prizes offered for the winners have an aggregate value of several hundred dollars. Players in each contest will represent the wool men, on one side, and the manufacturers on the other. A lunch is to be served. It was stated here Thursday that such a gathering as is planned will be the first of its kind held hereabouts. The wool men will represent about all the concerns in their line that do business in Connecticut. The manufacturers will come from many towns and cities in Windham, New London and Tolland counties.

Among the activities that attracted attention at Woodstock fair, which came to a close Thursday after a very successful exhibition, was the canvas being conducted by women and girls in the interest of the Hall Memorial fund. This fund is to be used for the construction of a gymnasium building on the campus at Woodstock academy and will be a companion structure to the Bracken library, the construction already is assured. It is pointed out that the two new buildings, with the academy itself, will make a fine group of buildings on the campus at Woodstock Hill.

The Hall Memorial gymnasium is named in honor of E. R. Hall, for many years principal of the academy.

Grand officers of the Independent Order of Red Men in Connecticut came to this city Thursday evening to make an annual visitation to Wappaquasset Camp, No. 63. The meeting was featured by speeches by visiting officers and by members of the local camp. The officers who came here for the visitation were William E. Fairbanks, Charles E. Peck, Andrew Weisner and William D. Newport. Refreshments were served during the evening.

Large numbers of Putnam's residents waited expectantly Thursday for some word from the superior court at Willimantic relative to the disposal of the cases of men served with bench warrants here Tuesday and charged with alleged violations of the liquor law. Telephone communications between this city and Willimantic kept the interested informed of the progress of matters and of the action taken during the day, as told in the Willimantic news this morning. The Putnam men did not plead Thursday, a day marked by conferences between their counsel and prosecutors representing the state. They will return to Willimantic Monday and will be put to plea and the jury will be on hand which may go to trial. As matters are now they will stand over the week end.

In the meantime the short calendar session of the superior court that was to have been held here today has been postponed until Friday of next week, Judge Marvin will preside at the session to be held in this city.

Though the fund has reached a total of $21,000, an excess over the original goal sought, a carnival is to be held in Pomfret for the further increase of the nurses' home fund of Day Kimball hospital. Tea is to be served each afternoon and there is to be dancing in the evening. Pomfret has done splendid work throughout the drive for the fund and the carnival is another evidence of activity to enlarge the amount.

Following is a list of candidates named by the democrats of Putnam to be voted for at the annual town meeting two weeks from Monday: Selectman, Alfred Bonneville; assessor, Edmund Dubois; board of relief, P. J. Ryan; clerk, treasurer and agent of the town deposit fund, David Flagg; auditor, J. Harry Mann; constables, Origere Touchettem, Alphonse Beausoliel, Armand Trahan, Napoleon Bazilon; registrar of voters, George Potvin, town school committee, James J. Charon, [illegible]; [illegible] directors, Bernard J. McGarry, P. J. Ryan, Mrs. [illegible].

As the democrats have named only one candidate for selectman, instead of the two allowed, there will be no contest for places on the board at the election, both republicans and the single democratic candidates being certain to win. Following a custom in vogue for some time, the democrats have endorsed David Flagg, republican town clerk and treasurer, and he also is certain of re-election.

Not so many people were at Woodstock fair Thursday, the closing day, as on Wednesday, but there was a very considerable attendance. Splendid weather helped Thursday to make a fine day for those who attended the exhibition. Late Thursday afternoon those who helped make the fair a success through their exhibits and with their entertainment enterprises were preparing to vacate the grounds. From a financial point the fair was a success again this year. Of the things that attracted special interest at the fair was the apple display by the Windham County Fruit Growers' asociaion stood well in the forefront. Many were amazed at the splendid apples grown in Woodstock and other nearby county towns, fruit rivaling the best that comes out of the famous orchards of Oregon, and really of much better flavor.

This year the annual D. A. R. pilgrimage will be held at Hampton October 6, and the trip will be made in motor cars, which are to assemble here at about 10.30 a. m. A committee of arrangements is now preparing for the trip. Rev. Avery A. Gates, Congregational pastor at Hampton, is to deliver the address. A basket lunch is to be taken by the members making the trip.

Wire service corporations and the radio will be depended upon tonight to bring returns from the Dempsey-Firpo battle in New York. Fans have made their arrangements to get prompt returns from the ringside. There was not much betting here on the outcome, excepting at odds on Dempsey to win and on the number of rounds the affair will go.

Walter Scanlan came back to the Bradley Theatre, Thursday evening to present an appealing interpretation of The Blarney Stone before a large audience. Mr. Scanlan achieved another success, such as was noted upon his appearance here in another production last year.

Dr. Hugh B. Campbell is coming to the Day Kimball hospital Tuesday next to conduct a tuberculosis clinic, as has been his practice for some time past.

George Bricault, who disappeared when allowed to go on his own account to secure a bondsman, was still numbered among the missing Thursday, and nothing was known of his whereabouts.

A drive to boost Windham House fund, now totaling $36,000 is to be carried out the second week in October.

Two goats are said to have been abandoned by a family that spent the summer at Crystal lake in Eastford, anyone who would care for such a pair of pets, if they may so be rated.

J. C. Scott of the Manhasset Company has been spending the week at Kineo, Maine.

J. M. Whittlesey, commissioner of domestic animals, has been a visitor in Putnam, giving attention to matters pertaining to his department.

Miss Mary Carpenter will leave within a few days to take up her duties as a member of a college faculty at Sweet Briar, Va.

Court Adjourned

The following was issued Thursday by Windham county superior court. Notice to the Bar. By Order of Court. Hon. L. P. Waldo Marvin Judge, the September Civil Term will be adjourned one week, from Tuesday, September 18th, to Tuesday, September 25th, and the Short Calendar and Assignment of Cases from Friday, September 14th, to Friday, September 21st, 1923.

Edgar M. Warner, Clerk

JEWETT CITY

After considerable scouting among available talent, the Quinebaug camps colony on the upper Aspinook has arranged for a great public ball game Sunday. Manager Frank Hawkins Dwyer's bunch will oppose Congressman "Pucky" Rioux's all star aggregation. The line up is one of note.

"Flip Flop" Blanchard, catcher; "Spider" McNicol, pitcher; "Baldy" Le Claire first base; "Drainpipe" Olsen, second base; "Congressman" Rioux, short stop; "Aprica" Le Claire, third base; "Skim Milk" Raney, right field; "Shiek" Boucher, center field; "Get 'Em All" Blanchard, left field.

The line-up of the "Out-of-Doors-Colony" with positions as yet unassigned, is:

"Santa Claus" Benjamin, "Vaselino" Le Claire, "Speed Boat" Wolf, "Weasel" Symington, "Cake Eater" Farley, "Flat Tire" Thompson, "Hawkins" Dwyer, "Pumkin Pie" Le Claire, "Mrs. Harrington" Beliale, "Zeb" Hiscox, "Sweetheart" Raney, "Mrs. Beliale" Harrington, "Stumbling" Marshall, "Textile" Paul.

It has leaked out that F. H. Dwyer, who shoots a mean ball, may start the game on the mound. Congressman Rioux will be glad of reliable help from the "Out-of-doods" boys.

H. Gordon Willis, who may reference the coming Dempsey-Firpo bout will hold the indicator.

Leeds Johnson, of New York, is spending the week end with the Ross family in Lisbon. Mr. Johnson is the grandson of the late Deacon Henry L. Johnson of Griswold, who decended from a long line of deacons in Pachaug, and in Jewet City at the time of the founding of the Second Congregational church. Leeds Johnson is a deacon in Dr. Fosdick's church in New York. He is a member of the New York Stock Exchange, inheriting his seat which was purchased from his father, Henry L. Johnson, Jr., soon after the closing of the Civil war.

Jacob Wechsler, is a patient at the Backus hospital, Norwich, where he was taken by Dr. G. H. Jennings, late Wednesday evening. Mr. Wechsler was in the basement of his Main street store, showing goods to a prospective purchaser. He slipped from the chair upon which he was standing, and in falling his leg was broken. Mr. Wechsler has the sympathy of many local friends, for the reason that being lame since infancy, he has continually and successfully fought this handicap. The leg fractured was the one that was not normal.

There was a good representation from Jewett City Wednesday at the meeting of the Bible School convention of the Stonington Union Association at Poquonoc Bridge. Mrs. George H. Prior, state president of The King's Daughters, was one of the speakers, explaining the value and benefit derived from Bible study in the Sunday school.

The ticket put in nomination for town officers at the democratic caucus Tuesday evening follows: Assessor, William McNicol; board of relief, John McDermott; selectmen, Maxcy Seymour, Arba Browning; auditor, Louis Mowrey; collector of taxes, Lionel E. Boucher; constables, Leslie Hyde, Harvey Manard, Fred Bacon, Edward Bryant; school committee, James H. Shea, William Bitgood.

A thunder storm with very unusual electric activity was central over the borough at 3 o'clock Thursday morning. The first chack, like a broadside of artillery, came without warning, and almost threw people from their beds. The fluid got mixed up with the local electric lighting system. The big circuit breakers at the central plant were thrown out. Transformers were put out of business in several instances. There were no lights on the streets for an hour, but they would have been superfluous anyway, on account of the almost continuous electric display.

Henry Barrows, of New Haven, a veteran of the Civil war, was in town Thursday a caller on Mrs. Nathan Babcock. Mr. Barrows is 80. He and the late Charles Jeffery, of Jewett City enlisted in Co. B, 5th Reg., Conn. Vols., and fought shoulder to shoulder all through the war. Mr. Barrows not hearing of his old comrade for 25 years came to look him up. Mrs. Charles Jeffery was Mrs. Babcock's daughter. Hr. Mr. Jeffery lived he would have been 93.

Alex McNicol, chairman of the Red Cross Japanese Relief drive has arranged to have collections taken at Ashland Cotton Co., by L. M. Carpenter; Aspinook Bleachery by L. G Buckingham; Ninigret Co., by F. D. Ballou; Textile Novelty Co., by Andrew McNicol; A. B. Burleson Co., Inc., by E. H. Hiscox, Jr.; Baptist church, by O. M. Brown; Methodist church, by W. J. Robertson, Jr.; Congregational church, by F. E. Robertson; St. Mary's church, by Chester Dudkowski; Newent church, by Rev. W. J. Reynolds; Voluntown churches and collections are under the direction of Miss Bertha Lewis. Any money may be left at the Jewett City Trust Co. If any organizations or churches have been asked by their superiors to contribute, it would help raise the Red Cross quota, if donations were sent through the local Red Cross chapter.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Gray, Lewis, Ruby, Arthur and Walter Gray, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Hewlitt and two children, Mr. and Mrs. Adelbert Babcock, L. A. Thornton, Miss Ruby Thornton, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gray, Mrs. G. H. Thornton, Everett Thornton, Mrs. Irving Thornton and Misses Diana and Alexina Pepin were in Plainfield Wednesday to attend the wedding of Herbert E. Gray and Esther L. Woodmansee.

A report of Willimantic Institute at the Camp Ground was given by delegates at the Epworth League meeting. A camp fire was arranged on the platform and all who had ever attended an institute were invited to gather around it and talk it over. A song was dramatized by Christine and Arlene Burdick and Hazel Johnson, the candlebeams being Doris and Ida Arnold. Camp fire songs were sung and John Chadwick and the pastor gave a brief address. A sum of money was presented Edward Thornton, who left for East Greenwich Academy the following day.

BOLTON NOTCH

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Codley from Hartford, Mr. and Mrs. John Stewart and son Earl from Forestville, Mrs. Gussie Stone and son and daughter of Forestville, Miss McMagin from Hartford and Mr. Pilford from New York were guests of Loren Maine over the week end and Labor day.

Miss Sadie Howard from New York is visiting her mother, Mrs. M. E. Howard.

POSTAL SERVICE.

Service is the object aimed at by the postoffice department. It is maintained by and for the people of this country who, inasmuch as it is operated by their dollars, have a right to insist upon getting what they pay for. The postoffice department is not a profit making part of the government but is always looking for ways in which it can increase the efficiency of its service.

In recent years the parcel post business, multiplying very rapidly as the people have come to appreciate its benefits, has presented new problems. It has required more facilities, more room and more help. It has been a question as to how to handle it and get the best results for all concerned and if possible to reduce the high cost of handling it. That it should interfere somewhat in the movement of mail of other classes is not surprising. In bulk it takes up much room, so that those sending it, those receiving it and those handling it are all concerned. The aim isn't to check it, but to expedite it in all ways possible without detracting from the speedy movement of first class mail.

With that in view the postoffice department is working with the railroads and big users of parcel post on a plan which contemplates the despatching of such mail matter by fast freight instead of along with the first class mail. It would be supposed that if there was any serious objection to such a plan it would be raised by the big users of parcel post. Reports are to the effect that the representatives of such users are kindly disposed to the idea, or are at least willing that it should be given a tryout, which would permit of the formulation of a better idea of its merits.

If that would hasten the delivery of first class mail and speed up the handling of parcel post matter there can be no objection to the fact that it goes by fast freight instead of by express trains. With service as the aim and service being what is wanted there can be no objection to the method if results are obtained.

SEEKING THE CAUSE.

Efforts to explain the piling up of the United States destroyers on the California coast one after the other while going to the assistance of a stranded steamer have not been lacking.

First and foremost it is impossible to overlook the fact that the large loss of life and property was due to the dense fog that prevailed. Had the conditions been otherwise, whatever contributed to the wrecks would have been overcome. As it was the destroyers were hastening to the steamer Cuba. The fog while bad was not enough to restrain them from slowing down to less than 20 miles an hour, a speed that many vessels cannot make under full steam.

Because of the conditions on the other side of the Pacific the idea has been advanced that the flotilla was caught by a tidal wave and deposited on the rocks. There is nothing more than the thought that such a thing might have happened to support it. Nothing to that effect has come from the commanders of the vessels, no evidence of anything of the kind has been heard of along the coast and it is to be noted that the destroyers were not carried ashore in a line, but piled up on practically the same reef in a bunch. A tidal wave would have caught them strung out along the coast in a procession.

Another explanation which is more plausible is that the destroyers were depending upon wireless for their bearings and because of the flood of messages coming from the Cuba the air was jammed and the vessels moving along at the rate of 20 miles an hour were guided by false or incomplete information.

Just what the trouble was and where the responsibility lies will be brought out in the investigation now underway by the navy department. It is plainly evident that whatever the decision is it will reveal conditions which should not be repeated and which may lead to better regulations under such circumstances in the future.

THE TROUBLE AT FIUME.

The time is growing short in which Jugoslavia can accept or refuse the course which Italy has mapped out for the government of Fiume. It is a case where Jugoslavia must accept the dictation of Italy or it can anticipate trouble. Italy isn't willing to come to an agreement in any other way. Jugoslavia has accepted the decision of a commission, but Italy has refused to do so and will accept only what it has set forth. Naturally the situation doesn't please. It opens many possibilities and it must make the rest of Europe wonder, in view of the Greco-Italian affair, just how far Italian domination is going to extend.

Fiume is a free state under the treaty of Rapallo. By it Jugoslavia relinquished its claims to it, although it is the Adriatic outlet for that country. The test of the new government by those who must use that port has not been a failure. Under the treaty Italian control is prevented, which brings some satisfaction but both Jugoslavia and Italy were in a mood for a new understanding concerning it if it could be arranged.

Had the mixed claims commission which undertook to bring about this understanding been endorsed by both sides in the recommendations it made the situation would have been quickly cleared. It doesn't appear that either side was bound to accept them and Italy refused, except that certain provisions which it suggested were incorporated. Those requirements have not appealed to Jugoslavia. There have been indications that it would not have them forced upon it but it is the weaker nation, far less able than Italy to rush into war but nevertheless not afraid of fighting.

The material for kindling a rousing Balkan disturbance exists. Whether it can be so handled that the torch will not be applied will soon be learned. Italy seems bent upon scrapping the treaty of Rapallo upon its own terms only. Jugoslavia is willing there should be a change but it hasn't as yet agreed with the Italian viewpoint and seeming dictation. Saturday is the time fixed by which it is expected to decide one way or another on the Italian demands.

ANOTHER HELP TO MEXICO.

By the recognition of the Mexican government our neighbor to the south is certain to gain numerous advantages. It will take its place along with other governments which sanction diplomatic relations and agree to respect the rights of others. It will also be able to stand in a much better light when it comes to obtain the financial assistance that it needs. A recognized government always inspires greater confidence. These are some of the direct benefits.

But it will also profit in a way which it had possibly not given much thought to. Ever since diplomatic relations between this country and Mexico were broken the latter has been a haven for criminals from this country. Crime could be committed on this side of the Rio Grande and by getting onto the other side they would be free from the pursuit of our authorities and also free from the possibility of extradition should they be caught in Mexico. Not a few hastened to get the benefit of this situation and are today in that republic.

With the conclusion of the formalities of recognition by this government the machinery of extradition will once more be in operation. This country will be anxious to get its hands on some who have sought Mexican protection and no doubt Mexico will be glad, or at least it should be, to get rid of them. It may well figure that it has enough of its own without endeavoring to shelter these from other countries. Whether they can be apprehended before they have sensed the situation and made their get-away remains to be seen. The way has been opened, however, to bring them to justice and any country should be glad to see them going.

AIDING THE HUMAN AGENCY.

In view of the loss of life and the injury to others that occurred in the wreck of the New Haven road train at Readville there is bound to be interest in the result of the inquiry that is now underway.

This train was being sent from one track to another and according to the officials it was being operated at too great a speed to accomplish with safety what was intended. Whether the train's speed was slackened to make the crossover is not disclosed but the inference is that it was the high rate of speed that caused the locomotive to leave the rails and plunge down an embankment with the cars scattered about some on their sides.

One important source of information is denied the investigators inasmuch as the engineer and firemen were both killed. Whether it was observed by the engineer that the switch had been set to cross his train over to another track will never be known. Whether it can be learned what the course of the engineman was remains to be established. Certainly the changing of a train from one track to another which called for the reduction of speed called for proper warning, set at the time the switch was thrown. Whether that was observed or whether it was believed the speed of the train was no more than could safely negotiate the cross over will be difficult to determine. However, it is just another of those instances which go to support the demand for the automatic train stops which work even though the human agency makes a slip, although judgment as to where the fault lies needs to be withheld until the inquiry discloses the facts.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The man on the corner says: Can you imagine the day when everybody will be living by the Golden Rule?

Is your confidence in the outcome of tonight's championship bout weakened by the realization that the unexpected sometimes happens?

Dry weather, Jack Frost and the progress of the season will force the abandonment of the lawn mowing and the pursuit of the ubiquitous leaves.

Have you noticed any $2 bills thrown into the gutters or along the roadsides because people are superstitious about them?

Governor Pinchot has done a good turn for the miners and now it remains to be seen whether he can do anything at all for the public.

The commission that Secretary Hughes has suggested to Canada is a prevention commission. Nothing could be more valuable in insuring continued peace.

Not only is the completion of the Colchester road desired, but some determined effort should be made to remove the long corduroy stretches in it.

Two New York cars crashed on a narrow Vermont bridge and six were thrown in the water because neither would stop. That is a disposition too often encountered on the highways today.

Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania wants the railroads to help offset what will be an increase in the price of coal to the consumer through the agreement between the miners and operators but he hadn't figured on the railroadmen asking for a raise in wages.

PERMANENT CYNIC

"Good!" growled the man who was reading the newspaper. "The jury has convicted that woman! No matter what a woman hasn't done I am in favor of her conviction. You can't convict any of 'em too often to suit me, neither, let me tell you! In fact the crying need of the world at the present moment is not peace or low tariffs or brotherly love—it is plentiful and persistent conviction of women for most everything!"

"Sa-a-y!" protested the man, still young enough to entertain tender views in regard to the fair sex. "Don't you know——"

"I know far too much!" declared the embittered one, instantly. "I'm in favor of restricting the literary pursuits of women to McGuffey's second reader, and if one of 'em dared take off her kitchen apron long enough to appear at a lecture I'd call out the firing squad. Do you realize that all of 'em have gone daffy over this psychology stunt and that the things they are discovering by way of the subconscious mind are disrupting the world

"Here I meet a good-looking girl and make some impression, but the next time I see her I approach with a glad smile saying how-do-you-do, Miss Stonebraker—and she murmurs that the name is Rockhamger. And she adds in distant tones that of course I know what it means when one forgets another person's name.

"I am an innocent sort of chap, so I think that this must be some sort of new game, like authors or drop the handkerchief, and I settle down to enjoy myself. No, I tell her, I am uninformed—just what does it mean when one forgets a name?

"I am all primed to relate to her that when a man is intensely attracted to a girl herself a little thing like her name simply doesn't count—rather neat, don't you think? But this Petunia Pebblegoat turns frostier and frostier and says that everybody at all familiar with what is going on in the world realizes that the subconscious mind does its best to shield its owner from annoyance and that one of its pet tricks is to lead one to forget the name of a person whom one dislikes very much.

"I just had the most embarrassing experience all due to the interest that Rossie Bush has taken in the new fad. Dining at her house with a parcel of rich and great I declined the horseradish sauce served with the tenderloin. It was all fluffed up with whipped cream and when Rosie saw me let it go by she clapped her hands excitedly.

"'There!' she gurgled. 'The professor said so! I think all about it! When you were a little boy your father used to beat you frequently, didn't he? And with a horsewhip? It's the association, you see—that's why you can't endure horse radish sauce!' There I sat blushing, stutteringly denying that my parent had ever laid hands on me, while the assemblage applauded Rossie and cried how marvelous her powers of deduction were.

"I don't dare open my mouth when I am out in society. I am afraid that if I voice the simplest opinion some Baby is going to say brightly that isn't it too bad—that shows that I cherish a secret desire to strangle my grandmother in spite of my surface politeness to the old lady! If I wear a red tie it proves that I am a Bolshevist at heart and if I betray a fondness for chocolate candy Ethelwyn will turn to Genevieve and say there! Remember the chapter in the book which says if a person loves chocolate candy it is the result of a suppressed desire to embezzle the widows and orphans' bank accounts and who would have thought it of me!

"I tell you it has got to the point where I do not care to venture out from my cave. It isn't safe. Just as I get Henrietta Glasscutter where her heart begins to thump at my approach I thoughtlessly say I've stopped smoking and she turns pale, puts hand to heart and says that shows I am propitiating the powers for some awful crime, offering incense as it were—and dark suspicion looms all over her. Nothing will convince her I am a sane and upright citizen. What to do!"

"Well, my girl doesn't care about reading and I guess I won't try to reform her!" said the other young man anxiously. "Gee, but you're out of luck, I'll say!"—Chicago News.

SARDINIA.

A new slogan of self-determination, "Sardinia for the Sards" and the visit of Mussolini, the first time an Italian prime minister has set foot on its shores since 1870, calls attention to one of the Mediterranean's most romantic islands.

A bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society says:

"Rarely does one encounter so many contradictory statements about a single small area as those made about Sardinia.

"One writer will set forth that it is roadless, mountainous and bandit-infested. The next will tell how wood-wheel ox-carts dispute the right of way with speeding automobiles, of its fertile valleys, and the kindly hospitality of its people.

"These divergencies arise because Sardinia is diverse, some of it is inaccessible, and the visitor reports what he saw in one corner of it as applying to the entire island.

"Take the towns, for example: Alghero, colonized from ancient Catalina, today resembles an old Spanish city. The gay and talkative people of Sassari, the northern province capital, are of Pisan extraction and their dialect still has Tuscan traces. In language, customs and dress La Maddalena is Corsican.

"Sardinia is mountainous, a fact which accounts for the way its settlements retain the characteristics of centuries ago. Various nationalities have overrun it since the times when Phoenician ships put into Sardinian ports, and many of these have left traces which are of high value to the student of racial history.

"There are roads, though some of them are the remnants of highways the Romans built. In Cagliari is an amphitheater excavated from solid rock where steps and corridors and animal dens still are discernible. In fact the Roman vestiges today are more apparent than medieval mementoes because the peasants destroyed many of the latter in quest of hidden treasure.

"The plains of Campidano are besprinkled with quaint villages and if one arrives on baking day he may think the town is afire. The smoke is merely that which filters through crevices as well as chimneys while housewives are preparing the bread which must last for a week's work in the fields.

"A characteristic of each of the plains towns is the crude water-supply system. A blind-folded ass trudges round and round, yoked to a wooden bar which turns the water-wheel. Attached to a rope belt revolving around the rim are earthenware buckets. As soon as a bucket reaches the top it overturns into a wooden trough which empties into a reservoir which supplies water for the gardens.

"Gaily-clad women do not abound on every hand, as some more rhapsodic writers assert, but in some places the colorful costumes of generations still survive. In solitary Dorgali the women are exceptionally beautiful and they dress in red so that when a procession of supplicants passes through the village streets the result is a flame of brilliant color against the intense green of the chestnut trees.

"This variety of life and physical conditions is surprising in a spot it occurs in such small compass. The island is only 160 miles long and about 70 miles wide.

"Its profusion of wild flowers affords a colorful panorama and gives the island a characteristic odor, derived principally from its many pungent herbs and shrubs.

"One of its unusual phenomena is the series of ponds, known as sea pools, on its southern coast. These communicate with the sea and retain a salt content. On the flats are huge mounds of salt, 20 or 30 feet high.

"Flamingoes from Africa make their summer homes in these pools and one August night, a little after sunset, the birds fly over Cagliari, on their daily journey from the west to the east pool, looking like moving crosses, with their short wings, necks out stretched and lank legs trailing behind."

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Signor Salandra, who has been acting as spokesman for Italy before the Council of the League of Nations at Geneva, where the Greco-Italian dispute has been up for consideration, is a former premier of Italy and one of that country's strongest statesmen. He was premier at the beginning of the war in Europe in 1914 and it was he, more than any other individual, who brought Italy to a state of military preparedness, and awakened the people to a realization of Italian interests. Mild-mannered and scholarly—he is a pedagogue by profession—Signor Salandra surprised even his most devoted friends and ardent admirers by the strong qualities he revealed when the war broke out. Without hesitation he broke the old alliance with Germany and Austria, formed a new alliance for Italy with the western powers, and in other decisive steps that followed in quick succession he showed that the scholar had become a strong-handed executive.

"OF MYSELF"

This only grant me, that my means may lie
Too low for envy, for contempt too high.
Some honor I would have,
Not from great deeds, but good alone;
The unknown are better than ill known:
Rumor can ope the grave.
Acquaintance I would have, but when 't depends
Not on the number, but the choice, of friends.

Books should, not business, entertain the light,
And sleep, as undisturbed as death, the night.
My house a cottage more
Than palace; and should fitting be
For all my use, no luxury.
My garden painted o'er
With Nature's hand, not Aros; and pleasures yield,
Horace might envy in his Sabine field.

Thus would I double my life's fading space;
For he that runs it well twice runs his race.
And in this true delight,
These unbought sports, this happy state,
I would not fear, nor wish, my fate;
But boldly say each night,
Tomorrow let my sun his beams display,
Or in clouds hide them; I have lived my day.

Stories That Recall Others

Peter's Poser.

Little Peter was of an inquiring turn of mind. "Daddy," he asked one day, "Is today tomorrow?"

"No, my son, of course it isn't tomorrow," was the reply.

"But you said it was," murmured Peter.

"When did I say today was tomorrow?" asked father.

"Yesterday," answered Peter.

"Well, it was. Today was tomorrow, yesterday, but today is today, just as yesterday was today yesterday, but is yesterday today, and tomorrow will be today tomorrow, which makes today yesterday and tomorrow all at once. Now run along and play."

Lucky 13.

Elizabeth is eleven years old today, the 11th. She was born in 1912. If you add the figures "1912" they total 13. The house number where the family lived at the time of her birth was 427, which also totals 13 when added and the house telephone number was 915. It was several months before any one added the letters in her name, which also total 13.

The ——— family considers 13 a lucky number. The father went overseas during the war and was in cabin 13, and in the channel crossing his bunk was No. 13. On returning to the United States he had a cabin numbered 13. But this wasn't a happen-so, as the others had been. He asked for it and got it. Thirteen isn't unlucky Elizabeth's father says.

Pile Sufferers

Can You Answer These Questions?

Do you know why ointments do not give you quick and lasting relief?

Why cutting and operations fail? and danger of an operation.

Do you know the cause of piles is internal?

That there is a stagnation of blood in the lower bowel?

Do you know that there is a harmless internal tablet remedy discovered by Dr. Leonhardt and known as HEM-ROID, now sold by Lee & Osgood and druggists generally, that is guaranteed?

HEM-ROID banishes piles by removing the internal cause, by freeing blood circulation in the lower bowel. This simple home treatment has an almost unbelievable record for sure, safe and lasting relief to thousands of pile sick sufferers, and saves the needless pain and expense of an operation. There is no reason why it should not do the same for you.

GAS IN THE STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Recommends Daily Use of Magnesia To Overcome Trouble Caused by Fermenting Food and Acid Indigestion.

Gas and wind in the stomach accompanied by that full, bloated feeling after eating are almost certain evidence of the presence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach, creating so-called "acid indigestion."

Acid stomachs are dangerous because too much acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach, often leading to gastritis accompanied by serious stomach ulcers. Food ferments and sours, creating the distressing gas which distends the stomach and hampers the normal functions of the vital internal organs, often affecting the heart.

It is the worst of folly to neglect such a serious condition or to treat with ordinary digestive aids which have no neutralising effect on the stomach acids. Instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This will drive the gas, wind and bloat right out of the body, sweeten the stomach, neutralize the excess acid and prevent its formation and there is no sickness or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and the best form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

Paul Whiteman Orchestra Here Tonight.

With a Paul Whiteman orchestra providing the music, Fletcher Post, No. 4, American Legion, will hold a dance this (Friday) evening at Hill Top, Boswell avenue and North Main street. The committee in charge stated Thursday night that the advance sale of tickets has been very encouraging and they anticipate a large crowd at the dance. This is the first of a series of dances which will be run by the post this fall and winter.

PERSONALS

Louis A. Wheeler was in Moodus on business, early in the week.

Mrs. Joseph H. Hall, is stopping at the Hotel Chatham, New York City.

Richard Peale has returned to Northfield, Me., to resume his studies at Norwich University.

Mr. and Mrs. George Upton and Turner Upton of Norwich were at Mr. and Mrs. Fred Botham's in Abington recently.

Miss Elizabeth A. McCabe and Miss Margaret C. Roarke have returned, following a vacation spent in Portland, Me.

WINDHAM HOUSE FUND HAS REACHED OVER $36,000

A meeting of the Windham House Association for Connecticut College was held at the home of Miss M. L. Magot-in Thompson last week. Members from Danielson, Putnam Heights, Windham, Thompson and Norwich were present. The reports of the secretary and treasurer were read. The treasurer's report was most gratifying since Mrs. Edwin W. Higgins of Norwich has assisted the committee in the raising of funds great progress has been made, in spite of its being an inauspicious time to ask for subscriptions, at least in the northern part of Windham county, where great efforts are being made to build a nurses' home for the Day Kimball Hospital. The Windham House fund which was $21,000 when Mrs. Higgins began her work a few weeks ago, it is now over $36,000, with many gifts in prospect. The president of a large manufacturing corporation in the state whose name at present is not to be made public has promised a contribution of $5,000. Ten persons in Willimantic have each pledged themselves to give a hundred dollars forming what is called a ten ten group. Organizations working on similar lines are being formed in other places and a number of card parties were held one afternoon recently in Windham, various houses facing the green being opened for the purpose. After the game tea was served to one and all in the public library, the amount raised was surprising. Attractive blue lead pencils, with Windham house inscribed on them in yellow letters (blue and yellow being the college colors) are on sale for the small sum of ten cents. Those wishing to purchase can probably get them from any one in your town interested in Windham House, or they can surely procure them by writing to Miss Elizabeth Abbe, Windham. Mrs. Higgins is resting from her labors at present, although she is always ready to receive contributions. A "drive" is planned for the second week in October from which great things are expected. After the reading of the reports the following officers were elected for the ensuing year.

President Mrs. Rienzi Robinson; vice president, Mrs. M. L. Marot, second vice president, Mrs. C. E. Searls; third vice president, Mrs. F. E. Guild. Secretary and treasurer Miss Rosamond Danielson.

The chairman of the various towns are the same as last year.

WEDDINGS.

Fellows-Seatter.

Monday evening at 8 o'clock Imbert Fellows of Norwich Town and Miss Catherine Ann Seatter, of Edinburgh, Scotland, were united in marriage by the Rev. Dr. John L. Clark, at his home in Brooklyn, N. Y.

The best man was William Engledardt of Woodhaven, L. I., who served in France with the groom, and the matron of honor was Mrs. Engledardt. Following a wedding supper the couple left for their home in Norwich Town. After a short stay there they will leave for a tour of the Adirondacks and northern New York.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Fellows of Norwich Town and, with his brother, is a poultry breeder, under the name of Fellows Brothers. He is a graduate of N. F. A., 1912, and of Connecticut Agricultural College, 1916, and studied at Edinburgh University after the armistice where he met the bride. He is a World war veteran, serving 18 months overseas as a corporal with the 38th U. S. Inf., 3rd division.

The bride is the daughter of David B. and Catherine Muirhead Seatter of Edinburgh, and has always resided there.

Bobsein-Baker.

In the rectory of St. Mary's church at 8 o'clock, Thursday evening, William Bobsein of No. 62 North street and Mrs. Ann Baker of North street were united in marriage by Rev. William A. Keefe, rector of the church. The attendants were Daniel Driscoll and Miss Agnes Bobsein.

Mr. Bobsein is a native of Waterford and is employed as a blacksmith. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Bobsein. The bride is a native of this city and was a widow.

Given Miscellaneous Shower.

RUM RUNNER THROWS HIMSELF ON THE MERCY OF THE COURT

John S. Jackson of New London, charged with being a rum runner, who was arrested in that city Thursday morning, threw a surprise into the superior court here Thursday afternoon when he was brought in on a bench warrant and put to plea. Jackson pleaded guilty as soon as the charge of transporting 23 quarts of whiskey in a motorboat for purposes of sale had been read to him by Clerk George E. Parsons. To make sure that the court understood him, he reiterated his plea of "guilty" and declared that he threw himself upon the mercy of the court.

When Jackson was put to plea he told the court that he had no lawyer and had no money to pay for one. Judge Allyn L. Brown indicated to Clerk Parsons that a plea of "not guilty" might be entered for the man, pending further action in the case, but Jackson astonished everybody by promptly pleading "guilty." After a moment's consideration Judge Brown directed that the plea might stand for the present but that Public Defender Charles L. Stewart should be notified to confer with the man in order that he might have the benefit of proper advice.

Immediately before Jackson was put to plea Rene A. Rogers, who is said to be from Massachusetts, was put to plea on the same charge as made against Jackson. Rogers was represented by Attorney G. C. Morgan and he pleaded not guilty.

Bonds were fixed at $6,000, in default of which he went to jail.

RUM RUNNERS CAUGHT.
Officers Were Waiting When Men Arrived in Motorboat.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Sept. 13.—John E. Jackson of this city and Rene A. Rogers, who is said to have come here from Massachusetts about three days ago, were arrested as rum runners this morning by Joe Fitzpatrick, who is a prohibition enforcement agent representing the government, and Sergeant Hick, Patrolmen Perkins and Philopena, the last named being the associates of Hick in nearly all the captures that have been made of men in the liquor business. These two officers have brought more liquor dealers to the bar of justice than all the other men on the force because they have pursued the offenders with a zeal that no one else has displayed.

Jackson was being watched because the officers had a "tip" that he was to come to the little creek near the Babcock Press works this morning and they were there to greet him as soon as he came in his power boat and boarded his houseboat where he makes his home. The creek is the same place where the officers made a big catch some weeks ago and found a truck being laden with whiskey that was brought in from the sea off Block Island. It will be recalled that the officers then fell upon the liquor carriers by luck, but today the policemen knew what they might find and they found it in abundance. Jackson had some two dozen bottles of Hunter whiskey, the sort that has been sold so plentifully about New London during the past three months. The whiskey was in burlap bags, in which the rum runners carry their stock, and not in cases, for the latter are difficult of handling. Jackson was arrested and taken to Norwich and then a play was made to get Rogers, said to be the operator of a power boat who brought in a stock for the houseboat of which Jackson was the owner and occupant of. They found a supply of liquor in the Rogers boat also, and seized that and Rogers.

The rum runners seem to be more than ever defiant now in the face of knowledge that they are being watched closely and that they will be nabbed if they continue in the business. They are using the telephone to carry on their trading and make use of the wires freely with their customers. As yet none of the buyers of the booze have been molested but they may be before the game has been all played. Jackson has a police court record as a thief and as a fighter. How hard he will fight now remains to be seen. He has been caught with the goods and how he will have a chance to put up a defense that will be of service in getting him out of the mess remains to be seen. Rogers will have to pay the penalty, for he is in the same mess that Jackson is in. But there are not the only boatmen who are carrying on a business with the liquor craft that are anchored off Block Island and which are supplying liquor to the trade in New London. There are bigger fellows concerned—that is, they are bigger in the quantity of the liquor they buy and distribute.

ATTORNEY FOR ACCUSED BITTER AT PROSECUTOR

A bitter attack upon State Attorney Hadlai A. Hull by Attorney G. C. Morgan marked the opening of the attorney's argument in the superior court here Thursday afternoon when he addressed Judge Allyn L. Brown and the jury in defense of Charles William Smith, who was on trial for violation of the liquor law in New London last August at a place on Potter street.

Attorney Morgan referred to the zeal and persistency with which the state attorney had pursued the liquor case that had been on trial before Smith's and followed this up by reading a long extract from Chief Justice Swift in 1876 upon the proper methods to procedure on the part of a prosecuting attorney in the trial of cases. The quotation wound up by declaring in effect that a prosecuting attorney who would distort the evidence in his arguments and use unfair and unjust means to secure a conviction rather than to see that justice is done would be rightly characterized as a bloodthirsty savage and an unfeeling monster.

For a moment, as Attorney Morgan finished reading, there was silence in the court. Then smiles began to creep over the faces of the jurors, one after the other, the bench was seen to be touched by the humor of the situation, and State Attorney Hull burst out into a loud laugh.

"I don't wonder you laugh, Major Hull," said Attorney Morgan, "but I propose to temper that somewhat."

This he did in the course of his argument in which he claimed that the state had failed to prove any sales of liquor by Smith or any business connection with the Potter street place in question.

Major Hull made but a brief argument for the state in closing the case but remarked sarcastically that he should not take as a model for his argument the mild and temperate manner in which Attorney Morgan had spoken, although he thought he could pound the table just as strongly if he had taken a course in physical exercise and was in good physical condition.

Attorney D. J. Cronin, who has been assisting the state attorney, made the first argument for the state.

Judge Brown is to make the charge to the jury next Tuesday morning, as the court will be occupied today (Friday) in hearing several cases that may be tried to the court.

LIONS FAVOR FINISHING ROAD NEAR FITCHVILLE

The weekly luncheon and meeting of the Norwich Lion's club was held Thursday noon at the Wauregan House. There was a large attendance including two guests, Attorney John Barry, and Kenneth Fox, assistant treasurer of the Chelsea bank. The meeting opened with the singing of America. President George A. Finn presided. A feature of the song programme was a solo by Lion J. B. Caron. Secretary Edward Carpenter read the minutes of the previous meeting and they were accepted as read.

The meeting adopted a resolution favoring the completion of a stretch of new road between Fitchville and Colchester and appointed State Senator Hermon J. Gibbs a committee of one to urge the state highway commission to carry the road work to completion.

A total of $15 was contributed by the Lions in response to an appeal from the Salvation Army for financial assistance for a destitute family recently burned out in Thamesville. The meeting closed with the singing of The Star Spangled Banner and the salute to the flag.

FORMER NORWICH BOY MARRIES PORTLAND GIRL

Kenneth A. Hill of Portland, Me., son of the late Irving E. Hill, formerly of this city, and Miss Louisa Josephine M. Plimpton of Portland were married at Portsmouth, N. H., Tuesday afternoon by City Clerk Edward A. Weeks, Jr.

The ceremony was performed as they sat in their automobile in the shade of the large elm trees on Chapel street, between historic St. John's church and the Warner house, where Benjamin Franklin in 1762 erected the first lightning rod in New Hampshire.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Grace (Morrill) Plimpton, who witnessed the wedding. The bride is 24. The groom gave his occupation as a chauffeur. He is 23.

REPORTED ON LECTURERS' CONFERENCE AT GRANGE

At the Norwich Grange meeting Wednesday evening, Mrs. Ida E. Richardson, lecturer of Norwich grange, gave a most interesting report of the three day conference of Grange lecturers of New England, which was held the latter part of August at Amherst, Mass.

There was an attendance of over nine hundred and the facilities of Amherst were taxed to the utmost to accommodate the throng of visitors.

The dormitories of both the Massachusetts Agricultural college and Amherst college as well as hundreds of homes were thrown open for their use. Beautiful Memorial hall at M. A. C. was the registration headquarters and entertainments were given there each evening after the sessions.

It is interesting to note that the founding of this largest of all farmers' organizations, the Grange, and the founding of the Massachusetts Agricultural college were almost simultaneous, both having recently celebrated their 50th anniversary. The grange lecturers found much of interest in Amherst in addition to their meetings. Amherst college has leaped to more prominence since Vice President Coolidge, one of its graduates, assumed the presidency, while the Agricultural college with its beautiful campus, its interesting experiments, proved a mecca to those interested in scientific farming.

The opening session of August 22 was in charge of the Massachusetts state lecturer, who talked on Grange Enthusiasm, followed by general discussions. Then followed an automobile trip to Mt. Tom for those who wished, with entertainment in Stockbridge hall in the evening. Thursday was the big day of the conference, New Hampshire, Vermont, Connecticut and Rhode Island having their sessions that day.

State Master Sawyer of New Hampshire said:

"We must keep our city granges dancing to the tune of agriculture, or disorganization will follow. Agriculture will force itself on you soon if not now, because of the shrinkage of food producers. The grange should prevent the migration cityward as far as possible by making the country more liveable. Church attendance is fundamental, and should be supported by the grange. We cannot long remain away from the principles upon which the country was founded. Citizens must co-operate with new school methods, even though they be different from those of a generation ago. School discipline should be supported in the home, perhaps better in the old fashioned way that necessitated taking a few meals in a standing position. We of the staunch New England hills must stand firm for a real democracy in this time of radicalism."

Commissioner of Agriculture Felker, of New Hampshire, was one of the best speakers of the day.

"Not optimism, not pessimism, but pepimism is needed," he declared. He stressed the firm stand the grange should take against intemperance and that they should focus their attention on big things, not the trivial.

Connecticut's state lecturer, Chas. Wheeler, of Storrs, contributed a most worth while lecture on the Psychology of the Grange. Part of the Connecticut programme was a one act play, "How She Lied to Her Husband," which made a great hit.

State cheers and songs enlivened the sessions. Community singing, organ recitals, concert and dance music were also on the schedule, rounding out the already splendid programme.

AUGUST BIG MONTH IN STATE POLICE ACTIVITIES

August was a "big" month for the state police, according to the monthly record compiled Thursday at headquarters at Hartford. The total number of arrests during the month was 866, of which 85 were for violations of the liquor laws and 355 for motor vehicle irregularities. The policemen patrolled a total of 105,887 miles.

The largest number of arrests was for various violations of the motor vehicle laws, and of these 175 were for reckless driving and 91 for operating a car while under the influence of liquor. Forty-nine were for driving without a license, 27 for driving overweight, cars, and the rest for minor violations.

Of the arrests for liquor law violations, 58 were for illegal sale, 16 for transportation, 2 for manufacture and 9 for keeping liquor with intent to sell. Liquor seized was valued at $16,126.50.

Thirty-one of the miscellaneous arrests were for breach of the peace, 10 for intoxication, 27 for frequenting a gambling resort, and the rest for theft, arson, manslaughter, bribery and other offenses. The value of stolen property recovered by the police amounted to $4,282.11.

Besides their patrol duties, the state policemen examine applicants for motor vehicle operator's licenses. In August, 6,175 examinations were given, averaging 20 minutes to half an hour each. Nearly 300 motion picture theatres were inspected and 9 applicants for motion picture operator's licenses examined. Weights and measures were inspected in 453 places. Ninety permits to carry pistols were granted and 22 explosive permits given.

Secretary Robert L. Sengie of the department said that the figures indicate an unusually active month, but it is expected that they will be exceeded this month.

NORWICH SOLDIERS TRAIN HARD AT CAMP EUSTIS

The boys of Battery E, and the Combat Train, the local units of the 192nd Artillery, C. N. G., are now hard at work in training at Camp Eustis, Va., where they are putting in their annual fifteen day tour of duty. Word has been received by The Bulletin that they arrived in camp at 2:45 p. m. last Sunday, having entrained at Norwich at 5:30 p. m. Saturday. The troop train left New London at 6:50 Saturday night, New Haven, 8:10; New York, 12:40 a. m. Sunday; Philadelphia at 4 a. m., Washington at 7:15 a. m.; Richmond at 11:45 a. m. and arrived at Camp Eustis at 2:45 p. m. A 20 minute stop was made at New York and a 25 minute stop was made at Washington with a 15 minute stop at Richmond.

A letter received from Mgt. Cornelius T. Crowley of the Combat Train says:

"On arriving in camp we detrained, transferred baggage to quarters, after the usual bath we sat down to an excellent meal that Cook Donahue had all ready for us. The boys were in good spirits except Pvt. Yetkey who was taken sick on the train, and on arriving in camp was taken to the camp hospital in the ambulance and was taken to the base hospital and is getting the best treatment and will be with us tomorrow (Wednesday).

Under Capt. Burdick, Lt. House and Lt. Burdick we are sure on the map. A few extracts from camp will follow:

Buck Harris was the first one to receive special duty. He says that if his mother knew he was so good at cutting grass she would keep him at it all the time.

We are feeding fine. Cook Donahue gets a vote of thanks after every meal.

DOPE USERS VOLUNTEER TO TAKE CURE IN NORWICH

An exodus of New Haven dope addicts to the Norwich state hospital is to take place this week it was stated by federal officials in New Haven on Wednesday night, who explained that the first group of New Haven drug users who have voluntarily come forward to accept offers of treatment at "the cure" at the Norwich hospital will leave for that city at once.

There are something like 120 or more drug users in New Haven and as a result of the relentless warfare which federal narcotic agents and the police have waged against peddlers of the drugs for some weeks it has become increasingly hard for addicts to secure their daily need of "dope". One drug user a woman weakened by the constant use of the drug, and still further weakened by her inability to get more, dropped dead on a central street, during the present week. Several others in badly emaciated conditions have appeared in the city court on various charges and have been committed.

Wednesday the first of the drug users to voluntarily give themselves over to take "the cure" stated their intentions and the necessary papers were made out.

The first group is made up of both men and women and it is expected that more will go to Norwich later on.

SWANEE QUARTET SINGS AT BAPTIST CHURCH

Selections by the Swanee colored quartette featured the mid-week service at the Central Baptist church Thursday evening. The service which was the regular weekly prayer service, was conducted by the pastor, Rev. David A. Pitt, D. D. The quartette presented their programme in two parts. They were heard in old time songs that delighted the gathering and members of the quartette entertained with several stories.

The quartette will take part in the programme at the conference to be held today (Friday) at the First Baptist church in New London.

Search Continues Without Results

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, Sept. 13.—Searching parties continue to look along the shore between Crescent Beach and New London harbor today for the bodies of William Wilson, son of Mrs. Edith Wilson of Norwich and Robert Montgomery, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Montgomery, also of Norwich, who were drowned on the sound Monday while in a canoe in which they started on a fishing trip from Crescent Beach Monday forenoon. Although a diligent and thorough search was made, no trace of the bodies of the boys was found and it will probably be two or three weeks, if not longer before the bodies are recovered, if they are by that time, for within the past six months several bodies were not recovered in the Sound until a month or six weeks after the victims were drowned.

MRS. IRVING JOHNSON HAS RELAPSE AT SOMERVILLE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Sept. 13.—It became known in Groton today that Mrs. Irving Johnson of that place, who attempted to end her life several weeks ago by sending a bullet into her body at her home at Groton park, and who is now with relatives at Somerville, Mass., has suffered a relapse and the outcome of the change for the worse in her condition cannot be foretold. Mrs. Johnson was recently discharged at Lawrence hospital and was accompanied to Somerville, where it was believed that a change of surroundings would cause the mental depression that Mrs. Johnson was continually experiencing to disappear. Her eventual recovery was assured until Mr. Johnson received a telegram today telling of the serious condition of his wife.

PLAYGROUNDS INSTRUCTORS NOW IN OTHER WORK

Harold Anson Bruce, superintendent of the recreation commission, will leave Norwich in a few days to resume his winter vocation at Lafayette College, Easton, Pa., where he has been director of the department of physical education for the past fourteen years.

Edward MacKay, instructor at the Elizabeth street boys' department, will continue to study law in Norwich for the winter.

Alfred Renault, instructor at Elizabeth street boys' department, will enter college for the coming winter season, institution undecided.

Miss Justine Morrison, instructor in both boys' and girls' departments at Laurel Hill avenue, has returned to her home, 38 Atwater street, New Haven. Miss Morrison will continue her normal school work the coming season.

Miss May B. Kelly, instructor in the girls' department at Greeneville, will continue her work in the normal school for the winter season.

Miss Catherine Farrell, instructor in the girls' department, Hobart avenue, has made arrangements to complete her normal school work during the winter season.

Miss Eleanor Byrne, instructor at the Falls, will finish up her normal school work the coming year.

Miss Catherine Dodd, director of the girls' department at Lake street, has taken up teaching for the winter season.

Miss Margaret Shugrue, director of the girls' department at Elizabeth street, will take up normal school work for the winter season.

FANNING PARK DAHLIAS CARRY OFF HARTFORD HONORS

Mrs. Roswell J. P. Brown of 99 Oneco street, who grows the famous Fanning Park dahlias won in Hartford Thursday, and will be there again today (Friday) showing her magnificent blooms, by special invitation of the Connecticut Horticultural Society, which was assisted by the Garden club of Hartford.

For the best collection of fifty (50) distinct named varieties (one bloom each), Fanning Park dahlias was awarded first prize. For the best display of not less than varieties arranged in vases for effect, these dahlias were awarded second prize.

Among the dahlia growers were competitors from the larger cities in Connecticut.

At the New London County Fair held last week in Norwich, Fanning Park dahlias were awarded six first premiums as follows: For the best 12 decorative, best hybrid cactus, best 12 peony, best 12 show, best 12 pompons, all of which were effectively arranged in baskets.

Mrs. Brown was also awarded first premium on vase (2 cut) flowers at the fair.

A collection of these choice dahlias have been attracting attention in a Norwich pharmacy during the week, a. m. Sunday; Philadelphia at 4 a. m.

FUNERALS.

Benjamin Vanasse.

At 9 o'clock there was a mass of requiem at St. Patrick's church with Rev. Myles P. Galvin as celebrant. Burial took place in St. Mary's cemetery, friends acting as bearers. Rev. M. H. May, rector of St. Patrick's church, conducted a committal service. There were a number of beautiful floral forms.

Mr. Vanasse whose home was in Waterbury, died in Preston at the age of 87 years.

Mrs. Charles W. Spaulding.

Relatives from California, New Haven, Poughkeepsie and other places were present at the funeral of Mrs. Charles W. Spaulding, held Thursday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock from the parlors of Undertakers Church and Allen on Main street. Rev. A. N. Foster, pastor of the Church of the Good Shepherd, Universalist, conducted the service. The bearers were Albert Tracy of Merced, Cal., Frank W. Tracy of Poughkeepsie, Frank Waldo N. Spaulding, a son, of New Haven, and Aubert Spaulding. Burial took place in the family plot at Yantic cemetery.

Officers of Hope Rebekah lodge No. 21, I. O. O. F., conducted a committal service at the grave and Rev. Mr. Foster pronounced the benediction. There were many beautiful floral remembrances.

STATE HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT SPENT $6,912,856 IN YEAR

Expenditures of the state highway department during the year ended June 30th totalled $6,912,856.15, according to a compilation made public by the department. This is an increase of approximately one million dollars over the expenditures of the previous fiscal period, which totalled $5,397,549.11. With the exception of 1921, when the federal aid project on the Hartford-New London turnpike, the Milford-Stratford bridge and various reconstruction projects on important trunk line highways were in progress, this is the largest sum ever expended by the department in one year. In 1921 the aggregate expenditure of the department was $7,127,960.

During this 12-month period nearly $2,000,000 was spent on trunk line reconstruction alone, despite the fact that there was a marked falling off in payments in federal aid projects. Money for this work comes from motor department receipts. The increase in this work for the two years is shown by these figures: 1922, $167,781.50; 1923, $1,846,618.92.

At the same time the figures show that the total amount expended for reconstruction and maintenance of trunk line highways was $4,109,759.69 for the 12 months ending June 30th. his work, paid for out of automobile department receipts, was made possible by fees from this source aggregating $4,227,767.23 for the same period.

Since 1918, when federal aid for state highways was made possible, Connecticut has been allotted a total of $2,906,681.09 from the government Expenditures for federal aid work (state and federal money) during this time have totaled $3,205,911.30, and to date, the government has refunded to the state, $1,288,960.93 on seven contracts. There are still several federal aid projects unfinished, namely, two sections on the shore line road between Branford and Madison, two projects on the Housatonic valley road.

Further comparative figures made available by the department reveal that the total appropriations for state roadway reconstruction, maintenance and overhead since the department was organized in 1895 to June 30, 1923, aggregate $36,923,667.44. The total expenditures during that entire twenty-eight year period reach $52,552,438.45. This was made possible by receipt of $18,109,173.16 in automobile fees and refunds from various sources.

The department also shows that the amount expended by the state during the last two years on trunk line roads, for which the towns concerned contributed nothing, was $4,962,28.85 in 1922 and $5,425,024.07 in 1923.

On trunk line and state aid bridges, the expenditures during 1922 reached a total of $569,348.23, while for 1923 the amount was $258,164.80, the large difference being represented by payments on the Milford-Stratford highway bridge, which was a $1,500,000 project.

Oak Troop Begins Meetings.

BRUTE STRENGTH AGAINST SCIENCE IN BATTLE TONIGHT FOR WORLD TITLE

New York, Sept. 13—(By the A. P.)—Two modern gladiators—Jack Dempsey and Luis Angel Firpo—will match their speed, courage and punch tomorrow night in the greatest test of their careers—a "battle of the continents" in which that greatest prize of the ring, the heavyweight championship of the world, will be at stake.

The American holder of the title, king in the squared circle for the past four years, will go into the conflict with his bronsed, grim-visaged South American adversary an over-whelming favorite, among close followers of the game, to win and to win decisively. But while expert analyzes of the fight — the "dope" — all point toward victory for the champion, those who have followed the meteoric rise of Firpo, his climb from obscurity to fame, fortune and the position of foremost challenger in a year and a half, believe that the "mighty right" that has thrust aside all opposition heretofore may upset calculations and bring triumph to the "wild bull of the pampas."

Great Interest Shown

Attracting the greatest interest of any international encounter for ring honors since the Dempsey-Carpentier battle two years ago, the 15-round title match at the Polo grounds—home of the New York Giants—tomorrow night promises to rival as a spectacle that historic struggle in which the champion vanquished his rival from France.

A throng of more than 90,000 will pay approximately $1,500,000 to witness the fight, according to Tex Rickard. The promoter declared tonight that revised figures of builders who erected vast temporary additions to the field show a total of 90,574 seats.

Scalpers Getting $80 to $150

The promoter announced that but a few thousand reserved seats remained unsold tonight, most of them of $16.50 and $22 denominations with a few at the ringside pasteboards at $27.50. The cheaper reserved sections were sold out. When gates of the arena are opened at 4:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, 6,000 unreserved seats at $3.30 each will be put on sale.

Meanwhile, however, ticket speculators were reported to be doing a thriving business, despite the combined efforts of federal, state and local officials to check their activities. Ringside seats were said to be available in the theatrical district at prices ranging from $80 to $150 apiece.

Something of a flurry in ticket circles had been aroused by reports that counterfeiters managed to get some bogus pasteboards on the market, despite a number of arrests and the confiscation of forging materials, every effort, however, was being made to trace these tickets and check their distribution.

The influx of fans from all parts of the country, as well as from many other points of the globe, early this evening had crowded larger hotels close to their capacity, with indications that tomorrow would witness an even greater inpouring of ring followers. It was estimated more than 50,000 outsiders would invade the battleground.

Wagering on the outcome of the fight which so far has been comparatively light, gained impetus with the arrival of thousands from out-of-town. The confidence of the majority in Dempsey's ability to win was reflected in the odds, which lengthened on the champion with reports of several large wagers at 3 to 1 that he would be the victor. One bet of $15,000 to $5,000 was reported at these figures.

Among numerous odd wagers was one at even money, $1,500 each, that Firpo would at least knock Dempsey down for a count.

Fighters in Seclusion

The fighters, resting in seclusion over-night, were pronounced in perfect condition. Dempsey arrived late this afternoon after break camp at Saratoga Springs, N. Y., and went at once to a hotel. Firpo, who returned yesterday from his training quarters in Atlantic City, N. J., spent the day at his uptown apartment except for an hour or two this afternoon when he attended a reception given in his honor by the Spanish society. The fighters will meet tomorrow for the first time when they weigh in at the offices of the state athletic commission at 2 p. m.

For both warriors, tomorrow night's encounter will be the greatest test their fighting mettle has ever had, in the opinion of experts who have followed the careers of both men. Dempsey, hailed as a "man killer", a "superman" after his spectacular knockout of Jess Willard for the heavyweight title in 1919 at Toledo, has had comparatively little strong opposition since then. He knocked out Billy Miske, Bill Brennan and George Carpentier, but last July, after an absence of two years from the ring, he failed to stop Tommy Gibbons, a light heavyweight, winning on points a fight that went the limit of 15 rounds in the little boom town of Shelby. Gibbons fought a purely defensive fight on that day but Dempsey, experts agree did not have the devastating power in his punches, the withering accuracy that had brought Willard down and flattened his other opponents. His long lay-off had told on his ability and tomorrow night he will answer the question as to whether another two months has enabled him to come back.

Critics Favor Champion

Critics who have seen the champion in training declare that he is the Dempsey of Toledo that he has regained the height of his form. They declare that this, plus the champion's advantages in greater speed, more versatile attack, experienced generalship, will turn the scales in his favor against the rugged, free-swinging Argentine.

But Firpo, many believe, will prove far more dangerous than critics generally concede. Admitting the faults in his footwork, his scientific ability, thinee observers place their reliance in the undaunted courage of Firpo, his grit under fire and the terrific power in his right hand, the thrust that dropped Bill Brennan, Jack McAuliffe II, and Jess Willard, among others. Dempsey, they say, will face in Firpo, the hardest hitter of his career and one of the gamest men the ring has ever known. And when the Argentine unleashes the fury of his attack, they predict the champion's utmost in defensive skill will fail to check its force.

Dempsey, it is believed, will force the fighting from the start, placing his reliance on the tactics that brought down Willard. They put the titleholders main chance of victory in a rapid fire attack from the tap of the first gong. Firpo has started slowly, somewhat cautiously in most of his important fights so far. Should he elect this style of battle, he may be a mark for the champion's swift jolts. But if the Argentine weathers such a storm and still retains the fire of his offensive, experts believe he will have the championship in his grasp.

It will be a struggle between a panther-like, swiftly weaving fighting machine and an unorthodox, crude but powerful and natural battler, an instinctive gladiator. On the one side highly developed ring skill, experience and punching power will be arrayed against rugged stamina, a fair amount of generalship and terrific hitting prowess.

Bout to Start at 9.30 O'Clock

Under a change in the program, the title match tomorrow night will start as close to 9.30 o'clock, eastern daylight time, as possible, instead of 10 o'clock. Ring formalities, however, may cause some delay.

"Gene Tunney, American light heavyweight champion, who was slated to appear in the semi-final 12 round bout with Leo Gates, an Indian fighter, has been forced to withdraw because of an old injury to his right hand. Bartley Madden has been substituted. The bout will be held after the main affair."

Three preliminaries, starting at 8 o'clock, will bring together lesser known heavyweights. They are between Mike Burke and Al Roberts, both of New York, six rounds; Leo Brown, of Australia, and Dan Bright, of England, six rounds; Jack Burke of Pittsburgh, and Bill Reed, of Columbus, Ohio, eight rounds.

PIRATES AND BROOKLYN SPLIT DOUBLE HEADER

Pittsburgh, Sept. 13—Pittsburgh and Brooklyn divided a doubleheader here this afternoon, Brooklyn winning the first game 7 to 4, and the Pirates the second, 6 to 3. In the first game, Adams was hit hard in the first three frames and gave way to Hamilton. Brooklyn broke a 4 to 4 tie in the ninth by pounding in three runs. Cooper easily outpitched Henry in the second game, the feature of which was Carey's scoring from second on Barnhart's sacrifice fly to deep center in the third inning. This was the second time that this feat has been accomplished at Forbes field. Frisch of New York turning the trick four years ago. The score:

Spalla Challenges Winner.

New York, Sept. 13.—Erminio Spalla, of Italy, heavyweight champion of Europe, today issued a challenge through Nick Kline of Newark his American representative, to the winner of the Dempsey-Firpo championship fight tomorrow night. He was the first man to issue a formal challenge. Kline backed Firpo in his first two fights in this country in 1923.

TWO BASEBALL ATTRACTIONS SLATED FOR LOCAL DIAMONDS ON SUNDAY

Two baseball attractions are offered to the local fans for Sunday, one the third and deciding game of the Norwich-South Manchester series at the Fairgrounds and the other the J. B. Martin-Rockville game at the J. B. Martin grounds. Both games promise plenty of excitement for the baseball fans of this city and it is expected that some good baseball will be seen at both parks.

Norwich-Manchester Game

At the Fairgrounds Bill O'Leary's Norwich baseball club, with Eddie Boyce, former Worcester pitcher, in the box will oppose their most hated rivals, South Manchester, in the third and deciding game of the 1923 series. Both teams have one game to their credit and are out after the second victory. O'Leary will use Boyce in the box with Billy Reddy on the receiving end. Jerry Fay will cover the first sack and Sammy Massey will be at the keystone position. The twins of baseball, Dinty Moore and Eddie Burns, will take care of the short field and third base. These two Jolly Tars make a sweet combination on any ball club.

In the outfield will be Dave Ganzel, who played with the Evansville team in the Three I league during the past season and who was recently sold to Atlanta, Ga. Ganzel is the first of the leaguers to report to Norwich for the post-season games. He has a hitting record of .360 for the season and is a perfect outfielder. Local fans will remember his playing here last year as one of the features of the series with Taftville. Mills will play center and Clabby will be in right.

The South Manchester team will have Thompson in the box and Lamprecht doing the catching. The remainder of the visitors' lineup will be: Zielke 1b, Wilson 2b, Halback 3b, Sipples ss, Goeb lf, Scheidage cf, Kotsch rf.

The Martin-Rockville Battle

The conflict at the J. B. Martin diamond on Sunday also promises to be productive of some good baseball for Rockville is reported as having a bang up good club. Rockville has been playing exceptionally good ball this season and has been up against some fast teams. May and Lehmitt will be the battery for Rockville while the Velvetmen will have either Fisher or Parker in the box with Welch doing the backstop work.

The Velvetmen having been doing some fast and hard work during the week and many of the weak places on the team have been filled. They feel that after last Sunday's showing against Taftville they have rid themselves of all the misplays and will come out the big end of the horn this week.

On Saturday the Velvetmen meet Riverview in the second game of the series between these two clubs. The Martin team has the advantage of a victory in the first game.

ATHLETICS BATTLE BROWNS FOR 11 INNINGS AND WIN

Philadelphia, Sept. 13.—Philadelphia won a hard fought eleven inning battle from St. Louis today, 3 to 2, when Miller singled in the eleventh scoring Hale. ## BOTH BATTLERS CONFIDENT OF HARD VICTORY

New York, Sept. 13—(By the A. P.)—Pre-battle declarations of confidence in their conquering ability were flung out tonight by Jack Dempsey and Luis Angel Firpo.

Statements of the fighters, together with those of their rival mentors—Horatio Lavalle, Firpo's dapper Argentine trainer, and Jack Kearns, the champion's manager, follow:

"Jack Dempsey: "I have trained hard for this match because I expect it will be a tough one. I do not pay any attention to those who expect Firpo will be an easy opponent. I am not holding him lightly, but I do not fear him. Firpo is big and strong and dangerous. They all are dangerous until you have them on the floor. I am in good condition and if beaten will have no alibis to offer. If I can end the fight in one round, I'll do it, because I can't take any chances with him. Perhaps the fight will go farther than many expect because Firpo probably can take a lot of punishment. I'll give him plenty of chances to demonstrate this, because I intend to sock as hard as I can from the start, but not take any early risks myself. He is too dangerous with his right hand."

Luis Angel Firpo: "I am in good shape; I feel like fighting as I never have before. In the arena there will be many voices raised against me; some will be shouting for me, in far off countries where Latin tongues are spoken they will be expecting me to win. I am confident; I am not afraid. If I am knocked down again and again I will come up again and again. There will be no towels tossed from my corner. I don't think Jack Dempsey can beat me and I don't think that he can stand up under my punches. I came to the United States to win the world's title; I conquered every man that stood on the road to the big test. On my body there are no scars of those battles; in my heart there is no fear of any living thing. I think I will conquer Dempsey."

Jack Kearns: "Dempsey is in great shape and ready for the toughest fight of his life. I am confident that he is going to win and do it as quickly as possible. He is too speedy for Firpo and is a better puncher. He'll step around so fast Firpo won't know what it's all about. If the champion can hit Firpo squarely the fight will not go the limit, no matter how big and strong Firpo is. Jack realizes that Firpo is big and strong and probably will be tough. Well, he'll be in for a tough evening because Jack is hitting faster, more accurately and harder than he was when he fought Tommy Gibbons last July. That fight really put him on edge. He needed it to get into good shape for this fight. Jack will not take any chances with this big fellow because we think he in dangerous. The crowd will see a slashing fight if Firpo is as good as they say he is."

Horatio Lavalle: "We have the fullest confidence in Firpo, our gladiator. He is no ordinary man. Perhaps he will be hit many times, but his great fighting heart will be like a great power station, replenishing instantaneously any power that may be taken by the champion's blows. We feel that victory will be ours. Come what may, Firpo, after the battle, will be called the fighting man of the ages."

YANKEES EASILY TURN BACK THE WHITE SOX

New York, Sept. 13.—The New York Americans easily defeated the White Sox in the third game of the series here today, the score being 9 to 5. The victory assured the Yankees of victory over Chicago in the series, which is only the second series won by the New York Americans from a western team at the Yankee Stadium.

The Yankees started off with an eight run lead in the first two rounds, knocking out Blankenship in the second.

Ruth hit his thirty-sixth home run of the season off Blankenship in the first inning, leaving him one behind Williams of the Philadelphia Nationals. The score:

REDS WIN 10-INNING BATTLE FROM CUBS

Chicago, Sept. 13.—Cincinnati closed its road trip today by defeating Chicago 5 to 3, in ten innings, making a clean sweep of the two game series and gaining one-half game in the pennant race.

Great hitting by Harper and Duncan, the latter making five hits in five times at bat, helped the Reds to victory. Going into the ninth inning a run behind, Harper drove the ball into the bleachers for a home run which tied the score. The visitors then bunched hits off Aldridge and went ahead. Pete Donohue's wildness enabled Chicago to tie the score in its half of the ninth, but Cincinnati won out in the tenth when Osborne was unable to break up a rally, in which Harper drove home the winning run, and Duncan cracked out his fifth hit, a double which sent home another marker. Fonseca was hurt in a collision at first base when O'Farrell ran into him in the tenth inning, and had to be carried off the field. Score:

SENATORS TRIM TIGERS IN FREE-HITTING GAME

Washington, Sept. 13—Walter Johnson gained the decision over Sylvester Johnson today, Washington defeating Detroit 7 to 3. The game was marked by free hitting on both sides, neither starter on the mound finishing the game. Harris was ejected from the contest in the first inning for protesting a decision. Bluege moved from third to Harris' place and was forced a little later to leave the game when a ball took a bad hop and struck him in the face. The score:

ABANDONED BABY FOUND IN A NEW LONDON DOORWAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Sept. 13. — Ernest Newcomb, 26 Harrison street, whose death occurred at the Norwich State Hospital yesterday, is survived by his widow and three children, Mary, Catherine and Evelyn Newcomb, and a brother, Aubrey Newcomb, all of New London. He was a member of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

Fred Burnett of Niantic, Miss Jane Gardner, Norwich, Miss Rose Dunne, Ocean avenue, Mrs. Toufie Fakowrey and infant son, Blinman street and Mrs. William Murray and infant son, of Williams street, were patients discharged today at Lawrence hospital.

The tool house owned by Louis Minault, a contractor, who is having a house erected by J. N. Lapoint, corner of Pequot avenue and School streets, was burglarized last night. The thief gained entrance by forcing a rear window and stole all found there of value, including a set of bits, nine chisels, five gouges, a brass saws, a hammer, a Babbit plane, a plumb bit, a joiner's planes, four drill bits and a bit stock. The break was discovered when carpenters appeared at the tool house to begin work and it was reported to the police. Detective Sergeant Charles Hammond in a short time located the four saws in a Bank street pawnshop where they had been disposed of by the thief. None of the other plunder, however, was located.

Edward Smith, residing in the Adirondacks, but who maintains a summer resident at The Strand, Pleasure Beach, was arrested this morning by Deputy Game Wardens George L. Bliven and Frederick Dimock, charged with having in his possession lobsters of less length than is allowed by law. Smith was presented before Justice of the Peace Thomas F. Morton and held for trial next Saturday morning, furnishing a cash bond of $500 for his appearance. Smith's two automobiles in which lobsters were found and his boat, were confiscated. Fourteen short lobsters were found in the cars and boat by the officers. It is claimed that Italians have been making a practice of selling short lobsters for some time and a watch was maintained by the officers in an endeavor to detect the violators of the law. Watch was kept on Smith during the early morning hours with the result that the lobsters were found in his possession after it is alleged he had purchased them from one of the Italian fishermen.

Casper Zaleickman, George Kelley and George Farnham, Boston National Guard soldiers, who deserted at Boston several days ago, and who were arrested yesterday and brought to New London were taken under a provost guard to Fort Wright this morning for court martial.

While in the lavatory at the Union Station last night Everett Davis, 12, of Shapley street, found valuable property belonging to Charles Oldmann, 576 Commonwealth avenue, Boston, a check book, receipts and an automobile operator's license. Davis took his find to the police station and today the articles were forwarded to Oldmann.

Michael Burke, one of two boys arrested as runaways in New London Tuesday night, with his companion, John Cody, also of Boston, just escaped being escorted back home by his father today, for a few hours after Burke had been placed aboard a Boston-bound train by Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield, the father the boy arrived here to take charge of the wayward youth.

Announcement is made of the recent marriage at Niantic by Rev. George Potter, pastor of the Methodist church, of Fred E. Wilson of Boston and Mrs. Nina Bump Colwin, of Golden Spur.

Leo Reagan, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Reagan and Anthony O'Sullivan, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. O'Sullivan, have entered Niagara university.

At a meeting of Seaside council, Knights of Columbus, the following officers were elected: Grand knight, Joseph N. Cranker; deputy grand knight, John J. Daly; chancellor, Hubert W. Ryan; warden, Edward E. Dondero; financial secretary, Charles F. Cremins; recording secretary, John L. Sullivan; inside guard, Arthur Connors; outside guard, Mortimer F. Duggan; trustee for three years, Harry J. Kennedy; delegate to state convention, Michael L. O'Connell.

Patrick F. Day, of New London, today received his appointment from State Deputy William J. Mulligan as district deputy of the Knights of Columbus for the tenth district, embracing New London, Mystic, Stonington and Montville.

Thomas E. Manice, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Manice of Groton and Miss Julia White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James White, of 20 Starr street, were married this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church. The nuptial mass was sung by Rev. Dr. Timothy M. Crowley. William Manice, brother of the bridegroom, was best man and Miss Catherine Manice, sister of the groom, attended the bride. Breakfast was served at the Hotel Mohican. Mr. and Mrs. Manice left for Atlantic City for their honeymoon. Mr. Manice is a civil service employe at the Submarine Base.

Mrs. F. J. Racine, who has been seriously ill at Lawrence hospital for a fortnight, is much improved.

Mr. and Mrs. N. L. Stetz have returned to Norwich after visiting Mr. and Mrs. William Lewis.

Silas Musson, Jr., has sold a cottage at Golden Spur to Mrs. Marion Phillips of Baileley Place. Mr. Musson has also sold a building lot on the Post road, Waterford, to Catherine Homan of Waterford.

At the meeting of the Winthrop club last evening it was revealed that the city is seeking additional school facilities for the club received an offer, through Warren A. Hanson, superintendent of schools, for the club house, corner of Brainard and Amity streets. Mr. Hanson stated that he had been authorized by the board of school visitors to make an offer of $8,500 for the two story brick structure, for three class rooms for the commercial school until such time as the junior high school is constructed. The members did not deem it advisable at this time to dispose of the property.

Russell H. Corcoran, son of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Corcoran, has been notified of his successful passing of the recent examination at Albany, N. Y., for admission to the bar in New York state. Mr. Corcoran, who is now in the law office of Morris Lubchansky, passed the Connecticut bar examination last June.

Mrs. Charles Amadon and infant, of School street, Miss Jane Robinson, Westerly and Karl Kahler of Shaw street, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Philip E. Douglass, who suffered an attack of sleeping sickness is improving constantly.

Probably abandoned by its heartless mother or father, a plump, healthy infant of a month, was found this afternoon at the entrance to the home of Mrs. Charles Knibbs, 19 Montauk avenue, and is now at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital. At the time the baby was placed in the doorway there was considerable traffic through Montauk avenue, but none of the occupants of the stores or dwellings there could be found who had observed the placing of the baby in the building, or anyone carrying a baby or a suspicious bundle. City Physician George P. Cheney examined the youngster and pronounced it in excellent physical condition and ordered the baby taken to the hospital.

The automobile owned and operated by Warren Meaney, 57 Truman street, was wrecked early this morning on Ocean avenue. Mr. Meaney was on his way to Ocean Beach when in passing Farmington avenue the car skidded to the side of the highway and overturned. Mr. Meaney was thrown out, but escaped with slight injuries.

The resignation of County Detective William E. Jackson of Willimantic recalls the excellent service of Mr. Jackson. Theodore Downing and Edward Hickey, the last named now county detective for Hartford county, in this city and vicinity. Mr. Jackson is to return to work in Windham county. He was not satisfied with the compensation afforded by the work in both counties. It is said that he is to receive about as much for the work in Windham county as he did in both counties when he was thus engaged. "Ted" Downing served in the army during the war with Germany and there he wore the insignia of a lieutenant. He returned to this country at the close of the war and was mustered from the service. Now he is in London as the representative of a large commercial house. Ed Hickey was also in service during the war and, like Downing, served the federal department as a police officer. Both have married since they were in New London and have settled down to vocations in which they have made a success.

Governor Forced Gas Down Can't Raise It

Governor W. H. McMaster, of South Dakota, who started the sudden tumble in the price of gasoline throughout the Middle West by putting the State into the retail oil business. He forced the price of gas down to 16 cents and faces the problem of forcing it up again to 30 cents which he now finds necessary to "give the independents a fair deal." So far, he has failed in the latter effort.

Jackson desired to quit the New London county service before he was finally released, but State's Attorney Hull prevailed upon him to remain till the work then in hand was practically completed and the term of the superior court was about to open in Windham county, the first of October.

The law officer of the city has decided that there need be no election of a member of the board of school visitors on the 24th inst., when the second election to choose a member of the city council is held. He has ruled that at the election on the 10th inst. Victor Goldsmith, who received the lowest vote as a candidate for the school board had a majority of all the votes cast for such office and that he therefore does not become a candidate at the election yet to be held. Four persons wrote the name of Mrs. Amelie C. Penner on the ballots voted on Monday last for member of the school board and it was believed that this made her a candidate at the election yet to be held. The law officer has decided that such is not the case and that there is no necessity of any more voting for the third member of the board.

PACHAUG GRANGE OPENS ITS THIRD ANNUAL FAIR

The third annual fair of Pachaug Grange association opened Thursday on the new fair grounds at Pachaug Plain. Last year the association purchased ten acres of land nearly opposite Pachaug cemetery and erected several buildings suitable for holding the fair. There are four buildings 20 by 50 feet for exhibits and dining hall, cattle sheds, etc. An eight foot woven wire fence with steel posts and an office and arched entrance are at the front of the grounds. The work has been done largely by members. Last spring William C. Lester of New York presented the association a number of Norway maples which add to the appearance of the fair grounds. An artesian well is being driven and a number of improvements are well under way.

The officers are: President, Willis C. Terry, Griswold; vice presidents, Walter Tanner, Voluntown, Harold Geer, Griswold, Fred L. Kanahan, Lisbon; secretary, Alexander S. Tanner, Voluntown; treasurer, Walter Tanner, Griswold; directors, Fred H. Gilbert, Jewett City, Mrs. Marion Briggs, Voluntown, Elmer Miller, Jewett City, Ransom Young, Norwich, William P. Hopkins, Preston, Miss Bertha Gallup, North Stonington, Mrs. Watie Whiting, Jewett City, Mrs. Blanche Montgomery, Pachaug, Charles Armstrong, Daniel Finn, Jr., Jewett City; auditors, Merton Bartlett and Miss M. Brewster, Jewett City; superintendent of grounds, E. H. Gilbert, superintendents of exhibition buildings, E. L. Kanahan, Mrs. Whiting George Palmer, Miss Esther Frink; purchasing committee, M. H. Bartlett.

About the grounds are a merry-go-round and various amusement concessions, a rifle range in charge of John Kaufman and a gypsy fortune telling tent. A refreshment stand was in charge of F. C. Whiting. Mr. and Mrs. William Edmund sold sandwiches and hot dogs, and W. L. Richmond of Pleasant Hill dairy, North Stonington, furnished ice cream. Cold drinks were on sale. Partison of Norwich sold candy. Dinner and supper were served in the dining hall under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Terry, assisted by Mrs. W. B. Montgomery, Mrs. Eino Karjala, Mrs. Victor Campbell, Mrs. Herbert Tift, Mrs. Chauncey Geer and Mrs. Dora Rix. The waitresses were Mrs. William Read, Ellen Campbell, Susan Terry, Lucy Miner, Esther Frink and Helen Christopher. Clara Hyde and Mrs. F. H. Gilbert sold tickets. The dinner and supper Thursday consisted of baked beans, salads, boiled ham, sweet and white potatoes, rolls, tomatoes, pickles, pie and coffee. In the evening there was an entertainment by Thompson Blood, New England's greatest laugh-maker.

NORWICH TOWN

Troop No. 20, Boy Scouts of Norwich Town, in charge of Scout Master Frederic H. Wyard, will resume weekly meetings this (Friday) evening in the chapel.

At the Social Corner picnic Wednesday, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Weaver, of Vergason avenue, besides the towns mentioned, there were Cornerites present from Brooklyn, Conn. Among the waitresses, others who assisted were Mrs. Mayo Joslyn, Mrs. Charles Perkins and Mrs. James Ringland.

Miss Catherine Topfer and Miss Ethel Franklin, of Wichita, Kansas, have returned home after being the guests for a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Erroll C. Lillibridge, of Scotland road. The entire trip was covered in their coupe.

Mr. and Mrs. Lillibridge also entertained recently Mrs. Anna Goodhue of Washington, D. C., who left Norwich for Boston, where she visited her daughter, Miss Helen Goodhue, who is at the head of a company of seven people playing last week under her name at Kieth's Theater. Mr. and Mrs. Lillibridge accompanied their guests as far as Boston, remaining there a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Avery with their son Arthur and daughter Miss Louise Avery returned Monday evening after a several days automobile trip which took them by way of Hartford through the Berkshires to Pittsfield, thence on to Albany and Schenectady, N. Y. Returning from the latter place they were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Avery's eldest son, Sidney Avery, who for the past fourteen months has been having practical experience in the testing and engineering department of the General Electric Company. After a vacation of two weeks at the home of his parents, Mr. Avery, a student of Worcester Polytechnic Institute, will return for his senior year. The Avery family was most enthusiastic in their admiration of the scenery in the Berkshires, at this time of year.

A general invitation has been sent out by the Young People's Christian Endeavor society of the First Congregational church, for all societies in Norwich C. E. Union to attend a meeting of the society Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock (daylight time) in the church. Several churches have been invited to unite for this service when Eldy Asirvatham of Madura, India, who is preparing himself for the ministry will speak. Mr. Asirvatham is from the American college in Madura, of which the late Rev. William Wilcox was president and is a graduate of Hartford Theological school, as well as having spent some time in study at Harvard College. He will be introduced by Mrs. Harriet Clyde Zumbro late of Madura, India, at present is making her home with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. W. Tyler Olcott, in whose home Mr. Asirvatham will be entertained while in Norwich.

WHAT OTHER CITIES DO

Hagerstown, Md., has a Junior fans association conducted by community service which provides boys under 14 who are in good standing in their schools and neighborhoods with season tickets to Blue Ridge league ball games.

The commission of publicity and efficiency of Toledo, O., has been making a study of ordinances for abolishing curb gasoline pumps, and has reports from fourteen cities where such pumps have been flatly forbidden.

A well-equipped correction farm of 181 acres in Dayton, O., has supplanted the old city workhouse building, which has been in use for a hundred years, first as a county jail.

Do you know why

so many home owners have joined .....

NEXT WINTER'S COMFORT CLUB?

—And why so many others are submitting their heating problems to us NOW, while the Factory Engineers are here to assist us in quickly determining the adaptability of their houses for the guaranteed, satisfactory operation of the FAMOUS ROUND OAK HEATING SYSTEM?

And why thrifty, far-sighted people want to be in position to decide before it is too late to enroll for memberships? (The number is limited to present stock on hand.)

BECAUSE Entirely aside from the greater comfort and economy they will enjoy by owning and using this good heating system which soon pays for itself—and besides having a whole year without interest or extra charges in which to pay the low spot cash price fixed by the manufacturers themselves—each member eventually makes a substantial cash saving.

BECAUSE As soon as the manufacturer's Heating Engineers have approved your house and supplied us with their guaranteed blue prints, plans and specifications, showing the necessary size of plant and other equipment to fully meet the requirements in each individual case, the entire cost "to a penny" is known to each member before deciding to join!

SPOT CASH PRICES
NO INTEREST—NO EXTRAS!
A YEAR TO PAY

BECAUSE The Round Oak Heating System is only installed under conditions which warrant a guarantee of absolute satisfaction. And no member need wait until the full amount of club dues are paid before having the system installed and ready to use—delivery is made at once and installation completed promptly. Only a reasonable "entrance fee" is required when you join and this is credited to the spot cash price of the system for your home.

ROUND OAK PIPELESS HEATING SYSTEM

To own a Round Oak with the lowest possible investment on the most liberal basis imaginable, investigate now!

Whether you need a ROUND OAK now or later—this is the time to act! Phone, call or write for an appointment with a heating engineer.

It isn't the original cost—It's the upkeep

| | —for as few as 14 years. | Round Oak Heating System. | Cheapest Furnace in America. | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| You pay ALL these costs | ORIGINAL COST (installed) | Perhaps double—seldom is! | About half as much as Round Oak. | Isn't this the answer—"What will it cost eventually?" |
| | FUEL COST (for 14 years) | Takes one-fourth less fuel than cheap furnace. You save at least $25 a year, which totals $350 or more for the 14 years. We can prove this! | Takes one-third more fuel than a Round Oak. In 14 years it costs you at least $350 more than a Round Oak—just for fuel alone! | |
| | REPAIR COST | None, barring abuse. | Excessive—many dollars | |
| | TOTAL COST | Much less—add it up. | More than Round Oak. | |
| | WHAT HAVE YOU at end of 14 years? | A good heating system. Good for 20 years more. | Nothing. | |

Which costs the least? What seems the wise decision?

Thousands of Round Oaks have been heating New England homes for years—healthfully and comfortably at lowest cost for fuel

FARMERS NEED FAIR PAY FOR THEIR WORK.

(Written Specially for The Bulletin.)

Once in a while I am willing to admit that some other writer on agricultural topics says a good thing—has a bright idea—hits the nail on the head. Isn't that pretty good of me?

If you are intimately acquainted with many writers you'll be ready to admit that it is; very good of me—and quite unusual!

The latest discovery I've made along this line is one Edward H. Thomson, from a single column by whom in a recent New England Homestead I get three fine, full-grown, able-bodied ideas; three chunks of solid common sense. Let's consider them for ten minutes in solemn conclave.

Mr. Themson starts off with a general review of New England farm conditions including such things as fertility, topography, seasonal conditions, nearness to market, suitability of buildings, etc. From that survey he arrives at the perfectly natural, perfectly sensible and perfectly incontrovertible conclusion that there are two great classes of farms in New England.

First: Farms which are fitted to meet present day conditions.

Second: Farms which are not fitted to present day conditions, no matter what they may have been a generation or two ago.

Now there isn't anything startlingly novel about this. But you'll admit it is put in a fresh and striking way. Moreover, the deduction which Mr. Themson draws is, to me, at least, new. That deduction is that credit and other economic agencies, banks and the like, can't give too much encouragement and help to farmers occupying farms of the first class, since their position is economically sound; but it is mostly "wasted effort" to try and operate farms which, whatever their value fifty years ago, should now be growing trees or used for pasture.

Perhaps some of you won't agree with me, but I can't help thinking that this is pretty sensible talk.

Everybody must admit, for everybody must see that "Farming as She is Farmed" today is a different proposition from the farming of our dads and granddads. To begin with, we later-day farmers don't want to live and mostly won't live on a diet of salt pork, corned beef, boiled potatoes and hard cider, as granddad did. For another thing, we are not inclined to imitate the practice of those ancients who sold everything they raised which was salable, fed the pigs on the best of the remaining culls, and used what wasn't good enough for the pigs for their own cooking. For still another thing, our women folks have rooted objections to appearing in public clad with linsey-woolsey and crowned with Shaker bonnets.

There are still a great many farms in New England which are of rich soil, of favorable moisture, of tillable dirt, within reach of good markets; farms admirably suited to meet present-day conditions. And there are farms which lack one or two or all of these favorable factors. Mr. Themson's idea is, briefly, that it would be foolish to send good money after bad by trying to make these latter farms compete on even terms with the others.

This brings us naturally to his second sensible idea, viz.: that the very land which isn't worth a hoot for growing grain or potatoes or vegetables may, properly entreated, be made even more profitable than good grain land by letting it produce wood and timber.

This isn't anything new, for you and I have talked it over ere this. But isn't it sort o' pleasant to find another fellow whom we never heard of before agreeing with us? Coming right out into the open and saying with sledge-hammer emphasis the very things you and I have been modestly insinuating in more restrained accents? From a sale standpoint, he says, some of "the most valuable farm lands in New England are those covered with a good stand of timber." He notes a recent sale of twenty-five acres of such timberland for $15,000, or at the rate of $600 an acre.

"We are sometimes inclined," he goes on, "to expend too much effort in trying to grow an acre of alfalfa, when over in the next field ten times that value is represented by growing pine."

Of course, timber is such a slow-growing crop, takes so many long years to attain its full value, that modern farmers become impatient. We want a "turn-over" as least every year—not a wait of forty or fifty years til' our pines or oaks have reached sawmill size.

Nevertheless, if we could come to regard our forests as an investment, paying something like 10 per cent. per annum, they might appear to us in a different light. And that rate—10 per cent.—is just about what experienced lumberjacks agree in telling me is the natural and normal increment of my pines. I haven't a great many of them—not half as many as I wish I had—but I am and have been for twenty years refusing all offers for them. They are just about doubling in value every ten years. That is the same as saying they're increasing in value 10 per cent. per annum. Suppose I should sell them and get the money. Can you tell me of any equally safe bond or stock in which I could invest the cash to return me 10 per cent.? Hard woods grow slower and take longer to mature. But even the oaks pay as well, if not better, considered in this investment light, than the savings banks.

Don't fail to consider, also, that, once started, your forest doesn't need to be fertilized or cultivated. It attends to all such matters for itself. It's about the only crop imaginable which doesn't have to be coddled and cossetted every summer and all summer long. Also, don't ignore the fact that the natural and easy gleaning of fallen trees or misshapen trunks will yield an annual supply of valuable fuel—if the woodlot is big enough, ample for domestic supply. You don't have to wait a generation before getting some returns. In the present aspect of the coal situation even waste saplings from a young forest are not to be sneezed at. They may, indeed, provide warmth to prevent sneezings.

And yet, after all this perfectly sincere talk about the economic wisdom of letting waste lands revert to forest, in fact, all the time I've been writing it, my mind has been going back to a hilltop in Sierra over which I strolled a few days ago with Prof. Esten and your neighbor, G. Warren Davis.

Coming, as I did, fresh from a country of fairly good farming lands, the land surrounding this hill field was seemingly hopeless. A tangle of boulders and brush, of weeds and ledges, of almost impassible thickets, it seemed to be worthless for anything but forest—and not first-class for even that.

Yet that same Esten with his bacteria, his raw lime and raw rock phosphate, his legumes and his thriftily saved humus, has, in seven short years, transformed five acres of this seemingly hopeless—chapparal (not worth ten dollars an acre for any possible farming purpose when he took it), into a productive garden-spot whose sold products last year paid ten per cent. interest on a capitalized valuation of close to a thousand dollars an acre. Paid it net, I mean, not just gross. Paid it after all expenses were taken out.

In view of such an accomplishment, with such land to start with, I am not inclined to dogmatize about its being good for nothing but woods. Seven years ago, you and I would have said with concerted unanimity of voice that those five acres weren't fit for anything else—and not worth much for them. Yet Esten has demonstrated for all the world to see—i. e., for all the world which will take the trouble to come and look—that this apparently hopeless hilltop, properly farmed, is worth more than the best and richest lands of the Connecticut valley, improperly farmed.

The only thing to be said about it is that you and I are not Estens, and might fall down in the going which he finds perfectly practicable. If you're that modest and self-deprecating, then there is opportunity for you in this timber consideration.

And there are portions of many New England farms which even an Esten couldn't cultivate. One of the best stands of white pine on my mountain is on a flint-veined limestone ledge, so steep and craggy that one must clamber up it, clawing his way with hands and feet, and so thin-soiled that one finds difficulty in getting at even a garden-trowel full of dirt in any one place. It is simply impossible of cultivation in its present condition. Yet there are pines on it from twenty to twenty-eight inches in diameter at the base and ninety feet high. Their roots twist and grope and corkscrew about in the seams of the rocks, and get, somehow and somewhere, a sustenance which promotes giant growth.

Now, I'm not the only farmer in New England with such impossible ledges and cliffs. Even if every square rod of our land on which a horse can be turned round is, eventually, turned into an imitation and copy of that Storrs Independent Fertility Field, there will still be mountain-scarps which would daunt even a goat, but which would be glad to grow trees for us.

And now, at last, I come to Mr. Themson's third highly commendable idea. You and I have sort o' hinted around it, several times, but he comes out flatly and vigorously to say that what the farmer needs is not so much better credit as better prices. "He needs a way of getting out of debt rather than a way of getting into debt."

Ei-yah! When I read those seventeen quoted words, I just rose up and shouted! The thing hasn't been more neatly and completely put into more effective words within my cognizance.

What we farmers want is just fair pay for our work and fair interest on our investments. The first step towards those ends is the getting out of debt and keeping out of it. When every dollar we can scrape and dig out of our dirt goes to pay interest on debts or mortgages it is no wonder that most of us become discouraged and get grouchy. When the dollars which come in come to stay with us, when we can properly call them ours, then, even though they are few and far between, they bring encouragement and stimulation.

It is a good deal easier for the politicians to talk credit, which we don't particularly want, than to work out a system by which we can be assured of fair prices, which we do most emphatically and vociferously want.

I see that I've about reached the end of my weekly tether. But that doesn't prevent you folks from carrying on the talk just as far and as long as you please. I've picked out three mighty good texts for you. They're worth thinking over a bit. And, the more you think of them, the more of a sermon each will find himself fitted to preach on them.

You're not restricted in space, as I am. Nor need you be hampered by any fear of boring your readers. For you are your own audience as well as orator.

You remember the Frenchman who said he talked to himself for two reasons. First, he enjoyed talking to an intelligent man; second, he liked to hear what a sensible man had to say! You're it! as the small boys used to say, playing tag.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theatre.

The greatest human-interest story ever filmed will be shown at the Breed theatre today and Saturday. Thomas H. Ince's "Soul of the Beast" combines the throbbing human appeal of the real and the charm of the illusory unreal. It is the tale of the adventures of a little Cindrella of the circus who has centered all her starved affections in a great lumbering elephan, "Oscar." The motherless girl is the drudge of a mother-eaten circus troupe and target for the ill nature of a bullying stepfather until one night there comes a great cyclone, destroying the entire circus. Oscar and Ruth escape into the Canadian woods where they meet with astounding adventures.

Told for the most part beneath the great trees of the Canadian backwoods, the story is full of the poesy of the outdoor world as well as of dramatic thrills. This Metro picture is one that every member of the family will enjoy to the utmost.

But especially will the youngster, for what kiddie doesn't love the circus, with its menagerie of growling ferocious wild animals, its white-tighted acrobatic ladies doing perilous stunts on trapezes high up in the white canvas tent, its grotesque clowns and pink lemonade, and above all, its lumbering elephants?

With the kiddies especially in mind Thomas H. Ince has produced "Soul of the Beast," in which Madge Bellamy, as the little elephant-girl, is seen in the midst of the big top atmosphere. A complete circus, from wicked tigers to sacks of peanuts, lends authentic background to the photoplay.

Other pictures on the bill include Ruth Roland in "Haunted Valley," the Pathe News and a Sunshine comedy. Enlarged orchestra tonight.

At the Strand Theatre.

The B. F. Keith vaudeville as presented at the Strand yesterday was as follows:

Ross and Mayme opened the bill with some "Sense and Senselessness," which was very good. Ted and Corrine Breton followed with "The Liars' Convention," which consisted of some fine songs, comedy and harp playing. Jack McCowan, "A man of very few words," surely does know how to bring forth laughs, Buchanan and Brewer closed the bill with a comedy novelty that was appreciated.

When Frederick Arnold Kummer wrote "The Chicken That Came Home to Roost," he must have had it in mind for a motion picture story. It was moulded naturally into a comedy drama with an unusual punch.

The Universal screen version of the story now showing at the Strand theatre under the title, "The Town Scandal," offers an entertainment that is humorous and appealing. The sense of humor of the autahor is sustained in the film play by the director, King Baggot. Gladys Walton has the leading role, that of a small town girl who made good in the chorus of a Broadway musical revue, and plays the part with ease and grace. Her dancing skill is well displayed.

The story is about a Purity League that rules a small town and dictated everything from the policy of the Commercial club to the rules for pleasure, but which finally was forced to fold its wings by the chorus girl it tried to spurn.

Sells Bungalow Property.

Real Estate Broker John A. Moran sold for Mary A. Cook of Roxbury, Mass., her new bungalow and large lot located just off the New London highway at Fitch's corner. R. R. Tumage, the new owner, intends to make his home there.

At the Lyceum, New London.

Walter Scanlan, the interpreter par excellence of Irish romantic roles, is announced by Manager George Gatts for an early appearance in New London. The clever young star will be seen in a new play from the facile pen of Edward Hose, one of the most versatile and prolific of American playwrites, and the title of it is "The Blarney Stone." The scenes, as one may suppose, are set in one of the most picturesque portions of the Emeral Isle, and Manager Gatts is reported to have taken fullest advantage of the scenic beauties of the locality in furnishing the pictorial portions of the entertainment. Mr. Scanlan will be heard in a number of delightful melodies during the performance, all of which are of his own composition and are part of the story of the play. The date set for his appearance at the Lyceum theatre, New London, is Saturday, September 15th, matinee and night.

CANTERBURY GREEN

Rev. Sherrod Soule, who preached Sunday, the 3d, was entertained at Frank Miller's.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nelson, entertained guests over the week end holiday to the number of 22, a very lively house party.

The family of James Lathrop have returned from their vacation at Beach pond. Miss Lydia Lathrop went the past week to Philadelphia, where she resumes her hospital training, this being her senior year.

Mr. Steinbach of New Jersey is visiting his daughter, Mrs. Ferguson. Other visitors at the same house were Mr. and Mrs. Krack and son, also of New Jersey.

About 22 visitors from Brooklyn grange were present at the meeting Wednesday and gave an interesting program. There were also four visitors from Pachaug. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

Miss Hannah Eaton has so improved in health that she enjoyed an automobile ride Thursday to Plainfield with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Miller.

Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Frink were in Hartford last week visiting and attending the fair. Harold Walker, Mrs. Frink's nephew, returned to his home with them after a visit here.

Mr. Rietzel, who has been spending the summer at his home at Elmdale, returned to New York last week. The selections on the 'cello played by him at the Sunday morning services have been much enjoyed.

Schools in town began Monday Sept. 10.

Sept. 11 the conference of seven churches met here with this church for an all-day session. There was a basket lunch at noon, with coffee furnished by the local society.

Thomas Sullivan has gone away for a vacation.

Rev. M. H. Jones was last week the guest of Mrs. Hawes, coming here for a week end visit with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bailey at Danielson.

GOSHEN

Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland Cady from New Jersey were with friends here over the week end recently.

An airship was seen Saturday, the 2d, going north. The birdman seemed in distress, as he flew zigzag and cut circles in the air. It was learned later that he landed in an open lot on the farm of E. Ray Manning and was having engine trouble.

A number from this place attended the Union Christian Endeavor service in Colchester Sunday evening, the 2d.

Mrs. E. S. Geer of Hartford is the guest of friends here.

People from this end of the town attended the interesting exercises of the re-dedication of the war office in Lebanon Wednesday afternoon.

Schools in town are to open this week. Mrs. C. H. McCall of Colchester is to teach in the Twelfth district.

The Community club held a regular meeting in Goshen church Wednesday evening with a good attendance. The program consisted of a stereopticon lecture on health. Prof. Knowlton of the state board of health, Hartford, gave an address. A large number of pictures was shown on the screen. There was a number of musical selections and the reading of the club paper. The Goshen News.

A number of farmers have begun cutting up their corn.

WESTERLY

Selectmen L. C. Purtill, Joseph A. Vargas and John Fribbance of the town of Stonington have authorized the installation of new traffic beacon lights to be placed at congested points in Pawcatuck, Stonington and Mystic. Lights similar to those used in Norwich and placed by the American Gas Accumulator company are to be installed by a company representative on a purely trial basis. If they prove satisfactory, it is probable that the town of Stonington will purchase some of the new traffic signals, to take the place of the old style silent policemen which are lighted at night by lanterns and representing a rather large cost to the town when compared with the new beacon lights, the cost of which is practically nothing. A resemblance is had to unattended lighthouses or the aviation routing beacons for Chicago to Cheyenne night flying U. S. mail planes. Many of the larger cities have already installed this equipment.

The Atlantic Beach service of the Shore Line Electric Railway company will be discontinued after next Monday night, the Watch Hill cars being operated on present schedule, according to announcement made by Supt. W. Lester O'Brien.

Miss Jane Thompson, who has been visiting relatives in Westerly the past two weeks, returns to her work in Providence today (Friday).

Hiram Barber of Westerly was a visitor in Providence Thursday.

Joseph Lawrence, giving his address as Attleboro, Mass., but supposed to be of Providence, was arrested at Kingston fair by Sheriff John R. Wilcox of Washington county on the charge of passing a counterfeit $10 bill at the Peacedale Public market, operated by Hathaway Bros. The prisoner was identified and after being placed under arrest is said to have had another counterfeit $10 bill on his person. He is being held for a federal officer to come from Boston to take him in charge.

Archie Wilcox of South Kingston was placed under arrest at Kingston fair grounds by Officers Arthur Miller and Henry E. Brown Thursday, charged with selling moonshine whiskey back of the horse barns. On his person was found one quart bottle of whiskey and three empties.

Records for attendance at Kingston fair on Governor's day were broken Thursday when late office figures showed more than 10,000 persons on the grounds. Gov. William Flynn of Rhode Island was present and gave a short talk in Hazard hall in which the keynote sounded was co-operation along all lines of endeavor. There was the greatest known number of politicians on hand to meet friends and party associates.

AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS

BEES REQUIRE AID DURING THE WINTER

Every beekeeper should help his bees get ready for winter. This is both possible and practical and will result in having colonies of bees coming through the winter not only alive but strong and vigorous and will do more than anything else to insure a successful season and a good honey crop next year. During this month while the weather is still mild is the time to look over the bees and to see that they are in proper condition so that they may prepare for wintering and to give them what assistance is necessary.

Owing to the severe weather conditions fully 50 out of every 100 colonies of bees were lost in New England last winter. Many beekeepers lost all they had, but there were many more who never lost a colony. This difference was due mainly to the fact that one group of beekeepers observed a few simple principles on which the successful wintering of bees is dependent while the others did not. The four main essentials for wintering bees successfully in this climate are, first of all, that each colony must be headed up by a good vigorous laying queen, preferably of this season's rearing; second, to see that each colony by the end of October is provided with 35 to 40 pounds of winter food, which means honey or its equivalent in white sugar syrup; third, that the hives with the bees must be given a location well sheltered from the coldest winds and storms, which come mostly from the north and west; fourth, that the colonies must be given additional protection in the way of an insulating cover so as to better conserve the warmth generated by the bees themselves.

By the middle of September it will be well to weigh each colony so as to get an idea of the amount of honey it has and the amount of syrup if any which must be supplied. A colony of bees in a single-body 10-frame hive with their stores should weigh about 60 pounds. If they are short of this weight ons should feed enough syrup made by dissolving two pounds of the best white granulated sugar to each pint of boiling water to make up the deficiency.

Protection from cold winds will be given by setting the hives on permanent stands with buildings, fences, stone walls or woods to the north and west. Conservation of the warmth of the colony is best afforded by providing an outer packing case to go over each hive or group of two or four hives, which may be pushed close together. There should be some bottom protection, for the hives at least in the form of an air-tight board platform. Between the sides of the hives and the outer wooden case there should be six or eight inches of dried tightly pressed leaves with 12 inches of the same material on top; then a waterproof cover should be put over all. There must be a small tunnel from the inside of each hive extending through the packing to the outside air so that the bees may come and go to their hive during the mildest days of late fall, winter and early spring.

It is important that the packing should not extend clear to the ground. An open space of about one foot should always be left under the platform on which the hives stand. If this is not done, the ground under the platform will not freeze and will pass moisture up through the hives all winter long. Excessive moisture during the winter is one of the worst enemies of bees.

All the above refers to the case where the bees are to be wintered out of doors, but it is quite practical to winter bees in the cellar, providing one has a fairly dry room which is absolutely dark and where the temperature all winter long will range between 40 and 50 degrees. Less honey by about 10 pounds will be required for successful cellar wintering than outdoor wintering. The bees will stay quietly in their hives without being caged in, so all hive entrances in the case of cellar wintering are left open. Care must be taken to trap or destroy any mice that happen to be around or to screen them out of the hives by using a quarter-inch mesh wire over the hive entrances. If the bees are to be wintered in the cellar they should be put in after a warm day or two, which is likely to occur in the latter part of November, and should be brought out again when the silver or soft maples are in bloom, about the last week in March or the first week in April. Cellar wintered bees require some additional protection over the hives in early spring to conserve warmth and help in the rapid upbuilding of the colony.

FARMERS MAY MIX RATIONS WITH PROFIT

According to one county agent, the present tendency among farmers is to buy ready mixed rations for stock feed. This is due to two causes. First, there are ready mixed rations having an open formula, that is, people know what is put into them. Second, because the cost of these rations, many times, is not enough greater to pay for mixing, but there is still a lot of men who are mixing their own dairy rations and are getting good results. The following ration is probably one of the best and cheapest that can be mixed in this vicinity:

Two hundred pounds bran, 200 pounds cotton seed meal, 200 pounds hominy, 100 pounds gluten food, 100 pounds ground oats, eight pounds salt.

In cases where green feeds are lacking it will probably pay to add lime to this ration, one-half pound lime to 100 pounds grain can be added at the first mixture and more added as the cows get used to it, but if too much is given at once the cows will refuse to eat the grain. The cost of this ration will vary in different sections, but on the average it will be around $2.30 a hundred. To large milkers and cows far in the lactation period one pound grain to 4 pounds of milk should be fed; the average amount for milk production, one pound grain to three and one-half pounds milk can be fed. If butter is being produced and the butter fat content is the most important, one pound of grain to three pounds of milk may be fed. If silage is unobtainable at this time of year, it will pay to buy beet pulp to be fed as a laxative and as a succulent food. At least some succulent food should be fed at this time of year because the pastures are dry and becoming scant. It is through this period that the cow's grain and feed will determine the amount of milk she will give the rest of the winter; because it is the trying time. Keep as much succulent food as is necessary for the maximum production.

TIME TO PLACE MATURED PULLETS IN WINTER HOMES

Matured pullets should now be placed in their laying quarters. It is a mistake to keep them on the range when they become matured and are ready to lay within a week or two. If they are allowed to start in laying on the range the change to winter quarters will check them and sometimes start moulting, which in turn will prevent the birds from laying again for some time. If the birds are placed in the quarters where they are to remain during the laying season, they will become accustomed to the house and their surroundings and will continue to lay without interruption.

It is just as essential to keep the birds on their regular diet and feed systematically in the winter quarters as it is on the range, but this can be regulated much more easily when the birds are placed in permanent quarters. It will soon be cold and the birds will be picking up frosty foods which will affect their digestion. They will also be cold and damp and liable to catch cold.

SOME POINTS ON DIGGING LATE POTATOES

Late potatoes will soon be ready to dig and where one is to dig only a small piece it will probably pay to go out ahead of the digging and mow all the tops and then rake them off either with a hand or horse rake before starting the actual digging with hoe fork or potato fork. Where potatoes are to be dug by a potato digging machine and grass sod has started to develop, because of potato vines dying early, it will save a lot of hard work if a horse cultivator is run through between rows before the digging is started. This will break the turf and enable the potato digger to be drawn more easily by the horses.

Where potatoes are to be stored in a dry place for a short time, it is better to pick them up immediately upon being dug, so that the moisture will not be entirely dried out. The only advantage of drying out potatoes before putting in the cellar is to ascertain when the potatoes are infected with dry or wet rot disease. The diseased potatoes can be ascertained much more quickly when dry than when they are wet.

APPLES REPORTED OF BETTER QUALITY

In some localities apples are reported as being of decidedly better quality than usual this season and freer from disease and insect blemishes. This is due in part to the better spraying campaign which was carried out this season by the leading growers and in part to the dry weather conditions of spring and early summer, which were unfavorable to the spread and development of certain diseases of trees and fruits. This dry weather reduced slightly the size of the fruits of early varieties, but re ent rains and good growing conditions from now on should give ample size to Baldwin, spy and other winter fruits.

LATE POTATOES

The chief advantage of the late potato over its earlier brethren is its keeping quality which permits its sale and use all winter and through the early summer the following year, says the United States Department of Agriculture. This involves special methods. The whole question of successful late potato marketing can be summed up under four heads, according to department workers. They are: (1) Careful planning from planting time to day of sale; (2) full use of crop and market news; (3) good handling, grading, and loading; and (4) readiness to learn from the methods of other potato growing sections.

MARKET UNUSUALLY ACTIVE.

New York, Sept. 13.—Wall street witnessed its first million share day on the New York stock exchange today in more than three months, but it was accompanied by a sharp reaction in prices with active shares registering losses of 1 to nearly 5 1-2 points.

The selling was attributed to a variety of causes including the failure of operators on the long side to attract a public following in the recent upward movement, the war-like nature of the foreign news, the decline in forward buying in the steel industry and rumors of unfavorable dividend action, particularly by some of the oil companies. Passing of the Marland dividend was not announced until after the market closed but rumors that it was in danger were circulated during the day with the result that the stock dropped 2 1-2 points.

U. S. Steel common broke below 1 but rallied to 89 1-4 where it was of 1 1-4 on the day. Republic, Crucibl and Bethlehem dropped 2 to 3 points and Gulf States Steel slumped 5 3-8.

Baldwin dropped 3 1-4 points and Studebaker and American Can, also including among the so-called pivotal stocks, yielded about 2 points each. Stocks in which pools are reported to have been operating were among the hardest hit. Among the many stocks to drop 3 or more points were Dupont, General Asphalt, Bosch Magneto, American Ice, Manati, American and Punta Alegre Sugars, Savage Arms, Stewart-Warner Speedometer, Stromberg Carburetor, National Lead and United Realty Investment preferred.

Rails offered better resistance to pressure than the industrials on reports that another new high record for car loadings had been established in the week ending Sept. 1 when the total was 1,092,567 cars, an increase of 22,635 over the previous record established the week before. However, there were a few conspicuous weak spots, Lackawanna dropping 3 1-2 and Great Northern Preferred, 3 1-8.

Call money opened at 5, advanced to 5 1-2 and thence to 6, more calling of loans being reported in anticipation of the income tax payment this Saturday. Time money held steady at 5 1-2 per cent. for all maturities with business quiet. Commercial Paper again ranged from 5 1-4 to 5 1-2 per cent.

Foreign exchanges were reactionary. Demand sterling dropped nearly a cent to $4.53 7-8, French francs slipped back 3 1-2 points to 5.74 1-2 cents and Belgian francs yielded the same amount, being quoted at 4.75 1-2 cents. German marks again sold below 1 cent a million. Dutch guilders advanced 26 points to 39.51 cents.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, Sept. 11.—Huge crop estimates from Canada led to sharp breaks today in the price of wheat, and September delivery in Chicago dropped to below $1.00 a bushel. The close was weak, 1 5-8 to 2c net lower, with December 1.02 7-8 to 1.03 and May 1.08 3-8 to 1.08 1-2. Corn finished 5-8c, to 1 1-2c down, oats 3-8c to 1-2c off, and provisions at 5 to 17c decline.

With the wheat market here showing little or no power to rally in the face of extremely bearish opinions, current as to a rapid increase of the Canadian crop movement, liquidation sales on the part of holders attained considerable volume. The downward swing of values met with no lasting check, and the lowest prices of the day were ruling at the close. It was contended in some quarters that the latest forecast of Canadian wheat production for 1923 implied that the world could easily be supplied with wheat and flour without any contribution from the United States. Another much talked of view was that North America could alone supply the 1923-1924 import requirements of Europe.

In addition to Canadian developments, word of another increase of the domestic visible supply of wheat was expected next Monday. It was asserted also that trans-Atlantic demand for wheat from the United States would at least temporarily be lessened as Canadian wheat arrived at export positions. Late reports from Winnipeg said country purchases of wheat in western Canada were running at the rate of 3,000,000 bushels a day.

Predictions of a liberal movement of new corn to Chicago had a bearish effect on the corn market, despite predictions of frosts. Oats held relatively steady in the absence of any rural offerings.

BOND MARKET.

New York, Sept. 13.—Bond prices moved lower in today's trading on the New York stock exchange, the decline being general throughout the list but the losses were limited to relatively small amounts.

United States government bonds, with the exception of the tax exempt 3 1-2s which improved slightly, fell off from 1-32 to 2-32 of a point. Foreign issues were offered freely, Cuban 5 1-2s declining 2 points at one time and closing 1 3-8 lower. Czecho Slovakian 8s, Serbian 8s and Mexican 5s each declined 1 1-4 and the Mexican 4s were off fractionally.

A drop of 2 points by New York Central Consolidated 4s led the decline among railroad mortgages. Losses of a point each were recorded in that group by Erie General 4s, Chesapeake & Ohio Convertible 5s and Hudson & Manhattan Income 5s. Interborough Rapid Transit Refunding 5s, stamped, fell off 1 and Milwaukee Electric Railway 5s, of 1951, dropped a point.

Industrial liens moved lower but the losses were held to fractions.

METAL MARKET.

New York, Sept. 13.—Copper easy; electrolytic, spot and nearby 13 3-4@13 -8; futures 13 7-8. Tin easy; spot and nearby 41.50; futures 41.37. Iron steady; prices unchanged. Lead steady; spot 6.75@7.00. Zinc quiet; East St. Louis spot and nearby delivery 6.50@6.55. Antimony, spot 7.45@7.65.

CURB MARKET.

New York, Sept. 13.—Prices broke sharply in today's curb market, selling being concentrated largely in the oil shares on reports of continued over-production of crude oil and rumors of dissension over price policy among some of the big companies and unfavorable dividend action by some of the smaller independents.

Standard Oil of Indiana, approximately 20,000 shares of which changed hands, offered good resistance to pressure, closing only 1-2 lower at 5- 3-4. Losses of 1 to 3 points were registered by Standard Oils of Kentucky and Ohio, Vacuum, Prairie Pipe, Prairie Oil & Gas, Imperial Oil, of Canada, and Indiana Pipe.

Industrials yielded largely in sympathy with the reaction on the "big board." Gillette Safety Razor dropped five points, and Durant Motors 2 1-4. Glen Alden Coal and Reading coal rights each yielded about a point.

Most of the activity in the mining group was in the Penn. shares, which yielded 1 to 15 points.

MONEY.

New York, Sept. 13.—Call money: stronger; high 6; low 5; ruling rate 5; closing bid 6; offered at 6 1-4; last loan 6; call loans against acceptances 4 1-2.

COTTON.

It appears from testimony afforded by scientists, both in the United States and abroad, that we are face to face with the possibility of treating some of the diseases of plants in a way similar to that which animals are rendered immune to attacks of illness. In this relation there may be cited the experiments of Beauverie, who permitted cuttings of begonia to grow in earth impregnated with a series of fungus which is an attenuated form of the botrytis cinere, a destructive parasite of plants. After impregnation the begonia plants were subjected to attack by the parasite and resisted it perfectly. Similar results have been obtained by other experimenters.

FAIR AND COOLER TODAY AND TOMORROW

Norwich Bulletin

FULL ASSOCIATED PRESS DESPATCHES

NORWICH, CONN., FRIDAY, SEPT. 14, 1923.

The Bulletin

Norwich, Friday, Sept. 14, 1922.

THE WEATHER.

Conditions.

The area of high barometer pressure referred to in previous reports was central Thursday night over the upper Mississippi valley, advancing east-southeastward and diminishing somewhat in magnitude. It was attended by considerably cooler weather Thursday in the Middle Atlantic states, the region of the Great Lakes, the Ohio and Mississippi valley and the Middle Plain states. There were frosts or freezing temperatures Thursday morning in northern Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, the Dakotas, Northern Wyoming, Montana, western Ontario, Manitoba and Saskatchewan.

Snow fell in parts of Ontario. There have been scattered showers within the last 24 hours along the Atlantic coast.

The outlook is for generally fair weather Friday and Saturday in the Washington forecast district. The temperature will be lower Friday in the Atlantic states.

Winds.

North of Sandy Hook: Gentle west and northwest and weather Fair Friday.

Sandy Hook to Hatteras: Gentle west and northwest and weather fair Friday.

Forecast.

For New England and Eastern New York: Fair and cooler Friday; Saturday fair and cool.

Observations in Norwich.

The Bulletin's observations show the following temperature changes and changes in barometer Thursday:

Six hours after high water it is low water, which is followed by flood tide.

MASALSKI UNDER $7,500 BONDS FOR ASSAULT

In the city court Thursday morning Tony Masalski was presented on a charge of assault with intent to kill and the case was continued until Oct. 2, under bonds of $7,500. In default of bonds the accused went to jail. Masalski hit Andrew Patropsky over the head with a shovel during an argument at the woolen mill in Thamesville Wednesday and injured the man so badly that he is now in the Backus hospital. On three charges, resisting arrest, breach of the peace and intoxication, S. Long was fined and paid $25 and costs.

John O'Malley was sentenced to 10 days in jail for resisting arrest and 10 days for intoxication. One man was fined for intoxication and another was fined for breach of the peace.

In the court Tuesday morning the case against Peter Carbray, charged with reckless driving, was continued as the accused was too sick to appear in court. He was arrested after a New London man had complained that Carbray's car ran into the New London machine on Shetucket street and that the Norwich man's car did not stop to see what the damage was.

Home from Lord's Point.

Attorney Charles L. Stewart and family have returned to Norwich after spending the summer at Edelweiss, Lord's Point.

FIVE SENT TO JAIL FROM SUPERIOR COURT FOR LIQUOR LAW VIOLATION

Five men were sent to jail and given fines in the superior court here Thursday for violations of the liquor law. In all but one case the accused pleaded guilty, but in the other there was a short trial before Judge Allyn L. Brown, who found the man guilty.

Percival White, a negro waiter at the Oswegatchie casino, was the man put on trial in an interval in the court day when the jury trial of the case against Charles William Smith of New London was temporarily suspended.

White was accused of having made a sale of liquor at the casino on the Wednesday before Labor day. Three state policemen, who went to the place in plain clothes, were witnesses against him. State Policeman Ross U. Urquhart testified to going to the place with Officer John G. Gutman and mingling with the patrons. They made the acquaintance of two women and took them to a table. Urquhart said he asked a member of the orchestra where he could get some whiskey. The musician told him to ask a waiter and he was informed that they usually didn't have liquor in the middle of the week but only over the week-end, but that this time it could be obtained at $20 per quart.

The witness said this sum was paid and a negro went from the room and returned with a bottle wrapped in paper, and put it under the table of the policemen's party.

The witness said he and Gutman had two drinks apiece and the women they had met also drank some of the contents. The remainder was carried away as evidence and on test at State Attorney H. A. Hull's house showed 30 per cent. alcohol. The officers stayed at the place an hour and three-quarters.

State Policeman Gutman corroborated Urquhart and added a few details such as that Policeman Urquhart told the waiter that $20 was high but that they had the price. Gutman said their instructions were to get evidence whatever the cost.

Officer Fred T. Caron testified to the way the liquor was tested.

The defense offered no testimony and Judge Brown found the accused guilty, sentencing him to pay a fine of $100 and spend 30 days in jail.

Entered Pleas of Guilty.

Urgel LaPre of Thames street, this city, who was presented before the court Wednesday on charges of violation of the liquor law and pleaded not guilty, changed his plea Thursday. He was charged on three counts of sale, intent to sell and second offense sale. He pleaded guilty on the first two counts and the third count was nolled. On the count of sale he was fined $200 and sentenced to 30 days in jail and on the second count he was sentenced to 30 days in jail, the sentence to begin at the expiration of the first sentence.

Daniel Ziezunk, who conducted a place in Cove street, this city, pleaded guilty to charges of sale and intent to sell, and a charge of second offense sale was nolled. On the count of sale Ziezunk was fined $200 and sentenced to 30 days in jail and on the second count he was fined $100 and sentenced to 30 days in jail. Attorney R. M. Douglass appeared for both La Pre and Ziezunk.

Francis J. McManus of New London, charged with violation of the liquor law in keeping a place in which liquor was sold, pleaded guilty and was fined $200 and sentenced to 30 days in jail.

Francis J. McNamara, also of New London, was fined $200 and sentenced to 20 days in jail for violation of the liquor law.

LANMAN FAMILY RELICS GIFT TO D. A. R. MUSEUM

Through courtesy of John Troland an important group of relics has been just added to the Museum of Faith Trumbull Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, relating to the Lanman family, distinguished in connection with the United States navy and also with the shipping, commerce and early history of Norwich Town.

The group consists of

1st. A bamboo bird cage in the form of a church, constructed in South America, and brought to Norwich by Rear Admiral Joseph Lanman, U. S. N., and presented to Mrs. John Troland by Mrs. Admiral Lanman, at which time the admiral occupied their residence on Church street, Norwich.

2nd. A stencil bearing title "Rear Admiral Lanman, Norfolk, Va.," and which had been used by the admiral to mark his boxes and merchandise for transportation.

3rd, and most important, an autograph letter written in "La Guayra, Colombia, S. A.," by David T. Lanman to his "dear sister," Mary Huntington Lanman, describing vividly that southern country, its inhabitants, customs and dress. It was written December 18, 1823, now nearly 100 years ago, and brought to New York "per Brig Fancy, in care of Peter Lanman, Esq."

This David Trumbull Lanman and sister, Mary Huntington Lanman, were children, born respectively in 1803 and 1804, of Peter Lanman and Abigail Trumbull, granddaughter of Jonathan Trumbull, in fame known as "Brother Jonathan."

For greater care of this important letter, which is now well preserved, a typed copy accompanies the original for visitors who may be interested enough to read it; and such will be well repaid by reading this letter from a Norwich young man of that time to his sister, and they will find it a model well worthy of imitation.

It is a notable fact that notwithstanding the fifth and eighth mayors of the city after its incorporation in 1784 were Lanmans, not one person by that name now inhabits this city.

SMART STYLES AT OPENINGS IN NORWICH STORES THURSDAY

A survey of the stocks — coats dresses, hats, furs — Thursday, the first of the formal opening days in the Norwich stores, demonstrated one emphatic fact—no woman is going to be able to "get by" the coming season with old clothes. There are certain touches about the new apparel which make left-over garments and headwear look absolutely ancient by contrast!

The first question as to styles is what is the leading color? Both in garments and millinery black holds a strong place, but tans in every shade are in strong favor. There is great prominence given, naturally, to the new pheasant shade of tan called "Coolidge" in honor of the wife of the new president. It is a tint which develops well in all the fabrics employed in hat-building and is certain to have a great vogue.

Fabrics and furs all come in a note which makes those of last season look more than ancient. Coats and dresses have a new and to-date cut which put those of last year far in the background. Materials, too, are different —possibly old favorites under a new name—but they have the touches of freshness and newness recognized at a glance.

In dress materials, satin-faced crepes are greatly liked. Satin is favored also. Perhaps the rank of colors might be set down in the order of black, cocoa, navy. Smart garments are cut on long lines, but the cunning designers have given dresses a bit of a pinched-in- look, especially for slender figures; while some of the most elegant of the coats are shown, not in the favored plaids so popular last season, but in stripes, and these in many instances run around the garment—not up and down, as before. In other models the stripes are introduced in panels, set in at each side. All these little whims of the designers give a newer look to the apparel on the racks, so that, as said, they are far and away ahead of the last year's styles.

Warm as it was Thursday, there was brisk choosing of furs as well as of other wearing apparel. Natty little jacquettes in fashionable furs, also in brush wool were featured. Fur chokers were asked for and come with a number of novelty touches. Combinations in furs are also liked.

More about these fascinating fashion offerings tomorrow. Meantime, what is new is explained today by these merchants advertising in The Bulletin!

LEBANON WOMAN'S HORSE MAKES RUNAWAY DASH

Frightened by a passing automobile, a horse driven by Mrs. Helen Koremkeweics of Lebanon, bolted on Washington street Thursday afternoon and ran down the Washington street hill. When in front of the residence of Dr. Patrick Cassidy, the woman and a man who was riding with her were thrown out of the wagon. Dr. Louis T. Cassidy attended the woman's injuries which consisted of bruises and cuts. The man was not injured. The wagon struck a tree in front of Christ Episcopal church and was smashed and the runaway horse was captured near the church.

APPEAL MADE FOR FAIR PLAY BY FIGHT FANS

New York, Sept. 13 (By the A. P.)—An appeal to boxing fans to show the utmost of sportsmanship and fair play, regardless of personal sympathies, toward Luis Angel Firpo in his title battle with Jack Dempsey tomorrow night, was made tonight by a group of North Americans who have been residents of the Argentine, Firpo's native land, or other Latin-American countries.

The appeal was issued in the form of a resolution adopted at a meeting presided over by John Barrett, of Vermont, former American minister to Argentina and former director-general of the Pan-American Union, who has been closely identified with Latin-American affairs for more than a score of years.

Recognizing the importance of maintaining the closest of relations in sportsmanship as well as commerce and culture, with Latin-American republics, the resolution calls upon "all in attendance at this combat, no matter how friendly to Dempsey, to welcome and treat Firpo, a worthy and brave son of a sister American republic and hence our fellow American, with the utmost of fair play, generosity of applause and characteristic American sportsmanship, and to remember also that some day a representative of the United States may be compelled to go to Argentina to recover the title and would hope for similar treatment by the Argentines."

Whether Firpo wins or loses, the resolution concludes, he should "leave the ring feeling that he has had a square deal from the multitude as well as the referee."

East Ends Play Saturday

On Saturday afternoon, the East Ends of this city will meet Yantic in the first game of their series at the battlegrounds. The East Siders have been travelling at a fast pace of late and will without doubt give the up-town boys a good run for their money. Manager Cramer of the East Ends has secured a good battery for the game. Spike Harris will pitch and Whacko Riley will hold 'em behind the plate. This fact alone should assure the fans of a good game as Harris is recognized as one of the best of the city's younger pitchers while Riley leaves nothing to be desired as a backstop. The rest of the lineup will be practically the same as that which defeated Hallville recently. The game will be called at 3 o'clock (D. S. T.) and all fans who like a good amteur ball game should be on hand.

Cleaning Up Soldiers' Claims

As a final attempt to clean up every Connecticut Soldier's claim, in which The American Legion is interested, arrangements have been made with the Sub-District Office of United States Veterans' Bureau, Hartford, Connecticut, to open headquarters in New Britain during the American Legion Convention where a Bureau Personnel will be on hand to handle and adjudicate, if possible, all cases called to their attention by delegates to the Convention.

TAFTVILLE

A very pretty wedding took place at the rectory of the Sacred Heart Church at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning, when Rev. U. O. Bellrose, the pastor united in marriage Miss Monica Cecelia Donovan and Charles I. Peterson of Norwich.

The bride was attended by Miss Catherine Carey of Watertown, Mass., and the best man was Henry Congdon of Norwich. The bride was handsomely gowned in white canton crepe, with Spanish lace, and veil with crown of Spanish lace and pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley. Her maid was charming in sunset georgette with rhinestone trimmings. She wore a hat of silver panne velvet and carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses.

A reception was held at the home of the bride at 99 Merchants avenue and many relatives and friends attended, some coming from Hartford, Jewett City, Woonsocket, R. I., Norwich, Providence, R. I., and Boston, Mass. Many beautiful gifts were received including silver, cutglass, china, linen, household articles and money in gold. The happy couple left for a trip to Providence, R. I., Boston, Mass., and Lewiston, Maine.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Donovan of Merchants avenue and is employed in the office of the J. B. Martin Company, Ltd. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Peterson of Norwich and is employed by the Norwich Belt Manufacturing Company.

Mrs. Margaret Link Krauss, widow of Nicholas Krauss, was found dead in bed Thursday morning at her home in Lisbon by her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Christopher Krauss who resides near her home. Mrs. Krauss was in good health, but was 87 years of age, and it is believed that her death resulted from fear of the terrific thunderstorms. She was born in Selp, Bavaria, Germany and was married to Mr. Krauss sixty years ago in that country. 42 years ago she came to Baltic where she resided for a year and then came to make her home in Taftville. She is survived by six sons, Lawrence of Plainfield, John of New Bedford, Mass., Bernard, Hans, Martin and Christopher of Taftville and Lisbon, and one daughter, Mrs. William Werner of Brooklyn, N. Y. There are also a number of grandchildren and several great grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo St. Marie of North Fourth Avenue left Thursday morning for Holyoke, Mass. having received word of the death of Mr. St. Marie's brother.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Pope of South C street have returned from a two months trip to North Adams, Mass., Clairmont, N. H. and Brattleboro, Vermont.

DEMPSEY PUT FIRPO OUT IN THE SECOND OF TWO FURIOUS AND THRILLING ROUNDS

The Contest of the Fistic Gladiators Was One of the Most Fierce in the Annals of Pugilism—The Champion Five Times Floored the Challenger in the First Round—Dempsey's Title Was in Jeopardy at the Close of the First Round, When the "Wild Bull" Sent the Champion Hurtling Through the Ropes—Firpo Went Down to Defeat From a Right Uppercut to the Jaw—Defeated Man Was Accorded an Ovation for Remarkable Display of Courage—Tex Rickard is Planning Another Meeting of Dempsey and Firpo Next Summer.

Ringside, Polo Grounds, New York, Sept. 14 (By the A. P.)—Jack Dempsey tonight retained his world's heavyweight title, knocking out Luis Angel Firpo, the "Wild Bull of the Pampas," in the second round of one of the fiercest, fastest and most spectacular battles in the history of pugilism.

The champion floored his Argentine challenger five times in the first round and twice in the second round before a short right uppercut to the jaw sent Firpo down for the last time. But in the three minutes and fifty-seven seconds of whirlwind, terrific mauling Dempsey himself once was knocked clear through the ropes on top of the press benches and, groggy under a bombardment of mighty rights, once sank to his knees.

Before Firpo went hurtling down to defeat, carrying with him the shattered hopes of a continent, he gave a vast, frenzied throng of 85,000 one of the most thrilling and courageous ring exhibitions of all time. Battered, bloody and groggy, he showed his marvelous stamina by coming back with a whirlwind, crushing drive toward the close of the first round that had the titleholder tottering, closer to losing his crown than at any time in his career.

Firpo's Best Fight.

Firpo fought the best fight of his career. The challenger's mighty right was never mightier. Against the relentless power and versatility of the champion's furious attack he went down, but in defeat he gained more glory than in any battle of his career. He was beaten but his menace to the heavyweight throne was not removed.

From the tap of the first gong these two sledding giants tore at each other with attacks of unrestrained savagery. Firpo was the first to land as they came to close quarters but in a flash the champion plunged, shot in a right to the body and a left to the jaw, sending the challenger crashing to the floor on his side.

Firpo Floored Five Times.

Momentarily dazed, but with his gameness, Firpo rose to his feet after a short count and rushed back. Again he was met by a withering drive and went down for the second and third times. Blood flowed from his mouth, he was stunned, and Dempsey let loose the most terrific power of his swings as he sensed victory. Firpo went down twice more and both times it seemed the end had come. But after taking a count of nine on an fifth knockdown, the challenger suddenly sprang at his adversary like a wounded tiger, an infuriated jungle beast.

Dempsey Takes Punishment.

Swinging with flail-like rapidity and sledge-hammer power, the famous right thrust that had brushed aside all opposition before and swept him to fame, the Argentine rushed at his adversary. Caught unaware by this stunning comeback on the part of the man he had believed beaten into submission, Dempsey reeled under the assault. A right to the side of the head sent Dempsey to his knees and as he rose Another swing knocked him from his feet and through the ropes on top of the newspapermen huddled at the edge of the ring.

Dempsey's knees wavered as he climbed back in. He clinched to save himself. Firpo couldn't follow up his advantage, and the bell ended a round that will go down as one of the most sensational of all fighting history, with both gladiators on their feet.

Leaped at Each Other.

Unleashed for the second round, they leaped at each other once more. Dempsey again was the quicker on the attack and Firpo went down under the crushing blows of the champion. He arose only to go down once more. Now there was no doubt of the outcome. The challenger, bleeding and tottering, forced himself to his feet, carrying on largely by instinct. Dempsey stepped in, whipped his left to the body and then a short right to the chin that sent Firpo sprawling on his back, staring vacantly at the glare of lights overhead.

The Argentine tried feebly to turn over, to gather strength to rise. His fighting heart called him back to the fray but the body that had withstood one of the most terrific assaults the ring has ever known could not respond. He lay flat at the count of ten, after fifty-seven seconds of the round had elapsed, and was helped to his corner by the victorious champion.

When that vast throng, whipped to a fever pitch of excitement by the sensational struggle of these two slugging gladiators, gave vent to an ovation that echoed and re-echoed from Bluff as Dempsey's hand was raised in victory, ringside spectators rushed for the ring. Some hurdled three rows of press benches to get at the champion and lift him to their shoulders. For a moment it seemed that the frenzy might assume the proportions of a riot but the police, after a struggle, gained control.

Ovation for Both.

And while the American had fulfilled popular expectations and the most venturesome predictions of critics by his short and spectacular triumph, the challenger received an ovation in defeat for the fight that marked him among the most courageous battlers who ever sought the worlds' title.

Dempsey won because he was the "Dempsey of Toledo," the smashing, mauling, relentless assailant who battered Jess Willard into submission four years ago and ascended the heavyweight throne. Firpo proved himself a dangerous challenger despite the briefness of his stand against the champion, but his inexperience, the lack of an all-round fighting equipment to reinforce his powerful right hastened his downfall in the face of Dempsey's superior speed and generalship.

The outcome proved that sheer strength and hitting power alone plus a courageous heart could not survive against experienced skill, swiftness afoot and equally as formidable punching prowess.

Dempsey had to call on his all to survive that withering comeback of Firpo's in the first round after the Argentine had been floored five times. But the fact that he had the reserve, the stamina and courage to weather that sudden and terrific storm and emerge triumphant demonstrated conclusively that he is the present-day "champion of champions" and, in the belief of those who saw him tonight, one of the greatest of all time.

Dempsey Has Not Lost Punch.

Dempsey's victory answered the riddle of his battle with Tommy Gibbons at Shelby, Mont., last July. It proved that the champion had not lost his punch, that Gibbons lasted the limit simply because he waged a defensive fight, intent upon staying the limit, and that against a foe ready to struggle toe to toe, Dempsey can give and take the mightiest of punches and, in the end, win.

Dempsey gained a fortune with his victory tonight, for he will receive close to a half million dollars as his share of gate receipts, estimated at $1,270,000 by Promoter Tex Rickard, a figure second only to the record

CONN. TO HAVE 16 DELEGATES AT 1924 REP. CONVENTION

Washington, Sept. 14.—A tentative apportionment of delegates to the 1924 republican national convention, conforming to the order of the national committee issued in 1920, and designed to equalize republican voters' representation, was made public tonight at committee headquarters. It provides for 1,036 delegates and alternates as compared to 984 four years ago, with sharp reductions ordered in some of the "solid south" states and increases in most of northern and western sections.

Changes in apportionment were directed following years of criticism of large delegations from southern states normally democratic. No delegates will be allowed, under the new rule, from congressional districts which do not maintain a republican organization and do not cast at least 2,500 republican votes. This strips many southern districts entirely of representation.

Connecticut will be allowed sixteen delegates in 1924 against fourteen in 1920.

WINNIPEG PROSECUTOR ADVOCATES SPANKING

MAGISTRATES ARE SUBJECT TO MILITARY ORDERS

Madrid, Sept. 14.—(By the A. P.)—The military authorities have ordered all government officials and functionaries to carry on their duties under the direction of the military. All justices and magistrates were notified that they were subject to military orders.

General Francisco De Aguilera former Minister of War, arrived in Madrid today and announced himself as conforming with the military movement.

Admiral Juan Bautista Aznar, Minister of Marine in the Alhucemas Cabinet, has placed himself at the disposal of the new government of General Primo Rivera.

New Bank Created.

Madrid, Sept. 14.—The Semana Financiera announces that a Spanish-Cuban bank will be created here with a capital of 25,000,000 pesetas.

CLOSING SESSION NATIONAL COMMITTEE OF THE W.C.T.U.

Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 14.—Mrs. Ida B. Wise Smith, state president of the Iowa State W. C. T. U., was elected as director of the department of christian citizenship at the closing session of the National Executive Committee of the W.C.T.U. here today. She fills the vacancy caused by the death of Devoah Knox Livingston, of Massachusetts.

The next national convention of the W. C. T. U. will be held in Chicago November 11 to 21 in 1924. Plans were made by the executive committee today for a "golden jubilee" year in 1924 when state rallies will be held in all states to combat what the committee termed "wet propaganda."

Destruction of Silk Worth $200,000,000

Was in Custom House in Yokohama—Acting American Consul Was Killed in Earthquake.

Aboard Admiral Oriental liner President Jefferson, Sept. 14.—(By the A. P.)—Silk worth four hundred million yen (200,000,000) stored in the Yokohama custom house was destroyed in the disaster of September 1 according to Ivy Rehr, of the Wagner company, New York, one of those who escaped.

Max D. Kirjassoff, acting American Consul at Yokohama, escaped, but lost his life returning to rescue his wife, who also was killed.

FORMER CHANCELLOR CUNO HAS ARRIVED IN NEW YORK

New York, Sept. 14.—Dr. Carl Joseph Wilhelm Cuno, former chancellor of Germany, and president of the council of the Hamburg-American line, arrived today on the Reliance, for a visit of several weeks in this country as a "private citizen and shipping man."

Denying that he was here in the interest of a proposed $1,000,000,000 inter-allied loan to Germany or to arrange extension of the Hamburg-American and W. A. Harriman shipping combine, Dr. Cuno declared the sole purpose of his trip was "to renew personal and business relations with his American friends." He had no connection with politics, he said, which he definitely left behind when he resigned the office of chancellor.

"The Germans realize that Germany lost the war," he said in a formal statement "and that Gemany therfore must pay for the war. Germany is willing to pay to the limit of her capacity. Life in the Ruhr districts, the industrial heart of Germany, is at a standstill and until the Ruhr conflict has been settled, no one can estimate Germany's capacity to pay."

TRUCK WITH BEER WAS SEIZED IN FAIRFIELD

Bridgeport, Sept. 14.—Halted at Carey's corner Fairfield while transporting fifteen kegs of beer said to contain over four per cent alcohol, Alex Marawar, of 57 Washington street, New York City, was arrested tonight in default of bonds of $3,000 was lodged in a cell at local police headquarters, pending arraignment in the Fairfield town court next Monday.

Capable of developing a speed of 65 miles and hour, the truck in which the beer was found is believed by authorities to have been used exclusively in transporting liquor from between New York and Connecticut. State police are investigating the source from which the beer was secured.

PROBE OF LOSS OF SEVEN DESTROYERS TO BE PUBLIC

Washington, Sept. 14.—Inquiry into the loss of seven naval destroyers off Point Honda, Calif., last Saturday night will be conducted in public and will be designed to go to the bottom of the incident, Secretary Denby announced today.

A decision by officers in direct charge of the investigation to conduct the inquiry in secret was overruled by the secretary whose action was taken after a new and to department officials, unexplained feature, of the disaster became known in the receipt by a subsidiary bureau of a report mentioning two and possibly three additional naval ships are included among those which went aground.

THREE SEPARATE PAYROLL HOLD-UPS IN CLEVELAND

Cleveland, Sept. 14.—Three separate payrolls an dcollections totalling close to $20,000, were stolen by three armed bandits in a hold-up in front of the Pompeian Massage Cream company plant late today. The victims of the robbery were two express company employes delivering payrolls and collecting the day's receipts at their various stops. The bandits escaped in an automobile stolen a few moments before, police said.

MILITARY CENSOR IN TULSA TRIBUNE OFFICE

Tulsa, Okla., Sept. 14.—(By the A. P.)—A military censor took up his post in the editorial rooms of the Tulsa Tribune, an afternoon newspaper at noon today. He ordered "proofs" of all news matter relating to Governor Walton and martial law in Tulsa county, to be submitted to him for paproval. The censor is Major Roark, of Oklahoma City, a former newspaperman and an officer in the Oklahoma National Guard contingent here to enforce military rule.

Look Well to Your Own Interests

There's something almost human about the ostrich. Rather than face the unusual, he buries his face in the sand—thus exposing himself, rather recklessly, to the whims of happenstance.

Lots of folks shut their eyes when they need them most. In the matter of buying something for instance—the important business of spending hard earned dollars.

Who gets the most for his money? The man who buys blindly or the fellow who reads advertisements and discovers just where he can buy what he wants at the best possible price?

Who is the most economical housekeeper? The woman who buys haphazard, or the one who daily reads the Bulletin's advertising columns and puts her household purchasing on a business basis?

Don't be an ostrich when it comes to your own welfare. Read The Bulletin's advertising columns and get the benefit.

Summarized as follows is the news matter which has appeared in The Bulletin's columns for the past week:

PROGRESS BY ASSEMBLY OF THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Several More Articles Approved by the Commission on Reduction of Armaments—Applause Greeted Lord Robert Cecil's Expressed Hope That the United States Will Enter the League—Expect That the Fiume Matter Will be Settled Peacefully by Direct Negotiation.

Geneva Sept. 14.—(By the A. P.)—Progress was made today in the work of the League of Nations assembly on the proposed international pact of mutual assistance the aim of which is maintenance of world peace when several more articles were approved by the commission on reduction of armaments.

Amendments to article two of the pact suggested by Christian L. Lange, of Norway, secretary of the Inter-Parliamentary Union, were rejected after long discussion. This article is practically a duplicate of the famous aticle ten in the covenant of the league which aroused so much debate in the United States Senate.

M. Lange's amendments provided that all international treaties should be filed with the league for registration and publication, and that all the signatory states should accept the compulsory jurisdiction of the permanent court of international justice. Countries refusing to abide by these conditions would not be entitled to help from their fellow countries.

Lord Robert Cecil was among those who opposed these amendments. He thought it necessary to obligate the signatory states to compulsory arbitration when there was a chance to settle disputes between nations by direct negotiation. He also thought that insistence upon the publication of treaties might prevent the adhesion of certain powers.

He was happy to say, however, that this latter amendment would not stand in the way of adhesion by the United States, for America's hostility to secret treaties was well known, and as for Germany the Berlin government had already registered all treaties with the League.

When refrring to the United States, Lord Rovert said: "I hope the United States will enter the League." Applause greeted this remark.

The league commission also adopted Article III of the pact, which povides that when any signatory power feels that another state has exceeded the armaments laid down by the pact or threatens to open hostilities upon her such state may appeal to the league. It alsoapproved Article IV, which authorizes the council of the League of Nations to decide within four days which state is the agressor.

The commission likewise adopted in principle Artical V which outlines the nature of the assistance to be accorded to an attacked country, including military help, and arranges for an economic and financial boycott against the offending nation.

The action of the Council of Ambassadors in settling the Greco-Italian dispute has been communicated to all the members of the League of Nations, who now await a report from the council of the League on the question of the competency of the covenant of the League, which Italy refused to recognize. Debate on this probably will take place in the assembly next week.

Both the Jugoslavian and Italian spokesmen said tonight that they expected the Fiume problem would be settled peacefully by direct negotiation.

TO REBUILD FRENCH VILLAGE WITH AMERICAN MONEY

Hattonchatel, Department of the Meuse, France, Sept. 14.—This village, one of the most picturesque in the St. Mihiel salient, held by the Germans for four years and then burned by them before American shell-fire drove them out, will deliberate tomorrow its reconstruction with American money. Premier Poincare will preside over the ceremonies.

The forty houses forming the village have been rebuilt, but German incendiarism and the shell-fire of the allied forces wiped out many of the vestiges of the town, which dates back twenty centuries.

The village is situated at one of the highest points in the Meuse area and was originally built to detect the approach of invaders from afar.

Its ancient houses and church attracted many visitors before the war, among them Miss Belle Skinner, a wealthy resident of Holyoke, Mass., to whom it recalled scenes in New England.

For this reason, and wishing to commemorate the fact that the American troops reoccupying the village on September 13, 1918, were from Massachusetts, Miss Skinner after the war decided to devote her energies to the resurrection of Hattonchatel.

A new town hall, with a school, a new library and—a thing unknown before in the long history of the village—a water supply system, as well as a monument to the war dead, will be inaugurated tomorrow, thanks to her generosity.

When asked how much her adopted village had cost her, Miss Skinner declared she had not kept a careful count, but the inhabitants of the village easily reckon up items bringing the amount to 1,500,000 francs, and doubtless there was much expenditure of which they did not know.

IDENTIFIED SUIT CASE VICTIM AS HIS WIFE

Lowell, Mass., Sept. 14—George Wolschendorf, of East Bridgewater, today positively identified the Tyngsboro suitcase victim as his wife by means of a scar eft by an attack of blood poisoning. He was accompanied here by the woman's brother, Charles H. Orcutt, of Somerville, and state officers. Medical Examiner Marshall B. Alling, was present when the identification was established.

DR. ROBB AT OFFICES OF DISTRICT ATTORNEY

Cambidge, Mass., Sept. 14.—Dr. William M. Robb, of Boston, who has been sought for three days for questioning in connection with the Tyngsboro suitcase murder mystery, late today drove alone in his auromobile Reading and after posing for cameramen went into conference with the district attorney.

To newspapermen who recognized him as he drove into the East Cambridge court house yard Dr. Robb maintained that he was innocent of any connection with the affair.

"I had nothing to do with the case," he said. "I can't say much now, but I wish to go straight to the district attorney's office where I will have something to say about mixing me up in it. There is no basis for it whatever."

MEETING OF MUNICIPAL COUNCIL SUSPENDED

Madrid, Sept. 14.—At a meeting of the Municipal Council today the Mayor forebade a socialist interpellation regarding the military movement. One of the councillors in the name of his party approved of the militarist coup and, the session had to be suspended to prevent disorders.

The Socialist Party repudiates a manifesto issued by the Communists and Anarchists in which they claim to be heading the workers.

KU KLUX KLAN LEADER TENDERS RESIGNATION

Muskogee, Okla., Sept. 14.—(By the A. P.)—Dr. W. T. Tilley credited with being one of the leaders of the Ku Klux Klan here, today tendered his resignation from the organization to W. R. Sampson, local cyclops. His retirement, it is believed, will have no effect on Governor Walton's threat to declare martial law in Muskogee, unless the exalted cyclops of the Klan and his secretary resign.

TEN JURORS CHOSEN FOR TRIAL OF WALTER WARD

White Plains, N. Y., Sept. 14.—Ten tentative jurors had been chosen for the trial of Walter S. Ward, millionaire baker's son, charged with the murder of Clarence Peters, ex-sailor when Justice Wagner concluded court until Monday morning.

Three possible members of the jury were selected from the 44 examined during the day. Mrs. Beryl Curtis Ward, wife of the accused, was present and seemed fore nervous than yesterday. This and the frequent tilts between former Justice Isaac N. Mills, of counsel for the defense, and Justice Wagner, marked the day.

Clashes between Attorney Mills and Justice Wagner were frequent.

Attorey General Sherman announced that Mrs. Ward had been subpoenaed for the state in the trial of her husband and not as a witness before the extraordinary session of the grand jury when it resumes its inquiries Monday. Much speculation as how to far the Attorney General may go in endeavoring to get Mrs. Ward to testify against her husband has been caused by this.

The prisoner himself, although apparently more nervous than yesterday, smiled frequently. A letter which he passed to his wife and to his brother Ralph D. Ward, before the trial opened, was said to have been from his father George S. Ward, who has remained outside the jurisdiction of the court since the stare of proceedings against his son. Attorney General Sherman has announced a subpoena would be served upon the elder Ward should he enter the state.

MAYOR HYLAN TAKES A TURN FOR WORSE

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Sept. 14.—Indications that the nervous condition of Mayor John F. Hylan, of New York City, ill here with pneumonia, again had taken a turn for the worse were numerous late this afternoon.

After the issuance of the mid-afternoon bulletin showing the Mayor's temperature, pulse and respiration had risen several points, one of the attending physicians told newspapermen that the bulletin "was intended to be taken seriously, and the Mayor will be in danger until all the pneumonia is gone."

"The pneumonia is not spreading," the physician declared, "but is rising against the pleura and giving him pain and making it difficult for him to breathe."

Casual statements made by physicians during the afternoon indicated they were increasingly uncertain as to the probable outcome of the Mayor's illness and ready at any moment to answer a hurry call, which they seemed to feel was not entirely unexpected.

WALTER LEWISSOHN FOUND TO BE CAPABLE PERSON

Norkalk, Conn., Sept. 14.—Walter Lewisohn, of New York, member of a family identified with the copper industry and banking, is a capable person and his presence in a sanitarium at Greenwich is without duress and voluntary, Judge John J. Walsh, of the Fairfield county common pleas court formally told counsel today who were interested in the proceedings before him yesterday in which a writ of habeas corpus for Lewisohn had been sought.

Counsel who had made application for the writ as expressing the desire of Lewisohn withdrew it last night and the court having seen Lewisohn, stated that he would not grant any order. The court, in brief, today said:

"Lewisohn is a capable person and when he desires to leave the institution he can make a written application."

TO ARREST OFFICERS OF DEFUNCT SAVINGS BANK

Wilmington, N. C., Sept. 14.—Arrangements for the arrest of Thomas E. Cooper and J. C. Rourk, former president and cashier, respectively, of the Defunct Liberty Savings Bank of Wilmington, were made here today after they had been indicated by the New Hanover county grand jury on charges of violating the state banking laws.

A Lions' Club will probably be organized in Willimantic at an early date. A number of local business men plan to hold a meeting at 12:15 o'clock Wednesday afternoon for the purpose of organization. The subject will be explained by Harry McKinnen field director of the International Lions' Clubs and Ralph W. Fistere, secretary of the New London club.

The Lions' Club is a non-political, non-sectarian organization composed of representative business and professional men whose ideals tend to promote the welfare and advancement of their community. In at least one instance, Lionism is similar to Rotary, in that membership is acquired by invitation only and that only one active member will be assigned to each classification. Men of honor and high standing are asked to join the club which is ordinarily composed of men younger than those found in Rotary Clubs.

JEWETT CITY

An unusual sight Friday noon was a gray squirrel sporting around on Baptist church steeple. Crowds watched his pranks from the street and saw the little acrobat make a flying leap into a nearby maple. Some buy a hunter's license, and tramp the woods for days without seeing a gray squirrel. Where this chap came from in the center of the borough is a mystery.

All roads ended at the Pachaug fair Friday, where there was plenty to see and hear. The interest in the rifle range was unabated.

Miss Gertrude Arnold of Windham was a caller in the borough Thursday.

People at the railroad station at 11 o'clock Friday forenono were admiring engine 1332, one of the big shore line Pacifics.

Radio parties were more than usually popular Friday evening. Pleasant parties are reported from several set owners listening in on the big match at Madison Square Garden.

Mrs. Clifford Langlais is showing her friends a finely preserved copy of The Bulletin, dated Dec. 15, 1838. It was published by Manning and Sperry, and is one of the copies that were distributed gratuitously at the exact date when The Bulletin became a daily.

Among the interesting notes in its pages is a Lee & Osgood advertisement of 30 patent medicines, there are two in the list—Radway's Ready Relief and Griswold's Family Salve—that have survived the test of time and are doing business today in the same old way.

The Finnish sport of the wooden horse attracted much attention and furnished no end of fun at the Grange fair Friday afternoon. Byron Kinney hung on like grim death, and knocked all his opponents to the ground. It made the onlookers' eyes stick out some, to watch George Sheldon, one of the skilled riflemen, sitting in his roll chair, show how a 22-calibre rifle could be made to perform in the hands of an expert.

The tide of traffic on the big State of Maine Express that passes through the town every night, has turned the other way. The two and three-section trains are now west bound, with occasionally a long string of Pullmans deadheading east to bring down the home-coming vacationists.

The well which was to be in operation at the Grange fair grounds is not in operation yet. The drilling contractions have met with handicaps in the shape of ledge and quicksand, the latter running into the bore, in great quantities every time the drill was stopped for the night. A depth of 130 feet has been reached, which is some 50 feet below the bed of the Pachaug pond, only a few hundred feet away. The place to drill was located by a divining rod.

The fires were kindled in many kitchen ranges Friday forenoon. The chimneys smoked in wonder, and dinners were prepared over a wood fire, instead of a J. D. burner.

Favorable reports are at hand from Mrs. W. A. Richardson, a patient at Clinton, Mass., hospital. After a time it is believed that her recovery from the multiple injuries she received will be complete.

Ancestors.

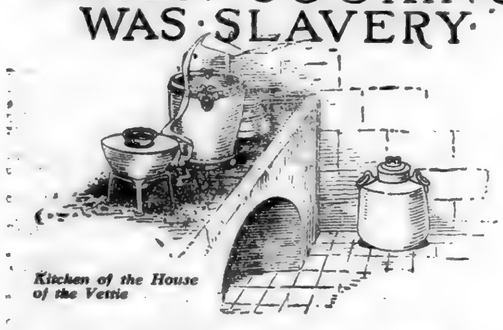
Why worry your head about ancestors. We are all pretty much on a level in this respect if we go far enough back. Nowadays one is judged by what he does, not by what one was born. Why not aim to make your life so successful that your descendants will refer to you with pride as their ancestor?

WHEN COOKING WAS SLAVERY



Kitchen of the House of the Vettii

A STORY OF OLD POMPEII

Centuries ago, when Pompeii and Olympia and Mycenae were in their prime, there was an ancient civilization that the world still holds in veneration.

But there was a canker in the heart of the civilization—the canker of slavery. Among these slaves were those who worked in the kitchens of the mighty.

The great people of Pompeii lived sumptuously in homes of exquisite beauty. They gave banquets that are the despair of modern hostesses.

Imagine a dinner at the house of the Vettii, which has been reconstructed from its ruins in Pompeii. Think of the beautiful inner court. Around it runs a paved court with classic marble columns. There is a gay garden in the center. From odd and unexpected places tiny streams of water trickle from little statues of bronze into cool basins. Marble tables stand among the flowers.

Conjure up a picture of a dinner at the house of the Vettii. Low couches are placed along the outer edge of the marble tables and the guests lie propped up on their left elbows with rich cushions to make them comfortable.

The diners can see the sunset glow in the sky. Off in the distance they see the great bulk of old Vesuvius, casting an ominous shadow over the city. Cool breezes invade the garden and rustle the leaves of the garden shrubs and vines. The little fountains furnish a delicate musical accompaniment.

The slaves bear the large silver platters of food. It was good to be a woman of high-standing in those days.

But there is a reverse side to the picture. Back in the hidden part of the Vettii's spacious house was a tiny room—its kitchen. Small, cramped and stuffy—it presented a compelling contrast to the classic beauty of the garden. Here was the crude stove. It was only a low stone structure, on the top of which charcoal was spread. The pots in which the food was cooked were on tripods and they were set right in the glowing coals. The cooks had to bend over this bed of fuming coals as they cooked.

This was in the home of a Pompeiian of wealth. Still more primitive were the stoves of the less fortunate.

Pompeii is gone. The old Roman civilization has given way to a newer one—and slavery is a thing of the past.

The stuffy kitchen has gone; the primitive stove has been discarded, and now cooking has become an art and a science. Cooking is no longer slavery. It is something that every true housewife loves.

But every true housewife has learned that her emancipation is accomplished by the aid of a Sterling Range. She knows that here is a cook stove that has been built with a keen eye to her comfort.

The Sterling Range is the range that never fails. It has been constructed scientifically. It has been thoroughly tested, and time and again it has baked a barrel of flour with a single hod of coal.

It is a thing of household beauty. It is correctly proportioned, attractively finished. It has roomy cooking and oven space. It utilizes both coal and gas and has a combination hot water heater.

In fact, the Sterling Range is the great Emancipator of the modern woman, for it is within the reach of all. Every woman can profit by its economical and time saving features. Can if desired so arrange terms of payment with the Sterling dealer that the Range will practically pay for itself by the savings it effects.

The slaves of Pompeii were obliged to use the stove they had. You can escape kitchen drudgery by simply calling on the Sterling Dealer today.

Jelly Roll

5 eggs,
1 cup John Alden Flour,
½ teaspoon salt,
1 cup sugar,
2 teaspoons baking powder.

All measurements are level.

Sift the John Alden Flour once before measuring.

Sift baking powder, flour and salt; beat yolks until thick; add sugar, add one-half of the beaten whites, fold in the flour and remainder of whites. Spread ½-inch deep in a shallow pan lined with paper. Bake in a slow oven (325° F) about 30 minutes. A cake that is over-baked is likely to crack in rolling.

While the cake is baking, beat the jelly with a fork, so that it can be spread easily. Have a clean cloth with powdered sugar sifted on it ready. Turn the cake on to it as soon as it is taken from the oven. Trim off the edges of the cake with a sharp knife, spread on the jelly, and roll it up while it is still hot. Leave the cloth wrapped around it until it is cool, so that it will keep its shape.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

Frightened By A Scarecrow

Now as soon as the little bear, the monkey and the pig awoke from the deep sleep which the wicked giantess had cast over them, they followed Little Jack Rabbit out of the house. But when thye reached the garden and saw the giant sitting by the fountain, they were afraid.

"Don't be afraid of me," said the giant in a kind voice. "I shan't do anything to you because Little Jack Rabbit changed my wife into a statue. She has been most unkind to animals all her life. Perhaps some day he will change her into a woman again."

"A year from today," answered the bunny boy. "I will release her from the spell."

"Thank you," said the giant and he went on smoking. He was afraid I guess of the bunny boy's magic gold feather or maybe he was glad to live in peace for a year, as I have already told you his giant wife had always made things most uncomfortable for him.

Well, as soon as Little Jack Rabbit and the bear and monkey had climbed into the wagon, the little pig said "gid-ap" to his dog team and away they went to Lollypop Town where they had intended going some three or five stories ago before the giant had invited them into his house, you remember. But, oh dear me, they had gone only a short distance when, all of a sudden, a deep growly voice said:

"Where are you going. I'd like to know?

You look like an amatuer circus show.
Two dogs it seems to me
Are dragging too many people by three."

At once Little Jack Rabbit and the little bear and the monkey looked all around to see who was speaking, for, of course they knew the voice was talking about them.

"I guess you'd better get out," said the pig. "I'm afraid I'll be arrested."

All of a sudden, a scarecrow jumped out from behind a stone wall. My, but he was a policeman-looking person. He had on an old army cloak, a fireman's red helmet, khaki trousers and a pair of old boots.

Out of the wagon jumped the bunny boy and his two friends and before the Scarecrow could say another word, the little bear ran off to the woods, the monkey hid himself, I don't know just where and the pig drove away as fast as he could.

"Now that you've made all my friends desert me, what are you going to do?" asked the little bunny boy, curling his whiskers and looking fiercely at the Scarecrow.

"I didn't mean to be cross," he answered. "I was only joking," and taking off his helmet, he wiped his forehead with a torn bandanna, which is a sort of handkerchief you know. And in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Complaints that young people, who go to the playground at the graded school on School street during the early evening and create a bedlam of noise are a nuisance, have been made to the police with a request that some action be taken to abate the situation. Chief John McFarland has directed the attention of members of the town school committee to the matter and also will see that those who use the playgrounds, where there is a chute and other playground apparatus, do so without making so much noise that residents of the neighborhood are not disturbed.

In the town court Friday morning, Charles M. Lamprey, presented on a charge of reckless driving, was fined $25 and costs, but $20 of the fine was remitted by Judge W. Fenner Woodward. Lamprey's offense consisted of the dangerous practice of "cutting in"—a practice that results in many serious accidents. It was not charged that he was driving at a reckless rate of speed. In the other case before the court, intoxication being charged, a fine was imposed and paid.

So many interesting things have been done with automobiles during the past year that some who saw a car in a canal off Main street near the Danielson Cotton company's former plant were inclined to believe Friday morning that someone had finally trained a machine to swim. This viewpoint was hardly correct, for it appears that when Charles Lowry, electrician with the Connecticut Mills company, cranked his machine, which he had left in gear, it started backing and went over the embankment before anything to prevent the plunge. With the aid of a pair of horses the machine was rescued later in the day.

Friday the body of Walter Caswell was brought here from Melrose, Mass. for burial in Westfield cemetery, a funeral service arriving late in the afternoon. Rev. C. C. Tobitts of the Methodist church conducted the committal service. Mr. Caswell was for many years a resident of Elmville.

At their rooms here Friday evening, members of Danielson Radio club received returns from the Dempsey-Firpo battle in New York. The returns were generously and promptly made available for the public. There was surprising interest here in the outcome of the championship bout, but very little betting on the affair, as the great majority were convinced that the champion would retain his laurels.

As told in the Putnam news this morning, the Colonial Daniel Putnam association of Brooklyn participated in the cost of providing the beautiful bronze tablet unveiled Friday on the 200th anniversary of General Israel Putnam's birth at what is known as the Emerson homestead in Danvers, Mass. This association has figured prominently in historical work in territory hereabouts.

A sharp drop in temperature during the early morning hours of Friday was the means of bringing out the first general showing of top coats and warm wraps seen this season. No damaging frost was reported. This is regarded as important in view of the fact that great quantities of fine field corn remain unharvested.

Woolen and worsted manufacturing concerns in this and adjoining towns were represented Friday at an outing arranged for eastern Connecticut manufacturers by wool salesmen who visit this part of New England. More than 100 were in the party that spent the day at the links of the Putnam Country club and there were many rounds of golf.

Memorial postage stamps bearing the likeness of President Harding are now on sale at the Danielson post office. The stamps are of the two-cent denomination and are being put out in numbers. The stamps are done in black. They have been of interest to all who have seen them and are being purchased in numbers.

An increase of 12 per cent is noted in the enrollment in Killingly's schools the greater part of this gain being in the Danielson graded school and in the Goodyear school. In Danielson the enrollment this year is 326, as against 280, last year, while at Goodyear the enrollment now is 203, as compared with 143 last year. Dayville shows an increase of 10. Killingly High school also shows an increase this year, having a total registration of 207, as compared with 194 in 1922.

A considerable amount of Rhode Island anthracite coal has been disposed of in Danielson in the past few weeks and there have been some instances where a winter's supply has been taken by families. This coal is very hard. A variety of experiences have been noted in using it, but the majority opinion appears to be that it is excellent fuel once one learns how to use it and is said to make a long lasting fire.

Miss Susie Colling, an operator from the local central exchange, is at home for the week-end after assisting in the Saybrook central office the present week, as she will during the coming week.

There is a prospect, it is said, that a Rotary club will be organized here during the coming year. Norwich, New London, Willimantic and Putnam all have such clubs and there will be a movement to bring Danielson within the fold.

There was a good attendance at a whist party given Thursday evening under the auspices of the American Legion and the Woman's Relief corps.

Arthur Dessette is recovering at his home here after undergoing this week a slight operation on his throat.

A small car plunged off the state road on upper Reynolds street Friday afternoon and after plunging through a fence brought up at the foot of an embankment. The machine was being tried out by an employe of a garage when the accident happened. No one was injured.

PUTNAM

Descendants of General Israel Putnam were at Danvers, Mass., Friday, for the unveiling of a bronze tablet at the Emerson homestead where the great patriot was born 200 years ago. The large and beautiful tablet was presented by General Israel Putnam chapter, D. A. R., of Danvers, by Elizabeth Porter Putnam chapter of this city, Deborah Avery Putnam chapter of Plainfield and the Colonel Daniel Putnam association of Brooklyn. A considerable number from towns in this section of the county were at Danvers for the unveiling ceremony.

The tablet bears the inscription:

In commemoration of the 200th anniversary of the birth in this house of Israel Putnam Major-General in the Continental army, who received his commission by the hands of Washington at Cambridge, July 4, 1775. Great-grandson of John (and Priscilla Putnam who migrated from Aston Abbotts, Buckinghamshire; England, and settled at Salem, 1640; descended, from the ancient family of Puttenham of Tertfordshire. Israel was son of Joseph Putnam, memorable for his opposition to the witchcraft trials, and of Elizabeth Porter, his wife, niece of John Hathorne, colonial magistrate. He married, in 1739, Hannah Pope, and having that year purchased Mortlake manor in Brooklyn, then Pomfret, Connecticut, comprising 514 acres, he removed thither in 1740, with his wife and son Israel, who later was associated with his kinsman General Rufus Putnam in the settlement at Marietta, Ohio. In 1742, Putnam overcame the wolk in her den at Pomfret. In 1755, he served at Crown Point, and was commissioned lieutenant. In 1756, he took part in the defense of Forts William Henry and Edward, and in 1758 was rescued from the Indians as he was about to be burned at the stake. He served as major in the campaigns of 1759-1761, with Amherst at Lake Ontario, and at the capture of Montreal. Commanding a Connecticut regiment, he participated in the capture of Havana. In 1762, and 1763, in Pontiac's war, commanded a regiment at Detroit. An active patriot, on learning of the engagement at Lexington, Putnam left his plow in the furrow and rode 100 miles in 18 hours, to Concord and Cambridge, and the following week was commissioned brigadier-general of Connecticut forces. Having secured the occupation of the heights of Charlestown, the responsibility for planning the battle of Bunker Hill, June 17, 1775, rested with General Putnam, and it was he who gave to Prescott's men the command: "Do not fire until you see the whites of their eyes."

In 1776-1779 he held important commands at Long Island, in New Jersey, at Philadelphia, and on the Hudson, where, at West Point, he selected the site on which Rufus Putnam erected Fort Putnam commanding the Hudson. While commanding the concentration camp at Redding, Connecticut, in 1778, Putnam escaped the enemy at Greenwich by riding down the cliff where the British dragoons dared not follow. Disabled in December, 1779, by paralysis, he died in 1790, and his grave at Brooklyn, Connecticut, is marked by an equestrian statue. He dared to lead where any dared to follow. An outstanding figure in American history, this brave and popular officer was the subject of the "First American Biography," written at Mount Vernon by David Humphreys, former aide-de-camp to Washington and Putnam, and dedicated to the Society of Cincinnati in Connecticut. Israel Putnam was one of nearly 100 of the name who responded to the alarm of the 19th of April, 1775, a record of patriotic service repeated in 1861 and 1917. Connecticut acknowledges to Massachusetts an illustrious son, whose name is justly claimed by both.

Presented to the Israel Putnam Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution at Danvers, by the Putnam associates; the Elizabeth Porter Putnam Chapter, D. A. R., Putnam, Conn.; the Deborah Avery Putnam Chapter, D. A. R., Plainfield, Conn.; the Colonel Daniel Putnam Association, Brooklyn, Conn.

For the entertainment of those interested in the outcome of the Dempsey-Firpo match in New York Friday night, Chief Ralph Thurston rigged up a radio device at the central fire station and broadcasted the returns direct from the ringside for those who stood about in the square. While radio distribution of the news of the minute is no longer a brand new novelty for Putnam it still holds its keen fascination, and is now regarded as the swiftest method on such occasions for getting the returns from events of nation-wide interest.

Now here's an idea: A member of the fire department, discussing a recent false alarm, says that it might not be a bad plan to introduce in Putnam such fire alarm boxes as are in use in some sections of the larger cities. These boxes are so rigged that anyone who pulls in an alarm from one is autimatically handcuffed to the box by the act, and must remain there until the arrival of the apparatus and his release by a fireman. With such devices in use in Putnam alleged jokers would think twice before interfering with fire alarm boxes and then decide not to.

It was learned Friday that there was a conference here Thursday evening at which residents of this city who were taken into the superior court on bench warrants this week and charged with violations of the liquor law and counsel representing them in the cases. The men will be put to plea Monday and it is anticipated pleas of not guilty will be entered in a number of cases. Trials are expected to follow promptly if this proves to be true, and that the defendants will elect to be tried before a jury. The cases continued during Friday to be a very general topic of conversation in this city.

Dr. Charles E. Barker, described as the man who kept Taft physically fit and on the job every day when he was president of the United States, is coming to Putnam early in October to tell as many men as can get in to hear him just what a father should and just what his responsibility to his boys is. His address here will be given in Odd Fellows' hall in the evening. In the afternoon he will speak to an audience of women, in the same hall, and also address the students at Putnam High school. Since 1919 Dr. Barker has been going about the country lecturing under the auspices of Rotary clubs and now is devoting all of his time to that work. Dr. Barker will come here under the auspices of the Rotary club, which will meet all of the expenses incident to his visit, making his lectures free to the public.

Malcolm M. Willey will leave Monday for Hanover, N. H., to take up his duties as a member of the faculty of Dartmouth college. He will be in the department of sociology.

Lyon T. Wilson, Jr., left this week for Troy, N. Y., where he entered the freshman class in Rensselaer Polytechnic institute. He is to specialize in mechanical engineering.

The sale of fruit, vegetables and canned goods at Woodstock fair added a material sum to the Hall Memorial fund, being created for the erection of a gymnasium at Woodstock academy.

Henry Tetreault, Jr., was reported Friday as seriously ill with pneumonia, which attacked him suddenly and unexpectedly.

Sidney Hayward will leave the first of the week to resume his studies at Dartmouth college.

The reconstructed First National bank building, now the most ornate in the city, will be opened to the public for inspection next Wednesday. The bank will be occupied for business a week from Monday.

In circles where the facts should be known, it was stated Friday that George Bircault's reappearance might be anticipated during the day. Bricault disappeared Tuesday when allowed to go out seeking a bondsman.

The Putnam division of the S. N. E. T company will be well represented at the Employes' association outing and clambake to be held at Wildwood park.

Dr. Hugh B. Campbell of Norwich will be here Tuesday afternoon to conduct a clinic at the Day Kimball hospital, this to be one of his periodical visits.

Health the First Requisite.

LODGE NOTES

MOOSE.

With a large attendance the regular business meeting of Norwich Lodge, No. 930, L. O. O. M., was held Friday evening at the Moose Home on Laurel Hill. Trustee W. R. Hastedt, chairman of the "On to New York" committee, reported progress. The committee comprising W. R. Hastedt, chairman, Seymour DeRusha, secretary and Benjamin Wunderlick, treasurer, is to be assisted by a sub-committee appointed Friday evening.

It was announced that the charter has reopened and a number of prizes are to be given to those who secure the largest number of accepted candidates. The capital prize, life membership, valued at $200, will be awarded the member who brings in the largest number of candidates, 100 being the minimum number allowed for this prize. Other prizes will be awarded as follows: $100 for member bringing in largest number over 50; $50 second largest number over 50 candidates; $25 and $25 to the members bringing in the third and fourth largest number of candidates over 50.

The first class will be initiated on October 7th. It was announced that Brother Bazone will give a prize to the member having the most candidates.

George Kaplan was appointed as chairman of a sub committee to put on a minstrel show this fall. A class of candidates from Taftville will be initiated in the near future.

W. R. Hastedt has requested that every member of the lodge put his shoulder to the wheel in order that the lodge may be represented at the New York convention by at least 400 members.

MOOSEHEART LEGION.

At the regular meeting of the Women of Mooseheart Legion, Norwich Chapter, No. 124, held in Moose home Thursday evening, considerable routine business was transacted and a few members were initiated into the folds of the chapter. Senior Regio Rose Carter presided and a good attendance was present. At the close of the meeting a social time was enjoyed and refreshments of ice cream and cake was served. The next regular meeting of the chapter will be held Sept. 21.

AMERICAN LEGION

Governor Charles H. Templeton and his staff, Major General Clarence R. Edwards, former commander of the 26th division, Major Gen. George H. Cameron, former commander of the 4th division, Brig. General Morris B Payne, now commanding the 85th Infantry Brigade, National Guard, N. Y., Brig. General G. M. Cole, Adjutant General of Conn., Senator G. B. McLean and Congressmen P. B. O'Sullivan and E. Hart Fenn are among the invited guests who are expected to be in New Britain, Saturday, September 15th, the final day of the three day American Legion State Convention to be held there, when a monster parade will be held through New Britain streets.

In addition to delegations from at least 75 out of the 98 posts in the state, numerous organizations from various towns in Connecticut will take part in the turn-out. The 169th Infantry, with about 1,000 men, the First Squadron Cavalry, of Conn., second division U. S. Naval Reserve forces, and the First Company Governor's Foot Guard have already assured the committee that they will parade. It is expected that there will be a representation from the Putnam Phalanx and other patriotic organizations, bands that are coming for the occasion are about 18 in number and include the 102nd Regiment Band, of New Haven, formerly of the 26th Division, and the Hartford Scottish Highland Pipe Band, composed entirely of service men.

With the Legion delegations and the visiting aggregations there will be some 5,000 men in line.

WOMAN'S RELIEF CORPS.

Sedgwick Woman's Relief Corps, No. 16, held its regular business meeting Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock at Buckingham Memorial, with the senior vice president, Clara E. Burke, in the chair. It was announced at the meeting that President Jayne Saed, who has been abroad for the summer, will soon start home and will be present for the next meeting. The reports of the secretary and treasurer were heard and approved. One candidate was initiated and one application was received.

Feeling reference was made by several of the members to the loss of Mrs. Frances H. Spaulding, a prominent member of the corps who died this week. It was voted to hold a whist on September 21st at Buckingham Memorial. The meeting closed with the salute to the flag and America.

REBEKAHS

Thames Rebekah Past Grands' Association held the first meeting after the summer recess at the home of Mrs. Swinney at Niantic, Wednesday. The meeting was an all day session and took the form of an outdoor gathering. Routine business was transacted. Past Grands from Norwich, Groton, Putnam, Mystic and New London were present.

MACCABEES

The Maccabee lodge held a surprise party Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. M. Murray of 59 Church St., in honor of Mrs. Murray's birthday. Games and music were enjoyed after which a buffet lunch was served. Mrs. Murray received a boudoir lamp in honor of the occasion.

Kingston fair came to a close Friday with a Children's and Firemen's Muster day. It was children's day mainly in a sense that there were more little folks in attendance than on any previous day, but their active participation in a program has diminished from year to year. That it was a firemen's muster day, it being the second annual event for the fair, was apparent, for everywhere one looked a uniform was in sight. The Star No. 1 "tub" of Westerly was the only one on the program not making an appearance.

Th esquirt results were as follows:

No. 1—Hancock No. 1, Brockton, Mass., 199 feet, 8 1-4 inches.

No. 2—Enterprise No. 2, Campello, Mass., 198 feet, 9 inches.

No. 3—Washington No. 1, Wickford, R. I., 205 feet, 10 inches.

No. 4—Aberdeen, Wakefield, R. I., 178 feet, 11 1-4 inches.

No. 5—Protection No. 1, Brookville, Mass., 186 feet, 9 1-2 inches.

No. 6—Defiance, Riverside, R. I., 184 feet, 6 1-2 inches.

No. 8—Volunteer, East Greenwich, R. I., 197 feet, 11 1-2 inches.

THE NEW POSTMASTER.

As federal administrations change postmasters are expected to change, and it is in accord with that practice that Norwich will within a few weeks witness a change in the local federal building.

Announcement of the selection of First Selectman Casper K. Bailey as postmaster is bound to be accepted by the people of Norwich with genuine satisfaction. He is known not only as a successful business man but as a highly successful public official. His work has not only been a credit to himself, but to the community he served and the party that supported him. He will come to his new office direct from a period of eight years as the head of the town government, which service fully indicates the high regard in which he is held by the townspeople.

During the time that he has served the city and the town governments, he has demonstrated his exceptional ability for administering such important work and made it manifest that he will give the same untiring and close attention to the postal service of this community.

With a record in town and city office that has left such an excellent impression, with the conscientious regard for the duties of office so well displayed and with a business ability that has long since been established, Norwich has reason to congratulate itself that Mr. Bailey has been chosen to look after the exacting affairs of Uncle Sam in this city. It is certain that an efficient man has been chosen and there will, of course, be the utmost confidence felt in his conduct of the office.

THE GREAT AIRSHIP.

Most impressive is the showing that has been made by the great naval dirigible ZR-1 in the tests thus far made. It stirs the imagination to the possibilities of excursions into the unknown and the accomplishment of great things as a war machine.

As the result of the flight over Philadelphia and New York it is pointed out that had it been on a war mission it could have blown the cities into wreckage. Just how much havoc it could have caused had it carried the necessary explosives and been suddenly disposed to rip things asunder one hardly dares to imagine. Some idea can be gained from what was done to the two battleships recently by the bombing airplanes. But what it might have done on a peaceful afternoon and what it could have accomplished had it been engaged in a war mission are quite far apart. There is no question but what it could drop the bombs that would tear cities to pieces but the possibility of a dirigible accomplishing such a thing is much less these days than it was when there were no flying machines and before anti aircraft weapons were available.

A dirigible, even at a high elevation, offers a great target for attackers. There might be a possibility that it could get through a cordon of flying machines and drop a load of bombs but it would be slim. Even with the non-explosive gas the dirigible would be quite as much if not more at the mercy of defending airplanes than would the warship under attack from the air. Improved though the dirigible ZR-1 may be over those that were developed in Europe its great service as a war machine is greatly handicapped by the high efficiency developed by the airplanes which are next to invisible in comparison with the giant cigar-shaped gas bag.

And yet it is impossible not to appreciate the accomplishment in its construction and handling and hope that it can be employed in some worthy peace time effort that will make worthwhile its construction and operation.

THE REVOLT IN SPAIN.

Such troubles as southern Europe is going through at the present time is increased by the sudden flareup among Spanish elements. It is a matter that involves the Spanish alone but it threatens domestic trouble of a character which no country can anticipate with pleasure.

The trouble seems to revolve about the Moroccan difficulties, and is now taking the form of opposition to the Spanish ministry and its policies. It is the culmination of an effort to have Spain give up its possessions in Morocco. This has been advocated in the hope of reducing the large expenditures involved and of preventing the large losses that have befell the army in maintaining and defending those possessions.

Advocacy of such a course has not succeeded to the point desired. It may have gained certain support, as would be indicated by the fact that the chief advocate is now the leader in the revolt of the army. There has been growing discontent over the situation and because of the continuance of efforts against which those who have looked into them have strongly urged.

As might be expected the army plays a powerful part in the affairs of Spain. It is on the army that the government must place great dependence, and when that revolts against policies being adhered to it presents a serious situation.

The trouble differs from an attempt to overthrow a government since there is no effort in Spain to break away from a monarchy and there is no dissatisfaction with King Alfonso. It is a test of strength between the army and the ministry, the seriousness of which is apparent when it is realized how powerless a ministry becomes when it has no army to back up its policies.

"SCHOOLHOUSE AHEAD."

On the streets and highways each side of the schoolhouses there are to be seen conspicuous signs indicating to the autoists in particular but to all users of the highway that a schoolhouse is within a short distance and that the presence of children should be anticipated. The purpose is to warn against speed at a point where it can be expected that children will be encountered, for where children are leaving school or at play there is no telling what they are going to do.

Throughout the summer months, while school is not in session, it is customary to disregard such signs. The fact that there is a schoolhouse within the next 500 feet means no more than the proximity of a church, a summer boarding house, a fine country estate or a produce farm. The warning is pertinent only when the schoolhouse is being occupied.

But we have gotten back to school days. Children are flocking to and away from the schoolhouses in large numbers several times a day, and it is well that due thought should be given this matter by the drivers of automobiles. No one wants to strike or run over a child and it is not to be overlooked that the chances of doing so are greatly reduced by having the machines under such control as comes from heeding the signs indicating the location of school houses.

That much rests with the children in the prevention of accidents is not to be overlooked. Instead of blindly running into the streets or dodging from behind other vehicles there need to have impressed upon them the real danger of the highways and to restrict their playing in the streets accordingly. It is, however, through such efforts as all users of the highway can make that the desired results are going to be obtained, and it must not be overlooked, now that the summer vacation season is over, that the schoolhouse signs deserve the attention and respect of the auto drivers. It is much better to slow up and be sure than to speed up and be sorry.

RELIEVING JAPAN.

Good reason is there for the expression of gratitude that has come from Japan because of the prompt and generous aid that has been extended by this government and its people. Japan well knows what early assistance means under such circumstances. It is such claimities that demonstrate not only the need for extending the helping hand in times of distress but of maintaining close and friendly relations at all time. It is not only during the emergencies that great service can be rendered in behalf of a more peaceful world, but it is certain then that it makes its greatest impression.

How thoroughly it was recognized in all sections of this country that Japan needed substantial assistance is shown by the ready manner in which the pocketbooks of this country were opened and how general were the contributions. Not only was there appreciation of the need but there was also confidence in the organization through whose channels the funds were to be administered.

Imagination is inadequate for us to picture the desolation and horror that were caused in Japan. Imagination is sufficient for us to realize that supplies must be forthcoming from elsewhere to prevent even worse conditions from following in the wake of the earthquake.

The cry for help has not gone unheeded. More than five million dollars have already been raised and the greater part of it has already been employed in providing food, clothing, medical supplies and building material. But the attitude of the people of this country can be no better displayed than by the fact that they have gone over the top, raised a sum larger than asked and are still giving in recognition of the great need that exists for their help. We are not moved by the motive of bringing the nations closer together; we are administering to humanity in distress—a call that cannot be denied. There will be good use for all that is given.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

One is fully justified in wondering why those who under a doctor's care are called "patients." Is it because they need patience while they are in his tender hands? Is it because they are actually patient while he is trying to put them on their feet again? If so, the name must have been given in biting sarcasm. As far as the writer's limited observation goes, sick people ought to be called the doctor's "impatients." The general run of people have no better judgment than immature children and are a great deal worse to take care of when sick. Some of them grow! because a single dose of medicine doesn't work miracles, and if they are not fully restored in three days they begin to think it is time to change doctors, and after they have tried half a dozen then they switch off into Christian Science, and yet we call them "patients," and some of them actually are.

The improved facilities we have today in our homes over the accommodations which our fathers had to put up with has made us impatient of the ordinary summer cottage. There was a time when the owners of summer cottages used to move all the junk that was not actually needed at home into the uncomplaining summer home. Broken crockery was good enough for the seaside. Old furniture, especially of the cheap variety, that was on the verge of utter collapse, occupied places of honor because it was "good enough" for August use. All this is quite endurable because one does not want to be reminded of the Biltmore when he is sojourning at Mud Harbor. But one has a perfect right to raise his voice in mild protest against some of the relicts of the old Spanish Inquisition that pass for beds, so thin and flat and musty, with its bag of traprock spread over what was once a spring bed. Is it strange that such cottages are not in such demand as they were once?

There seems to be an hostility in the world of nature against static conditions. Everywhere in the material world the ending of development is the beginning of death; in fact, the word "static" is a synonym for death in nature's phraseology. There is no such thing as a standstill in either the organic or inorganic world. It may be, and doubtless is, true in many instances that changes are so minute as to escape the notice of the uninitiated. Even the face of Egypt has so changed in the last five thousand years that the builders of the Pyramids wouldn't know where they were if they should come back. Think of the countless ages it must have taken the St. Lawrence to cut its way back from Lake Ontario to the present location of the falls of Niagara! Ireland is slowly rising out of the sea, greatly extending the time of its political scrapping. On the other hand, New Jersey is just as truly sinking, showing that the day will come when its booze will mingle with the tidewater of the Atlantic. There is nothing static in nature.

Why should we expect static conditions in human thought? And yet in some departments we are told that development has been excluded. All that can be possibly known came in a vast lump, and that it is our main duty in life to keep going around that lump proclaiming its size and importance. One can hardly understand why this claim should be urged for the unprogressiveness of theology while its twin sister, philosophy, has had a constant growth from the days of Plato and Aristotle and even earlier. It is a very long road from the old Greek academy to the modern university, but it is constantly developing highway from start to finish. There is nothing static here. Likewise have changes been going on in science that practically amount to revolutions. If science had been static we would still be traveling in the stage coach and our clothing would still be made by the hand loom. And still there are some who would keep theology in the old stage coach-hand loom era.

Whether nature is wasteful or economical has always been a mooted questions, even among scientists themselves. According to the law of the conservation of energy nothing can be lost or destroyed. Forces may change the channels through which they operate without any appreciable loss of energy. A drop of water may reappear on the one hand as ice, and on the other as steam, but in the transformation there has been no diminution in the quantity or quality of its potency—so we are told by the scientific experts. But in a practical sense this is not true. Take for instance a fruit tree. Does it not produce, at least, twice as many blossoms as fructify? And the blossoms that set produce twice as much fruit as ripen. Why does so large a proportion of apples, for instance, become windfalls? Hence the question: Is nature wasteful or economical?

What are some of the great assets of the annual summer vacation? Unless these gains have been visible and pronounced, it cannot truly be said that the vacation was a "howling success." We cannot base our judgment on the immediate returns. Usually there are a good many outlying precincts that are slow in sending in their results. One ought to be able to show a little more than tan on the end of his nose or the back of his neck. Unless there has been something in his vacation that has gotten down to the springs of his producing power which even calls for a check rein then failure is written big all over those four weeks, whether in the expensive hotels of Newport and Atlantic City or in a camp up in the Maine woods. It is not when or where, but how you spend the vacation that counts in the long run.

The word "miracle" best expresses the capacity of the American Red Cross in getting ready to face the awful Japanese calamity. It seems to have reached the ne plus ultra of efficiency. Less than one week elapsed after the news of the work of the earthquake was received when more than five millions in money had been converted into food, clothing and other necessaries of life, and had been despatched on its great errand of mercy. It may be that the United States is open to criticism along some lines, but a disposition to help the unfortunate is not one of them. The sight of one of our great warships sailing into the once great harbor of Yokohama laden with things needed for the sufferers was the best use to which a warship was ever put. Would to God it was the only use the warship had ever been put to, and may it be a discovery of the new use for such monsters.

When one sees the tanned hides of the tubercular little cripples at a seaside sanatorium he wonders if in time they would not become coal black. This may fully explain why the Negro's skin is black. However black these little fellows may become probably they never would assume the Negro's peculiar facial physiognomy. This probably is due to centuries of climatic influences. When these cripples are cured and remove from the seaside the skin will doubtless bleach out into its normal color. This is what the scientist would call "reversion to type." But there must be a point beyond which this "reversion to type" doesn't work. You might put the Negro into Labrador for any length of time and he never would become a white man. But we know enough of climatic influence to believe "that God hath made of one blood all nations."

Portland cement, of which 15,000,000 barrels are produced yearly in the United States, takes its name from Portland, England, where the material was discovered and patented just 100 years ago.

THE GEOGRAPHY OF TOKIO.

"To get a mental picture of Tokio one must hold clearly in mind that Japan's capital was not really a city but a collection of towns and villages, grown together," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

"These settlements preserved their entity in the 15 'wards' so frequently mentioned in dispatches of the last few days.

"Boots had a peculiar sentimental tie with our own national capital, because the Japanese cherry blossom trees in Potomac park, in Washington, constituted a gift to us, which was recognized by sending to Tokio a consignment of American dogwood trees. There they form an annual magnet for thousands of Japanese residents at the time of their blooming.

"When one sailed up the Bay of Tokio to Yokohama, and bought a railroad ticket to Tokio, he sensed the distinctive flavor of Japan's capital. For the ticket would read Shinagawa, or Shinbashi, not Tokio.

"The imperial palace was in the aristocratic ward, of 'Ku,' known as Kojimachi-Ku. In this palace, originated by Ota Dokwan in 1456, formerly lived the Tokugawa Shoguns. This palace bears witness to the frequent casualties of Tokio; it often was burned, the last time in 1873. It is not accessible to the public. A Japanese guide-book naively says, 'Ordinary people are allowed to approach only as far as the end of the first bridge outside the outer gate.' The palace grounds are surrounded by two moats: the perimeter of the outer one is about five miles.

"In this ward also is the central station, with buildings occupying two acres. One of four entrances was reserved for the use of the Imperial family.

The Busy Latin Quarter

"The Latin Quarter of Tokio, which suffered severely, lies in Kanda-Ku. Here was the Tokio higher commercial school, the first school of that kind established by the government when it launched upon a policy of adopting western business methods.

"Upon the grounds of this school grow pine-trees which are survivors of the grove standing there when the school tract was part of the Shoguns' pleasure park.

"This ward also was famous for a willow-tree throughfare, its second-hand clothes stores, and a Shinto shrine which dates to the 8th century.

"While each ward retains distinctive characteristics of the time when it was a separate town, and each has its own business section, Tokio as a whole has a distinctive individuality. It is an 'official' city; and frankly so.

What Geisha Girl Did

"The old survived alongside the new. The Geisha girl continued to perform though the cafeteria had made its advent in Tokio.

"The Geisha girl was an institution hard for the western mind to comprehend. Her most comparable functionary in the western world was the court jester—long since passed away. She was a modern prototype of the private entertainers of wealthy medieval nobles. She was of a class different from the women of Japan who clung to their semi-seclusion amid the inroads of modernism; but she was not of the type which westerners class as the demi-monde.

"For the humble traveler by the tram, it is exceedingly difficult to get lost in Tokio. Each car bears the number of its route and inside, at the place where, in America, one would see hosiery and washing powder advertisements, there is a comprehensive map of the city criss-crossed and circled by lines of many colors corresponding to the numbered routes. A knowledge of the language is superfluous. From the guide-book map, or better from the free map furnished by the Japan tourist bureau, which seeks to make Japanese travel delightful, one locates the place he seeks and the place where he stands. Then it is a mere matter of matching numbers and colors to any spot within the circular railway which forms the tire of the transportation wheel.

City Maps on Billboards

"This idea of placing a map of the city in the cars themselves instead of some sequestered wall around the station may rob the traveler of the cultural advantages of tempting pictures of butter and motor cars, but it makes it easy to wander from village to village within the city limits with the minimum of delay and sign language.

"The above mentioned Nihombashi is a principal business quarter of the city, although each of the wards is more independent, commercially than the various sections in most cities.

"The center of Nihombashi and of Tokio, is the bridge which in olden times was a measuring point for distances to places throughout the Empire. Formerly it was wood; it was rebuilt in 1911 of granite. It is therefore from each end of this bridge which popularly is known as 'Broadway.'

"In Nihombashi is the bank of Japan, occupying a building especially designed to be earthquake-proof. One part of the building has three stories underground for strong boxes, and this part can be flooded as protection against fire.

"In this same section of modern banks and office buildings is a Shinto shrine where charms are dispensed which are supposed to be efficacious in such diverse emergencies as shipwreck, child delivery and being the victim of a liar.

"Newspaper Row is in Kyobashi-Ku. Here are practically all the principal journals. Shiba-Ku contains the Mortuary Temples of the Tokugawa Shoguns. A concession of foreign visitors is indicated by the announcement, 'Boots need not be taken off, as covers are provided to slip over them.'

"In Azabu-Ku the American legation was located in the time of Townsend Harris. In this ward is a Buddhist temple, memento of the years before Shintoism took firm hold.

"Shintoism has been kept alive in Japan from the dawn of the empire. Tokio, as Japan's capital, became a stronghold of Shintoism because officialdom of Japan supported it ardently. Shintoism essentially is a religion of patriotism, and patriotism is the cornerstone of Empire building. Furthermore Shintoism inculcates a patriotism which pivots around the Imperial family and especially around the person of the emperor.

"Western monarchs have stopped at the claim of their 'divine right' to kingship—the idea that they are chosen of God. But Japanese emperors have gone much farther and claim that they actually are descended from the chief Shinto diety.

The Mt. Vernon of Japan

"Akasaka-Ku is notable for containing the modern Mt. Vernon of Japan, the residence of the late General Count Nogi, which is preserved by the city and is a shrine for thousands of patriotic visitors.

"Visitors to the Korakuen garden, in Koishikawa-Ku, one of the most popular landscape parks of Tokio, will recall being told how its symmetry already had been marred by destruction of some of its buildings, its pine groves and its ponds.

"In this ward also is the Koishikawa botanical garden—the popular name for the gardens attached to Tokio's imperial university. Here, in glorious profusion, are the flowers characteristic of the island—the plum, cherry, wisteria, azalea, peony, iris, lotus and crysanthemum. Here also are fine specimens of the ginkgo, camphor and jujube. Meno Park, a celebrated Tokio resort, in Shitaya-Ku, extends over more than 200 acres.

"In strolling through old Tokio, and seeing the frail bamboo and cardboard houses, one could not help considering that the introduction of western buildings greatly enhanced the danger from earthquakes—speculation now so sadly confirmed.

"For the fragile houses might be burned and often were, but could not maim their occupants under piles of mortar and stone. Fireproof warehouses were provided for groups of such buildings and when the alarm of fire was sounded the occupants carried off their valuables to these storage places. A proverb has it 'Fire is the blossom of Yedo'—using the older name to Tokio which was abandoned when the Mikado took up his residence there in 1868.

A Festoon of Volcanoes.

"Japan has had her troubles from volcanoes as well as from earthquakes. Scientists are not in complete agreement about the connection between the two.

"For reasons that geologists believe to be inherent in the very constitution of the globe, volcanoes have draped themselves in surprisingly regular festoons—like a chain of pearls caught up at intervals—down the whole Pacific coast of Asia. And of these crescent shaped strings of fire-mountains, the main island of Japan, Honshu, itself a crescent, forms the very center.

"The northernmost of the volcanic crescents even touches America, since it is composed of the Aleutian Islands, stretching from Alaska to Kamchatka. The second festoon curves from Kamchatka through the Kurile Islands to northern Japan.

"Then comes Honshu, the island on which Tokio and Tokohama are situated. These ill-fated cities lie at almost the extreme bulge of the central volcanic crescent where the island bends into the Pacific toward a very deep depression, extending perhaps 18,000 feet below sea level. This great 'trench' beside Honshu's foundations, may itself have placed the island in a rather weak structural position.

"South of the central Honshu crescent there are two other well defined volcanic festoons, one through the Lu Chu Islands to Formosa; and another from Formosa through the Philippines and Borneo into the great volcanic complex of the East Indies.

"On Japan's main island, which has approximately the area of Great Britain, there are no more than a dozen volcanoes that may be considered active and a greater number that are inactive. The closest and most important of the volcanoes near Tokio are the famous and beautiful Fujiyama, sixty miles to the southwest, which has not erupped since 1707; and Asama, ninety miles to the northwest, which constantly sends up a thin wisp of smoke, and now and then breaks out into a vigorous eruption.

"Tokio has had three particular furies of her own to harry her over and over again: pestilence, fire and earthquake. From the close of the sixteenth century when the old fishing village of Yedo blossomed into a city at the order of the ruling Shogun, these three have from time to time taken heavy toll of life, and the latter two, of property.

Previous Disasters.

"Perhaps the most terrible of the many fires that have destroyed great blocks of the inflamable houses of Tokio occurred in 1657 when 107,000 persons are said to have lost their lives in the flames. The number of palaces destroyed is placed at 500 and the residences of other nobles at more than 700, while between 200 and 400 temples were burned. The houses of common residents that went up in flames were almost beyond number and are merely suggested in the chronicles as 'enough to fill 1200 streets.' Eleven years later almost the whole of the city was again destroyed by fire. In the years since the islands were opened to the western world, the greatest fire was in 1879 when some 10,000 buildings were burned.

"The greatest epidamic in Tokio's history occurred in 1773. Nearly 200,000 people, chiefly the poorer classes, died.

"An earthquake in 1703 destroyed about 40,000 lives. The most destructive earthquake prior to the present disaster, however, was in November, 1855, two years after Perry made his historic visit with a squadron of American ships. This quake destroyed more than 14,000 dwellings and an even greater number of warehouses or 'godowns,' while the lives are estimated at more than 100,000.

"What may be classed, relatively, as a minor earthquake, visited Tokio and Tokohama, however, may be said to have led to the birth of the modern Japan.

SUNDAY MORNING TALK

In the Field.

We have seen fields so full of stumps, bushes, briers and weeds that it was almost impossible for one to make his way through them. Here lay the accumulated logs and other rubbish of long years of neglect. From them little could be gained for the sustenance of man or beast. On every stump, rotten tree trunk and scraggly bush was written the story of waste. Looking over such a field, how the heart sinks with discouragement. What possible good can ever come from a piece of land so misused?

We see the field again a few years later. Where now are the signs of neglect? Here are no dead timbers. The thorns have all passed away. Something has happened to remove the stumps and the stones. Where once was wreck and waste now we find fertile fields, sown to golden grain. Soon the master will reap a rich harvest as the result of his toil, charred and blackened logs have given away to waving wheat or tasseled corn.

Life has many a field grown up to thorns, briers and weeds. You may meet them wherever you go. Instead of gain, from every such field nothing will come but loss. Loss to the world, loss to the individual. Oh, these waste hearts. How they sting us, for we know that they exist because someone has forgotten or neglected the work God gave him to do. We know it is not his pleasure that any shall be lost. Has not he said so? Ah, yes! We know it. The thought cuts us, but the loss goes on.

Now let us put our hands in His and go bravely to those desert fields of the hear with which the earth is so thickly strewn. His is to lay out the plan; ours to carry out that plan. We look up into His face and say, perhaps through our tears "I will do what You want me to do." Then the way grows easy. It is always easy to labor when He is our Helper. See how the wasted hives respond to the touch of the divine Master of the vineyard now! Tomorrow a harvest will be gathered from this field, and we shall hear the song of the reapers as they bear home the sheaves

Stories That Recall Others

The Way It Looked to Him.

She is a flirt and he is just a bashful young man, much in love with his first girl. When he went away she promised to write him every day; She forgot her promise after the third day.

For three days there were no letters. Then came this telegram to her: "Oh, Miriam, are you sick, or have you hurt your write arm?"

Considering the spelling the girl took it as a joke, but to the serious minded fellow it was something else but that.

And He Left Whistling.

A youth entered a music store with his countenance.

An expression of bewilderment on

"Pardon me," he said to the young lady who approached, "but I would like to hear that record called 'My Sweetie Went Away.' Would you mind playing it for me."

"Certainly not," the young lady assured him.

As the strains of the song floated from the talking machine the expression of bewilderment faded and gave place to one of serene contentment, such as might appear on the face of a man who finds a misplaced bank note in his watch pocket. He held up his hand when the song was only half finished.

"That's enough," he exclaimed joyously. "I just couldn't remember that song, and it's been bothering me. But I've got it now. Thanks."

And he went out whistling.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

The Duke of Montpensier, who has been named an officer of the Legion of Honor in recognition of his work of exploration in Indo-China, is a younger brother of the Duke of Orleans, the Bourbon pretender to the throne of France. In view of the latter being without issue and the additional fact that at the present time he is in a precarious state of health, the Duke of Montpensier, who is fifteen years his junior, looms large in the public eye as the "heir apparent" to the French throne. While the Duke of Orleans has been compelled to live in exile, his brother has been permitted to reside in Paris, where he has been a popular figure with the old French aristocracy. The Duke of Montpensier was educated at the Spanish naval academy at San Fernando. Since completing his studies he has spent much time in travel and exploration in many parts of the world.

PIMPLES ITCHED AND BURNED

Hard, Large and Red. Lost Sleep. Cuticura Heals.

"I was troubled with pimples and blackheads. The pimples were hard, large and red, and were scattered all over my face. I could not sleep in peace on account of the itching and burning, and when I scratched the pimples scaled over. The trouble lasted for a year and a half.

"I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and got relief, and after using one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Ointment I was healed." (Signed) Miss Margaret C. Barope, 781 Dixwell Ave., New Haven, Conn., Jan. 16, 1923.

REPORT SATISFACTORY RESULT FROM MILK IN SCHOOLS

Better work than ever before has been done in the school nursing work in Norwich in the past year, according to the report made by the advisory committee of medical inspection of schools. One of the new plans from which very satisfactory results have been obtained was the introduction of milk in one of the schools. The first experiment was followed by introduding it in two other schools and the Laurel Hill Parent Teachers' association placed it in that school.

The committee, which consists of Mrs. W. K. Tingley, School Superintendent E. J. Graham, and Mrs. Ada R. Chase, secretary, co-operating with the town health officer, Dr. E. J. Brophy, makes the following report:

Each year has seen some improvement in the school nursing work in Norwich, but it seems to the committee that a greater gain than usual has been made this year. The advice of Miss Stark, chief of the state bureau of public health nursing, was sought and after a thorough survey of Norwich her suggestions were listed and have been followed closely with great benefit to the work. The nurses have also made visits to other cities where the problems were similar to ours.

Conforming to the requirements of the state board of education, all the children have been examined by a competent physician and where defects were found they have been reported to the home. The two most prevalent disorders, pediculosis and impetigo are being controlled and in some schools have disappeared. This calls for close watching by the nurses and home visits of advice. Each of the twenty-four schools is visited weekly by the nurses and as the children pass before her, throats are looked at, heads examined and any unusual condition noted. Children absent five days must have a certificate before returning either from their own physician or from the health officer. This year for the greater convenience of the parents the nurses issue these certificates and are at the office daily from one to one-thirty.

The children have been weighed during the past year bi-monthly. Instruction in talks have been given in the class rooms to teach proper habits in food, rest, sleep, cleanliness and in the care of the teeth. For the latter a dental hygienist has been giving daily tooth brush drills and talks and has cleaned all the teeth of the children of the second and third grades.

Early in the year it was felt wise to introduce milk into one of the schools as an experiment and the necessary funds were voted by the tuberculosis Christmas seal committee and such an experiment was made in the Falls. It was immediately felt to be such a success that it was tried in the West Thames Street school and through the interest of the Rock Nook Home committee of the United Workers it was started in the West Town Street school. The Parent Teachers' association placed it in the Laurel Hill school so four schools made the experiment with most gratifying results. A great gain in weight was made, a more alert child was noted by the teachers and a surprisingly large proportion of the milk was paid for by the parents. Children were taught to like milk who never liked it before and it is hoped to extend this plan next year.

During the summer vacation, forty cases of adenoids and tonsils were taken to the Backus hospital for operations, the school nurses staying with the patient over night. This was partly paid for by our department and partly by the families. One hundred dental cases were attended to in a similar way and it is hoped that this clean up work will mean a great improvement in the general habit of the children. The hospital has been most generous in every way and has co-operated splendidly.

Through the generosity of the Red Cross a new and more efficient type of car, a Ford coupe, was bought and has been of great service in all kinds of weather and road conditions. Another is needed badly, for when one thinks of twenty-four schools scattered through an area of twenty-nine square miles it is easy to see what a loss of nursing time occurs in following the trolley schedules.

Instead of buying posters showing health ideas as first planned the children were encouraged to make them through the interest of the teachers very attractive and instructive ones were made and hung in the rooms.

In all between 5,500 and 6,000 children were under observation. The nurses have been indefatigable in teaching them about the prevention of disease, and how to keep healthy, and have brought to the attention of parents any defects in need of correction.

In closing this brief report the committee hopes that it has made clear how much has been accomplished and how much there is to do to give each child the physical well being necessary for happiness and success.

CASPER K. BAILEY WILL BE NEXT TO SERVE NORWICH AS POSTMASTER

CASPER K. BAILEY

Congressman Richard P. Freeman of the second congressional district, has recommended First Selectman Casper K. Bailey for postmaster at the Norwich post office as successor to John P. Murphy whose term expired Monday of this week. Mr. Bailey received the following letter from Congressman Freeman Friday morning:

Mr. Casper K. Bailey,
Norwich, Conn.

Dear Sir: The civil service commission has certified that you are eligible for appointment to the postmastership of Norwich, and as I am satisfied that it will be to the best interests of the citizens of Norwich to have you serve them in that capacity I take pleasure in telling you that I have this day recommended your appointment.

Yours very sincerely,
RICHARD P. FREEMAN.
Second District, Connecticut.

The recommendation made by Congressman Freeman goes to the first assistant postmaster general through regular channels for his approval and then is transmitted to the president, who makes the appointment. Congress not now being in session this will be what is known as a recess appointment. It must be confirmed by the senate when that body is in session later.

It is expected that action will be prompt in the matter. As soon as presidential approval is secured Mr. Bailey will take the oath and assume office without waiting for the confirmation of the senate. Should the senate for any reason not confirm the recommendation the incumbent would not draw any salary during his period of service. However, a congressman's recommendation for postmastership is equivalent to appointment and confirmation by the senate is a matter of course.

Born in Preston, September 23, 1874, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Perry L. Bailey, Mr. Bailey received his education in the public schools of Norwich, then shared the work of the farm with his father for a number of years. At length deciding to go into business for himself, he took the line for which his work best fitted him, and established a livery stable in Norwich, doing in connection with it a great deal of general contracting. He made the start in 1895, and from the beginning was very successful. With the advent of the automobile, and its constantly increasing popularity, the livery business became less important, but the rapid growth of the city made the contracting branch constantly develop and broaden out until it became of the much greater importance and a very profitable interest. In 1918 Mr. Bailey sold out the entire business, as other matters demanded his attention.

Mr. Bailey has always been affiliated with the republican party and is a loyal worker for the party interests. In 1913 he was elected a member of the court of common council for a term of two years. He served as alderman in 1916-1917 and since 1915 has served the town as first selectman for four terms.

Mr. Bailey is a member of Norwich lodge, No. 430, B. P. O. E.; of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, Shetucket Lodge, No. 27; of the Knights of Pythias, of the Loyal Order of Moose, No. 950; of the Ancient Free and Accepted Masons, Somerset Lodge, No. 34, Franklin Chapter, No. 3; Franklin Council, No. 4, and of the Arcanum club and the Rotary club of Norwich.

Mr. and Mrs. Bailey have one son, Casper K., Jr., born in Norwich. Mrs. Bailey before her marriage was Faith Munroe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Munroe of Norwich. The family are attendants at the First Congregational church of Norwich Town.

Charles Coit and Charles A. Hagberg, the other two candidates who qualified as eligible for the appointment received letters Friday from Congressman Freeman expressing regret his inability to select them for recommendation.

EIGHT MONTHS IN JAIL ON BLACKMAIL CHARGE

Cecil Delmar, a negro, of Groton, pleaded guilty in the superior court here Friday morning to the charge of blackmailing Grace Fauntroy of Groton on July 25. A nolle was entered in the case of Mrs. Sarah Delmar, accused with Cecil. Judge Allyn L. Brown gave the man a sentence of 8 months in jail.

It was charged that the blackmail attempt was made through the following letter sent to the Groton woman:

Grace Fauntroy: Probably you will be surprised to learn of our knowledge in your illicit undertakings. We have reliable information concerning your house and of your dispensing with intoxicating drinks, also operating a confectionery stand without aid of licensed permit.

This information is from a reliable source. It is useless for you to take any steps in your defense otherwise than complying with our request. Accede to our demand of fifty dollars immediately. This is for your protection. Within a period of twelve hours if you do not comply with our wishes a warrant will be issued for the searching of your house.

Your house will be ransacked and every illegal appearing article will be confiscated also a summons before the magistrate. At present your premises are under surveillance by a very responsible personage. Now you have marked money in your possession. Do not go contrary to this request, or Daniel Cronin will pay you a visit, the prosecuting attorney of N. L. Any attempt on your part to repulse this act will be disastrous. We already have evidence enough in our possession to convict you for the violation of the Volstead Law. In your own behalf answer immediately.

Don't send money order or registered letter. If you fail the results will be fatal. Don't delay but send at once to avoid a raid by revenue men. Find envelope enclosed for return of money. Will expect answer on same day you receive this notice.

P. S.: Send $50.00 in currency in no more than 8 bills.

WILL APPOINT DELEGATES TO K. D. STATE CONVENTION

At the September meeting of Home chapter of the King's Daughters, held this week at the Johnson home, there was an attendance of 45 members. The leader, Mrs. John C. Atterbury, presided. Mrs. Williams, chairman of the committee appointed to have charge of caning the dining room chairs at the home, reported that the work had been completed. Mrs. Atterbury made an appeal to the members to contribute soft cotton cloth and pieces of linen to Backus hospital. A vote was taken to contribute to the Japanese relief fund. Nov. 25th will be Home chapter day at the hospital for the entertainment of the patients.

It was voted to have the leader appoint the 13 delegates to the 27th annual convention of the International Order of King's Daughters and Sons, Tuesday and Wednesday, Oct. 9 and 10, at the Church of the Redeemer, Hartford. All members, whether or not delegates, will be privileged to attend. Miss Florence Yarrow of Honolulu is to give an address on What the Order Means at the Crossroads of the Pacific. There also will be an address by Rev. Rockwell Harmon Potter, D. D.

WALTER COE STRICKEN BY SHOCK AT MIDWAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Sept. 14.—Walter H. Coe, 26 Bayonet street, employed by the New Haven railroad at Midway as engine despatcher, suffered a shock while in Midway yard engine office this evening and is under treatment at Home Memorial hospital. Mr. Coe's condition is not considered grave, but his right side is partially affected. He was stricken while in the performance of his duties and medical aid was summoned, a Groton physician responding. An examination revealed partial paralysis of the lower right side of the body and leg.

AUTOMOBILE THIEF TO HEAR SENTENCE WEDNESDAY

Charged with theft of a $5,000 Cadillac automobile from the corner of Green and Golden streets, in New London, last July, Gus Corey of that city was on trial in the superior court here Friday before Judge Allyn L. Brown. The evidence and the attorneys' arguments in the case were finished, but Judge Brown deferred passing sentence until next Wednesday, in order that Corey may have a chance to produce an honorable discharge from the army which he says he has.

The car stolen was the property of Simon N. Atkins of Hartford, a summer resident at Ocean Beach, who had left his car at the corner of Green and Golden streets while he was attending the theatre. Mr. Atkins was the first witness and was followed by Miss Estelle F. Hartman of Hartford, who told of seeing Corey driving the Atkins car in State street. Corey told her he got the car from a man who ran away.

Miss Delphine Kohn corroborated Miss Hartman and said Corey gave the name of James Smith.

Police Sergeant Hick testified to the arrest of Corey after chasing him into an alley. Corey said to the officer: "This is what you get for trying to accommodate a fellow."

Corey's testimony in his own defense was that a man whom he knew as Harry proposed to take the Atkins car for a ride when they saw it standing by the sidewalk. The man got in, unlocked the transmission, backed the car out and went up the street. Three men, including Corey, jumped on the running board and the driver ran the car three blocks up the street. Harry jumped out and Corey said that he got in to drive the car back. He couldn't turn the car around as he didn't know the shift in a Cadillac and was going around the block when he was caught. The witness said that he "had cold feet," so he gave a false name and ran.

Corey was taken back to jail when court adjourned for the day.

DIVISION CHAIRMEN IN BACKUS HOSPITAL CAMPAIGN

Philip A. Johnson and Mrs. Allyn L. Brown will be chairmen respectively of the men's and of the women's divisions in the Backus hospital $250,000 public appeal to be held next month, it was announced at campaign headquarters Friday evening. The organization plans for Norwich call for forty teams of volunteer workers, twenty of men and twenty of women, and these teams will be distributed in groups of five under the leadership of eight commanders.

Outside of Norwich, it was announced, a neighborhood division will direct the organization of local town committees in chief towns dependent upon Backus hospital for service. Ten of the neighborhood towns, it is expected, will have independent campaign committees.

Mr. Johnson and Mrs. Brown, in accepting their chairmanships, issued statements in which they gave their reasons for accepting these important tasks and for believing that the appeal for the nurses' home, for supplementary endowment, and for other hospital needs, would meet with generous public response.

Mrs. Brown's Statement.

"To help marshal the working organization of women for our hospital appeal," said Mrs. Brown, "will be the most important and most appealing community work that I have ever undertaken. Every man, woman and child in the territory served by Backus hospital must be assured that the very best and most complete hospital care shall be provided when the need comes, and I feel deeply that the women of our community, particularly are under obligation to make the success of this movement certain.

"There are many reasons why women are especially concerned that hospital service should be maintained at the peak of efficiency. The care of the sick has always been the special work of women. This is recognized by the fact that the hospital nurse stands in the public mind as a symbol of devotion to the care of the sick and the injured.

"When hospitals first were instituted and before nursing was an organized profession, practically the only attendants for the sick were men. Soon the men began to be displaced by women nurses, till now the woman nurse remains alone.

"In this appeal of ours the women are especially interested for the reason that the movement is principally to maintain the integrity and high standards of nursing by providing for our nurses suitable accommodations in a separate building that will form a vital part of the hospital group. To build this new nurses' home will mean not only giving our student nurses proper opportunities for training, but it will round out and complete our hospital service as a whole.

"More and more our hospital is devoting its care to mothers and children. Our appeal will make it possible to add to the accommodations at the hospital for maternity service. And this is another reason why the women of our community feel so strongly that no effort is too great on our part to carry this campaign through successfully.

"As women, we are proud of the records that have been made in many other hospital appeals. These records show that the women's organizations have often brought in a larger volume of subscriptions than have the men's. In Westerly the women's division, all by itself, brought in the entire amount that was originally sought for the new hospital.

"These facts will, I am sure, be a challenge to us here. With the help of the women leaders and workers whom I shall invite to join with me in this effort, I am confident that the women of the Norwich hospital territory will live up to the tradition."

Mr. Johnson Glad to Work.

"I am glad to accept the position of chairman of the men's division in the Backus hospital campaign," said Mr. Johnson in his statement, "because I believe that there is no other form of community service that has a stronger appeal than has the maintenance of hospital care. It makes no difference whether we regard the support of our hospital as a form of health insurance, or whether we regard it as a means of protecting others who may need, but who may not be able to provide, the service. The support of our hospital is, in my judgment, the very best sort of investment.

"Sometimes we get in the habit of thinking that all we have to do when we need hospital care is to go to the hospital and pay the rates charged there. But as soon as one thinks of it at all, one realizes that the rates that the patient pays are barely sufficient in any case, and very often are not nearly sufficent, even to pay for the cost of service. Rates do not build a hospital and rates do not maintain a hospital.

"As a matter of fact, no one is justified in expecting to find a place in Backus hospital when he needs it, or in any other hospital, unless he has first contributed to establish the hospital and to support it.

"This is true of every community. The force of the facts is all the greater here because we have never had to do anything ourselves to create or continue the hospital service that we have been using for more than thirty years. We have never had to go out and get the money to put up buildings or to pay the cost of operation. All this was done for us by others—by William W. Backus and William A. Slater, who by their benevolence established the whole thing, from the site on which the hospital was built to the large endowment fund which, until recent years, yielded an income sufficient to carry on the work they had founded.

"It seems to me that we owe a certain obligation to those who made possible for us the splendid hospital service that we have enjoyed. Surely we owe it to ourselves to see to it that no failure of ours shall permit the standard of service to deteriorate. We are going to need Backus hospital more than ever we have needed it before. It is our hospital, although as yet we have done nextto nothing for it, while it has done everything for us.

"We need a new nurses' home and a maintenance fund to support it; we need increased general endowment to carry the cost of steadily expanding service, and we need certain better facilities that will enable the management to economize in the cost of operation. These needs are our opportunity, an opportunity for self-help.

"I believe that the people of Norwich and the entire Backus hospital community will meet the emergency in the fine spirit that has carried them over the top in every previous campaign, and I am happy to do my part to the best of my ability."

Work Proceeding Satisfactorily.

James L. Case, chairman of the campaign executive committee and campaign leader, said Friday that the building up of committees for the campaign was going forward satisfactorily. He emphasized once more that no appeal for subscriptions toward the Backus hospital service fund would be sought by the volunteer workers until the formal opening of the campaign, which will be at a dinner on October 19th, at which the entire organization will meet for definite instructions. At that time, the workers will receive the pledge cards bearing the names of those prospective subscribers they themselves have chosen to call upon in the appeal.

GREATEST FIGHT CROWD BEFORE BULLETIN BUILDING

Franklin street in front of the Bulletin building and for a couple of hundred feet to the north and south, was a milling mass of humanity Friday night to hear the returns from the Dempsey-Firpo fight. It was the greatest crowd of any kind in Norwich that has ever hung on the booming voice of Steve Coffey as he announced through the megapone the terrific battle of the gladiators at the Polo grounds in New York.

Both curbs were lined with automobiles, while the crowd on foot, estimated at from 3,000 to 4,000, was wedged in as close as they could stand for the whole width of the street, from thte walls of the buildings on one side to those on the other. Capt. D. J. Twomey had the traffic situation handled by sending policemen to Bath street and Willow street to divert automobiles from Franklin street and also stationed an officer in front of the Building.

In the midst of the excitement one or two trolley cars made their way through the crowd, an inch at a time, and at each passage of a car a wild scramble followed to close in behind it for an advantageous position in the middle of the street. The edges of the crowd surged together like the waves of the ocean, almost carrying men off their feet but they were packed in too tightly to fall.

The crowd was for Dempsey, shouting themselves hoarse at the battle he was making, but cheering almost as loudly when Firpo landed his two crashing blows at the end of the first round.

Fight Returns By Radio

George Heroux and Norman Soules had their radio, with amplifier rigged up Friday night to give outdoor returns of the Dempsey-Firpo fight which was done to the satisfaction of a crowd of about 500 at the corner of Twelfth street and Central avenue.

Tanlac Was a Revelation Says Roxbury Citizen

WALTER E. NEWCOMB

"Tanlac is wonderful and I can't begin to tell how I appreciate what it has done for me," says Walter E. Newcomb, 5 Marshfield Street, Roxbury, Mass.

"When I began taking Tanlac I was simply a nervous wreck and completely broken down. I couldn't sleep and eating was just about out of the question. I went down from 156 to 128 pounds in no time. Actually, I was so weak, nervous and irritable I couldn't stand the chatter of our little son.

"Finally my wife took matters in her own hands, got me some Tanlac, and it has been a revelation to me. I have taken only three bottles and am now physically fit as I ever was. I will stand by Tanlac as long as I live."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.

HUGE CROWD BATTLES FOR TICKETS TO SEE DEMPSEY-FIRPO FIGHT

New York, Sept. 14—(By the A. P.)—Mounted police were called on to quell a small sized riot that broke out on the viaduct approaching the Polo grounds, scene of the Dempsey-Firpo fight. Several hundred fans attempted to charge the police lines, but were dispersed after a lively encounter in which clubs were used freely.

The crowd at this sector of the battle-ground area numbered several thousand and it took a few minutes for the mounted police, aided, by hastily summoned reinforcements, to regain control of the situation. Lines were tightened after this episode and none without tickets were allowed within several blocks of the arena.

From mid-afternoon, it was bedlam outside the park.

The trouble started on eighth avenue two blocks from the entrance to the grounds, where the main line began to form at dawn. At 4.15 p. m. a rumor spread that the tickets had arrived and the restless standees began rioting. The line was shattered in the twinkling of an eye and soon a solid block of people was massed around the wagon supposed to be bearing the tickets.

Mounted police charged driving their horses into the crowd and bluecoats wielded their clubs in a frantic attempt to form a line. When some semblance of order had been restored, those who had stood at the head of the line were at the foot. Among these unfortunates was the woman who was the first to take a place.

She and thousands of others were battered and bruised in this and ensuing riots. When the pasteboards finally arrived, the crowd again broke and the police were powerless to withstand it. The pressure around the wagon became so great that it began to totter and it was moved another block with the thousands running after it, pulling coat tails and pummelling one another.

The ticket venders grabbed a handful of bills here and passed back a ticket there, and the payee was lucky if his hand was found in the melee. Several "strong men" made a financial killing, weaving back through the crowd, getting a ticket and taking it to the outer edge, where they disposed of it at big profits.

Hundreds of men lost hats, had their clothing torn to shreds, lost their jewelry and money and were battered and bruised before they gave up the struggle and left for home. Others fought on, moving with the wagon each time it moved. Smiling, grimy faces came peering out of the crowd, followed by a burrowing pair of shoulders and two hands holding desperately to a ticket.

Then a second wagon was rigged on Coogan's bluff, but before a taxi escorted by mounted policemen could arrive, its sides were battered down. When the ticket seller came his taxi was stormed and the mounted police were forced to charge and recharge.

The ticket man, fearing for his bag of "ducats," ran into a neighboring restaurant where several hundred had been enjoying dinner and watching the spectable outside. Behind him came the stream of pursuers, smashing the doors and upsetting tables. For five minutes they battled the police and those inside formed a line and began to emerge with tickets dispensed from the restaurant cashier's stand.

Down below the bluff, beneath the viaduct that connected the hill with the grounds, the majority of the police was concentrated and there was better order. But everywhere were milling thousands, imploring policemen for help in getting tickets, walking about with sheafs of green and yellow backs in their hands, hatless, coatless, but determined to get in.

Police estimated that between 25,000 and 50,000 were battling each other around the four walls of the arena trying to get tickets.

When a taxi cab came dashing up, someone invariably shouted "here comes Dempsey!" or "here's Firpo," and immediately half a dozen men clamped on the running boards, hanging on to the spare tires behind, peering inside to get at least one fleeting glimpse of the supposed principals. No matter how many times the shouts were made there were eager scores to attack the next automobile.

Just inside the gates there was better order. At least but patrolmen were underneath the stands, "waiting for something to turn up."

"I THOUGHT MY FINISH HAD COME," SAYS DEMPSEY

Ringside, Polo Grounds, Sept. 14 (By the A. P.)—Jack Dempsey admitted tonight after his victory with Luis Angel Firpo that he never had received such a socking in his life.

"I won as I thought I would," said Jack, "but I can truthfully say that I never had such a fight in all my life. When he socked me on the chin in the first round, knocking me through the ropes after I had knocked him down I thought my finish had come.

"Those who told me that Firpo could be a soft mark certainly were talking through their hats. After he slammed me with that first right, I knew that I had a fight on my hands. Firpo is dangerous every second. I hit him with everything I had and certainly was surprised when he continued to crawl off the floor.

"He is game and the hardest puncher I ever faced. It was the first time I was knocked down since I became champion and I'll never forget it. I saw eight million stars when I got that punch on the chin that knocked me out of the ring."

FIRPO HAS LITTLE TO SAY ABOUT DEFEAT

Ringside, Polo Grounds, Sept. 14 (By the A. P.)—Luis Angel Firpo was as silent and sombre in defeat tonight as he had been in his moments of greatest victory. He sat in his dressing room after the bout in an apparent daze, unable to realize the swiftness with which he had been beaten.

At first he refused to talk but after a moment, he mumbled:

"I did the best I could. Dempsey was the better man. I never have felt such blows as he gave me."

Horatio LaValle, the dapper little trainer who came from the Argentine to direct Firpo's championship battle, also had little to say.

"We are proud of Firpo in defeat as much as we would have been had he won," said LaValle. "He gave his best courageously, but it was not good enough. But he went down like a true fighter."

TIGERS STAGE RALLY IN EIGHTH AND WIN

BURNS TRIPLE PLAY FEATURES RED SOX VICTORY

Boston, Sept. 14—A triple play unassisted by George Burns, Boston first baseman, occurred in the second inning of the Boston-Cleveland game here today which the home club won, 4 to 3, in 12 innings. Stephenson opened the second with a single to center, Lutzke walked. Brower's liner was caught by Burns who reached out and tagged Lutzke on the base line. Stephenson was well on his way to third and Burns dashed to second and slid into it a few feet ahead of Stephenson, thereby completing the triple play, the fourth in big league history. The winning run in the 12th resulted from pinch hitter Devormer's double, an intentional pass to Harris, Shanks' sacrifice hit on which Lutzke made a bad throw, filling the bases and Flagstead's single to left on the first ball pitched by relief pitcher Morton, which scored two runs. ### LUQUE REGISTERS ANOTHER AND REDS SPLIT EVEN Cincinnati, Ohio, Sept. 14—Luque registered his twenty-fourth victory of the season when Cincinnati defeated Boston, 9 to 1 in the first game of today's double header, but Boston secured an even break on the day when Barnes shut out the Reds, four to nothing in the second game. Luque allowed only four hits, while Oeschger was knocked out of the box in the third inning.

In the second game, the Reds made eleven hits, but were unable to score a single run. The Braves bunched four safeties with a pass in the fifth and scored three runs. Shortstop Smith of the Braves was spiked in the first game and Bohne of the Reds received a similar injury in the second. The score:

WHITE SOX DOWN YANKS IN LISTLESS GAME

New York, Sept. 14—The Chicago White Sox today won the next to the final game with the Yankees by a score of 7 to 6. This is the first time the Yankees have met defeat since Ehmke shut them out with one hit when the Red Sox were here. It was a listless game. Most of the 15,000 fans present were prepared for an early jump to the Polo Grounds, nearby in readiness for the heavyweight championship fight tonight. Score:

TILDEN AND JOHNSTON TO BATTLE FOR TENNIS SINGLES TITLE THIS AFTERNOON

Germantown Cricket Club, Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 14—(By the A. P.)—For the second successive year William T. Tilden, 2nd, of Philadelphia, champion of the United States, and William M. Johnston, the little San Francisco star, are finalists for the lawn tennis singles title to be decided tomorrow.

Tilden reached the final round this afternoon by virtue of his easy victory over Brian I. C. Norton, the South African champion, last survivor of a big field of foreign players who began the forty-second annual championships last Monday. The scores were 6-3, 7-5, 6-2.

Johnston came through in the lower bracket by decisively defeating Francis T. Hunter, of New Rochelle, N. Y., the player who has been cutting a sensational swath by his victories over La Coste, French star, and Vincent Richards, Davis cup player. Johnston's triumph also came in straight sets by scores of 6-4, 6-2, 7-5.

The finals assume the aspect of a world's championship match, for Johnston holds that title through his sweeping victory in the tournament at Wimbledon, England, early in the summer. A year ago Tilden in the final with Johnston scored a spectacular victory for the title in a five set match.

Attention Harddigs.

Before closing the baseball season the Daredevils of Taftville would like to arrange a game with the Harddigs of Norwich to be played on the Providence street grounds this afternoon. Call 753-12.

RIVERVIEW VS VELVETMEN TODAY AT HOSPITAL

The second game of the series between the Riverview club of the Norwich State Hospital and the J. B. Martin club of Taftville will be played at the State Hospital today. The Taftville club won the first game and are out to make a clean sweep of the series. They have engaged two first class twirlers for the week-end games. Fisher or Parker will take the mound against the Riverview club, Welsh will be on the receiving end of the battery. Joubert 1b, Parker 2b, Deecelles ss, and F. Gley 3b completes the infield. The outfield will be taken care of by W. Gley, lf, E. Murphy cf, and Germaine rf.

Tony West will be on the mound for the Riverview club and is out to take the measure of this Taftville organization. Billy Reddy will be on the receiving end of the battery. Couillard 1b, Burns 2b, Moore ss and Mills 3b completed the infield. Jack Clabby, Walsh and Schaffrick will take care of the outer pastures.

The game is scheduled to start at 2.45 (daylight saving time).

Zemke will officiate.

SOUTH MANCHESTER COMING DOWN WITH A STRONG TEAM

The South Manchester baseball club will appear at the Norwich Fairgrounds on Sunday with the strongest team that the silktown can produce in an effort to take the third and deciding game of the series with Bill O'Leary's Norwich team. Thompson, who has been the pitching star for the Manchester team this season, will be in the box with Lamprecht on the receiving end. The remainder of the lineup will be the same as played here earlier in the season.

Eddie Boyce will pitch for Norwich and Bill Reddy will catch for the Norwich club. An attractive addition to the Norwich club will be Dave Canzel, former Three I league outfield, who will play left. The remainder of the team will be the same as played last Sunday.

VELVETMEN TO PLAY ROCKVILLE AND RIVERVIEW

The J. B. Martin team will take on the Riverview club and the Rockville team over the week-ends, and the manager is confident of taking both games. Today the second game with the Riverview club will be played at the State Hospital and on Sunday Rockville will play at the J. B. Martin diamond.

The Velvetmen have been practicing during the past week and are in the best trim of any time during the season. The game today is a very important one for the Martin team and every effort will be made to take this game and close the series. On Sunday they will be opposed by a strong team and will be forced to extend themselves to their fullest extent to win.

PLAINFIELD

Prof. and Mrs. Samuel Warner left Tuesday for Boston on their way to Eugene, Ore., where Mr. Warner will again take up his duties after a year's absence. During this sabbatical year Mr. Warner has been engaged at Harvard in research work along the lines of criminology and during the summer he visited many of the penal institutions of the east. He has prepared an address as a result of his exhaustive study which he will give later. During the year Mr. and Mrs. Warren have often been in Plainfield, guests of the latter's parents, Dr. and Mrs. William K. Wilson.

The Ladies' Aid society held a special meeting in the Congregational vestry Friday afternoon to tie quilts.

Miss Edna Abbott of Pawtucket is a guest of Miss Alice Burby.

The M. M. club spent a very enjoyable evening with one of their members, Mrs. John Kingsley, Thursday evening.

Raphael Seney has just returned from a hospital in Worcester where he underwent an operation. He has not fully recovered.

Ralph Veit left this week for Galesburg, Ill., to enter Knox college. On his way out Mr. Veit is planning to visit Rev. Arthur W. Barwick, former pastor at Plainfield, at Sterling, Ill. Mr. Veit finished his college preparation last year at Mendon, Ill.

After a recent visit at the home of John Inglis, Mrs. Thomas Shea returned to Fall River, Mass., her daughter Helen accompanying her.

Rev. and Mrs. William J. Reynolds of Lisbon were guests this week at the Congregational parsonage.

NEW LONDON'S FIRST CITY MANAGER ENDS TERM OF SERVICE TODAY

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, Sept. 14—Mrs. Frederick Sherman and infant of Howard street, Arthur Fitchley, Masonic street and Miss Catherine McElrey of Colchester, were patients discharged today at Lawrence hospital.

The funeral of Stella J., widow of William Bush, was held this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock at the residence of Mrs. Bush's daughter, Mrs. Samuel Rogers of Niantic, conducted the services. Burial was in Flanders cemetery.

William T. Goode, employed as a truck driver by the Central Coal Company who was arrested a week ago by a state police officer, charged with reckless driving of his truck at Quaker Hill, was presented before Justice of the Peace Thomas F. Morton at Waterford last night. The case was nolled upon Goode paying the costs of court.

Funeral services for Ernest Newcomb were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at his residence, 26 Harrison street, Rev. Myron E. Genter, pastor of the Methodist church, officiating. Burial was in Jordan cemetery, where the committal service was conducted by the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

The police today received complaint because of the operations of mischievous youths who last night destroyed several windows at the Saunders Grain store, corner Mill and Winthrop streets.

Dennis Driscoll, a sailor attached to the U. S. S. Savannah, at anchor in the lower harbor, went to the Star restaurant on State street late last night and became so boisterous that he collided with an orangeade cooler, knocking it to the tile floor and demolishing it. This morning Max Fern proprietor of the restaurant, visited the police station. He desired that a police officer accompany him to the Savannah and aid him in collecting damages. The police some time ago abandoned their activity in collecting bills for complainants who did not desire the offending party prosecuted, but simply to secure the collection of an alleged bill, the police advised Fern to go to the craft and consult Driscoll and if the sailor refused to pay for the damage done Fern could consult the prosecuting attorney for the purpose of taking legal action against Driscoll.

State Policeman Thomas Henry today arrested George Lepiori, of Westerly, charged with perjury in making false statements in procuring an automobile operator's license. Lepiori furnished a surety on his bond of $500 for appearance in the police court, tomorrow morning. In seeking the issue of his license Lepiori is alleged to have given a fictitious address, also denied that he had ever been arrested, when in reality he had been prosecuted for fast driving of an automobile.

Patsy Tomeo and Georgiana Allard (Norwich) residing at Narragansett Pier, were arrested on the New London line steamer Chester W. Chapin here last night at the request of Sheriff John R. Wilcox, of Narragansett Pier; the couple had come to New London by rail and were found aboard the steamer a short time before it started by Motorcycle Officer William Babcock, it is understood that the couple are wanted on a theft charge. Sheriff Wilcox escorted them back to Narragansett Pier today.

Frederick W. Mercer and daughter Miss Eleanor Mercer and Dr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Keeler will leave Saturday morning for the White Mountains, to remain a week or ten days.

Mrs. Frank Chappell has returned having spent a fortnight in Canada.

Miss May Chute and Mrs. Bessie Beebe of Pacific street are entertaining their mother, Mrs. Richard Chute of Greenport, L. I.

Mrs. George Owens of Jersey City, N. J., is visiting Mrs. J. B. Getchell.

Mrs. Charles Guthrie has closed her summer home at the Pequot and is now at another estate owned by her on Long Island, where she will remain several weeks before taking up her residence in New York for the winter.

Mrs. Arthur J. Klem of Quaker Hill is entertaining her sister, Miss Mary Gallagher of Syracuse, N. Y.

Robert S. Gardner, Chester A. Beckley and Harold Hull, employes of the Merritt-Chapman-Scott Wrecking Co., in New London and New York, have been transferred to San Pedro, Calif. Messrs. Gardner, Beckley and Hull have already left for the coast, the families of Mr. Hull and Mr. Beckley accompanying their husbands.

Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Fountain have returned to New York having spent several weeks as guests of Mrs. Otis K. Dimock.

An automobile owned and operated by Thomas G. Whipple of Groton and a machine owned and driven by Morris Wein, 25 Moore avenue, were in collision on Shaw street this afternoon. Both cars were damaged.

Commissioner Stoeckel has caused the operator's license of Joseph Lenszo, 112 Home street, to be suspended.

Herbert William Green, who says he resides at 2807 Hamilton Parkway, Brooklyn, N. Y., is under arrest on a technical charge of operating an automobile without an operator's license or registration. In default of a surety on a bond, he was locked up to await a hearing in the police court tomorrow morning. Although Green is held on a charge answerable before the local court, he was arrested at the request of the police of Providence, stating that a Ford sedan had been stolen from the latter city. This afternoon shortly after 1 o'clock Traffic Officer Frank Linehan, on duty at the corner of State and Main streets, observed a Ford sedan approaching and observing the markers noted that the car was that wanted by the Providence police. Stopping the machine, Linehan asked the operator to show his license and registration and when he failed to have either he was taken into custody. At the police station Green declared that he had purchased the machine from a Providence woman and was driving it to his home.

Among the sporting fraternity to witness the bout in New York from this city were former Alderman Henry C. Chappell, Boxing Commissioner Thomas E. Donohue, James Keating, John H. James, Frank Freeman, James Kirby, Edward O'Conner, Edward Connell and Arthur May.

This afternoon Deputy United States Marshal Marsh of New Haven came to New London with a warrant for James Romano's arrest. Romano, who is employed as a driver by a laundry company, was not to be found and as the officer was anxious to leave the city he requested the New London police to handle the matter for him. Romano was found during the afternoon by Detective Sergeant Charles Hammond and was summoned to appear before the United States district court in Hartford Monday next. Romano stated he would be in Hartford as ordered and that he would be accompanied by a bondsman. Romano was arrested in July when several New London police officers were going to their homes about 3.30 o'clock in the morning. The officers had information that liquor was being landed in the creek in the rear of the Babcock Printing Press Manufacturing company's plant from time to time and started to walk to that location. They saw a quantity of cases and cans being transferred from a boat to an automobile and found Romano beside the automobile and a quantity of the booze in his machine. He was taken into custody and when presented in the police court was fined $200 for violation of the liquor law.

The funeral of John J. Maloney, 28 Stony Hill, was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church, where a solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. John J. McGrath, with Rev. Timothy M. Crowley deacon and Rev. Alexander C. Wollschlaeger sub-deacon. The bearers were Donald Sullivan, William Fox, James Dewire, Richard Walsh, Joseph Sullivan and Philip Sullivan. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, where the committal service was read by Father McGrath.

At a meeting of the officers' association of New London fire department held last evening in the Konomoc Hose company's house, ex-Chief John Stanners was tendered a testimonial, the association presenting him $100 in gold. The presentation was made by City Manager-elect William A. Holt, who referred to the faithful and efficient service rendered the city by the ex-chief, connected with the department 45 years and for 25 years its chief.

As a result of information obtained by Prosecuting Attorney Daniel M. Cronin and it is understood, furnished by two Hartford "stool pigeons" Joseph Gentilella, proprietor of a small restaurant, 414 Bank street and Joseph Pizello, 17 Shaw street, were arrested this afternoon by Detective Sergeant Charles Hammond, charged with violation of the liquor law. Both Gentilella and Pizello were released upon furnishing a bond of $700. Joseph Gentilella, brother of Rocco Gentilella, became surety on both bonds.

Thomas F. Morton, acting as a citizen and not as a justice of the peace in the town of Waterford, today filed formal complaint with Commissioner Robbins B. Stoeckel because of the constant overcrowding of the buses of the Shore Line Electric Railway company operated between Keeney's corner and Jordan village. Mr. Morton declared that not only is the service unsatisfactory but because of overcrowding the buses but the schedule is not at all accommodating for the children who attend Jordan school. He declared that one of the buses arrives at the school at 8.15 o'clock and because of the school janitor not opening the building until close to 9 o'clock the children are compelled to wait outside the building in all kinds of weather. Mr. Morton stated that the town of Waterford pays the Shore Line Electric company an annual fee of $3,900 for the transportation of the school children and while the town considers the compensation ample, the complainant declares the service extremely unsatisfactory.

The police have been unable to obtain any tangible clue that might reveal the party guilty of placing the four weeks' old baby at the entrance to the home of Mrs. Charles Antis, No. 10 Truman street, yesterday afternoon. At Lawrence hospital, to which institution the infant was taken two hours after it was found crying on the Montauk avenue doorstep it is stated that the baby is thriving.

City Manager James E. Barlow will terminate his duties as the city's administrative head tomorrow noon, having tendered his resignation to become effective the 15th inst. William A. Holt, who was elected as a successor to Mr. Barlow recently, will assume the duties of the office Monday next.

Notwithstanding the fact that every facility afforded the police and the federal agents for the enforcement of the prohibition law will be resorted to to drive liquor sellers and makers out of business there are arrests made almost every day among the men who have been suspects or actually detected in the illegal business. These men seem aware of the fact that they are watched, but harbor the idea that they cannot be detected, or if they are found out that they will get some sort of immunity because they have large families or are not possessed of more than enough to keep body and soul intact. It is said that the illicit business is not alone followed by men, but that women have become engaged in selling liquor because there are big profits in selling as long as detection is avoided. The sale of home made beer is said to have become so profitable that men have abandoned their regular business to engage in beer selling.

MYSTIC

Mystic has not as yet raised its quota for the relief of Japan assigned by the New London chapter of the American Red Cross, of which Mystic is a subordinate branch. James Cooper, president of the local branch, is anxiously awaiting subscriptions so he can make a report. All checks or orders should be made payable to A. W. George, treasurer. The sum of $3,600 is Mystic's share, and to date only a little over $125 has been raised.

At the next meeting of Mystic W. C. T. U., Sept. 26th, Mrs. Loveland Shepherd will speak on Mormon Temple Secrets. She comes under the auspices of the National Reform association. Friday, Sept. 28th, the county convention is to be held at Colchester. The following officers have been chosen for the year: President, Mrs. Herbert Lamb; vice presidents, Mrs. Benjamin Davis, Mrs. George Keigwin, Mrs. Charles Foote; secretary, Mrs. Mary Brown; treasurer, Mrs. J. C. Thompson; evangelistic superintendent, Mrs. C. E. Newbury; Stover mission superintendent, Mrs. E. V. Whiting; medal contest superintendent, Mrs. A. E. Cutler; social meetings superintendent, Mrs. Gurdon Allyn; literature superintendent, Mrs. Wilfred Robinson; temperance and missions, Mrs. Benjamin Davis, Mrs. Charles Gremley and Mrs. Charles Foote; organist, Mrs. Etta Callahan.

STONINGTON

The Community house was given to Stonington by a resident of the borough. Last year it was closed a part of the year, due to lack of fuel, and inability to find anyone willing to look out for the place. The association has installed a radio outfit and Friday evening a number assembled to receive the prize fight returns, while in the lecture hall views on flower culture and a talk on gardens were given.

Rev. George B. Spalding is to preach at Mystic Bridge Congregational church Sunday in the absence of the pastor, Rev. George L. Farnaham.

The Woman's auxiliary of Calvary church was entertained Friday at Pleasant View by Mrs. William Robinson, who has a cottage at the beach.

Miss Caroline Smith, who has been ill, is recovering.

NOANK

Carroll Ashcraft nearly lost his life this week while engaged in fishing with his brother Lawrence, wwhen he became caught in the net and was dragged overboard quite a distance before he could shake off his clothing and rubber boots. While he was a good swimmer, the burdensome boots and his fishing regalia made swimming difficult. It was a struggle for Mr. Ashcraft to get aboard the boat, and it was his great presence of mind that probably saved the man's life. He is reported as not having experienced any serious results from his accident.

Codfish and small mackerel, ranging from half a pound to a pound each, are being brought in daily. The latter are bringing 25 cents a pound at the market here.

THE SOCIAL CORNER

DIFFICULTY AND STRENGTH ARE BOSOM FRIENDS.

MY GRANDMOTHER'S BONNET.

How dear to my heart
Is my Grandmother's Bonet,
That pretty poke bonnet
With no bonnet pin.
Three bare roses, and pansies,
And blue ribbons on it,
That old Easter Bonnet
Tied under her chin.

How often in memory
I've pictured that bonnet,
With Grandma's dear face
Smiling sweetly within.
Tho' its years since she wore it,
Fond memories hang o'er it,
That old Easter bonnet
Tied under her chin.

THE SORRY HOSTESS.

She said she was sorry the weather was bad
The night that she asked us to dine;
And she really appeared inexpressibly sad
Because she had hoped 'twould be be fine.
She was sorry to hear that my wife had a cold,
And she almost shed tears over that,
And how sorry she was, she most feelingly told.
That the steam wasn't on in the flat.

She was sorry she hadn't asked others to come,
She might just as well have had eight;
She said she was downcast and terribly glum
Because her dear husband was late.
She apologized then for the home she was in,
For the state of the rugs and the chairs,
For the children who made such a horrible din,
And then for the squeak in the stairs.

When dinner began she apologized twice
For the olives because they were small;
She was certain the celery, too, wasn't nice.
And the soup didn't suit her at all.
She was sorry she couldn't get whitefish instead
Of the trout that the fishmonger sent,
But she hoped that we'd manage somehow to be fed.
Though her dinner was not what she meant.

She spoke of her regrets for the salad, and then Explained she was really much hurt,
And begged both our pardons again and again,
For serving a skimpy dessert.
She was sorry for this and sorry for that,
Though there really was nothing to blame,
But I thought to myself as I put on my hat,
Perhaps she is sorry we came.

EVERY DAY HELPS.

Dear Corner Sisters: I am just writing a few every day helps. Coffee grounds are the handiest things I ever found for cleaning bottles, especially when some substance like medicine and milk stains the inside; also potato cut in small pieces will clean bottles. Put them in, partly fill with warm water suds, shake vigorously and rinse.

In making souffle have the baking dish hot when you pour in the mixture, and have a moderate oven baking it.

In making custards the whites add nothing to the flavor or quality of the custard. Save the whites for frostings for gelatine and puddings and cakes.

If you have a roast of any kind chop bones before cooking. Then you can use bones for soup stock.

When boiling corn beef add an onion; it improves the flavor of the meat.

Sprinkle flour over your potatoes when you slice them to fry. They will be a delicate brown.

To remove black grease from colored clothes rub lard on and leave for about four hours, then wash out in the usual way.

When a door sticks rub soap on top and sides—common yellow soap.

If a match is damp and you can't light it, rub the sulphur end in your hair and you will have no trouble.

After washing chamois or other gloves, fill them full of clean water and hang up by the wrists to drip dry. They will dry with fingers distended which is a great help.

Spots on varnish, caused by setting hot dishes on table, can be removed by treating with camphor. Apply the camphor with a soft cloth and the spots will be permanently removed.

When putting your bread to rise after mixing put in the dishes you are to bake them in, only make your loaves half the size. You will find it a great help, for when mixing the bread over just knead it on the board or knead in your hands and put it right back in your dishes (This is original with me and is a really great help.)

Dry mash will make hens lay. Two parts ground corn and one part ground oats, middlings, and high-grade meat scraps was kept before hens that only layed 24 eggs a week. They were fed dry mash and went up to 71 and 24 a week.

Rubber roofing makes a splendid kitchen floor covering. It can be stained or varnished.

To remove all kinds of fruit stains wet stain in cold water and hold over a smoke of burning sulphur.

To dry a sweater pin mosquito netting across the two lines.

In the bathroom of a large family to prevent confusion, paste the owner's initials over each towel rack.

For a shipping tag take your husband's old collars (linen), cut in pieces the size of a tag and punch a hole in the corner and add a stout string. They will take the address well in ink and are strong enough to remain attached to the parcel for the longest journey.

If you will wind a flannel a few times round the arm of your sewing machine and sew it on well, it is a great help as a pin and needle cushion when at the machine.

When out in a heavy rain and rain is on the windshield, take a piece of tobacco and rub over the windshield and see how soon the rain run off in streams, leaving glass clear.

If you wish to get rid of bed bugs there is nothing more effective than scalding alum water. Wash the floor and base boards of the rooms as well as the bed. Take mattresses out in the sunshine and then with a feather apply the following mixture: To one pint turpentine add five cents worth corrosive sublimate. The mixture should also be applied to beds before putting back the mattress.

Mix one-half teaspoon of ground pepper (black), one teaspoon brown sugar, moisten with condensed milk. It will kill every fly that tastes it.

LIFE'S INEVITABLES.

Dear Corner Sisters: There are certain things in life that are inevitable—like death and taxes. We find a faint degree of satisfaction in rebelling against them, but in the end we have to bow before them.

But these are not the only inevitable things in life. We all find others in the course of daily living. The important thing is to recognize them as we meet them and refrain from complaining or fighting. We're so terribly shortsighted when we don't! For what's the use of continually banging away and bruising our hearts and souls over an unmovable body or an irresistible force? Why so limit our strength and nerve force for the necessary battling of life?

Fighting against the inevitable is more of a woman's failing than a man's. Some of us set the bounds of our daily orbit so narrowly that we are constantly meeting the inevitable—bumping against it and getting ugly bruises. If there was a bowlder in our daily path too large to remove we'd surely have the common sense to go around it, rather than to stumble over it each time our daily duties led us that way.

But we're not always as wise with the inevitable of the spirit. Our inevitable may be the ill-temper of another member of the family. It may be a hidden grief, a past misstep that limits our present life, it may be one of a hundred things. But why let it hide for us life's pleasures and happinesses that are left? Why continually open the scar and revel in the smart?

Let's learn to overlook—and forget as much as can be—life's inevitables, and while we are doing so let's remember to give to the Corner the co-operation that is expected of us.

IN THE FLOWER GARDENS DURING THE FALL.

Dear Editor and Corner Sisters: The summer season is over and for some gardeners that means work is over too. But the real test of a gardener comes in the fall. In the spring, when the plants are pushing their way through the ground, it is easy enough to become enthusiastic over gardening. But how about the fall? Are you anxious then to get out in your garden and work as hard as you did in the spring? There is always a great deal to be done after the plants stop growing and much of the success of your garden next year depends on the work you do now. Any work that can possibly be done now should not be neglected as it will save much of the spring rush. If you need extra help you will find it easier to get now and cheaper than in the spring.

Don't let any weeds go to seed anywhere near your garden, for that will mean a large crop next spring.

If you have any evergreens about your place, keep them well watered during the fall and you are not as liable to have them winter kill.

Any rearranging of perennials should be done this month as you can tell better now where to make the changes. Besides, the plants will make some root growth before freezing weather and not receive a setback in the spring. Keep your hardy plants together so you will not disturb the roots when you are spading up your garden in the spring.

Peonies that have become very large should be divided into several parts. Mix some well rotted manure with the soil when planting and keep them well watered.

This is one of the best months to start a new lawn. There will be no weed growth and your grass will get a good start before winter. Well rotted stable manure spaded in will not only enrich the soil but will act as a sponge and hold the moisture. Bone meal is best for a top dressing and should be applied just before a rain.

Surely, you are going to plant a few spring flowering bulbs. This is the month to buy them, if you want to get good ones. Why not try a few Grape Hyacinths (Muscari) this year along with your other bulbs? They come in white and in blue and resemble an inverted bunch of grapes. On account of the government quarantine, they have not been offered for sale for several years. Now we have a home-grown supply and they can be procured from any of the good seed houses. A few in your garden will make your neighbor green with envy. Give him a real surprise this fall by planting now some Autumn Crocus (Colchicums). Plant the bills three inches deep and six inches apart in a sunny place along the border. In a few weeks you will be rewarded by having many beautiful bright colored flowers resembling crocuses, making your garden gay when other flowers are gone. These bulbs are perfectly hardy but need the protection of surrounding foliage during summer.

I would like to hear what others do with their plants and gardens as the cold weather comes on.

DORIS.

FOR YOUR SUNDAY DINNER.

Dear Editor and Social Corner Members: Good morning! A good many of you will be planning a regulation roast lamb or chicken dinner for Sunday, tomorrow, so I am going to suggest something for those who want a dinner that can be prepared, largely, the day before.

It will be a partially cold menu, so it might be well to start it with a cup of hot creamed tomato or pea soup and then follow this with a loaf of jellied meat, creamed potatoes, parsnips browned in batter, a Harvard salad and for dessert a Boston cream pie.

To make the jellied meat loaf, buy three pounds of shoulder of veal and a pound of shoulder of ham or pork and cook in as small an amount of water as possible. Season while cooking. When done so thoroughly that the meat falls apart take out of the liquid and pack in a mold. (Any small crock, a granite basin or coffee can will do.) Pour over the meat the liquid in which it has cooked, to which you may add a little more than a teaspoon of granulated gelatine, which has been dissolved in cold water. Cover with a weighted plate and set away to harden. The potatoes might well be cooked the day before and creamed in time for dinner. To make the Harvard salad use a combination of diced celery, radishes, a small amount of shredded olives and broken nut meats together with two hard boiled eggs. Dice the whites and grate the yolks over the salad as a garnish. Add a further garnish of pickled beets if you have them.

To make the Boston cream pie, use two eggs, one cup of flour sifted with one and one-half level teaspoons baking powder, three-fourths cup of sugar, one-eighth teaspoon salt. Add the beaten yolks of the eggs to the stiffly beaten whites, then stir in the dry ingredients with a half cup of boiling milk. Add a half teaspoon of vanilla and bake in a moderate oven for 25 minutes.

When cool split in two and fill with a cream filling made with 1-2 cup of sugar, two tablespoons corn starch, one-eighth teaspoon salt, two eggs, one cup of scalded milk, one teaspoon butter and vanilla flavoring. Mix the dry ingredients, add the beaten eggs and the scalded milk, and butter. Cook in double boiler till thick and creamy and add the flavoring.

DORCAS.

SOME GOOD THOUGHTS.

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: This weather is most favorable for Corner picnics, and I hope all you who can will improve the opportunity. Such good times will be nice to think about next winter, when the snow lies on the ground, instead of the green grass, which we like to see at present. I do not agree with the poet who says "Think not on the past," although that may apply to certain conditions which would be best to forget if we could.

"The present is all that thou hast." True; we must make the day count. We must be busy while the sun shines. "The future will soon be present," so should our plans for all things be in preparation for that morrow, should we be permitted to enter therein. "The present will soon be past." I was reading a book of poems recently which appealed to me as very helpful with its varied topics. The numerous writers who have the gift of expressing their sentiments in rhyme contribute to others an easy method of memorizing ideals in verse.

Good suggestions may often prompt us in this way and tend to bring success. I have in mind a little verse that used to be in my reading book at school, and presume it is widely known by others.

"If at first you don't succeed,
Try, try again.
Things done by halves
Are never done right.
Try, try again."

It is not always easy to try, try again when we have repeated failures, but after all we must use perseverance to accomplish or we will lose. I think this lesson of try, try again should be emphasized fully to young children, that they may grow up realizing that each and every success cannot be attained by the first trying.

Perhaps there's only a myth in the old saying "the third time wins." However, it's the essence of "try again." A poem that came to my attention on the subject of "Courage" seems to coincide with the topic of "try again."

THREE KINDS OF COURAGE.

There's the courage that nerves you
In starting to climb
The mount of success rising sheer,
And when you've slipped back
There's the courage sublime
That keeps you from shedding a tear.

These two kinds of courage,
I give you my word,
Are worthy of tribute—but then
You'll not reach the summit
Unless you've the third—
The courage of "try-it-again."

Best wishes to all.

JENNIE.

BLANKET PROTECTORS.

Dear Corner Friends: It is not time to get out the winter blankets for use but it is coming. In these days of uplift, reform and culture most people sleep between sheets so that the blankets are protected from the body, but it frequently happens the upper end of the blanket is exposed and comes in contact with the face, neck and head of the sleeper. The natural oil and grease from the body will soil the exposed end. To avoid this sew a strip of cheese cloth in the ends of the blanket covering at least 18 inches from the edge on both sides. As often as needed the soiled cloth can be removed, the blankets hung out in the sun for a day, new cloth put on and they will be ready to use in the fall. They will not require washing more few every other year.

No dry bread is ever wasted at our house as we are all fond of my "bread pudding de luxe." Soak dry bread in milk enough to cover it, adding more as the bread soaks it up so that it is well covered. After the bread is very soft, add sugar to taste and the yolks of two eggs and beat all well with a fork, season with vanilla or nutmeg and bake slowly for an hour. Beat the whites of the eggs until very stiff. Add two tablespoons of sugar and cover pudding and return to the oven to brown slowly. Many variations of this are achieved by the addition of cocoanut, nutmeats, raisins, dates, figs or fruit. A delicious chocolate pudding can be made by adding melted chocolate to the pudding before beating it. Serve very cold.

MARTHA.

WASHING PILLOW TICKS.

Dear Corner Sisters: May I offer a helpful hint to the Corner? It is on laundering feather pillow ticks. First shake the feathers well down in one end of the tick, now baste across first above feathers open end of tick and sew to end of fresh tick or an old pillow slip will do; shake feathers well down in clean tick and baste across as before, then unfasten the two ticks and sew up clean tick either on machine or by hand, then remove basting above the feathers. I use the little rubber air tubes and my pillows are always light and nice.

Cheese Cakes: Here is one of my hubby's favorite recipes for dessert. It is for cheese cakes. One cup sugar, one egg (whole), one tablespoon butter, one cup raisins. Mix together and cook over fire until butter dissolves, then pour in muffin tin lined with pie pastry and cook in medium oven 30 minutes, then add grated cheese. They are rich and delicious.

Pea Soup: If you like pea soup try this. Drain one can of peas from their liquor, and add two teaspoons sugar, two cups cold water and simmer 30 minutes. Rub through a sieve, re-heat and thicken with two tablespoons flour and two tablespoons butter, creamed together. In the meantime scald two cups of milk, season with one teaspoon of salt, one-eighth teaspoon of pepper, add one-half teaspoon onion juice, if you like, and combine the two.

Best wishes from

FRED'S WIFE.

GREATLY ENJOYED FIRST PICNIC.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I wish to write my recipe again to correct an error which I do not like to have.

Fruitless: Two eggs, one and one-half cups sugar, one-half cup melted butter or shortening, one-half teaspoon salt, soak one cup raisins in two tablespoons Boiling water for ten minutes or more. Then put through meat grinder. Mix three and one-half cups flour, one teaspoon soda in two tablespoons milk, one teaspoon cinnamon, one-half teaspoon cloves. Drop by a teaspoon in shallow pan.

I also am writing another recipe in addition.

Red Catsup: Boil a peck of tomatoes until tender, rub through a sieve and let stand over night. In the morning dip off the water and add one-third cup of salt, one cup sugar, one level teaspoon of cayenne pepper. Cook until quite thick, then add a cup of vinegar. Boil for a few minutes, then bottle and keep in a cool place.

I enjoyed the picnic at the home of Aunty No. 1 immensely. This was the first picnic I attended but I enjoyed it very much.

Best wishes to all.

HOPE.

THE GOOD OLD DAYS.

Dear Editor and Corner Sisters: I wonder if Kitty Lou will recall one of my well remembered experiences with a friend of mine who is now far away in the great beyond where all is love. gether one night when I was startled by the ringing of a bell at the head of the bed. Well, I jumped, and how Kitty Lou's sister did laugh. I didn't know just what was going to happen but my friend explained it was to call them in the morning. The bell was attached to a wire which came up through the floor.

I guess Neighbor remembers it. Well, those were happy days when Neighbor, Kitty Lou, my friend and I had such good times. We are all scattered now, with my friend in the south, Neighbor and Kitty Lou in Connecticut, and I in Rhode Island.

Best wishes to all.

RHODY LOUISE.

A LOSS TO THE CORNER.

Dear Social Corner Friends: It is with a deep sense of loss that we note the passing of our loved sister, Stillwater, who, a few days since, entered into the higher life. Her keen intellectuality, broad vision, and high standards made her one of the outstanding members of the Corner. As one by one these older members pass on, we realize anew the responsibility upon us—to carry on their unfinished work. How appropriate seem these beautiful lines of Whittier:

"I know not where His Islands lift
Their fronded palms in air,
I only know I cannot drift
Beyond His love and care."

With best wishes to all.

EVELINE BURR.

TAKE 9.15 CAR FOR COVENTRY.

Dear Social orner Sisters: Owing to the discontinuation of the 10.15 and 11.15 trolleys from Willimantic to Coventry, be sure to take the 9.15 from Willimantic on Thursday, Sept. 20, as there is no other until 12.15, which would make it rather late for dinner. So bear in mind the time and the date, 9.15 Thursday, the 20th, and leave the trolley at the "Bidwell House" where you will be directed to "Hillside" farm.

Yours for the Corner.

SIS HOPKINS.

ANOTHER CORNER MEMBER.

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: I would like so much to join your Social Corner. I am from Rutland, Vt., and have attended several of your meetings and have enjoyed them very much. Very sorry to see our dear sister Stillwater has passed out from our midst, but we know she has only gone a little before us and what is our loss in this life is her gain in the great beyond where all is love.

If my application meets with approval, I'll take for my pen name

INK.

PREVENTING BITTER TASTE IN TURNIPS.

Dear Editor and Social Cornerites: I thank the editor very much for the yellow slip I received some time ago.

Rosy Posy: If you will let your turnips boil a while and then turn the water off, the strong, bitter taste will be much lessened and a little sugar added to the second boiling will be an improvement.

E. L. M.: I have an electric plate which I like very much. I can boil coffee and make toast at the same time with it.

Ethelyn: Your mother's cake recipe which you sent in some time ago is fine.

Well, Aunty No. 1, have you found me out yet?

ROCK MOSS.

REGRETS STILLWATER'S DEATH

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: Guess you think I have forgotten to write but I am with you at nearly all the gatherings though I have not written for some time. So sorry for Sister Stillwater's family and send heartfelt sympathy to them in their loss. We also have lost a very wonderful writer and reader of our dear Social Corner.

Have been very busy this summer for I have had my mother as my guest and shall miss her so much now she has returned home.

Best wishes for the Corner.

ALTA.

WATCHING THE CROWDS GO BY.

Dear Social Corner: I'm staying in the city of Springfield. Sitting by the window I look onto the streets and see the people passing. The scenes are always changing. Two electric cars are now waiting and soon both will be gone. Autos and trucks are now passing and what a throng of men, women and children! What are they all doing and where do they all go? I'm sure I cannot answer. Can you?

SALLY SYCAMORE.

WOMAN SUFFERED THREE MONTHS

Pains in Back and Nervousness. Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Montevideo, Minn.—"I suffered for three months with pain in my back and sides, and was awful nervous so that I was unfit to do my work. After I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I grew strong, and now I weigh 150 pounds. I keep house and am able to lift and do any kind of work. I have got wonderful results from the Vegetable Compound and recommend it very highly to my friends. I give you permission to publish my testimonial."—Mrs. OLE BERGETHOU, 710 8th St. So., Montevideo, Minnesota.

Another Nervous Woman Finds Relief

Port Huron, Mich.—"I suffered for two years with pains in my side, and if I worked very much I was nervous and just as tired in the morning as when I went to bed. I was sleepy all the day and didn't feel like doing anything, and was so nervous I would bite my fingernails. One of my friends told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it helped me so much that I soon felt fine."—Mrs. CHARLES EUELLS, 1910 Elk St., Port Huron, Mich.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

SALVATION ARMY APPEAL FOR IMMEDIATE NEEDS

The Japan disaster has practically wiped out all the Salvation Army buildings in the destroyed territory, and Commander Evangeline Booth has cabled $5,000 for immediate use, and Norwich Salvation Army unit is called upon for its quota. The Norwich corps is asking for $200. This is so small an amount that he feels confident it will be forthcoming. Army Headquarters, and corps buildings and hospital for consumptives in Japan are gone. All who can respond are asked to send checks made payable to the Salvation Army, Norwich, Conn., and Commandant Samuel V. Freeman will forward the amount to the properly authorized parties. This appeal starts today. May there be a ready response.

Strand Theatre.

Again a wonderful program of Keith vaudeville and a special photoplay has been arranged for the Strand theatre for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The feature vaudeville attraction is Lola Bravo & Co., The Spanish Gypsies, consisting of four people and real beautiful scenery. Bob Zeto, the executive comedian, will open the bill. Dave Nowlin and Gertrude St. Clair appear in Nutallian Opera and Burlesque Drama. Laura Ordway & Co., the second feature attraction, offer Comedy Song Recitations.

Mystery of the deep-dyed variety is the keynote of Bavu, the all star Universal-Jewel special production which will be shown at the Strand theatre next Monday. It is said that this picture outdoes anything in the mystery line that the screen has ever known, completely mystifying audiences.

The case of such a picture might be ordinary and the offering would "get over" through sheer strength of the mystery appeal, but Bavu incidentally presents such famous artists as Wallace Reery, Estelle Taylor, Josef Swickard, Forrest Stanley, Sylvia Breamer, Martha Mattox, Nicolai de Ruiz, Harry Carter, Jack Rollens and others. Bavu was written as the result of Earl Carroll's inability to find a suitable play to open the beautiful new Earl Carroll theatre in New York city. For weeks and months he searched for some dramatic gem that would be fitting to usher into lights the most magnificent theatre in New York. Finally he gave up in despair and determined to write one of his own. The results exceeded his fondest hopes and he was acclaimed by press and public as as clever a playwright as he was a manager.

Breed Theatre.

Never before have motion picture fans had the opportunity to see the inimitably charming Mae Murray in a photoplay so dazzling, so fascinating, so gorgeous and so entertaining as The French Doll, her newest Metro picture, which comes to the Breed theatre Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. It was produced in the elaborate style characteristic of her former screen plays, but it is more elaborate than anything which has gone before. And in it Miss Murray, known as the best dressed star on the screen, wears the most luxurious gowns ever seen on stage or screen.

The French Doll is a film version of the famous play of the same name, in which Irene Bordoni achieved her greatest success.

In the photoplay, Miss Murray portrays a fiery little French girl of many love affairs, who helps her parents sell antiques of modern manufacture. The family comes to America, New York and Palm Beach, where they move in high social circles, while beautiful Georgine is the magnet to draw more customers for their "heirlooms." In America, Georgine finds romance.

Other pictures on the bill include Topics of the Day and an Educational comedy.

Today's bill consists of the Thos. H. Ince production, Soul of the Beast, Ruth Roland in Haunted Valley, the Pathe News and a Sunshine comedy.

Norwich Private Day School Opens its Eleventh Year Sept. 20th.

Norwich has always had cause to be proud of its private schools, and today has in the Norwich Private Day School a school of high standards and unusual achievements.

With particular attention given to morals, manners and health, the school has rounded out and entered a large percentage of its pupils into the Norwich Free Academy and other schools of higher education.

Each child is treated as a special, its strong points and weak points individually studied, and an effort made to develop the best in each one.

Small classes make it necessary for each pupil to recite on each subject, so a thorough mastery of all subjects may be gained by any normal child. Promotion by subject is a means of keeping the ambition and interest alive, although there is no desire to hurry a child through its studies. It is a fact that a number of pupils have completed the courses of studies in much less time than is usually allotted for that purpose.

For entering new pupils appointments may be made by telephoning to 816.

Another Price Drop by Willys-Overland.
